MASS IS SAID BY POPE FOR RUSSIA'S GOOD

Ceremony Attracts Thousands of Pilgrims; Issue Special Prayers

By Edward A. Storer

United Press Staff Correspondent VATICAN CITY -(UP)- Pope Pius XI today signalized the crusade of the Roman Catholic church against Soviet Russia's godless movement, by saying a solemn mass of expiation and atonement "for profanation of the church and offenses against the majesty of God

The ceremony, which attracted thousands of pilgrims from all sections of Italy, and to which all cardinals in Rome received special invitations, took place in the beautiful St. Peter's basilica.

A special booklet, containing prayers and hymns appropriate to the occasion, was issued to the worshippers.

The magnificient basilica had been prepared with wooden barricades to maintain order and to permit the great crowds, estimated at 50,000, to view the proceedings.

Cardinals Attend Every cardinal able to attend the mass was present, with brilliantly uniformed dignitaries and many foreign envoys.

As the Pope began intoning the gious edifice in Italy rang out their solemn response to his call to the Christian crusade.

Knights of Malta sat in their special box, their red uniforms, reminiscent of European generals of the 19th century making a brilliant splash of color in the ensemble. Members of the chief religious orders in Rome sat in another Tribune, while the diplomatic corps were seated in a specially reserved and draped box. Two companies of Swiss guards were detailed to keep order in various parts of the basilica. Arrival of the Pope in the church was signalized by blasts from silver trumpets, and the great congregation turned its eves to the chapel of the Holy Sacrament where the figure of Pius XI, high on his "sedia gestatoria," appeared over the heads of the people, borne by the pontifical chair-bearers.

The vast congregation broke into enthusiastic cheers as the pontiff approached.

For the first time ever known in connection with a Papal function, a collection was taken. This was done, not in the basilica, but outside the great doors of St. Peter's, at the conclusion of the ceremony.

Scores of young women associated with Catholic organizations held out collection bags to the departing congregation, on which were written, "Offerings for confessions of the faith in Russia."

Similar collections were made at all other churches of Rome. The money will be devoted to the relief of Catholics who have suffered from adverse conditions in Soviet Russia.

At the conclusion of the mass. sacred relics, consisting of what is claimed to be a portion of the true cross, and of St. Veronica's veil. were exhibited to the worshippers.

Photograph New Planet at Yerkes Observatory

LAKE GENEVA, Wis.-The new Trans-Neptunian planet was sighted and photographed by University of Chicago astronomers at Yerkes observatory last night.

The photographs were forwarded to the university today at the direction of Prof. George Van Biesbroeck, acting director.

"How this planet escaped detection all these years is easily apparent," the professor said. "It is so extremely faint that under the closest observation its movement is scarcely discernible and hence it has every appearance of a fixed

GUN-TOTING IS NEW POBLEM

Chicago Gangsters Plead Self Defense

CHICAGO—(U.P.) — The right of Chicago gangsters to bear arms to protect themselves may have to be decided by the supreme court. So many underworld characters have walked out of court free after being arrested for carrying concealed weapons that the state's at-torney's office has decided something may be wrong with the law.

Illinois has a law against guntoting. It is virtually the same as the one under which "Scarface" Al Capone spent ten months in prison in Pennsylvania, but in Illinois there are complications in its enforcement that Pennsylvania seems to have escaped.

Frank Diamond, one of Capone's lieutenants, was arrested a few days ago while carrying a loaded revolver. He went into court, proved that the arresting officer did not have a search warrant, and was set free. Others have been released on the plea that their lives were in jeopardy if they appeared in public without their guns.

