The Woman in Grey—first episode, "The House of Mystery."

Wilfred Amory, a retired attorney, tells his secretary, Tom Thurston, of his purchase of the old Amory estate, his birthplace. Amory's father had died in apparent poverty, and the house was sold to old Mrs. Haynes, Amory's former housekeeper, who had suddenly acquired wealth through the death of a relative. For several years the house, shunned as haunted, since the murder of Mrs. Haynes, has been vacant. Amory, prosecuting attorney, had succeeded in convicting Florence Haynes, an adopted daughter, through the evidence of Mary Edwards, one of the servants. Florence Haynes died in prison five years later, and was buried on the Amory estate.

Planning to prepare the house for occupancy, Amory sends Tom to inspect it for him. Tom's first surprise within the house, which in all other respects seems to have been long deserted, is that the large clock in the hall, still going, shows the correct time. Immediately after he encounters a young girl in the house, who astounds him by her familiarity with the place. At this time J. Haviland Hunter is seen in the house, but he is careful to avoid the other two. The girl, who will give Tom no other name than "The Woman in Grey," takes him out of the house to show him the grave of Florence Haynes. Learning that they are stopping at the same hotel, they leave the grounds and return together. Tom is much interested in the strange ornament she wears which covers the entire back of her left hand. Immediately he connects it with Amory's story of the scar on Florence Haynes' hand, but as the latter is dead, he realizes there can be no connection. At the hotel "The Woman in Grey" induces Tom to present her to Mr. Amory and Paula Wynne, his niece. Reaching his room, Tom finds a note from "The Woman in Grey" telling him he will profit if he finds the Amory Code.

On returning to the Amory estate with Amory and Paula, Tom finds evidence of someone having been there since he left. In their search through the house they find a parchment bearing an unintelligible message, which Tom decided must be the Amory Code. At the same time Ruth—"The Woman in Grey"—and Hunter meet in another part of the house. Hunter endeavors to tear the ornament from her hand. Fallen in his desperate attempt to discover what Ruth Hope, "The Woman in Grey," is trying to shield beneath this jeweled ornament, Hunter carries her off in a waiting automobile. Tom follows them in the Amory car. Ruth leaps from the car on a bridge over a railroad, and a struggle between her and Hunter follows. A freight train is approaching on the tracks below as Hunter endeavors to hurl her over the rail of the bridge. Finally by an almost superhuman effort, he breaks her hold on the rail, and hurls her to her fate into the path of the approaching train.

The first installment of this thrilling serial will be shown at the Eagle Opera House Aug. 15.

BASE BALL

Sunday, Aug. 1, the Eagle team journeyed to Geneva, accompanied by a goodly number of loyal "fans," and lined up against the "Athletics," a strong Geneva team. The game was a lively one from start to finish, holding the interest of one and all, and finally resulting in a victory for Eagle by a score of 5-3.

Sunday, Aug. 8, Eagle and Palmyra crossed bats at Clark's Park, Eagle. A fine crowd was in attendance, and in spite of the crippled team Eagle had that day, they defeated Palmyra by a score of 9-4. This is the fourth game won from Palmyra this year.

Next Sunday, Aug. 15, Eagle will line up against a strong team at Elkhorn. A most exciting game is looked for as these two teams are well matched, and it is sure to be a game worth witnessing. Eagle is one of the strongest teams in the surrounding country, the boys are surely playing good ball and deserve support.

And last, but not least, is the game to be played at Clark's Park, Eagle, Aug. 22.—Eagle vs. Mukwonago. All you "loyal fans" take notice. Do not forget the day and place, come to the game, thus encouraging the boys, and boost for them. This will undoubtedly be an exciting game. Come boost for Eagle.

Charles H Hill

Charles H Hill was born December 31st, 1833 in Upwell, Cambridgeshire, England. In 1851, when but eighteen years of age, he came to America in company with James Wild. He spent a year or more in New York state, then emigrated with other pioneers to the then far west, Eagle, Wisconsin.

