FRIDAY APRIL 1, 1227 Obit - Pardee, Donald Waite 10-13-1881 - 3-20-1927

DONALD WAITE PARDEE

On March 20th Donald Waite milch cows for shipment to various Pardee died at the family home in states. this village after an illness of sev- Some years ago he sold the elevason of Adelbert Jared and Emiline county. 117th Volunteer infantry of New supervisor and represented the vil-York as a private during the war.

His mother was a daughter of Ahira R. Hinkley, now deceased, who was the first white settler in Eagle and who took an active interest in public affairs.

Donald attended the district school and also took a course in agriculture in the university at Madison. With his brother, Harold J., he conducted the pioneer farm for several years, giving special attention to dairying. At one time they had seventy fine Jersey cows and they were the first to ship cream to the city.

On January 14th, A. D. 1909, he was married to Miss Florence Weston, one of Eagle's popular young ladies and soon thereafter engaged in the grain and feed business succeeding eral weeks. Donald was born in tor to the Dadmun company, of Eagle on the pioneer farm of his Whitewater and engaged with the late grandfather, Ahira R. Hinkley county highway commission in the on October 13, A. D. 1881, and was a construction of highways in the

H. Hinkley Pardee, His father came Mr. Pardee held many offices of here from Oneida county, New York, trust, while yet on the farm he was and was a cheesemaker by trade, and chosen town clerk, and soon after was a Civil war veteran serving in coming to the village he was elected lage in the county board two terms. He was also a member of the board of trustees at various times, village treasurer, and clerk of the Eagle state graded school. Also served many years on the jury commission of Waukesha county and drainage commission.

His genial disposition and thoroughly upright methods gained him the friendship and esteem of al.

The funeral took place from the family home, Wednesday, March 31st, with interment in the family lot in Oak Ridge cemetery where lie buried his father and sister, Emily, who preceded him in death. There was an unusual large attendance and a profusion of floral tributes from the family and friends.

He leaves surviving him besides Harvey Clemons in the Eagle eleva- his widow, one daughter, Mabel, his tor. Later he formed a partnership aged mother, and one brother, with Roy Henderson and dealt large- Harold, besides many relatives who ly in milch cows and live stock. This have the sympathy of all in the loss firm did a large business and sold sustained by his untimely death.