IDA SHERMAN WRITES OF SUNNY CALIFORNIA

Eagle Quill and Readers, a Happy

New Year to all. Our first Christmas and New Years in the land of sunshine, flowers, palms and orange groves. When my mother and I left our home on Dec 22 we had had eleven or more days of gloomy weather followed by cold weather and ice. Upon arriving in Chicago we found more snow than I had even seen before. In order to clear the streets for traffic they were obliged to shovel the snow into trucks and box cars and dump it into the lake to be melted and drank. It is then that we appreciated our famous Waukesha water.

Leaving Chicago at 8:15 p.m. over the Santa Fe line we arrived in Kansas City Monday at 8:15 a.m. It was snowing a little but getting warmer. After leaving the state of Kansas we saw pretty scenery. At Albuquerque, New Mexico, we stopped off the train for a breath of fresh air. Here it was cooler than I had found it before. At Winslow, Arizona, it was warmer and we realized we were in a warmer climate. At the Flagstaff I began to feel the high altitude and the road bed was becoming very rough so that we could scarcely walk into the dining car for supper.

It did not seem like Christmas Eve to us although much Christmas decoration and many Christmas trees were seen along the way. The western cities greatly manifested the Chirstmas spirit. Wednesday morning, Christmas Day, we arrived in Los Angeles. 9:15 a.m., amid flowers, ferns and palms. One could hardly realize it was Christmas morning, it was too bright and warm. We were met at the station and taken to the home of a friend where Christmas dinner was awaiting. At 2 p. m. we drove south by auto to Santa Ana, stopping at Fuller-to to call upon the Angell family, former residents of Eagle. Mr. Angell was not very well, but was very greatly surprised to see us. It was colored lights as were the larger Christmas trees throughout the city, making a most gorgeous sight long to be remembered. On New Years Day we were taken by friends to Pasadena, truly a paradise on earth, where we saw the famous Rose tournament which one must see in order to appreciate its grandeur. There were 137 entries. The floats which portrayed different themes were made of natural flowers, some consisting of over a million buds and blossoms. The prize winning theme, "The Glendale Float," commemorating the gold rush of '98 depicted two miners traveling through the mountains on the trail to Klondike. One plunges ahead on snowshoes, pick and shovel over his shoulder and pack on his back, while his partner follows with the dog team and sled laden with supplies. The float was 70 feet long, 15 fet high, 15 feet wide. The river was real water flowing down the mountain which was made of violets, carnations, heather and candytuft. The Aurora Borealis was roses, sweet peas, chrysanthemums and calendulas. The body of the float was carnations, violets and candytuft; the trail was bronze chrysanathemums. The sled was roses, plumosis, orchids and maiden hair fern. The dogs were hether, chrysanthemums and roses. The letters were carnations and snapdragons; the icicles were white carnations and delphinium. The skirt of the float was of Oregon grapes. The costumes for the men were plumosis, cornflowers, chrysanthemuums and carnations. The Beverly Hills float, representing the end of the rainbow was awarded the grand sweepstake. It was pronounced the most beautiful float ever participating in the tournament. It depicts Beverly Hills, with beautiful mansions and artistic terraces, crowned by a brilliantly colored rainbow in the arch of which was a huge red flowered heart that opened and closed, disclosing "The Fountain of Happiness." Both the front and back of the float were identical, galox leaves and more than 20,000 roses being used to form wide steps leading up to the central figure and the body of the float. Rays, comprised of carnations and ferns, emanated from the center of the heart, the inside of which was made of leaves of the galox and the outside of deep red sweet peas Four pots of gold, covered by blue cornflowers, rested at corners in the center of the float, yellow pompom-covered discs depicting gold coins pouring from the overturned pots. At each corner were miniatures of recently completed Beverly Hill mansions, constructed according to scale. It was estimated that between 300,000 radio. Upon our return home we called upon some Waukesha friends and the Angell family, where we met Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Angell of Rosemond, Calif., my former schoolmate.

A mile of Chirstmas trees. Thus ended this delightful day of sunshine. roses, palms and fruit. Our first New Year's day in California, Jan. 1, 1930.