On December 18, 1861, he was married to Henrietta Trow and set out on a honeymoon trip with a span of colts and a long, straight sleigh for Dunn county, Wisconsin, a distance of three hundred miles. He had bought a quarter section of government land near the present site of Colfax which he, with the help of others, cleared with ten yoke of oxen. In 1864 he came back to Eagle and settled on the Palestine farm where he lived until 1890. He then moved to Whitewater where he has resided for the past thirty years.

In 1915 his home was broken up by the death of his wife. Since then a large portion of his time has been spent at the home of his son, Ellsworth, where a stroke of apoplexy terminated his life early Tuesday morning, Aug. 3rd.

Two children, Ellsworth E. and Lucinda (Mrs. S. J. Duffin), seven grandchildren, and one great-grandchild are left to mourn his loss.

The funeral services were held on Friday, with the burial at Eagle, both of which were conducted by Rev. W. W. Perry, an old-time friend of the family, who paid a beautiful, loving tribute to the memory of "Charlie Hill."

Paul Perry

The funeral of Paul Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Perry, who died at the family home in East Troy Friday morning, took place from the Catholic church at Mukwonago Monday, Rev. Father Salbreiter officiating. Interment was in the family lot at Eagle. We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family in the loss sustained by the untimely death of their beloved son.

Mrs. Edith Babcock

Last week Mrs. Edith Babcock died here after an operation. Deceased was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Beachtel, and a sister of Mrs. Saraphine Cox and Frank Beachtel. Her remains were taken to Troy Center for burial. Our sympathy goes forth to the bereaved ones.

D. C. Rea

Good Citizenship for Women

Theodora W. Youmans, Editor

A SUFFRAGIST AND SO HANDSOME

Mrs. Orpha Stucki, a delegate to the recent New York state convention, was for many years a next door neighbor of the Hardings in Marion, Ohio. Mrs. Harding was once her music teacher. "Senator Harding was always in favor of giving suffrage to women as far back as I can remember," says Mrs. Stucki. "He always said some day they would have to help bear the burden of government. He is the handsomest man who ever ran for President—way over six feet and very fine looking. His mother used to say she believed in prayer and she prayed every day that her son might some day become president of the United States! Both Senator and Mrs. Harding are typical, upstanding Americans and they are mighty good neighbors."

AT RANDOM

Women who are interesting themselves in politics are undergoing a liberal education in a number of directions. They are finding out for one thing what a complicated and difficult thing is a government by the people, when there are millions of the people differing in the most vital ways from each other, and each with a ballot of equal weight and value with every other ballot.

How is this heterogeneous mass of human thought and opinion possibly going to function in an intelligent way? How is it ever going to get anywhere in legislation or in administration? Manifestly only by organization and by compromise. No single man or woman, however high-minded and able, can do much alone, except as an inspiration to others. In order to achieve results people must work together—and it is a great art to work together.

People who work together must be willing to give and take, must sometimes sacrifice their own cherished opinions, must undergo difficulties and disappointments, and must often fail in achieving their aims. But they must keep on working together if any results of value are to be attained.

It is a great misfortune for the new woman voter that she has heard and read so much to the detriment of "politics". She does not understand that much of this detraction is due to intense partisanship. The men of one party find it difficult to see any good qualities in men of the other party, and the reformer, who has a panacea in his pocket for every political ill that flesh is heir to, has only abuse, often eloquent abuse, for all parties except his own budding organization. Personally I have lost faith somewhat, in the "uplift" magazines, which seem to me often narrowly partisan and abusive.

And so we read and hear about "bosses" and "rings" and "corruption" and "addenda" and are often inclined to think that "politics", especially "practical politics", means these things and not much else.