Today the state's attorney's office has had Frank Diamond reindicted with the hope of carrying his case to the supreme court for a ruling on whether policemen have to obtain search warrants before they can slap gangsters on their pistol holsters and place them under ar-

Big Joe Saltis, cock of the southside beer walk, is the only well known hoodlum Chicago has ever sent to prison for carrying a gun. Big Joe spent 60 days in the Bridewell and then "retired" from the beer wars to his estate in Wiscon-

Before "taking the rap" for guntoting Saltis appealed to the su-preme court. In upholding his conviction the court said:

"The testimony of the witnesses that the revolver was found concealed on his (Saltis') person was received without objection and showed that the defendant was

Prosecutors construed the phrase "without objection" to mean that had Saltis objected the conviction would have been reversed. Other legal authorities believe the supreme court had no such intention, ut the state's attorney has decided to send another case to the higher court in the hope of obtaining a clearer statement on the intention

POLICEMAN ON WITNESS STAND

Says Girl and Lover Tried

NEW CASTLE, Pa.—(U.P.) — William Kiessling, a St. Louis, Mo., policeman ando surprise witness for the state in the trial of Irene Schroeder, charged with the murder of Corporal Brady Paul, Pennsylvania highway policeman, tes-tified today that Irene and W. Glenn Dague, her lover, attempted to shoot him on the streets of St. Louis when he attempted to halt their escape from New Castle after Paul was slain.

Kiessling went on the stand and told a detailed story of a night gun battle with the fleeing pair.

His coat, with three bullet holes in it, was shown in evidence. was patrolling the streets when I saw them in the business section," he said. "I saw someone was trying to conceal himself in the car. They passed me and I could not stop them but they seemed to answer the description in the police bulletin.

'They passed me a second time. When they were ten feet away I blew my whistle.

"Dague was at the wheel. When I walked closer he stepped out of the car. I said, 'Buddy, I want to

"He pulled a gun and fired directly at my heart.
"The bullet went through my coat sleeve. "I grabbed him and locked his arm behind me. He was going down but his gun clicked behind me twice, then two more shots

"Both these shots were from his gun and they went through the tail of my coat.

"Just as he was going down Irene stepped from the car with a gun in her hand. She stuck it in my face and cursed at me. 'Come on, I'll kill you,' she said.

"I shuffled him in front of me and reached for my gun.

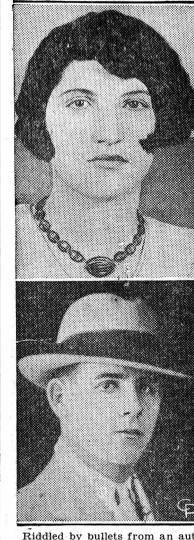

"Dague reached over and clipped me on the jaw. I was knocked out and my gun taken from me. When I came to they were 50 feet I pulled my other gun-I carry two-and fired at them."

Kiessling then identified the gun stolen from him. He said he had not seen it since it was taken.

ITALY REFUSES TO COMPROMISE

Stands Firm For Naval Parity With France

LONDON—(UP)-Italy's only reply to the pressure brought upon naval delegation to recede from her demand for parity with France is a refusal to retreat, even at the cost of preventing a five-power agreement on armament. The Italians insist that Aristide Briand and other parties to the Washington conference of 1922 accorded them equality at that time. They see no reason for abandoning that ratio.

Accordingly, it appeared today, the deadlock which has occupied the conference for a week was no nearer solution than ever.

There are two possible solutions. in the opinion of observers. First a four-power treaty, excluding and 'isolating" Italy might be achieved. Second, a three-power agreement, omitting both Italy and France until they find some basis for adhering to the pact, might be

Girl's Name Linked in Woman's Death

MILWAUKEE - Miss Edna Pasbrig, 25, whose name has been linked with the discovery of a woman's body in a burned cottage near Antioch in Lake county, Illinois, is well and safe in Chicago, she told her sister, Mrs. Rin Murakami, in a letter which Mrs. Murakami re= ceived today.

Miss Pasbrig had been missing since Feb. 19 and relatives feared she might have been harmed by a former suitor, a Milwaukee butcher, who married another girl but who was said to have continued seeing Miss Pasbrig after his mar-

The butcher also had disappeared at about the same time that Pasbrig left her sister's home, but he has been located at Bellwood, Ill., and police expected him to come here voluntarily today to answer questions they wished to ask him.

