DEATHS.

Mrs. Henrietta Trow Hill.

Mrs. Henrietta Trow Hill was born in the township of Eagle, Waukesha county, Wisconsin, August 31, 1843, and died at the family home in Whitewater, Wisconsin, on Saturday, November 6, 1915. The funeral was held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, November 9th, from the family home in Whitewater to Oak Ridge cemetery, Eagle, Wis., where the mortal remains of our dear old friend were laid to rest near the spot where her father and mother are sleeping, and near so many old friends she had known so well in her lifetime and who have preceded her to that eternal home which even to us all, seems near each day.

Mrs. Hill was the eldest daughter of Thomas and Lucinda Vars Trow, pioneer residents of the town of Eagle. Thomas Trow, although of English parentage, was born in Wales, Great Britain, and came to America in the year 1833, landing in New York where he worked at his trade as weaver until 1843 when, after his marriage to Miss Lucinda Vars of Otsego, N. Y., they together came to Wisconsin and located on Melindey's Prairie where they lived for two years. In 1845 Mr. Trow exchanged farms with E. Moody and acquired what is now the beautiful home in school district No. 1, better known to us who live today as Palestine. Mr. Trow gave a name to a lake near where he first located, which will be of interest to us all who live today. We have been at a loss to know from whence originated the name of Silver Lake, where in boyhood days we spent so many happy hours. Well, it was named by our good old friend and neighbor, Thomas Trow the guardian of the writer of this article until he became of age.

Another daughter, Valeria, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Trow and after reaching womanhood was married to W. S. Sherman. Together they now reside in California. Valeria was unable to be present at the funeral of her only sister, which the writer sincerely regrets.

At the intersection of two roads about equal distance between North Prairie and Eagle is located the white school house known as District No. 1, which in 1854 replaced the log school house of earlier days and in which Mrs. Hill received her first instructions. The writer has taken the liberty to name it the Palestine University of the reason that many people who are doing their duty in the world, today, received their first and some of course all the learning they had to fit them for life's battle, in that old Palestine school house.

Charles Hill, the husband of Henrietta, still survives and is in good health, for which we are all truly thankful and we hope he will be permitted to remain with us for many years in the future. He was born in the town of Upwell, Cambridgeshire, England, December 31, 1836, came to America at the age of eighteen, located for a brief time in Fairfield, Herkimer county, New York. From there he came to Eagle in 1855 and on December 18, 1861, was married to Henrietta Trow, whose memory we now revere. After their marriage they located in Dunn county, Wis., and to tell the story of their experiences in those early days would require the whole front page of the Eagle Quill, so for the want of space, the story of the lives of these pioneers must be tersely written. In 1865 they came back to the town of Eagle and located on the old Treadway-Galpin-Baldwin farm at Palestine, where many years were spent, and well spent. Finally they removed to Whitewater where the family home now is, but never, no never, have they for a moment forgotten the old friends of other days.

Two children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Hill, viz.: Ellsworth E. and Lucinda, who in turn are proving themselves to be good citizens. Both children have families which also are a credit to their parents.

The love of the writer for this pioneer family would lead him to write on and on, so clear in his memory is the history of the past, but enough is said now that the body of Mrs. Hill is now at rest. Rev. Andrews, her pastor, said the final word that consigned her body to the tomb, and commended her spirit to God who gave it, and there we left her natural body in the hands of a Being that doeth all things well. Nor shall the memory of her consistent, trustful life be forgotten but it shall be an inspiration to others that "Seeing her good works, they may glorify our Father which is in heaven."

VOTES FOR WOMEN

This column is edited by Theodora W. Youmans, president of the Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association...

WILL TELL THEIR STORY.

The editor of this column is happy to be back at her post, and again plunged into home work.

The local suffrage society has arranged an entertainment at the Congregational church parlors next Saturday evening, November 13...

CONVENTION NEXT WEEK.

At the Pfister hotel in Milwaukee next week will be held the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association.

