Poppy Day May 26th

Now we can begin! The poppies are here!

When members of the American Legion Auxiliary heard these words today, many of them came to the Legion home to start getting the little red flowers ready for sale on Poppy Day, Saturday, May 26th.

Each little poppy is a paper replica of those blooms that grew so bravely on the battle fields of the first World War. Since each is shaped by hand, each is slightly different from its fellows, but as Mrs. Hilding Fagerdahl Poppy Chairman pointed out, every flower carries the same message and dedication.

SNAPPY FACTS
RUBBER

It is difficult to detect the ordinary "slow leak" in time to prevent destructive "roadside flats." The Office of Defense Transportation recommends an effective cure for steady leaks: (1) Make sure valve caps have been screwed on finger tight. (2) Before adding air be sure to test pressure in each tire. (3) Check variations in tire pressure—a marked slow leak, which should be repaired immediately.

To help relieve the critical need for military tires, men who work in a large rubber plant in Los Angeles (B. F. Goodrich) have sworn not to mix a day's work, and, like submarine crews, not to shave for 120 days.

Hedda Hopper:
Looking at

A COMMITTEE of connoisseurs in chic headed by Lady Mendel recently named Gene Tierney the best dressed girl in moviedom.

Just prior to that a national magazine listed Gene among the top four beauties of the screen, the others being Hedy Lamarr, Ingrid Bergman, and Linda Darnell.

And since 20th-Century-Fox's talent poll evidently puts her at the acting top—she's come off with all the best roles the lot has to offer in 1945—I thought it time to find out how Gene feels about life in general.

It's amusing to know that the next two Tierney releases will not display Gene's modern sartorial talents. When I came on the "Dragonwyck" set, where she was making a scene with Vincent Price, she was wearing the fashions of 1944. And in "A Bell for Adano," which is being shown in theaters this month, she's clad in the picturesque tattered-dress of a peasant girl in a captured Italian town.

But not until "Leave Her to Heaven," which Gene begins in late spring, will she wear a chic modern wardrobe again—the sort of clothes that made "Laura" such a hit with women.

Take It From Me

Since nobody has gotten around to awarding Gene the medal for brains—such evidently not being included in obvious star assets—let me be the one to name her one of the most nimble minds in one of the steadiest little heads ever crowned by laurels. Designers love to create bizarre and extravagant whimsies to emphasize her intriguing face and rhythmic design. But in her private life and tastes Gene is conservative to a degree. Wears little or no makeup, and her shining brown hair is the precise shade nature gave her.

So, because she's young, super-lovely, mother of a 15-month-old daughter, Daria, and a happy wife, Gene's fans have come to think of her as a sort of high priestess of the modern theme. A girl of the future.

"Hedda," she said, "sometimes I really think our fans believe we live in a sort of crystal and plastic dream world. But I'm not looking forward to jumping into a helicopter and landing on the studio roof instead of driving down the canyon each morning with good old Butch, my police dog, on the front seat beside me. And, aside from the fact in personal tastes, I'm really not looking forward to the day when television, all-out air transport, and chores done by robots in solar houses will be a reality. Think how much charm it will take from living.

Besides, few of the young things of today realize it will take years and years to develop such living. A lot of my friends seem to feel the post-victory year will be something worthy of Jules Verne's imagination.

I suggested she was probably influenced by the character of Miranda, the lovely heroine of Ernst Lubitsch's production "Dragonwyck."

Extremes Are Out

Gene has just as definite ideas about fashion, too. Although she has been named the best dressed woman in Hollywood, she frowns on extremes. Boiled down to a couple of essentials, her don'ts on dress come to:

"Don't be conspicuous. Conspicuous makeup, color, line, detail, and combinations violate the rules of good taste. The well dressed woman looks just right for the occasion—blends into the moment."

Gene is thrilled at playing the role of the evil sister in "Leave Her to Heaven."

"Ellen has acting quality, and that is what an actress should consider," she says. "The bad girls of fiction have given more opportunities to stars than the sweet young things."

I remember when Gene Tierney played half-castes, outlaw girls, Eurasians—for a time she was almost as typed in the sarong as Dotty Lamour, or threatened to be. She didn't rise easily into the high place on the screen in which she now finds herself, although she is practically cameraproof, undoubtedly one of the best lens subjects in the industry today. She has graciousness and much personal charm, and a complexion of flawless beauty.