SLEEPING CHILD SAVED THROUGH UPPER WINDOW

George McKerrow and Mrs. Emma Greenwald's Home in Ruins

Fire swept two farm houses in widely separated parts of the county Friday afternoon, destroying the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George McKerrow, two and onehalf miles north of Pewaukee village, and levelling the home of Emma Greenwald, three

WHITE MICE CHEW MATCHES; START FIRE

WAUSAU, Wis. - (U.P.) -Tame white mice, playing with matches, were blamed today for a fire in a private nome here. When firemen arrived to battle a small blaze, they found dozens of the little animals scampering about. The fire started on top of an ice box on which the mice had been kept in a cage. One of the mice was burned to death. damage was slight.

Mr. McKerrow, who is an aged man, was overcome by smoke when he attempted to save valuable papers in his office and it was necessary to carry him out of the burning house. Paul Matz, a hired man, went to the second floor and saved Helen, age 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gavin McKerrow. The child was sleeping in a bedroom and had not been awakened by the shouts of excited firemen and neighbors and by the road of flames as they swept up from the basement.

Seven Departments

Suddenly Mrs. McKerrow realized that one of the four children was still in the house. Dense black smoke poured out from every window and door on the lower floor and she was forced to turn back. Matz then rushed to the second floor and returned the child safely. The fire was discovered on the McKerrow farm about 3 p. m. and

NO NICKEL TO CALL DEPARTMENT; LOSS $1,000

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(U.P.)-When fire broke out in the University of Michigan Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity house damage of $1,000 resulted because no one had a nickel to insert in the pay telephone for a fire department call. A freshman sent to a frat house across the street to use a telephone borrowed a nickel and returned to the blazing house to make the call.

before the house had been consumed by flames seven fire departments responded. They came from Waukesha, Pewaukee, Hartland, Sussex, Chenequa, Lisbon and Mer-The local department was one of the last to be called. No water was available, except from a small creek and that soon was consumed. Efforts were turned toward saving valuable barns and

Despite the efforts of firemen an ice house near the home was dam-A lucky turn in the wind shortly after the fire began saved the large barns that, together with the house, are valued at $50,000.

Rubbish is Cause

Valuable papers were saved and much of the furniture and other personal property.

Rubbish near the furnace in the basement is believed to have started fire and before it was discovered had eaten its way into the partitions.

Gavin McKerrow, one of the owners of the farm, was away on business in Kenosha. The farm is designated as McKerrow farm No.

The Greenwald fire was discovered about 2 o'clock in the afternoon on the very housetop. When a truck from the local department reached the scene six neighbors and passersby had already dragged most of the furniture and personal effects from the house. A fortygallon tank of chemical was emptied on the flames and the blaze, which was then confined only to the roof, was well under control. While the firemen stopped to mix another tank of chemical the fire gained such headway, backed by a southeast wind, that within another hour the house was reduced to burning embers. The loss is said to be $4,000.

Origin Unknown

Emma Greenwald, daughter of Mrs. Greenwald, was home alone with her mother when she noticed the fire on the house top. Three brothers were working at a neighboring farm. They, too, saw the flames, and came to the women's aid but it proved too late.

Mrs. Greenwald cannot explain how the fire started. Only a small was in the furnace, not enough to cause an over-heated chimney. The house was not wired with electricity and therefore it could not have been a short

TRIO ROBBED BANK BUT ARE SURROUNDED

Robbers Abandon Car After Chase and Disappear Up Blind Street

JETMORE, Kan.—(U.P.)--Armed with two machine guns and led by bloodhounds, about 100 possemen were reported closing in today on three bank bandits near here who yesterday shot their way to liberty near the Colorado line afer robbing the Manter bank of Manter,

The bandit automobile was abandoned here early today when the three men ran up a blind street.

The abandoned car contained several pistols and rifles and sacks of silver taken from the bank. Officers believed the men, tracked by the hounds, would be captured afoot in this town, or near-

No persons were permitted to leave the town after the bandit car was found.

Airplanes brought the hounds here from Hutchinson and from Dodge City.

