Death of Richard Strike Richard Strike was born in Devonshire, England, Aug. 21, 1840. In 1854 the family left England and came to the United States, settling on a farm two miles north of Palmyra. Here they remained for twelve years, when they moved to Adams, Walworth coun-

On March 1, 1874, Mr. Strike married Miss Serena Coombe and they settled on a farm near Bethel church. Seven years later they moved to a farm a mile east of Little Prairie, which they left twenty-three years ago and moved to the place near Palmyra, which was the home of the family to the day of Mr. Strike's death. Mrs. Strike died Dec. 22, 1901.

In spite of advanced years, Mr. Strike was hale and hearty until a little over a year ago, when his health began to fail. During his illness he Cora Babcock, who had lived with the daughter.

Apples and home-made candy were served.

Great excitement prevailed at Eagle hall Wednesday evening, when the last basketball games of the season were played. Good, swift games they were, and hugely enjoyed by the spectators. The New Butler Juniors defeated Co. A. of Milwaukee by one point; the score being 12 to 13. In the second and third quarters of the game between the New Butler Boosters and the Broennen Drugs, the score was a tie. The home team came out victorious in the last quarter, with a score of 16 to 17. The women, headed by Mrs. Hiram Davis, served the boys

SUGAR BEET MEN HOLD CONFERENCE WITH FACTORY MEN

PRICE OF $7 A TON WILL NOT PERMIT OF PROFIT, SAY ALL THE GROWERS.

At the request of John Herzog, president of the Southeastern Wisconsin Sugar Beet Growers' association, a conference was held in Milwaukee on March 9 to talk over the sugar beet situation for this season.

The sugar factories were represented by J. S. Lawson of the United States Sugar company and Dean Farley of the Wisconsin Sugar company. The growers were represented by J. M. Coyner of Jefferson county, H. C. Hemingway of Rock county, W. M. Hardiman of Waukesha County, Wm. Thompson of Kenosha county, Mr. zog and H. M. Armstrong, president a few months ago. FINDS FARMERS OPTIMISTIC

W. S. Halladay has just returned from an extended trip through central Wisconsin, where he was called to address several farm meetings on the subject of reclaiming depleted soils in Wisconsin. He reports that farmers are fast readjusting themselves to present conditions, and are making plans for the production of a bumper crop in 1921.

Farm labor is plentiful, and at prices greatly reduced from last year, able to secure permanent employment.

Walsh was a motor mechanic in the employe of the Eckstein-Miller Auto company and had been called out from Milwaukee to repair the car of Arthur C. Eirman to William Pauls, E Ramler, also a resident of Milwaukee, who was stalled near the village of Ixonia. After repairing the auto, Walsh started for home; Ramler following a short distance in the rear. It is thought that Walsh failed to see the train at the crossing, due to the stormy weather, and ran head-long into the moving train. The car turned completely over, pinning the driver Walter B. Engelhardt and wife, underneath. He was killed instantly. Coroner L. F.