Women who are worried by this situation should try to keep a sane temper and an investigating eye. Who are the politicians in their immediate vicinity? Are they corruptionists and bosses or are they mainly just about like other folks, the husbands and fathers and brothers of the said women voters? What is the situation in Wisconsin? No doubt a good deal mixed and difficult, but without any special aroma of corruption. People in Wisconsin follow the candidates they like best, and if a minority secures control it is because the minority is tending to business and the majority is not.

There is corruption in politics no doubt and there is rule by the corrupt minority. But I believe that our setting political sin is not "bosses" and "machines" but just plain laziness and inefficiency. Extremely bad conditions sometimes rouse the inert citizen to "do something" but he is too much inclined to settle back on the job after a little, and allow the bad conditions to come again into existence and to continue.

Women who honestly want to benefit society through their votes must cultivate the habit of "sticking". Spurts of enthusiasm don't amount to much. They must interest themselves in politics, not only once in four years, or at every election, but all the year round and every year. Women sometimes question whether political parties will give fair recognition to their women members. I believe that women will have little difficulty on this score if they show the qualities of character which fairly entitle them to recognition.

At the present time many women are trying to decide how they shall vote. They like some things in the Republican and some things in the Democratic platform. In some ways they prefer Harding and in some other ways Cox. How shall they vote under these circumstances? I believe the safest and soundest basis of decision is to contrast the leadership of the Republican party with that of the Democratic and vote for the party that appears by its record to be the wisest leader.

General leadership seems to me more important than any pronouncement of any party or even any candidate. As I have said before in this column I choose the Republican party because it stands for a staunch and strong national life, as opposed to the Democratic party which exalts the states at the expense of the nation.

However, if any other woman believes that prohibition is the most important question she must decide for herself which party is most likely to meet her wishes on that score, and she must remember that Cox has been generally considered a wet candidate.

If she thinks the League of Nations most important she must decide on that issue—but she should not fail to remember that there is no practical possibility of the League being ratified without reservations by the next senate, because the senate cannot possibly have enough Democratic members to achieve that result.

If the woman voter thinks that economic questions are of most importance she must decide between the parties on that line.

"My politics?" queried Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of a World reporter. "Oh, yes, I am a Democrat, but—" and here she paused. "I was brought up a staunch Republican and I turned Democrat. I believe the best interests of the country are in the hands of the Democratic party, for I believe the most progressive. The Republicans are well, they are more conservative, you know, and we can't be too conservative and accomplish things."

"I am particularly interested in the League of Nations issue," she said, "and I am firmly in favor of it, though I am willing to accept it with reservations. In fact, I think we should have a reservation declaring that Congress must pass on all matters pertaining to our entering a war."

From which one might readily infer that the Democrats picked the wrong member of the family to become their candidate for Vice-President.—Harvey's Weekly.

"Tommy" Brahaney Now Auto Agent

Thomas W. Brahaney, at one time a resident of this city and assistant secretary at the White house during the Taft and Wilson administrations, but recently engaged in business in New York, has returned to Washington as president of the Oldsmobile Sales company and will have full charge of distribution of these cars in the territory for the District of Columbia which embraces parts of Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

Brahaney went to Washington from Wisconsin in 1900 as private secretary to Joseph V. Quarles, United States senator from Wisconsin. He later held a similar position with Senator John C. Spooner.

When Senator Spooner resigned Brahaney became Washington correspondent for The Milwaukee Sentinel. Later he was in charge of congressional correspondence for The New York Tribune and The New York Evening Post. He served as first secretary of the United States tariff commission and later was made assistant secretary to President Taft, which position he held during the Wilson administration until several months ago when he resigned to enter business in New York.

Menomonee Falls First—Concrete Connection

Continuous cement road connection between Menomonee Falls village and Waukesha is the distinction which first incorporated village or city in Waukesha county to be thus "hitched up" with the metropolis and it is certainly to be congratulated. The News in telling the "glad news" says:

To the Advancement association together with the wide interest and public spirit it evinced more than a year ago, can be attributed the fact that Menomonee Falls is the first city or village in Waukesha county to be permitted the complete stretch of concrete highway from Milwaukee to our municipal limits, which will be an accomplished fact by the time the subscribers of The News get this week's issue.

