The baseball club lost at Sullivan and won at Genesee July 4th. Sunday's game at Eagle with Sullivan was won by the home team. Marty and Boey composed the battery and did excellent service.

This past week our Eagle boys played four games of ball in three days.

Sunday, July 2, Eagle crossed bats with the Sullivan team at Colyer's park in this village which resulted in a victory for Eagle by a score of 15 to 5. July 3 Eagle played against the Adelphians of Chicago, at Clark's park, Eagle lake, which was won by the latter, chiefly through the strenuous efforts of their umpire, by a score of 9 to 4.

The morning of July 4 our boys went to Sullivan and were defeated by a score of 6 to 7. We have been told this was an A. No. 1 game and no discredit to our boys for losing, considering the picked team they went against there. Marty and Boney were the battery for Eagle and deserve special mention, although they were well supported.

In the afternoon the Eagle baseball team journeyed from Sullivan to Genesee and defeated the Genesee team by a score of 9 to 4. So out of the four games played Eagle won two and lost two.

Sunday, July 3, the White Rocks of Waukesha, one of the very strongest teams of that city, will play against Eagle at the baseball grounds at Colyer's park in this village. Our boys have been playing good ball lately, and this ought to be a game worth seeing. Come to boost for the boys and help them win. Game called at 2 p. m. Admission: 25 cents, ladies 15 cents.

On Friday, Frank J. Arendorfer, a farmer residing south of Eagle, was taken sick. The same night he was taken to Dr. Fitzgerald's hospital where he became much worse and all aid could not restore his life. He died Monday afternoon surrounded by his family and immediate relatives. The funeral was held yesterday morning and interment was in the new St. Theresa church cemetery. We will publish an extended obituary next week.

On Monday at 8 p. m. Director John F. Braun called the meeting to order. The annual report was read by Treasurer Arthur Belling. The board was directed to institute the tenth grade of study and was authorized to purchase the necessary equipment. Donald W. Pardee was re-elected clerk without a dissenting vote. It was a harmonious meeting. The people of the district are giving much thought to the establishment of a joint high school, but the matter was not presented at the meeting. The position of principal will be held open for Charles R. Hill, member of the Wisconsin National Guard. His place will be filled temporarily.

WISCONSIN ORGANIZES MOST COW TESTING ASSOCIATIONS.

More cow testing associations were formed in Wisconsin during the past nine months than at any other like period in its history. This state now has a total of fifty-one cow testing associations which are working "over time" to increase the dairy production of the state.

On July 1, 1915, Wisconsin had thirty-seven active cow testing associations. Since then a campaign has been waged jointly by the United States Department of Agriculture, the Wisconsin Dairymen's association and the University of Wisconsin, with the result that there have been organized and put into operation exactly twenty-three new associations. The total added membership of these new clubs amounts to about 620, with more than 10,000 cows on test. The membership of all these associations now totals 1,500 with nearly 25,000 cows. Cow testing associations are working in thirty-three different counties of the state, with a number of others about to organize.

Wisconsin still leads all other states in the number of these modern dairy business organizations. New York is a close second, with about forty-seven at the latest. The work in Wisconsin is in charge of N. A. Negley of the dairy division, United States Department of Agriculture, Madison, and H. C. Searles, Wisconsin Dairymen's association, Fond du Lac.

Small, green bugs about one-eighth of an inch in length, known scientifically as the pea aphid, have for some time been suspected of doing much harm to Wisconsin's annual crop of peas, which is one of the many things to which Badger boosters point with pride. Wintering on clover land, these pests migrate in the spring to the nearest planting of pea vines, and there complete their existence at the expense of the farmer and the packer. To find ways of controlling this annual pest, L. G. Gentner of the Agricultural Experiment Station staff has been assigned to studying ways of fighting the aphid. He will also seek control methods against another harmful insect—the pea weevil, which together with the aphid and the disease known as blight, are standing in the way of progress in Wisconsin pea culture.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

This column is edited by Theodor W. Youmans, president of the Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association, who alone is responsible for any opinions that may here be editorially expressed. Contributions of not more than 500 words are solicited.