Waukesha suffragists are urged to attend as many as possible of these sessions. The future work in this state will be discussed and many important issues considered.

FACTS AND REFLECTIONS.

At the woman suffrage election in New York last week forty-two and one-half per cent of the voters voted in favor of giving the women of New York the ballot...

The same election which defeated the woman suffrage amendment in the Empire state defeated also, by a much larger majority, the new constitution proposed by the convention of which Senator Elihu Root was chairman...

Though the woman suffrage amendment did not carry, the campaign leaders felt that the great vote polled in favor of suffrage was a signal triumph.

The campaign in New York was not, I think, greatly different from the campaigns in other states except that the New York women were able to utilize all the experience of other states in former campaigns...

The value of street meetings was demonstrated with new force although no further demonstration was necessary.

The plan of the campaign was first to acquaint the voter with the fact that woman suffrage was an issue at the coming election...

A Message To Women

Those of Middle Age Especially.

When you have found no remedy for the horrors that oppress you during change of life, when through the long hours of the day it seems as though your back would break...

Read what these three women say:

From Mrs. Hornung, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—"I am writing to let you know how much your medicine has done for me. I failed terribly during the last winter and summer and every one remarked about my appearance."

"I was visiting at a friend's house one day and she thought I needed Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and have gained eight pounds, have a good appetite and am feeling better every day."

Made Me Well and Strong.

MACEDON, N. Y.—"I was all run down and very thin in flesh, nervous, no appetite, could not sleep and was weak, and felt badly all the time."

The Change of Life.

BELTSVILLE, MD.—"By the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I have successfully passed through a most trying time, the Change of Life."

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs...

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

frage organizations have been growing strong and resourceful. The Empire State Campaign committee, which directed the campaign, was made up of representatives of each of the seven political organizations in the state.

The plan of the campaign was first to acquaint the voter with the fact that woman suffrage was an issue at the coming election and second to influence him to favor woman suffrage.

The three main lines of effort were public meetings, largely in the open air; publicity through the newspapers and through literature; canvassing the individual voter.

The value of street meetings was demonstrated with new force although no further demonstration was necessary. Except through the newspapers there is no other way of reaching the voter which proves so satisfactory as the street meeting.

It is interesting to note that the campaign in New York was not, I think, greatly different from the campaigns in other states except that the New York women were able to utilize all the experience of other states in former campaigns...

A THANKSGIVING MESSAGE OF FIFTY YEARS AGO.

The gratitude of the people of Wisconsin as it was expressed at Thanksgiving time half a century ago, is reflected in the following message calling upon the people to recognize the day:

"A county racked and torn by the most bitter and terrible Civil war of modern times is once more at peace, and though still bleeding with wounds of the conflict, fast regaining its strength and once more sending forth to the world the beacon light of a free, happy and prosperous nationality."

"In our own state we have still more abundant cause for thankfulness. The earth has given her increase in return for the toil of the husbandman; our granaries are stocked with the products of the soil; our sons and brothers have returned to us from the fields of strife; health, plenty and happiness are in all our borders, and peace crowns all with her welcome presence."

"Go then from your places of business to the House of God on this Thanksgiving morning, and offer songs of praise to the Author of these beneficent gifts."

AUDITORIUM.

"Lyman H. Howe Day" at Moving Picture Exposition.

In recognition of the sheer excellence of the films of the Panama-California Exposition made by Lyman H. Howe the exhibition officials set aside "Lyman H. Howe Day" which was fittingly observed on July 7th at the wonderful plazas and avenues of the great exposition at San Diego.

"These pictures depict the principal incidents of the day to day operation of the great waterway now open for the commerce of the world."

"The scene in the series of moving pictures which Mr. Howe has the honor to present to you show each step in the passing of a modern steamer through the canal both at the Pacific and Atlantic entrances, their passage in both directions through the Great Gatun Locks, Gatun Lake, Culebra Cut, Pedro Miguel Locks, Miraflores Lake and the Miraflores Locks."

"The picture gives one the experience of passing through the canal and also of being at the helm of the ship. These films are passing. They also show U. S. army life on the canal."