Waukesha has cement pavement part way only, as the Blue Mound road from Goerke's Corners to the Milwaukee county line is macadam. Our village claims the distinction then of having uninterrupted concrete construction all the way, which practically makes us a suburb of the state's metropolis.

The last stretch of cement was laid this week from Fairmount Park up to the east limits, and as soon as the same can be used we will be dressed up and with some place to go. In spite of the fact that delay and disappointment made the time seem long, yet the satisfaction of its being finished will go a great ways in causing all to forget the "detour", "snow shoveling" and other hardships. Fred Hildebrand, the contractor, is pleased to see the last yard made. He did not make any profit, in fact will be obliged to carry the project on the company's books under profit and loss, but nevertheless in the undertaking he showed the good loser and believes in the old maxim "keep on smiling."

Everyone is happy now that the concrete is laid to our doors.

Getting Right To Brass Tacks

Hartland News:—The past week has seen more boosts in the price of things people are obliged to use. Where is this thing going to end? And how long will people stand for it? The past year people have gone without new clothing because they could not afford to pay the prices that were asked for things, and now we read that manufacturers and jobbers have a scheme by which prices will persistently be kept boosted. Freight and passenger rates were advanced again this week. Of course people can stay at home, but the commerce of the country requires both freight and passenger service, and the people must pay for it. City newspapers have again been obliged to make a big advance in their prices to meet the situation that confronts them. Country newspapers will probably have to go out of business if the thing continues.

FOR FIRE ENGINE

Electors of Hartland village will decide on September 7, the day of the primary election, whether or not bonds to the amount of $5,000 shall be issued by that village to pay for a fire engine for the village. Notice of the special election has been issued. The village board favored the proposition at a recent meeting.

It is said the Democrats will claim that their nominee for President "is free from the blight of being an administration candidate." Yet President Wilson was the first to congratulate him, and he (Cox) will be compelled to run on the Wilson platform.

DR. G. E. SEAMAN FOR GOVERNOR

RECORD SHOWS HIS ACTIVITY IN SERVICE OF STATE

IN HEALTH AND EDUCATION

Served in Spanish War, and in World War With Famous Thirty-Second Division

The announcement of the candidacy of Gilbert E. Seaman, Milwaukee, for the Republican nomination for Governor, has drawn attention to the fact that for twenty years he has rendered excellent service to the state of Wisconsin and the nation, displayed unusual executive ability, and has never before been a seeker for office.

Seaman was born on Sept. 19th, 1869, at Alpena, Michigan, a small farming community. He attended the public school and later earned his own way through the College of Medicine at Detroit. After graduation young Seaman immediately began work and saved sufficient money to take him to Germany where he completed his education in the Universities of Wurzburg and Berlin. After graduating there he returned to Milwaukee and began the practice of medicine. This was in 1892.

In the Philippines As Surgeon At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he immediately volunteered and was made an assistant surgeon. He served first with the 4th Wisconsin Infantry and later as surgeon of General Arthur MacArthur's Division in the Philippines where he was mentioned in orders for gallantry in action. At the conclusion of the war he immediately returned to private practice.

He became assistant health officer of Milwaukee during the great small-pox epidemic. It is history that when scandals were aired over the manner in which isolation barracks were kept, those maintained by Dr. Seaman were found to be in first class condition.

State University Regent Always interested in education, he was, ten years ago, appointed a regent of the State University and he has served in that capacity since. He recently was elected president of the Board and has devoted much energy and time to this public service. He was also a member of the Wisconsin Board of Education for two years.