Prepare for Battle Officers prepared for a possible gun battle as bloody as the one late yesterday when the gangsters blazed their way across southeastern Colorado, killing one peace officer and wounding three per-

The bandit car speeded into Jetmore just as the armed men who had been guarding the roads had decided to go home. The driver spied the barricade across the road, and went into the ditch, to circle it. The guards with-held their fire, fearing it might be officers pursuing the bandits. They followed it, however, when the occupants ignored their calls and saw the car dart up the blind street. Repeated calls bringing no answer, the possemen riddled it with bullets as the three fied.

Shortly before noon yesterday the bandits had driven in front of the State bank at Manter, Kans. While one remained in the automobile, the others entered the bank. Forcing N. H. Hoopingarner, president, two tellers and nine customers to line up against a wall, under threats they would be pumped full of lead if they turned around," the bandits dashed behind a cage and gathered $4,000 in cash in sacks.

The two then backed out of the bank, leaped into the waiting automobile and sped toward the Colorado line. The bandits apparently were eglipped with a small arsenal, A general alarm was sent from one town to another and peace officers guarded the highways, the criminals fired into them with abandon. Two miles from Eads they stopped and reconnoitered before entering the town. Hickman and

Mosher spied their car and advanced. Hickmen fell, through the brain and chest. Mosher threw up his arms in surrender. They disarmed him and told him to "run for your life." He was brought down with a shot in the leg when he started to run.

Kenosha Probe Jury Lacks Funds to Act

KENOSHA, Wis.-A jury which has been investigating crime conditions in Kenosha county since Feb. 1929, has been dissolved on its own motion. The jury advised Judge E. B. Belden that it was without funds to continue an investigation and lacked a special prosecutor. The prosecutor, Vilas

Whaley, resigned a short time ago. The grand jury was appointed in 1929 by Judge Belden upon popular demand of Kenosha citizens, among whom the Kenosha Trades and Labor council was a supporting organization. The council later withdrew its support and attacked the investigation which was aimed primarily at the alleged lawlessness hich was incidental to the Allen-A Hosiery workers' strike.

A fund of $10,000 appropriated to finance the investigation work was attacked as illegal and when a bill was submitted to the legislature to legalize it, labor interests defeated it through an attack on the integrity of Judge Belden. An assembly committee filed specific charges against the judge and hearings were held but the case has not been settled.

PLYMOUTH, Wis.-With the help of the state banking commissioner and the consent and approval of depositors, 65 stockholders of the defunct Plymouth Exchange bank planned today to reopen the institution at an early date. WICKERSHAM DRY WITNESS

Declares Enforcement Work is Improving

WASHINGTON-(U.P.)-Chairman George W. Wickersham of the law enforcement commission declared to newspapermen today that legalization of 2.75 per cent beer would not solve the prohibition problem with which his commission now is grappling.

"I do not think it would satisfy the normal robust appetite," he said. "It would not help to solve the prohibition problem."

Wickersham made his observation after his appearance before the senate judiciary committee.

The law enforcement commission has found that the federal personnel in the prohibition service is improving, Wickersham told the committee in a secret session. Wickersham told the senators who are discussing a plan to investigate the enforcement unit, he saw no reason why congress should not investigate if it desires.

Those senators who are sponsoring the Norris resolution for the in-quiry accepted Wickersham's statement as an endorsement of the resolution, but those who are opposing the inquiry interpreted it to mean no inquiry was necessary.

During a brief recess, Wickersham gave newspapermen the first interview he has given since he became head of the commission eight months ago. In this interview he revealed his expectation that it would require another year for the commission to complete its work. "The commission at this time is studying the extent to which the law is being enforced." Wickersham said, "but our labors have not preceded far enough to tell whether enforcement is gaining or los-In answer to questions, the chairman asserted his belief that prohibition could not be enforced 100 per cent, nor could any other law. "The opposition to the law has become more vocal," he added, "but it is impossible to tell as yet whether there is any loss in prohibition sentiment among the people."