"These moving picture records of the Panama canal are enclosed in a copper box which is so sealed that the films should be in excellent state of preservation when they are intended to be opened in 1965 and viewed by the people of San Diego, California."

Hundreds of people followed the automobiles about the grounds while Howe's photographers were filming the splendors of the exposition.

Another distinct achievement in motion photography included in the program, but of an entirely different and more intimate character, is a series of delightful child life in Holland.

ride through quaint Bruges in Belgium, past stately and time-honored edifices and underneath innumerable bridges from which the city derives its name.

Furthermore, a wealth of humor and mirth will be embodied in the program by those ever popular animated cartoons which, as created by Howe's merry-making artists, are always hailed with delight.

MARRIED.

Dresdow-Schumacher. The home of Mrs. A. Schumacher in the town of Mukwonago was the scene of a very pretty wedding when her daughter, Margaret, was married to George L. Dresdow, of Area, Ill., the Rev. William Diehm officiating.

The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of ferns, smilax and white asters, to which the bride party passed through aisles of ribbon held by Charley Dabe and Louis Dresdow.

The bride was attired in a very handsome gown of white crepe du chene, with white velvet and pearl trimmings. She wore a tulle veil, caught up by lilies of the valley, and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

The groom is a graduate of the Wisconsin university and holds a prominent position with the Kee & Chapel Dairy company at Area, where they will make their future home.

FIRE COST FARMERS OF WISCONSIN $1,000,000 A YEAR.

MORE than $1,000,000 goes up in smoke every year in Wisconsin as a result of fires which happen in our homes. A big per cent of this loss comes to farmers. This is the time of year when we should look out for fires. It will pay any farmer to be protected with a fire extinguisher. These extinguishers cost a small sum and experience has proved that in a very great number of cases fires are confined by them to a small area.

The fire losses this summer in the country were not so great as usual on account of the wet season, but we have had quite a little dry weather and the time has come for having fires in the home. A warning has been sent out by Mr. J. Cleary, insurance commissioner and fire marshal at Madison. He says that about half of the fires in dwellings are caused by defective chimneys. It is a fact that we do not often think about cleaning out the chimney. Chimneys should be built from the foundation of the house up. They should not have any crooks or turns in them and should never be used to support joists or other woodwork. In planning for your new home make the chimney-flue big enough so that it will carry away the smoke without stuffing up. A great many fires can be prevented, and the preventive measures are even more important in the country than in town, for the reason that farmers do not have any fire departments which they can call out on short notice.

MILWAUKEE NOW GOES MUNICIPAL MARKET A POINT IN ADVANCE.

AT THE present time we hear much comment on the poor system of marketing in this country. We are, as a people, entirely dissatisfied with the present means that the producer has for reaching the consumer. In our larger social centers an effort has been made to produce a means of bringing people in closer touch by establishing public markets. Successful as these markets are, however, there still remains a large percentage that are not at all met by this system of distribution.

The present public market in the city of Milwaukee in part supplies the demands of that class where the woman in the home has considerable leisure time which she may devote toward making an effort to get her products through that source. In the homes of the large middle class, however, where the housekeeper is so exceedingly busy that she cannot afford to expend the energy, nor the time that is necessary to pay a personal visit to the public market at the time that she may desire fresh vegetables, there is absolutely no connection between the housewife and the farmer.

The reason why this condition is becoming more intense today than it had been formerly is because the farmers in the immediate proximity of large cities are pursuing a different system of agriculture.

Farmers Quit Delivering.

There was a time, and that quite recently, when the farmers within driving distance of the city of Milwaukee converted all of their dairy product into butter and marketed same regularly in that form. Under this system of marketing it was not only necessary for the farmer to make a regular trip to Milwaukee once a week, but he also had a chance to supply his product to regular customers. Thus he became intimately acquainted with a certain percentage of Milwaukee consumers who not only depended upon him for their supply of butter, but for their supply of vegetables as well. This oftentimes gave farmers an opportunity to furnish a first-class product to the consumer who appreciated it and consequently was willing to pay a few cents above the market price.