He was in the National Guard and at the outbreak of the war became chief surgeon of the Thirty-second Division. This position was one requiring enormous executive and organizing ability. He had to arrange for the medical and surgical care of more than 28,000 sick and wounded men. However, his efforts were so successful that before the war had ended he was chief surgeon of the Sixth Army Corps, having executive direction of the medical and surgical care of more than 150,000 men. He was in all the principal engagements of the war.

Was Gassed in France During the battles of the Thirty-second Division, Dr. Seaman was gassed.

As a result of his remarkable service in this war, he was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Legion of Honor by the Republic of France and the Distinguished Service Medal by the United States government.

Seaman was endorsed for governor by conferences of Republicans held at Milwaukee and Madison. He has been a Progressive Republican for more than twenty years. He has begun a campaign that will take him into all parts of the state. Seaman is a strong, forceful speaker and invariably impresses the audience with his evident sincerity.

Big Double Circus Coming This Way

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Announce Exhibitions At Early Date

This locality has entertained many circuses, but never anything to compare with the gigantic double shows billed as Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Combined which will exhibit afternoon and night at Milwaukee, Wednesday, Aug. 25.

The merging of these mammoth institutions in one circus of colossal size, constitutes the amusement surprise of the century. Nothing to approach this gigantic, new circus has ever before toured America. It has been formed by merging the pick and the cream of all that was biggest and best in the two famous shows. It would be folly to attempt to enumerate its many wonders. Some idea of the enormous scale upon which features are presented may be had when it is stated that a quarter of a million pounds of elephants take part in a single act. In other words—six times as many of the big-eared giants as ever have ever before been seen in one main-tent exhibition. All else to be seen is in proportion. The arenic stars embrace all the world's foremost circus performers. There are three hours of novelties and big sensational acts. The menagerie is far and away the most colossal ever traveled. For instance—a herd of eight giraffes are exhibited in place of the two or three shown in the past. The great tournament which opens the main-tent program, is the most magnificent thing in pageantry yet produced in America. Hundreds upon hundreds of gorgeously costumed characters and beautiful horses take part in it. The morning street parade is the longest and most brilliant ever given anywhere and offers something entirely new and novel in processional display. It is a stupendous, double-circus that baffles description.

ENGAGEMENT OF MARRIAGE

John Kennedy announces the engagement of his daughter, Ella Dorothy, to Emil A. Gunther, son of August Gunther, of Waukesha. The wedding will be early in September and will be held at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Paterson, Arcadian avenue.

Injured By Auto Tire Explosion

Frank Koehler was seriously injured last Saturday in an unusual manner. He and several others were pumping air into one of the large tires on the Pabst truck, in the garage on farm No. 1, when the inner tube exploded and blew the tire off of the rim, knocking him down and cutting a large gash in his forehead and lacerating his arm at the shoulder. It seems the tire had not been properly attached to the rim and when the pressure became great enough the tube exploded. It is supposed the ring which locks the tire to the rim struck his shoulder. The sound of the explosion was like that of a cannon.—Dousman Index.

TO TRY THREE CASES ON AUGUST 30

Judge Martin L. Lueck will try three cases in Circuit court Aug. 30. Charles A. Brown vs. the village of New Butler; Frank C. Adams vs. C. P. Norgord, commissioner of agriculture; Mrs. Mattie B. Crone against Joseph Goetsch and Frank A. McKenzie and William Quale. The case is one in dispute of the guardianship of Gladys Mae Bare, the daughter of Mrs. Crone. The case has been tried before, and was carried at one time to the Supreme court where a decision by Judge Lueck was partially upheld to the extent that the child was ordered returned to the mother. Mrs. Crone is suing for the custody of her daughter and damages aggregating $2,250. She alleges in her complaint that the Goetsch family will not turn the child over to her. She also alleges that the defendants have hidden the child. Mr. Goetsch resides in Mukwonago, but the residence of Mrs. Crone is not given.