With best of wishes from IDA SHERMAN.

DR. WARD DIES IN MILWAUKEE

Prominent Physician Was Member of "Old School"

Dr. J. P. Ward, 71, one of the few remaining physicians of the "old school" in this vicinity, died at St. Mary's hospital at 1:30 a. m. today. He was taken ill on January 4 and was removed to the hospital for treatment.

As was customary among country doctors in former years, but much less evident today, Dr. Ward was counselor and adviser to his patients in things other than those pertaining to his profession. He knew of their family difficulties, their sorrows and happiness and by these people with whom he was most intimate his loss is most felt.

John Ward was born in the town of Lisbon, Aug. 15, 1859, and his father, Bartholomew, was one settlers in th

LANNON VOTES INCORPORATION

NUMBER: 22

Waukesha County Now Has Fourteen Villages

Residents of Lannon Tuesday went to the polls and by a vote of 116 to 6 ratified the incorporation of 300 acres of land into a village. The vote makes the order of Judge C. M. Davison, dated Dec. 16, 1929, permanent. The court at that time granted a petition of Lannon residents asking for the incorporation.

Papers must now be filed and officers elected. This will require 30 days, after which Lannon will officially be recognized as Waukesha county's fourteenth village.

A petition which was heard a year ago was denied by the court upon grounds that too much land was encompassed by the petition, there being some 640 acres. The five petitioners who are instigators of the incorporation, however, were not discouraged by their first defeat and set about again to incorporate. This time the land was cut down to approximately 300 acres, including 388 residents.

The movement to incorporate was begun when the town of Menomonee refused to provide the community of Lannon with lighting. Lack of protection was also felt. Within the limits there are a. postoffice, two stores, meat market, barber shop, garage and one of the Lannon Stone companies. The incorporation will place a new representative on the county board, making the number 40.

Legion to Hold Annual Mask Ball

The annual Legion masquerade to be held Friday, Jan. 31, will be one of the biggest evnts of the season and will eclipse in size any masquerade ever held in this city, according to George Strang, chairman of the arrangements committee.

Many new features will be introduced to make this ball interesting to everyone. One of the features will be the offering of a great many prizes for the spectators as well as the maskers. Over $200 in cash and merchandise prices will be awarded. Assisting Mr. Strang are the follegionnaires: lowing Arthur Schmoller, John Rosenmerkel, Allen Williams, Oscar Highley, R. E. Kenney, Thomas Larson, Harold Shafer and Ed. Goerke.

ing constructed of stone. The music was furnished by 30 bands aggregating 1,200 musicians interspersed between the floats. The fife and drum corps consisted of 200 pieces. The girls' band of Taft high school appealed to me greatly, 50 in number very richly costumed in purple and white silk with purple capes and bonnets. Their music was charming with good rythmn. They marched with martial appearance. Some of the bands came from distant cities and one from Nevada. It took two hours for the line of march. It was estimated that it was viewd by over one million people. After our picnic dinner in a park we were driven to a mountain side where we had a splendid view of the Rose Bowl, where the east and west football game was being played between the Pittsburgh Panthers and the Southern California Trojans. Hotel Fire Caused by Explosion of Gin

MILWAUKEE - Officials of Milwaukee were undecided today as to what action, if any, they might take against Ernest W. Clester, Chicago, a window trim-mer, who was said to have admited that a fire in the Wisconsin hotel was caused by the explosion of a pint of bootleg gin in his room

Officials said Clester admitted Saturday morning the blaze which sent more than 150 guests into the streets scantily clothed started when he spilled some gin on a lighted cigarette and then dropped the bottle when he became excited.

Investigate Cause Fuel Oil Tank Blast

MILWAUKEE—An investigation to determine the cause of the explosion of a 30,000 gallon fuel oil tank here was under way today.

The tank, owned by the Quality Oil company, was ripped open and 8,000 gallons of the 30,00 gallons of oil gushed away. Elmer Klowitter and William Schultz, employes who had left the tank only a minute before the blast, saved 22.000 gallons of oil by siphoning the liquid.