OUR SPLENDID PARADE.

For the safety of the nation
Let the women have the vote:
For the hand that rocks the cradle,
Will never rock the boat.

This sentiment, printed in big black letters on a yellow framed sign, ten feet long, carried by Mrs. Helen Haight and Mrs. W. H. Oatway, on Mrs. E. J. George's car, was one of the features of interest in the woman suffrage parade Monday, and was greeted with a continuous ripple of applause along the line of march.

Some of the other banners, all big, all yellow and black, were:

"The G. O. P. Favors Woman Suffrage."
"The Democrats Recommend Woman Suffrage."
"Give Mother a Chance."
"Be a good fellow and give us that vote."
"Suffrage first."
"Women vote in twelve states."
"Why not set us free?"

The float representing the equal suffrage states was adorned by twelve beautiful young ladies, all in white, each wearing a sash showing the name of her state. The free state girls were Misses Faye and Gladys Thomas, Helen and Margaret Tichenor, Cecile Snyder, Norma Craven, Mittie Horning, Cordelia Pierce, Lalla Gorder, Mildred Hartman, Adeline Butcher. Palmetier & Abell kindly loaned their truck for the float.

The fine large car of Mrs. W. W. Nicholas, Milwaukee, showed Miss Stewart, her hands shacked, holding a banner with the state motto, "Forward."

The college women's car, all in cap and gown, swinging the pennants of several colleges, attracted general attention. Miss Hutton drove and with her were her sister, Mrs. Abels, Miss Nina Belle Smith and the Misses Belknap.

The coupe of Mr. and Mrs. John Greder was one of the most beautiful cars in line, showing pendant clusters of wisteria over the yellow. The car was awarded the second prize.

Dr. and Mrs. A. J. Hodgson's car was elaborately decorated with yellow tulle and bunting in a butterfly motif. The Owen car showed large bouquets of California poppies. The Youmans car was gay with sunflowers.

Other cars in line, most of them beautifully decorated, were those of Mrs. George P. Miller, Milwaukee; Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Winton and Mr. and Mrs. William Tans, Prospect; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Keebler, Burlington; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Rhoads, Mrs. M. H. Halverson, Mr. and Mrs. Perry Friz; Mrs. F. J. Strong; Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Smart; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Blair; Dr. J. B. Noble, Rev. C. E. Board, who had as his companion Rev. W. O. Carrier, V. H. and Miss Tichenor. Mrs. David Roberts' car was filled with little girls, each carrying a yellow balloon. Many of the men wore suffrage signs around their hats. All the ladies in the parade wore gowns of white with "votes for women" sashes and yellow decorations.

THE VALLEY CONFERENCE.

The Mississippi Valley conference held in Minneapolis early in May, proved a successful and inspiring meeting. A new speaker of particular interest was Mrs. Nellie McClung of Edmonton, Alberta. Mrs. McClung is the woman to whom more than any other person is given credit for securing the enfranchisement of women in the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

The roof garden banquet afforded the most brilliant constellation of speeches that it has ever been my pleasure to hear. President Vincent of the University of Minnesota was one of the speakers and gave a clever talk in which he expressed doubts as to the ultimate success of democracy. Every speaker who followed Dr. Vincent took a "fall" out of that distinguished gentleman and when he left Minneapolis he was still explaining in the newspapers that he meant it as a joke.

A dozen Wisconsin women attended the conference, only two or three of whom had ever before been present at a large suffrage convention. Every one was greatly inspired.

BUSINESS WOMAN AND SUFFRAGIST.

Is there another suffragist in Wisconsin, or out of it, besides Mrs. E. Nelson, Peshtigo, who is a practical and successful watchmaker?

According to their letterheads, the Nelson store deals in "diamonds, watches, silverware, china, Kodaks, watch repairing."