Chit-Chats on This and That

Some new buys indicate picture trends. Heywood Broun's stories, "The Sun Flower" and "The Boy Grew Older," recently have been taken over by Hollywood. John Steinbeck's "Cannery Row" will be on the summer production schedule. . . . Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer will do three Sir Walter Scott novels—"Ivanhoe," "Quentin Durward" and "Kenilworth." . . . Joan Leslie definitely will play the Marilyn Miller role in "Silver Lining," and Bob Hutton in the Jack Pickford part.

Tomato Fertilization

In fertilizer tests with tomatoes the Wisconsin Experiment station found that the best treatment paid a net of $244 above the no-fertilizer treatment. The most profitable was a broadcast application of 500 pounds of a 6-6-20 plus 500 pounds of a 3-12-12 applied as a side-dressing. The fertilizer cost $20.80 and increased yields 69 per cent. These tests were made on a late variety and they suggest that on an early variety the results might have been better.

Catch T.B.

Now officials of the department of agriculture warn dairy farmers to protect their cows against people with t.b. They report evidence in which four herds of cattle became infected with tuberculosis from one person. What's more they find that this human t.b. victim originally contracted the t.b. from cattle. They find that cattle t.b. causes tuberculosis of the lungs and that t.b. can be transmitted to cattle.

Household Insect

The silverfish is a household insect that may eat stored cottons, linens or other fabrics containing starch or sizing. It also goes for bookbindings. To protect any of these things in storage from silverfish put them in tight packages or boxes in a dry, cool storeroom, wrapped just as you do woolens, with all openings closed tightly.

Painting Doors

Doors that are open in warm weather frequently have both sides exposed to sun and rain, and should be kept well painted so that moisture will not seep into the panel joints and cause rotting. Likewise, window sashes should be given special attention, as the putty around the glass deteriorates if not painted periodically.

Retractive Ray

The ancient Greeks believed that some kind of emanation, or rays, left the eye and that sight followed when the body rays touched an object, says the Better Vision Institute. Modern science has shown that the process is the other way around. We see by the light rays that are reflected to the eye by objects.

Daily Occurrence

Japan has about three-and-a-half earthquakes shocks a day on the average. Over a test period of 13 years, seismographs recorded 17,750 tremors in Japan, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica. Most of these earthquakes are imperceptible.

Rabies Cases

Cases of rabies in the U. S. have been increasing rapidly in the last two years. A total of 7,165 cases of rabies were reported in 1942 but the total had jumped to 10,540 in 1944. The totals included 28 human beings in 1942 and 53 in 1944.

Hanging Rayon

If a rayon garment is to be hung, it is better to hang it over the line so that the weight is even on both sides. Rolling it in a towel is more satisfactory than hanging it. If only a few rayon garments are being washed, this is easily done.

Separating Lettuce

When lettuce heads are tight and whole leaves are difficult to obtain, cut the core out, turn the head upside down and allow cold water to run into the center of the head of lettuce until each leaf is separated.

Explosive Ingredient

The sodium or chlorine of salt enters into the making of high explosives, ethylene, glycol, poisonous gases, sulfur drugs, aluminum, synthetic rubber, and tetraethyl lead for high octane gasoline.

Covers Scratch

To cover scratches on furniture, if the wood is dark, rub the scratch with a freshly cut walnut meat or touch it up with iodine. This will make the scratch less noticeable.

Basket Lining

A removable clothes-basket lining protects clothes on wash day. Use a washable, durable cotton material or oil cloth for the lining.

Prevents Tarnishing

A light coating of clear nail polish put on the metal parts of a handbag when the bag is new will keep them from tarnishing.

Your 1945 Garden
Surplus Vegetables
Should Be Saved
By Preservation

TIME of deepest satisfaction for the Victory gardener is when he begins to harvest his crop. For weeks he has been tending these crops with care and watching with interest as the young plants grew and developed.

"We had fresh vegetables out of our own garden," is a statement of prideful accomplishment. But even as it took care in the preparation and cultivation of the garden, equal care should be taken in harvesting the crop.

Too many gardeners, in attempts to get larger growth and yield, delay harvest beyond the stage of best quality. No vegetable should be allowed to become tough, coarse, overgrown and unpalatable before being harvested.