L. A. Kern, manager, said coils were run through the tank to heat the oil but said the coil system was safe and could not have caused the blast. The explosion was heard for several miles.

cessful Mens' banquet was served by the men of the community in the M. E. church, Friday, Jan. 10. The church was tastefully decorated, the tables also being decorated to match the building. At 6:30 the people took their seats at the tables. A bell rang, which was the signal for some sliding doors to be opened. The supper itself spoke eloquently of the skill of the gastronomers, Messrs. Hearst and Baxter. Approximately 200 people sat down to supper. The eevning program included Elmer Kurtz at the piano, Hubert Kipp displaying his elocutionary skill, Ormel Hinkley causing the audience to wonder, through his impersonation, how the committee ever managed to get so eminent a person as Sir Harry Lauder to contribute items, Jack Von Johnson with his Hans Schneider band "fresh from Germany," Oliver Tucker causing the minds of people to soar to realms unknown on the strains of the violin, and the Rev. W. B. Petherick, the pastor, concluding with a peppy talk on "Influence."

Pair Robbed Mail Boxes and Cashed Checks: Innocent Wife is Freed

With Waukesha as their head-quarters, Ceasar Fee, 26, the Little Lord Fauntleroy of 20 years ago, and Edmund R. Waybrant of Houston, Tex., came to the end yester-day afternoon of a new "racket" that gave them a good living merely by opening letters that were not their own. If the letters had checks in them all was well, the checks were endorsed and cashed. If there was any doubt in the minds of tellers as to who the bearer was, the letter accompanying the check was promptlly shown as reference.

A tip Thursday afternoon from the Milwaukee police department led sheriff forces here to the Waukesha hotel where Waybrant and his innocent, pretty wife of a few months were trapped and turned over to authorities in Milwaukee Little Lord Fauntleroy-shades of the past-had tattled and uncovered the hiding place.

Dousman Man Faces Bad Check Charges

MILWAUKEE - John C. Haupt, 44, of Dousman, Wis., was arrested here today and charged with cashing two worthless checks.

The checks were cashed in banks and the cashiers who gave Haupt the money without investigating the applicant became the objects of considerable mirth on the part of their fellow employes.

Haupt made himself so amusing in the role of a farm hand that the cashiers did not question his honesty. He pretended he had never been in a bank before, was awe stricken at the display of business equipment, said that he was the state champion milker. displayed a scar on his cheek "to prove he had been kicked by a cow," said that he wanted to deposit some money and also wanted to buy winter flannels and such."

Two grinning cashiers accepted the checks after whispering the word about to their fellow employes "to just take a look at the hayseed outside." In a third bank the cashier noticed that the check presented him was made out and endorsed in the same handwriting and called the police.

Storm Cost Counted in More Than 30 Deaths

CHICAGO-The cost of the winter's second wide-spread major snowstorm was counted in more than 30 lives, scores of injured and many thousands of dollars property damage over the western twothirds of the nation today.

With a deep blanket of white on the ground, occasional flurries of snow added to the burden. Traffic moved at belated pace by rail, highway and street, while air mail planes braved snow-foamy sky lines and treacherous landing fields. Most commerical flying was at a standstill.

Every section of the mid-west, west and southwest was included in the scope of the storm. Snow fell in the upper central states for 48 hours, attaining a depth of 20 inches in several places.

City and County Roads Are Cleared of Drifts

Having hardly recovered from a blizzard that hit this city Thursday another storm commenced today that threatened to be as successful in slowing up traffic as the first.

Seven trucks and a gang of 25 men worked throughout the night cleaning the downtown streets. City Engineer Arthur Schuh said that by nightfall the entire city will have been gone over once at least. He said the snow today was not bad since it was light and would not pack.

A great wall of snow that had been taken from the streets was piled along the river front near Barstow st.

All county roads Highway Commissioner Charles Hahn said today, are open. Highway 55 and 41 near Menominee Falls were badly drifted following the storm last night but trucks and men have cleared the way again for traffic.

