DEATH OF ALMINA SALISBURY DRAPER.

Her Life an Inspiration to Her Friends.

Tuesday evening, Sept. 15, the end of life came to Almina Salisbury Draper at her home here, where she had lived for forty-three years.

Mrs. Draper was born at Troy Center, January 11, 1849. She married George Meadway and came to Eagle in 1871, where he died in 1884. In 1887 she married Francis Draper, who, with three daughters, survives her—Mrs. M. S. Bovee of Corvallis, Oregon; Mrs. H. Madigan of Spokane, Wash., and Miss Lila at home. She also leaves an aged mother, Mrs. never before been separated. Funeral Keziah Salisbury, from whom she had services were held at the home Sunday afternoon with interment in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Mrs. Draper was an inspiration to her family, friends, and to her community. Hers was the broader view that finds the best in all things, ever ready to join in others' joys as well as sorrows. She gave freely of her time and strength to those about her—a most devoted daughter, wife and mother. Her life was truly a benediction to all who were privileged to know her. One always felt the force of her happy personality and it did not lessen as she felt the slow oncoming ill health that has been hers the last four years and which she tried so bravely to overcome.