One Killed in Plane Fall at Neilisville

NEILLSVILLE, Wis. - Alfred Stelloch, 18, son of a garage and implement store owner, was killed instantly and his brother, Frank, 21, was critically injured their new airplane plunged to the ground from a height of 500 feet a mile south of here Sunday. The plane was owned by Frank Stelloch, who recently completed course of intruction at a St. Louis flying school, and he was the pilot. He had made several trips into the air Sunday before the fatal one. His mechanic, Irvin Feirn, who saw the crash, said there had been something wrong with the carburetor earlier in the day, but that they all believed it adjusted when the youths took off on the short flight that ended in the crack-up.

WASHINGTON - The senate today defeated the Oddie amendment to the tariff bill proposing to levy duties on hides, leathers and shoes, now on the free list.

The amendment, proposed by Senator Oddie, Repn., Nev., would have placed duties of four cents a pound on raw hides, eight cents a pound on dried hides, six cen' pound and 6 per cent on sole, belting and harness leather, and 14 cents a pound on shoes, except for women's shoes of the McKay type which have been taxed 8 cents a pair and 20 per cent.

Defeat on the amendment was due apparently to the failure of shoe and hide interests to reach a compromise. Shoe manufacturers opposed the high duties on hides and western senators advocating the hide tariff opposed the high shoe rate.

PROHIBITION TO PLAY BIG PART IN VOTE

Many Who Have Ridden Through Avoiding Issue Must Now Declare Selves

WASHINGTON—(UP)-Prohibition will play a more important part in the coming congressional elections than in any since the eighteenth amendment was adopted, in the opinion of political lead-

Already it has taken the leading place in the key state of Massachusetts where former Senator William M. Butler, former chairman of the Republican national committee, has just declared he stands with President Hoover against medification.

Preparations are being made by wet and dry groups to force every candidate for the house and senate on record as to prohibition and modification. Some who have been able to ride through one campaign after another avoiding prohibition as an issue are likely to be forced on record new.

The result it that the congressional elections this year are expected to be as much in the nature of a referendum on prohibition as is possible under the American political system.

Slowly Risen
In every election for the last ten years drys have worked systematically to increase their strength in congress. They have seen it rise slowly until it is more than threefourths dry nominally. Despite the agitation of wets, drys are at their highest peak in congress. A loss this year would have a defeatist effect on many. It probably would ne reflected in a general attempt of politicians in both parties to moisten up for the presidential camtwo years later.

This is why the congressional elections this year are all-important. They will point the way for some years to come.

Dry strategy, it is expected, will be based on two main objectives. first, to convince the country that prohibition, with all of its faults. has been far better than the old time saloon; second, to convince the country that another ten year trial will provide a sounder basis for judging its merits.

Wet strategy will be directed toward building a feeling throughout the country that prohibition has failed after a decade, that conditions are growing worse and that prohibition's faults are greater than its virtues. Big names like those of Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, W. W. Atterbury and Pierre DuPont will head an expert propaganda battle on both sides. Since a politician regards it as his foremost business to win, those in both parties are eagerly watching the numerous straws now tossing about in the wind. Declarations like that of the Union league and National Republican clubs in New York are influential in the East though in the West Repubicans are more inclined to discount them as a product of wet New York.

THE EAGLE QUILL Has Been Notable Figure in British Politics For Past 50 Years

WOKING, England - (U.P.) -Lord Balfour, the "grand old man" of English statesmanship, died peacefully today at the home of his brother, Wishers Hill House, at the age of 81.

On Mar. 10, Lord Balfour suffered a sudden gastric chill, aggravating a previously dangerous condition, and sank steadily until the end came shortly after 8 a. m. today.

For the past year he has been living in the secluded estate *of the Right Honorable Gerald Balfour, his brother, who succeeds to the title.

Funeral services will be held at Whittinghame, Scotland, Sunday, and a memorial service will be given at Westminster Abbey at the same time.