CHICAGO WASTE IS "SHOWN UP"

Declares Graft Money Would Buy Plenty

CHICAGO-(U.P.) - Every family in Chicago and Cook county could buy a new automobile every year with the funds wasted in misgovernment and eaten up by graft and racketeering was the manifesto of E. J. Davis, superintendent of the better government association, flung at Mayor William Hale Thompson and the city council today as they wrangled over the city's financial woes.

Urging election of a county board that would act through a "the special grand jury to stop criminal waste of public funds by all local governments in Chicago and Cook county," Davis pointed to a total indebtedness of "more than a half billion dollars" and an annual toll on each family of $800 as the penalty the people are paying.

He declared the cost of running the various local governments has increased $350,000,000 in 10 years, th annual toll of racketeers is $136,000,000 and the yearly cost of crime is $150,000,000.

While the Better Business association superintendent was laying the blame for the present monetary flasco at the doors of the governing bodies, the city council was slowly wrestling the upper hand from the mayor, who threw a bombshell into aldermanic ranks by vetoing $37,425,060 of the "econ-omy bulget" of $55,272,205.

In uproarious council meetings yesterday and last night, climaxed by near fist fights, name calling and hissing, the rebellious councilmen drew two men from the Thompson ranks to their side in a vote to go into committee of the whole. The committee will attempt to trim enough out of appropriations not vetoed by the mayor to sustain essential departments such as police, fire, health, electricity and street cleaning.

Citizens in general were more, interested in what Davis had to say than in the councilmanic imbroglio. He set down in black and white a reason for the pinch felt in homes and business houses throughout the country.

MANY ATTEND SERVICES FOR MSGR. MILLER

The church was draped in black and white and lighted by tall wax candles in black holders. The Reverend Father Miller lay in state just below the high altar in a simple metallic casket with twelve tall candles burning at the head. During the interim before services many friends passed up the center aisle of the church and viewed the remains. These priests recited the divine office of the dead. Shortly before 10 o'clock, acolytes clad in black and white entered the sanctuary and lighted the tall candles upon the high altar. Came to Wisconsin

Fee, who delighted audiences in his role of the good little boy when he was six years old. todar admitted that he had gone to Texas with $300 last September that the manager of the Tower theatre, Milwaukee, gave him to deposit in the bank for the company. In Texas he met Waybrant who soon after married a pretty southern girl. Fee and Waybrant plotted together, stole an automobile and came to Wisconsin. Mrs. Waybrant was pleased with the new shiny car that her husband had bought, she believed, and was delighted when she was told they were going to live for a time in Waukesha. Waybrant told her he was working for a moving picture company and that his duties took them away to Milwaukee and neighboring cities during the day.

Fee and Waybrant rented two rooms. One served as the living quarters for Waybrant and his wife. The other was used as the "office." After making the rounds of Milwaukee apartment houses each day, the two would return to Waukesha and go through the mail that had been taken from apartment house boxes. More than 100 checks were picked up in that way, the two have admitted to Milwaukee police. Of course there were other letters, too, and Undersheriff Arthur Moran yesterday found a suitcase filled with gas bills, electric light bills and statements of scores of other accounts.

Heard Conversation

The end came this week when Fee and Waybrant each purchased a camel hair coat in an exclusive men's shop in Milwaukee. Two days elapsed and the checks which covered the cost of the coats were returned to Toepfer and Bel-lack's clothing store. Thursday Arthur Wiseman, a clerk, recognized the stylish coats on the two men and remembered, too, that the checks had been returned marked "payment stopped." He notified police and Fee was arrest-Waybrant escaped in a stolen ed. car.

At central police headquarters Fee was forced to tell where Waybrant was living. Perhaps it was the "good little boy" of yesterday in him that made him say his pal was living in Waukesha.

In the meantime the hotel clerk here was instructed to "listen in" on conversations over the telephone. Finally he heard, "Hurry, dear. we're leaving town right away. I will call for you in a few minutes."

Mrs. Waybrant packed in haste, believing that her husband had received notice from his company to move to different quarters, but when he did come it was in the company of local officials.

By early Saturday morning all roads will have been cleared, including even the side roads that are not heavily travelled.