Quantity is important, but so is quality. Which brings us back to the time when the plants break through the ground and start growing straight and strong and evenly down the rows—the question of thinning the plants.

Don't be afraid to thin out your rows. Give the root plants room to grow. Beets, carrots, parsnips, turnips, radishes, onions, rutabagas, salsify, kohlrabi and other root plants should be thinned to about one to three inches apart, depending on the size of the root. Tops of rutabagas, turnips and beets which are pulled out may be eaten as greens. And did you ever eat fingerling carrots or marble size beets? They are delicious. So the thinning out process will not all be waste.

The sooner vegetables can be used after harvest the better their qual-

A barrel cellar proves satisfactory for the storage of potatoes and other root crops.

Vegetables, many of them, lose food value in vitamins shortly after they are taken from the soil. If they must be kept awhile they should be kept in a cool moist place.

No gardener who can produce a surplus of fresh vegetables should overlook the possibilities of preserving or storing that surplus for later use. Those rows of canned vegetables on the fruit shelves in the basement or pantry are certainly security during winter months when fresh vegetables are high in cost and in many instances unobtainable.

Most basements or cellars where there is a heating system are too warm for storage of root vegetables, such as potatoes, turnips, parsnips and carrots. And as a matter of fact except in the coldest sections of the country parsnips, turnips and carrots may remain in the ground throughout the winter months.

Save the Surplus By Preservation

One method of preserving root crops through the winter, inexpensive and easy to construct, is called the barrel cellar. Obtain a clean barrel. Cut a hole in one side for ventilation. Dig a hole big enough to cover the barrel well. Place the barrel in the hole, cover with straw shaped into a tepee over the ventilating hole. Cover the straw with earth about three inches deep. Line the bottom of the barrel with straw and place your root vegetables in the barrel. Then the lid on one end will be set in place and covered with earth. Two handles on the lid project above the ground to mark the place to start digging for the stored vegetables.

A similar root cellar may be constructed without the barrel, merely by digging a hole, lining it with straw and covering with earth. The well-planned, well-tended vegetable garden can easily furnish a surplus harvest for storing or canning. And the well-handled garden will consistently yield produce having a money value considerably greater than the costs of seeds, fertilizer, lime, manure, chemicals for insect and disease control.

The home storage of vegetables is, perhaps, of greater importance than canning because of its adaptation to all that portion of the country where freezing temperatures prevail during the winter months. There are at least 10 important vegetables that can be stored.

Certain vegetables, like cabbage, turnips, beets, carrots and celery may be stored in pits in the open ground; potatoes, sweet potatoes and onions are stored to best advantage in cellars or specially designed storage houses when temperatures and other facts can be controlled.

Tie Your Curtains in the Center; Anchor With Rods Top and Bottom

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

NO MATTER how much the summer breezes blow, these curtains will stay put. They are anchored with rods top and bottom and tied in the middle with ribbon that may match a valance used at the top of the windows or that may repeat the color of accessories in the room. This is also a way to add interest to the curtains for french doors.

The curtains shown here are frilled at the sides, and the headings top and bottom are the same width as the frills. Curtains with plain edges also give a good effect when tied in this manner. About three inches extra length must be allowed to permit the sides to pull in in a good line. The extra length in the center is taken up as shown in the sketch at the left.

NOTE—This curtain idea is from the 32-page booklet, Make Your Own Curtains which shows you step-by-step all the ins and outs of making and hanging curtains and draperies. Every room is illustrated—kitchen to attic, formal and informal. To get a copy of Make Your Own Curtains, send 15 cents with name and address direct to:

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS
Truman Warns Japs to Quit as U.S. Shifts Weight to Pacific; More Civilian Goods to Come

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Flags identify Allied forces occupying German territory in accordance with postwar plans. In addition to Russia taking over the east, the British the northwest, and the Americans the south, the French reportedly are to occupy the Rhineland.

ONE FRONT: Speedy Shift

Despite persistent reports of Jap peace feelers, America is going full speed ahead for an all-out war in the Pacific following Germany's unconditional surrender, bringing the European conflict to an end after almost six years of the bitterest fighting in history.