A number of years ago when Mr. Nelson had trouble in getting competent assistance in the store his wife volunteered to help him out. He took pride in teaching her the watchmaker's trade, which she already knew something about since that had been her father's occupation. She learned rapidly. When Mr. Nelson's health failed and he was obliged to be out of the store a good part of the time, more and more work fell to his wife. Customers liked her and would ask her to take their work. Now she is the more active member of the firm. Although Peshtigo is a small city the Nelson store is extremely up-to-date and is equipped with all of the fine and delicate machinery necessary for first-class work.

Other watchmakers take pride in Mrs. Nelson's ability but she is not particularly fond of that branch of her work. She likes better buying and selling and the experience of dealing with all sorts of people that come in the store.

Mrs. Nelson has two daughters, one a stenographer in Milwaukee, the other a student in a Michigan college and one son who is a student of the University of Wisconsin.

It goes without saying that a woman so efficient as Mrs. Nelson in the general affairs of life is equally efficient in suffrage work. She is president of the Peshtigo Equal Suffrage League, which is notable among the smaller leagues of the state for its many and successful activities.

POLITICAL EQUALITY BOOKMARK

A political equality bookmark, compiled by Mrs. Rachel S. Jastrow and the editor of this periodical, has recently been issued by the Democrat Printing company, Madison. It includes a list of ten of the best books on equal suffrage. Some or all of these books should be in every library in the state and in the hands of every suffragist. The bookmarks are prettily gotten up and for sale at the Democrat office. The price is 25 cents per hundred.

OTTAWA CENTER.

(Too late for last week)

Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schoeneich the Ottawa and Dousman congregations tendered Rev. W. F. Graf and family a farewell reception. The evening was very pleasantly spent with games and a short musical program. Coffee, cake and ice cream were served. More than two hundred friends gathered to say farewell, and as a token of love and high esteem, Mr. Graf was presented with a purse of $50. He has served both fields most faithfully and both churches have added many new members during the six years of his pastorate. The family leaves Thursday for their new field near Ripon.

Rev. Earl Morgan, of Ohio, will occupy the pulpit for the next four Sundays.—D. W. James has sold his beautiful farm home to Christopher Stuhler of Waukesha receiving in part payment a modern new residence in Waukesha on Charles street. Mr. James and family moved to Waukesha on Tuesday. They will be greatly missed in the community as Mr. James has spent his entire life on this home-stead, and brought his bride about twenty-seven years ago to this same home. Mrs. James will be greatly missed in the church as she had a fine class of young ladies and was also treasurer of the Ladies' Mite Circle.

—Dr. Homer Lurvey and son, John, of Omaha, are visiting at J. C. Lurvey's.—A Guernsey heifer owned by J. H. Laney & Son was struck by lightning and killed.—Mrs. Smith, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. George Dreyer, returned to Sparta Sunday.—Robert Hunter of Chicago spent a few days recently among relatives.—F. A. Evans and family of Chicago and Mrs. M. Evans and family spent Monday at J. Laney's.—Rev. Oliver Chaffin is visiting at K. D. Stewart's.

Children's First Duty.

It is the duty of children to be obedient to their parents. Of all the creatures we are acquainted with, mankind are the longest, before they become capable of shifting for themselves; and it seems to be the design of Providence in keeping them so many years in a state of dependence upon their parents, to train them up to obedience.—Price.

PIG RAISING MEANS MONEY AND FUN FOR BADGER BOYS

This Will Tell Farmer Boys How to Choose a Brood Sow.

(By L. P. Martiny of the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' Association)

A year ago last December two neighbors each bought a brood sow. One paid $25 for a nice, smooth, low-down sow weighing 400 pounds. This fall he sold eight 200 pound pigs on the early November market. His neighbor bought a 325 pound sow with long legs, a long body, and a sharp pointed nose, for $15. She raised six pigs that had to be fed all they could eat until December 10 and then sold for 190 pounds.

Your profits as a pig raiser depend largely on the brood sow that you select. The successful live stockman has to be a good judge of live stock, and so we want to tell you boys some of the things that will help you to pick out a good brood sow.

