EAGLE

The death of Miss Dora Partridge at the family home Sunday was a shock to her family and friends. While she had not been in good health the past two years, she was about the home as usual Saturday, her death occurring very suddenly at 3 a. m. Sunday morning.

Dora Irene Partridge was born at the farm home south of the village, Dec. 19, 1864, a daughter of the late John and Mary Partridge. She taught in the Eagleville, Jericho and Waukesha Industrial schools for several years, later moving with the family to the village, where in co-operation with her two brothers, the late J. M. and F. B. Partridge, they conducted a general store.

About twenty years ago she retired from her work and had since lived quietly at the home with her sisters. She loved children and was never happier than when the neighboring boys and girls spent many hours with her, and she in turn was a great inspiration to them.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon at the home. Services were conducted by the Episcopal rector of Whitewater. Interment was in Oak Ridge cemetery. Surviving are two sisters, Miss Edna Partridge and Mrs. Anna McCarthy, one sister-in-law, Mrs. J. M. Partridge, two nieces and one nephew.