Since then conditions on the farm have changed very decidedly and our farmer today is not making his regular trips to the city, because his perishable dairy product, in the form of milk, is picked up at his front door every morning by a general collecting wagon. The result has been that the system of marketing referred to above, which was so very desirable, especially from the standpoint of the consumer, has been entirely eliminated.

Organize for Distribution.

A certain class of better farmers of Milwaukee county who recently organized themselves under the name of the Milwaukee County Agricultural Experiment association have realized that the present system of marketing a high-class farm product is decidedly unsatisfactory, because it is extremely hard to single out the consumer who appreciates high quality. The result is that the farmer priding himself on the production of a high-class product is put in a position where he has to compete with the most unscrupulous of his class. On the other hand, the consumer, not having an opportunity to become intimately acquainted with the producer, forms a general opinion of the integrity of the farmer and treats them all equally, to the decided disadvantage of the producer who is interested in living up to a better reputation and a higher standard.

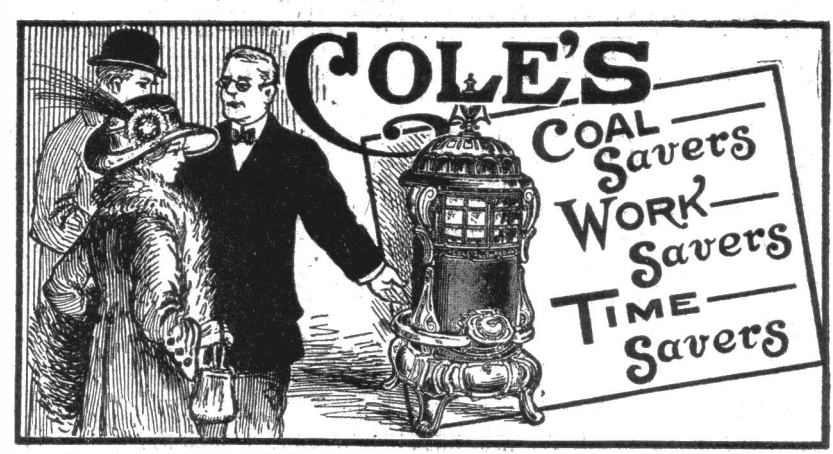

To overcome this condition the association above mentioned has gone on record as being interested in establishing a sort of center, through which they can market their products under a guarantee. The place logically chosen for this center is the Milwaukee County School of Agriculture and Domestic Economy, an institution which has at heart the interests of both farmer and consumer. The definite plan has since been worked out in such detail that if carefully followed should mean a wonderful success.

Label Protects Sellers.

The details are as follows: The association has a label, which is to be attached to all high-grade products marketed by any member of that organization. These labels have a number which on the secretary's record correspond to the name of the individual producer. The intention is to have the consumer avail himself of the advantages of this tag by requiring the product marketed under same to be strictly high class. If said product is found to be wanting the consumer has an opportunity to get some redress by forwarding a complaint to the secretary of the association established at the agricultural school; said complaint will then be investigated and if it is found that some member of the organization is establishing an undesirable reputation his name will be stricken from the list. This, as will be readily seen, will give the middle class consumer an opportunity to get the grade of farm products that they desire and get them first hand.

In Touch by Phone.

Another reason why this plan can be carried out successfully at this time is because practically every farmer, as well as every city consumer interested in this scheme, can be reached by telephone. This makes it possible for the consumer to express his wants

It has clearly proven that fuel is wasted in heating up heavy, useless cast iron ornaments.

It has unmistakably demonstrated that Cole's Hot Blast principle is true fuel economy—that its air tight draft control makes one ton of hard coal do as much as two tons in an air leaking representative of the old style heater.

If you are seeking fuel economy and heating efficiency, you have no other possible choice than this remarkable heater.

Take it from us that it has no equal. You will waste time to "shop around." We know and are telling you straight.