No sooner had Col. Gen. Gustav Jodl officially thrown in the sponge for Germany on orders of Fuehrer Karl Doenitz than the American high command geared itself for a shift to the Pacific, with plans calling for retention of an army of 6,968,000 and navy of 3,389,000; the transfer of many air wings to the east to supplement Super-Fort raids on Japan, and the shipment of almost 3,000,000 troops from Europe within a year.

At the same time, however, provision was made for keeping 400,000 American troops in Germany to occupy the southwestern part of the country while the French take over the Rhineland, the British the northwest and the Russians the east.

Way Out

Reading the handwriting on the wall even while Germany was still hanging on the ropes, Jap businessmen, seeing their industries being reduced to rubble even before the U. S. could throw her full weight into the fray, reportedly made indirect approaches for peace.

If such is Japan's intent despite the recent announcement of her government officials about a fight to the finish, Pres. Harry S. Truman was seen as offering the Japanese an opportunity to give up and still save face by his detailed definition of "unconditional surrender" in a V-E day statement.

Then, the President said: "It (unconditional surrender) means the end of the war. "It means the termination of the influence of the military leaders who have brought Japan to the present brink of disaster. "It means provision for the return of soldiers and sailors to their families, their farms, their jobs. "It means not prolonging the present agony and suffering of the Japanese in the vain hope of victory."

In shifting U. S. strength to the Pacific, the services plan to ship some construction, supply and maintenance forces directly from the European theater, while moving the bulk over through this country.

Map Movements

Including some 1,000,000 troops with extended combat records, who are to be released along with the wounded and overaged, the army will bring 845,000 men home in the first quarter after V-E day; 1,185,000 in the second, and 807,000 in the third. Those who will be retained for the Pacific war will be given a 30-day furlough, then reassigned for duty.

Need for staggering the return of troops from Europe stems from the gigantic task of transferring equipment for the Pacific war. According to estimates, from 60 to 75 per cent of materiel in Europe will be fit for shipment to the Pacific theater.

More Goods

Though war production will continue to dominate U. S. industry until the Japs quit, civilian output should increase in proportion to the volume of material and manpower freed from army cutbacks. About 1,500,000 workers probably will be released by contract cancellations within the next six months, War Mobilization Director Fred Vinson estimated, with another 3,000,000 let out after that, but all should find ready employment in reconversion, expansion and basic industries. Washing machines, vacuum cleaners, radios and furniture should be available in limited quantities within a year, Vinson said, and some automobiles should also come off the assembly lines, though not enough will be manufactured to meet demands until 1948. With textiles and leather continuing to remain scarce until the Pacific war ends, the government will push up production of low-cost clothing and non-rationed footwear.

With the nation's food stocks below requirements, rationing will be maintained, with meat, sugar and butter in the tightest supply. With civilian gas allotments up 100,000 to

How Discharge Plan Works

Over 100,000 men a month are to be discharged under the army's separation system based on vet's credit of 85 points, with 1 point for every month of service since September, 1940; 1 point for every month of overseas outside the U. S.; 5 points for every combat award such as the distinguished service cross, the purple heart or battle participation stars; and 12 points for every dependent child under 18 up to a limit of three.

200,000 barrels daily, "A" and commercial card holders may be allowed small ration increases. Though more tires may become available, an acute shortage will persist.

Allied Terms

Having vanquished Germany, the Allies showed no disposition to soften up in the imposition of terms, with extended military occupation aimed at a close supervision of industry, finance and government to prevent a rebirth of militarism.

According to occupation plans, the British have taken over the most highly developed industrial territory of Germany along with the important North sea ports: the Russians the heavy wheat and grain growing districts and "Little Ruhr" of Silesia; and the U. S. the agricultural area of the southwest.

Long sought by the French for its military as well as industrial importance, the Rhineland reportedly was assigned to them. Prize plum of this territory is the Saar coal land, which provided the French with one-third of their prewar solid fuel.

POSTWAR SECURITY: Regional Pacts

Against protests that such arrangements would narrow the activities of a general security organization and eventually displace it, South American nations pushed for recognition of regional defense systems at the San Francisco conference.

Based on the Act of Chapultepec drawn at the recent Pan-American convention in Mexico City, the South American proposal envisions the use of force to repel aggression against any of the Latin republics without awaiting the official sanction of the international security organization, any of whose major members might veto such a move. An extension of the Monroe Doctrine, the plan thus preserves primary responsibility for the security of an area in the hands of countries immediately concerned.