Need More Men At The Rowell Plant

The management of the I. B. Rowell factory is having a heap of difficulty in securing necessary help to keep up with orders for farm machinery. The company's sales have been far in excess of those of any previous year and the only difficulty now appears to be to secure the necessary labor, in spite of the fact that tens of thousands of workers are being laid off in big industrial plants in the great cities.

Old Settlers—Genesee, August 20

The fourteenth annual home-coming of the Genesee Old Settlers' association will be held on the lawn of the church at Genesee village on Friday, August 20. Dinner will be served on the ground, and all comers are invited to bring baskets.

A good program will be given in the afternoon, together with athletic sports, a baseball game, etc. Ice cream and other refreshments will be served on the grounds. An interesting play "Under Blue Skies" will be presented in the evening. All the proceeds derived from the picnic will be devoted to improvements at the Genesee cemetery. Come one, come all, is the hearty invitation spread abroad. Menzo Francis, Milwaukee, is secretary of the organization.

Standard Oil Company, St. Louis, Mo.

Gentlemen:—

For some time past we have been marketing and using your Red Crown Gasoline and we have absolutely convinced ourselves of the three facts of which you have been telling the public in your advertising.

We have examined a number of engines operated on Red Crown Gasoline and have noted a minimum of carbon deposits, due, we believe, to the fact that Red Crown burns hot and clean.

WESTERN WANDERINGS

(By Emma Gates Armstrong)

To satisfactorily set down the impressions gained and experiences enjoyed in Alberta, the third and farthest west prairie province, is a staggering task.

Edmonton, the first stop, could easily furnish material for a long article. It is a fine city and an old one. Until the days of the gold rush to the Klondike it was of little importance. Then it became the outfitting point for many of the thousands who were headed for the gold fields and almost overnight doubled its population and has forged ahead steadily until now it numbers 80,000 souls.

Its site is highly picturesque as it overlooks the Saskatchewan river which is here bordered by high bluffs. The view from the MacDonald hotel is incomparable, across the river lies Strathcona with the old buildings of the Hudson's Bay Company's post.

Edmonton is the provincial capital and also the site of the Alberta university, both of which I visited. At the latter institution I was shown the prize calves that are to be exhibited at the International Stock Show in Chicago, Alberta Boy, a 1,000 lb. Hereford calf, is bound to prove a formidable competitor.

Great interest is taken in sunflowers as an ensilage crop and several plots of this one-time pest are being grown on the experimental farm. Red clover, which was for many years considered an impossible crop for the Edmonton district, is being grown with great success.

I was greatly surprised to learn that potatoes are one of the chief crops of this district. I saw miles and miles of potato fields and they were in splendid condition. Caves are used for storing and protecting the crop from frost. A four-foot dirt cover insures protection. The Edmonton territory yields heavy crops and big returns in money, but it is no country for a lazy man. The farmer who expects to make a success there must hustle during the crop season which is shorter than farther south, but plenty long enough to grow and mature everything except corn—provided, Mr. Farmer plants early and harvests early.

Edmonton is the last large city to the north and serves the whole north country as a distributing point, including the famous Peace river country to the northwest—a country that is on the eve of a great development.

There has been dispute for years as to whether the Peace river country would grow wheat. I am informed by Hon. Frank Oliver, formerly Minister of Interior for the Dominion, that wheat has been grown there very successfully for years. I have had many inquiries in the New York office this spring regarding the Peace river country for stock raising. I shall be glad to advise prospective settlers that they can count on grain crops too.

Calgary is a very attractive city, being built on a cluster of hills rising from the banks of the Bow river.

Architecturally, the residences are generally of a higher and more attractive standard than I have seen elsewhere in western Canada, one reason for this is, I believe, they nearly all have red or green roofs, many of them tiled, and the brilliant sunshine accentuates their colorings. Then too, the grounds are very beautiful, flowers in profusion are everywhere.

The wealth of wild flowers on the prairies is astonishing. I met many old friends, but there are dozens of unknown sorts. Almost without exception every western man with whom I've talked has called my attention to the wild flowers and told me of having found from 30 to 40 different varieties in the course of a few hours' walk.