For 50 years, he had been a notable figure in British and international poliitics. One of the brilliant achievements of his career revolved around his visit to the United States in 1917, as head of the British war mission. Upon his return, in 1922, as a delegate to the Washington conference, he was received in America as an

Forced to Retire Ill health forced his retirement nearly a year ago. His last official act was on May, 1929, when he presided over the privy council at Craigweil House, Bognor, at which King George signed the decree dissolving the parliament.

With the death of Lord Balfour, England loses her "grand old man" of statesmanship. It came hard for the English to call him an outstanding commoner, "Lord" Balfour. They had known him so long as "Mister," or "A. J." that the simpler titles clung to him to the day of his death.

Incidentally, the bestowal of a peerage on the man who had held every other gift in the power of the British people, including the prime ministership, was the direct outcome of the Washington con-

Balfour, born in 1848 and a statesman of the old school, had seen a World war come, with its victory for the Allies. He had also seen a change in politics, with a younger, more aggressive school forging to the front in par-

He had been forced to give over his power to men, like Lloyd George, whom he had battled throughout his career. As a mark of distinction—since Lloyd George couldn't go to Washington for the Harding conference—the "grand old man" was given his assignment, the last of his career.

He came home once more find himself acclaimed a hero, but a hero of peace. It was inescapable that he should be honored and thus it was that the peerage -an earldom which he had three times rejected-was thrust upon

Born Aristocrat

Balfour was born an aristocrat and viewed the world with a somewhat bored and academic detachment. In the first place, he was a Cecil, and membership in that distinguished family was a mark of aristocracy.

He entered public life, in 1878 when, at the age of 30, he accompanied his uncle, the Marquis of Salisbury, and Lord Beaconsfield, the great Disraeli, as a member of the British mission to the Congress of Berlin. For nearly fifty years thereafter, he served in the House of Commons.

He assumed the premiership in 1920, after a stormy interval as secretary for Ireland, during which his name became anathema in the island as Balfour of the Iron Hand.

His government fell before the onslaught of Lloyd George in 1905, but he returned to the cabiwith Asquith, in the first coalition ministry of 1915. With Lloyd George's second coalition, he became foreign secretary, which was his portfolio when he headed the British war mission to the United States in 1917. In 1920 he left the foreign office to become lord president of the privy council.

In recent years he nad been closely identified with League of Nations activities, and played important parts in assembly and council meetings.

PENSION FOR STATE EMPLOYES CONSIDERED

MADISON - A monthly pension of $45 for state employes retired after 20 years service is under consideration today by a legislative committee hetaded by Sen. Peter J. Smith, Eau Claire.

The plan was discussed at a meeting with state and university officials here yesterday, and a system was outlined similar to the administration of the state teachers rerement fund.

Employes over 30 years of age would contribute five per cent of their salary to the pension fund under this plan. If one retired before the age of 50, he would receive his money back with four per cent interest. If he remained in the service for 20 years, he would receive a pension, the state's share of which might be raised by a surtax on incomes.

"ZIM" DENIES

MADISON - (U.P.) - Fred R Zimmerman, former governor of Wisconsin and political puzzle at the present time, testified today before the legislative campaign investigating committee without offering apparent offense to any influential political group.

The former executive who upset the plans of La Follette progressive leaders by his successful candidacy for governor in 1926 accepted on own shoulders any cause for criticism of his campaign and kept others free from blame.

Zimmerman, who was appointed by President Hoover as United States commissioner to the international expedition at Seville, Spain, recently returned from there in time to participate in the coming Wisconsin campaign should he decide to do so.

In his testimony today Zimmerman repeated former denials of affiliation with the KuKlux Klan; admitted that if he received the support of the Anti-Saloon League it was unsolicited; said he believed the Lord's Day Alliance supported him for governor.

Testimony of Zimmerman disclosed that he did not consider it necessary to include as a part of his expense, the amount spent in the campaign by county organizations operating with his knowledge and consent. Practically every other candidate for office who has appeared before the committee has made the same admission or pleaded that he had no knowledge of the workings of such committees.

"I am very sorry if we violated the law." Zimmerman said when Assemblyman J. W. Carow pointed out that, under