Discussion of the regional security proposal came as the U. S. and Britain tried to reconcile their differing views on postwar trusteeships over conquered territories after the war, with this country standing for exclusive use of military bases upon strategic islands and the British insisting upon control subject to the security organization.

Meantime, sentiment in congress grew for unfettered U. S. use of any postwar bases in the Pacific vital to defense in the area. Since this country primarily will be responsible for keeping the peace in the Pacific, Senator Byrd (Va.) declared it should not be subject to supervision by any other nation or group. "It's little enough for us to ask," said the senator.

SUGAR: New Problem

Latest of the food problems confronting the nation is sugar, with reports that the 1945 Cuban crop will fall 790,000 tons short of the 1944 harvest, pointing up the tight supply expected to persist throughout the year.

The report of the smaller Cuban crop came in the midst of the house food committee's investigation of the sugar situation, with evidence indicating that manpower shortages,

Importation of twelve million short tons of food will be necessary to improve living conditions in liberated nations and to prevent starvation in enemy territory in Continental Europe this year, according to an analysis completed by the office of foreign agricultural relations. This total would consist largely of wheat but should also include substantial quantities of fats, animal protein foods and sugar, the report says. Survey of food conditions on the continent indicate the food supply this year will be from 50 to 70 per cent of the prewar energy intake.

bootlegging and inaccurate appraisal of existing stocks have all played a hand in the growing shortage.

Though operators' inability to secure sufficient help to harvest sugar beets and bootleggers' use of illegal supplies of the commodity have contributed to the tight situation, the committee found, the industry's indication that adequate stocks existed led to consumption of about 800,000 tons more last year than originally allotted.

SUPREME COURT: Award Miners

Drawn after laborious parley between companies and union representatives, the new soft coal contract was clouded by a Supreme court decision holding that miners were entitled to pay for full underground travel time under the wages and hours law.

Thus, the high court's ruling upset the new contract's provision that such pay was to be made on the basis of an average of all miners underground travel time, and at the same time allow for a reexamination of the pact.

In line with a previous Supreme court verdict covering iron ore miners, the latest decision came at a time when negotiations between hard coal miners and operators had bogged over differences in underground travel pay.

WAR COSTS: High Toll

With the war half-won, U. S. casualties total over 950,000 and military expenditures $275,000,000,000.

Late reports showed 747,164 casualties in the European theater, with the army reporting 139,498 dead, 467,408 wounded, 72,374 missing and 52,990 prisoners; the navy 6,415 dead, 3,612 wounded, 594 missing and 29 prisoners, and the marine corps 34 dead, 1 missing, 1 wounded and 3 prisoners.

Having already spent $275,000,000,000 on the war, government expenditures will remain high during the Japanese war and for some time after to finance veterans' care, pensions, benefits and interest on the public debt, presently at $236,000,000,000.

PUBLIC WELFARE

Steps were taken by more than a dozen states this year to increase old age assistance allotments and aid to dependent children.

Aged persons in Delaware now may receive $30 monthly under legislation raising the maximum to that figure from $25 a month. Wyoming raised its maximum to $50 a month, Utah increased maximum benefits from $30 to $40, Washington put old age assistance on the basis of need and provided $50 minimum for persons over 65.

Sure, Bill—speak louder. Celebrate louder, America!

You'll have to, to be heard above the bloody gurgles of the men who are dying at this very moment of our day of "Victory"... the ghostly whispers, mighty in volume, of the men who died not to kill one nation but to kill all tyranny.

Today our great fight is but half won. Japan, our final and most dangerous enemy, still lives. Japan still boasts an army of 4,000,000 fanatical, last-ditch fighters, with half again that many in reserve.

Japan's huge, ill-gotten wealth of Empire is still essentially intact.

Japan still hates our guts. Today we can, if we choose, start breaking faith with those who died. We can go on a fool's orgy, get drunk on our success so far.

Or we can, if we choose, pray for our dead, and for the lives of those who have so far been spared. We can stay on the job, buy another War Bond, give a pint of blood. We can choke back our cheers... and save our wind for the mighty task that lies ahead.

Today is but the symbol of the many days to come. What are you going to do with these days?