Very good motor roads radiate from Calgary—one leads to Banff and on to the mountains. These roads bear heavy traffic for automobiles are plentiful and western people do a lot of driving even with gas at over 50 cents. The drive I enjoyed in and around Calgary gave me several fine views of the city from high elevations at different points, took me through the pretty city park along the Bow river and to the huge dam built by the Canadian Pacific for the irrigation of its western block.

The past two days I have been studying the work and methods of the company as regards demarcation farms and irrigation. In the huge barn at Strathmore I viewed part of herd of 150 full blooded Holstein and Ayrshire cows that are on test. Several have records of more than 20,000 lbs. Then I viewed a bunch of calves that are expected to better the records of their mothers. In the evening we drove across the prairie to look at a field of barley that topped my 5 ft. 8, and to inspect a bunch of two-year-olds on the range beyond, then, taking down a wire gap, we whirled away across the fields to look over the May calves and their mothers.

We were 114 miles from the mountains but they were plainly visible against a wonderful sunset sky. My host told me that he had entertained an eastern Shriner recently on his way home from the meeting in Portland, and when the visitor was told how far away were the mountains he was looking at, he remarked, "Well, I believe you, but I'll never dare tell the folks in Indianapolis that I saw mountains a hundred miles distant!"

You see I am braver than he is.

I am writing this in the station at Brooks while waiting for the midnight train that shall carry me to Banff. I have had an interesting day viewing gardens and interviewing farmers' wives. I have picked and eaten delicious strawberries, raspberries, currants and gooseberries. To the old objection that Alberta is too far north for successful garden growing, I am prepared to say that I have never seen better gardens than those seen today. Every sort of vegetable was represented.

At one farm I was shown pansies that have survived seven winters without being protected. Their owner was rather proud of her flower garden and said that anyone could have a flower garden in Alberta provided they were not too lazy to plant one. This woman I met at the door of her wash house, but she was not wearing herself out over a wash board. A motor was doing the family wash. I asked her if many farmers' wives had motors for washing and she replied that almost every family who owned an automobile used a motor. In view of the fact that almost every farm boasts at least one car, it would appear that washboards are rather scarce.

Talking about motor cars, I'll pass on a good one I was told yesterday. A certain official was invited to speak at some farmers' meeting. He owns a medium priced car, but for fear his audience might think he was showing off he borrowed a Ford. After the meeting he was strolling about the grounds and noted the parked cars among which were two fine Hudson super sixes. He asked his companion who owned that car, pointing to the nearest Hudson and the answer was, "Oh, that belongs to So-and-so a farmer from Blank." Then Mr. Speaker pointed to the other big car and wanted to know the name of its owner and was informed it was So-and-so's other car. And he had borrowed a Ford!

The last bit of motoring I did today started about eight tonight and took me to the famous Brooks Aqueduct, a concrete conduit over two miles long that spans a valley and carries irrigation water from Lake Newell to several districts. The aqueduct is an important link in a system of many miles. Where the aqueduct crosses the railway line it takes the form of a high syphon and goes under the tracks.

I shall never forget tonight. A storm was brewing and as I stood on the aqueduct to which I had mounted by many steps, I witnessed a gorgeous electrical display. Across the purple prairies flashed the light of the raging forked lightning and sudden soot rain beat fared. The ride back rain-soaked faces with rain and wind beating in my face was bracing and delightful. I wouldn't have missed it for a whole season of opera. The rain is very welcome. Crops were promising; this rain makes the outcome sure.

Lack of harvest hands is now troubling the farmers. The demand exceeds the supply by many thousands. Anyone who wants to get work can secure it by applying to the Provincial Labor bureau.