KOHLER BLOCKS HUCKINS CASE

Governor Wishes to Handle Extradition Personally

MADISON, Wis.-(U.P.) - Attempt te return Elmer S. Huckins to Cedar Rapids, Ia., to face charges of obtaining money under false pretenses was blocked, temporarily at least, today by Gov. Walter J. Kohler.

Sheriff Harry Manchester and County Attorney Carl Hendrickson of Cedar Rapids were forced to return without the man whose mysterious business had paid some investors 26 and 52 per cent when Governor Kohler indicated that he wished to handle the case personally.

The governor returned to his in Kohler yesterday from home Rochester, Minn., where he underwent an operation three weeks ago. During his absence from the state Lieut. Gov. Henry A. Huber served as governor. Iowa authorities who presented Gov. John Hammill's request for Huckins today had hoped that Huber would conduct the extradition hearing, inasmuch as Governor Kohler could not be present.

When consultation with Governor Kohler revealed that he wished to handle the case himself, the officers were forced to return without their man. A hearing before Governor Kohler is expected in about two weeks.

INDIANS HAVE PLENTY OF VENISON THIS YEAR

SHAWANO, Wis.-Indians in the Menominee reservation are having little trouble this winter in providing food for themselves and their squaws because of the abundance of deer.

The state game laws do not apply to the Indians on the reservation and even the oldest "bucks" have been able to provide their families with venison. More than 150 deer have been shot by the Indians since last fall.

White hunters sometimes violate the laws by going into the reservation for shooting. Many have been fined for this practice. Indians often chase deer off their own lands and thus subject themselves to arrest.

Forest fires in northern counties drove many deer to this region last fall and are held responsible for the abundance of game.

DE FOREST, Wis .- Fire of unknown origin last night completely destroyed the two story frame building here which for several years has housed the De Forest bank. All cash, securities and records of the bank were saved.

ders and wearing the black hats with scarlet tassels, significant of their high office.

These prelates took places prepared for them in the sanctuary and held lighted candles in their hands during the services. The acolytes who assisted the priests during the service were all boys who are now studying for the priesthood at St. Francis seminary. Immediately before mass was begun, the casket was closed and the sacred chalice and the stole used by Father Miller in the celebration of holy mass so many times were placed upon it where they remained until the service was over.

Solemn requiem high mass was sung by the children's choir of St. Joseph's school.

Monsignor James Cleary of Min-neapolis, a life long friend of Father Miller, delivered the sermon in which he spoke highly of him as a priest and as a citizen. He said, "Christ himself taught that the work of religion was a work of teaching and in this respect Father Miller carried out to a marked degree this injunction. "His life's work centered in teaching a workable religion to all those who came into his care." He lauded him also as a public spirited citizen whose influence for good was strongly felt throughout the entire community. His good influence will be felt throughout the years to come and will be a lasting tribute to the man who gave so freely of himself. His was a career of many sides. He baptized the infants, married the young, buried the dead and comforted the sorrowful. Rev. Cleary said also that Father Miller was highly regarded among all classes not only in Waukesha but throughcut a radius of many miles.

Provers for Dead

When mass was finished and the Liberia sung, Monsignor Traudt led the attendants in a few prayers for the dead after which the adult choir sang and the clergy in attendance retired to the parish hall to prepare for the journey to the cemetery.

During the recessional which was led by acolytes, one beariing a large black cross and three carrying long lighted tapers, the adult choir sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The pall bearers stepped into place and escorted the casket to the hearse awaiting at the main entrance to the church. Relatives and friends formed a steady stream to the waiting cars and many hundred accompanied the body to St. Joseph's cemetery where was conducted a simple and brief service at the open grave.

The crowd was so great that special police were stationed both out-side and inside the church and kept the traffic shut off for a block ISABEL H. ENGLAND E. B. OBENDROTH, Directors.

SNOW PLOW IS

Accident Takes Place Near Pick's Roadhouse Early This Morning

One man was killed, another injured and three escaped unhurt early this morning on Highway 19 when an automobile, driven by Clarence Rusch. 382—42nd street, Milwaukee, crashed into an improvised snow plow that was being used to clear snow from the parking place of Sam Pick's roadhouse near the Milwaukee county line.