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

United States stocks of corn, oats and barley on farms, at terminal markets, and government-owned on April 1 totaled 47,700,000 tons, about 19 per cent more than a year earlier and almost as large as the average for the five preceding years, when stocks were comparatively large. The carryover of corn next October 1 may amount to 450,000,000 to 500,000,000 bushels.

A sufficient number of new workers joined the labor force during the last year to permit an increase of 1,100,000 in the armed forces and an increase of 300,000 in the civilian supply of workers. As a result of this increase in the supply, the number of civilian workers employed rose to 50,800,000 in March from 50,500,000 last year.

Rationing at Peak

In the months to come, OPA has perhaps a bigger job to do than ever before. This will remain true until supplies of most commodities can be produced in quantities somewhere in line with current demand.

Our Army and Navy still have a major war to fight in the Pacific. The service forces will still need to purchase huge quantities of supplies until final victory is won.

So we know that incomes will remain very high, and demand for civilian goods will also outstrip supplies of most commodities. This will mean the necessary continuance of price controls until the threat of inflation is gone. Insofar as we are able to determine now, it will mean the continuation of major rationing programs, certainly through 1945 at the very least—many until final victory is won in the Pacific.

In the months immediately ahead, OPA will have a heavier load of work than at any time in the war period. In addition to the continuation of present programs to hold prices in line, we must promptly establish prices on reconversion goods, like automobiles, radios, electric fans, refrigerators, etc. These are the things which have been out of production during the war. Adjustment provisions for many different regulations in other fields have been planned and must be immediately put into effect. In the next six or eight months, there will probably be changes made in rationing programs which will further add to the work of our local War Price and Rationing Boards.

Then later on, as supplies of different commodities come up near demand, we must remove controls in an orderly manner, and as quickly as possible, without running the risk of a serious rise in prices.

The OPA programs of price control and rationing can only succeed in the difficult months ahead, if we receive the continued support of the many volunteers in Jefferson County, who are giving so much of their time to help our government in this war time program. We can only succeed further, if we had the support of the trade and the public in now completing the work which the OPA has set up to accomplish. Only this way can the cost of living be held in check for the benefit of all Americans. Only thus can we prevent sharp increases in the cost of war until final victory.

War production will not shut down overnight; the government will still spend for war at the rate of $60 billion a year. And the money people collect in wages, salaries, farm receipts, dividends and interest will continue to exceed what they can spend for the limited supply of civilian goods to be available. In addition cash holding of individuals plus their war bonds today total more than $140 billions, compared with $50 billions before Pearl Harbor. In the months ahead when production of civilian goods, these billions of dollars of savings will add their pressure to those already present on prices.

Price control will be needed then more than ever before to keep people from bidding up prices of everyday things, and touching off sharp price increases in the cost of living.

WACS OBSERVE THIRD YEAR OF SERVICE ON MAY 14th

Monday, May 14th marked the third anniversary of the Women's Army Corp., announced Colonel W. Lutz Krigbaum early this week. Col. Krigbaum is Commanding Officer of the Wisconsin-Upper Michigan District of the Sixth Service Command. Starting from a small auxiliary corps, the WAC has become in three years an integral part of the United States Army, almost 100,000 strong, serving in every part of the world, in important jobs. Major Doris Epperson, Director of the WAC in the Sixth Service Command, said yesterday.

"Wherever she works, from Calcutta to Labrador, with whomsoever she works, General or GI, the WAC has made friends for herself and for the thousands of women she represents," Major Epperson said. With the War in Europe victoriously won, all our efforts must be pointed toward Japan. This means more WACS are needed for the job ahead.

Especially needed, according to Major Epperson, are women to train as physical therapists. A six-month plan of training courses followed by three months hospital training will be given to women who have completed four years in an approved college with emphasis on physical education, or two years with emphasis on biological sciences.

For a general assignment enlistment application, Major Epperson said, a woman must be between the age of 21 and 50, an American citizen, have at least two years of high school and no children under 14 years of age unless the full care and custody of the children has been in other hands for all of 18 months prior to making application for enlistment. She must not be less than 100 pounds in weight or her height less than 53 inches. Major Epperson urged all women meeting these requirements to make application for enlistment at any of the following United States Recruiting Stations: 234 North Broadway, Milwaukee; Eau Claire, Wis.; or Green Bay, Wisconsin.