Important to the Producers of Honey

Madison, Wis.—The honey market situation is thus summed up today by the State Market division: "The honey stamps which nearly 500 beekeepers have ordered will be mailed out within the next few days and beekeepers should see that all honey sold by them after August 12th, the date the grades become effective, should be stamped showing grade of honey being sold. The grades are printed and ready for free distribution. The law provides penalties for infringement of this office rule."

Where the law is violated, reports show that about 40% of the total colonies died during the winter, the unfavorable spring. This will reduce the total yield to about 80% of a normal crop but with favorable conditions it is expected that the yield per colony will exceed the average colony yield in 1919.

RICHARD ZILLMER BURNED BADLY IN GAS EXPLOSION

Richard Zillmer, formerly of Oconomowoc, where he was in the employ of the H. Lorberg Co., but who now has a position with the D. & F. Kusel Co. at Watertown, was severely burned about the head and face while at his work there last week.

He was engaged in repairing an auto gasoline tank, supposed to be empty. When he applied the blow torch an explosion occurred, blowing out the end of the tank and injuring Mr. Zillmer. He was taken to St. Mary's hospital at Watertown.

A 7 Per Cent Income You Can Rely On

If you want your savings to keep right on earning a fair income, in good times and bad times alike, invest in a business that is permanent and indispensable in good times and bad times alike;

a business which the whole community patronizes and depends on;

a business with a long record of liberal, honorable and successful management;

a business which, under State regulation, is never permitted to profiteer, but which is always protected—IN THE PUBLIC INTEREST —in the right to earn a fair return on its investment.

A regular and dependable 7 per cent interest or dividend return from such a business is a far better investment for most folks than a speculative higher return from investments less thoroughly protected.

These facts explain the steadily increasing, State-wide preference shown by thousands of Wisconsin men and women for our "SAFE HOME 7 PER CENTS."

Seven per cent participating preferred stock of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company, which pays $7 a year in quarterly cash dividends on each $100 share, and which under its participating right has an excellent chance to earn $8 or $9 a share in extra good years.

Seven per cent Gold Notes of Wisconsin Gas & Electric Company, issued for five-year or ten-year terms as the investor prefers, in $50, $100, $500 and $1,000 sizes. Interest dates, January 1 and July 1.

You can invest any sum from $50 upward in these securities, and get 7 per cent on your savings as safely as you now get 3 or 4 per cent.

Oconomowoc Scouts Taking Long Hike

Covering a Route of 200 Miles This Week

Starting last Sunday morning at sunrise five Boy Scouts of Oconomowoc began a 200 mile hike, the longest thus far undertaken by any of the Wisconsin Scouts.

The trail they are following leads through Watertown, Sun Prairie, Waterloo, Marshall, Hubbleton and Madison to Devils Lake, where they will camp for several days.

The Scouts who comprise the party are: Melvin Notbohm, Howard Gunderson, Hiram Lvke, Clarence Cook and Donald Anderson.

Each boy will carry his own rations, his blanket and half of a shelter tent.

The boys planned to make about 25 miles a day and their hiking will be done early in the morning and partly after supper.

Who Has the Cow?

Who owns the cow with the best record in the 115 Wisconsin Cow Testing associations?

A. J. Cramer, state leader of cow testing associations, wants to know so that she may be exhibited at the State Fair. The highest record so far reported is that of a cow producing 689.2 pounds of butter fat in her association year July 1, 1919, to July 1, 1920.

LIVE STOCK SHIPPING SYSTEM

Madison, Wis.—The Market Division has just issued a bulletin dealing with a system of accounts for cooperative shipping of live stock.

The system described is the result of investigations made by this office in connection with several live stock shipping associations in various parts of the state. The bulletin is free and can be had by writing to the Division of Markets. A field representative of the division will give personal assistance in the installation of the system wherever requested.

When we think of the last seven years, it occurs to us that it is not the original cost of electing a president so much as the upkeep that hurts.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarhal deafness, and that is by a local remedy. Catarhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarhal deafness. It is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists. 75c.