Irwin Scholl, 33, a waiter, who, with three others, was manning hte plow, died of a punctured lung in the Milwaukee county hospital. James Heisdorf, 1467 North Pierce st., Milwaukee, received a broken ankle. The driver of the car, as well as two others who were on the plow, was not hurt.

According to the report, Sam Pick was driving the automobile that pulled the plow. The car was driven across the double highway in order to turn the plow around and enter the parking space and was on the south side of the road, or east-bound highway, when Rusch's automobile appeared coming over the small crest where the St. Paul road tracks cross the highway. He was travelling east. The automobile hit the plow squarely and carried it and the men for, a hundred feet.

Scholl, who lived at 1509 Fourth street, Milwaukee, was nearly dead when he was picked up and died shortly after in Milwaukee.

Sheriff Phil Herbrand, who was called to the scene shortly, after the crash occurred, said that Rusch must have been driving at a high rate of speed. Neither could he see the plow until he was very near it because of the rise in the road just to the west of the roadhouse

KOHLER WILL NOT RETURN TO CAPITOL FOR FEW DAYS

HUNTERS BAG Two red foxes

Third Eludes Capture by Entering Game Refuge

Spurred on by the success of others, a party of fifteen hunters with as many dogs, was successful in bagging two red foxes in the county over the week-end. One was shot late Saturday by Lyle Watters, of Mapleton, and the other Sunday by Mike Gehl, of Stone Bank. Both were brought to Waukesha today and County Clerk William Koehler paid the usual bounty of $2 each. Dominic Klink, who a week ago bagged one of the crafty animals, was in the party that was successful yesterday.

Besides the two that were killed Saturday and Sunday, a third ehided capture by dashing into a game refuge near Ashippun in Dodge county and refused to be coaxed out. Unable to enter the refuge with their guns, unless they were knocked down, the party gave up the chase and followed the one that was finally overtaken. Hunters Get Wolves

The fox which Watters killed was first scented north of Oconomowoc. It was chased deep into the town of Merton before becoming so fatigued that the dogs overtook it. The one yesterday was shot north of Oconomowoc.

The red fox hunters, expressed the belief that as far as wolves are concerned, there are no more in Waukesha county, but that several more red foxes will meet their death before the winter ends.

Yesterday near Richfield in the vicinity of Cedar Lake and Cedarburg three wolves were shot by hunters numbering nearly 100. The animals weighed between 40 and 50 pounds and were the largest to be shot in southern Wisconsin in vears.

IDELITY, INDEMNITY and

of Taking Bribes MILWAUKEE-Ben G. Finke,

Agent Found Guilty

Minneapolis prohibition agent who formerly was an ace of the federal force here, today faced the possibility of a $10,000 fine or five years' imprisonment for accepting bribes to protect bootlegging interests.

The federal jury which tried Finke on five counts of accepting bribes returned a verdict Sunday evening nullifying four of the counts but finding Finke guilty of the fifth, that of taking $1,000 from Joseph Pessin and Ralph West for allowing a truckload of alcohol to pass through West Allis the night of Nov. 8, 1928.

The jury had been out since Friday afternoon, a long delay being caused by the sudden illness of Martin B. Munroe, Hartford, one of the jurors. Munroe was stricken with what appeared to be appendicitis Friday evening and was under the care of a physician until Sunday, the other eleven jurors remaining locked in two hotel rooms in the meantime.

Pleas for a new trial were expected when Finke was arraigned to receive sentence today.

The charges of which Finke was acquitted were that during each of the last four months of 1928 he accepted $300 bribe money from Pessin for protection of a still at Oconomowoc. Pessin testified that he was not interested in the still himself, but had acted as go-between for Finke and the owners. The experience of the jury in remaining out for 52 hours was said today to be the most unusual in the history of federal juries here. Only nine hours of this time was spent in deliberation, the remainder being spent awaiting the recovery of Munroe. The other men were taken for short walks and allowed to play cards, but were not Another roomer found the baby's body and police were summoned. After being questioned by the police, Miss Skube drank poison, but at Emergency hospital here today it was said that her condition was much improved and that she would recover.