If you are raising pigs for market only, the sow need not necessarily be pure bred. But see to it that she resembles the breed that you have chosen to raise, and then if you use a pure bred boar of that breed you can get most rapid improvement. Select your brood sows from your own herd as much as possible and each time get a better one than you had before.

In picking out a sow the first consideration should be the size. When we sell the pigs we are paid by the pound and of course the more pounds the better. Don't select a sow that is undersized for her age.

In order to get good size the first thing you want to look for is length of body. You must have length in order to have a good frame upon which to put lots of weight. No one ever grew a big hog out of a short-bodied, chunky pig.

After noting your sow has good length of body, see that she also has good depth to her body. Stand off to the side of her and note whether she is deep or shallow and this depth should be carried evenly throughout her entire length. Don't make the mistake of selecting a pot-bellied pig, thinking you have a deep bodied one. A deep bodied sow will produce more pigs that will be better feeders. A shallow or slim-bodied sow will not make a good brood sow and her pigs will be hard to feed.

The next thing after noting length and depth of body, should be width of body. Select a sow whose back is comparatively level across on top, not one that has a back like a fish, sharp in the center and sloping off on the sides. The hogs with level backs, or well sprung ribs, as we call it, are the kind that will put on the greatest amount of flesh of the highest quality.

A "fish-backed" pig will never take on flesh well and will not make a good killer.

Now bear in mind, first of all, get a sow of good size for her age, then see she has good length, then good depth and lastly, width of body.

You have all seen old sows with hollow backs, or with weak feet so that they can no longer walk on their toes as they should, but they have to bear their weight on their pasterns and their toes turn up in front. So, in selecting a young sow, boys, there are two more important things to watch out for. First, see that her back is strong and curved upward a little; second, that she walks right up on her toes and does not tend to rest her weight on the back of her feet.

When your father goes out to buy a dairy cow, he wants to know how much milk she can give and how much her mother gave. Likewise when you select your sow you should try to find out about how many pigs she can raise. But you say that you are going to get a sow that has never raised any pigs at all—a young sow. Then you want to find out how good a sow her mother was; how big litters she raised; and how well she raised them. Always choose a sow that comes from large litters of pigs, for she is more apt to raise large litters.

Have you ever heard men speak of a growthy animal? By that they mean one that is large for its age,

Will you invest 5c or 10c to prove out our say-so on the national joy smoke?

R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO., Winston-Salem, N. C.

YOU'LL find a cheery howdy-do on tap no matter how much of a stranger you are in the neck of the woods you drop into. For, Prince Albert is right there—at the first place you pass that sells tobacco! The tippy red bag sells for a nickel and the tidy red tin for a dime; then there's the handy some pound and half-pound tin humidors and the pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top that keeps the tobacco in such bang-up trim all-the-time!

This is the reverse side of the Prince Albert tidy red tin. Read this "Patented Process" message-to-you and realize what it means in making Prince Albert so much to your liking.

Music.

Music, when combined with a pleasurable idea, is poetry; music without the idea is simply music; the idea without the music is prose from its very definiteness.—Edgar Allan Poe.

Abra-cadabra a Fever Cure.

Long before a change of climate came to be advertised as a cure for hay fever, an idea the railroads have been suspected of fostering, a simpler remedy was thought to be the word, abra-cadabra. This magical word was once used as a charm against ague and fevers. Its meaning is disputed. As a charm it was written to form an inverted triangle by dropping a letter at each successive repetition.—Kansas City Times.

Why Red-Heads Are Seldom Bald.

The reason why red-haired people are less subject to baldness than others is said to be this: Their hair is relatively thick, one red hair being almost as thick of five fair or three brown hairs. The consequence is that with 30,000 red hairs the scalp is well thatched; whereas with the same number of fair hairs one is comparatively bald.

The lecturers coming from all corners of the earth add another educational feature to the program. These men and women are good talkers and also know how to make the people laugh while they are telling them the truth.

A good Chautauqua, such as we have, is a fine advertisement for a town. It brings people from the country and surrounding towns. It helps business and shows our town is alive. The Morning Chautauqua for the children and young people is worth the whole effort, as it helps to mold their ideas of life.
