Madison-A mushroom large enough to make it eligible for display at the State Historical museum was found in Madison a few days ago. It weighs 40 pounds and is 28 inches across.

Oconomowoc - Mixing of kerosene with gasoline to avoid payment of state tax brought a fine of $50 to a North Lake Oil company representative, who was tried in municipal court here.

Manitowoc-Directors of the county fair, disappointed over a deficit from this year's show, will endeavor to stimulate interest in a district fair for next year, embracing the counties of Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Calumet and Ke-

New Glarus-The 1933 state firemen's tournament, lasting three days, will be held here next June. It is expected that around 500 firemen will be here during the tournament and the total attendance will be approximately

Stevens Point-Damage of more than $30,000 resulted from fire which wiped out one section of the village of Amherst Junction, destroying the Green Bay & Western depot, an elevator, four large potato warehouses, cow sheds and stockyards. A southwest wind helped to save the business sec-

La Crosse-Wisconsin is to have a new lake eight miles long and three and a half miles wide at its widest part. The lake, which will be a widening of the Mississippi river between Fountain City and Alma, is to be created by the building of the Chimney Rock dam. The dam will flood an area of approximately 10,000 acres.

Oshkosh — The city council has passed a new ordinance requiring all applicants for city relief to make a sworn statement to their willingness to reimburse the city when they are able and to work for food and rent orders. The ordinance provides fines of $50 to $200 or jail terms for making false statements to the poor department.

Marshfield — Hemorrhagic septemia caused the death of about 25 cattle in Wood county within a few days. One dairyman reported the loss of 15 head. The affliction is said to be caused by a germ which thrives when cattle are poorly nourished or are exposed in shipping. Vaccination has been the only effective means of combating the affliction.

Madison - During the three-year period from 1929 to 1931 a total of $220,000 was paid in Wisconsin for compensation in cases of silicosis, an affection of the lungs caused by inhaling quartz dust, the industrial commission has announced. Victims were stone cutters, enamelware workers, iron and steel foundry workers and a quartz mill worker, it was explained.

Madison—Every farm boy in Wisconsin may compete for the twenty scholarships of $75 each just offered by regents of the University of Wisconsin, Chris Christensen, dean of the college of agriculture, has announced. The scholarships are provided to aid first year students in the short course in agriculture. Approximately $95 will be needed to defray expenses of the 15 weeks intensive training.

Sturgeon Bay-The last concrete has been poured on the 131/2-mile paving job on highway 42 between the junction with 57 north of here and Egg Harbor. The contract amounted to $285,000. With the exception of 15 miles of black top from Egg Harbor to Sister Bay, this completes the projects outlined in the $2,000,000 bond issue passed at a Door county referendum in 1930.

Madison-The first attempt to stock Wisconsin with wild ducks is being made this year by the conservation department in Lake Puckaway in Green Lake county and Lake Koshkonong in Jefferson county. Flocks of 100 mallards, all good fliers and carrying an aluminum band, have been planted in the lakes. Hunters who shoot any of the banded birds were requested to send the bands to the conservation department, to, aid a check on feasibility of stocking the state.

Prairie du Chien-One of the greatest fresh water fish propagation plants in the United States is being operated by the United States bureau of fisheries at Lynxville, 16 miles north of here in the Winneshiek wild life refuge. Annually it produces millions of fry. Experiments are being carried on with game fish of several varieties on a large scale. Five lakes are used for experimentation and propagation. They are one to five acres in area, fed either by the Mississippi or by huge flowing Madison - Accidental drownings in Wisconsin totaled 83 during the first six months of this year. The 1931 toll was 217, compared to 239 in 1929 and 240 in 1928. Increased life saving facilities and local educational campaigning are given credit for the steady reduction.

Kenosha-The Wisconsin conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold its eighty-fifth annual convention in Kenosha, Sept. 6 to 11, with the new $300.000 First Methodist church building here as the headquarters.

Rhinelander — Fire of undetermined origin nearly destroyed most of the Curran grade school here.

Ripon-Fire which broke out in the nachine room of the Schaefer Brothers foundry here destroyed machinery and equipment with an estimated loss

New London-A valuable collection of 300 old coins has been presented to the New London public museum by Mr. and Mrs. Harley Heath, of this city.

Madison-Only seven of 530 prisoners working on Wisconsin farms and other projects outside prison walls have escaped this year. Three of them were recaptured.

Elkhorn-The problem of providing Jackson school near here with a bubbling drinking fountain has been solved by workmen digging there. They found a flowing well which will be piped into the schoolhouse.

Madison — A new type of gasoline filling station bandit was introduced to this city when a man entered a station attended by Glenn Pelton, 18, and demanded $17. Pelton demurred, but the stranger seized the money and then left a watch, chain and ring in Neillsville-Several residents of this city and of communities within a 30mile radius report having seen a meteor flash across the sky early in the evening of August 22. Small pieces of the metcor are said to have been found on the farms of Hugo Halle and Herman Albrecht, near here.

Jefferson — The Jefferson county board of supervisors has voted to ac cept a 50 per cent settlement of the county treasury shortage. The shortage, covering a period of several years, totaled $5,184.52. It occurred during the administration of Fred Bullwinkel, who resigned a few months ago.

La Crosse-John Hatz, 64, prominent farmer of this county, died from heart failure while returning from La Crosse to his home near Bangor. He was prominent in politics, having been a delegate to the national republican convention in 1928 and being a candidate for assemblyman this year.

Marshfield-A state-wide meeting of Wisconsin farmers to consider joining in the "farm strike" movement will be held here Sept. 3. The meeting is sponsored by the Wisconsin council of agriculture, which includes representative executives of eighteen of the state's principal farm and dairy organizations.

Monroe - Pete Walsh, Darlington, faced two years' probation after pleading guilty to participating in a blackmailing plot, while his companion, Frank Sacker, Monroe, awaited a preliminary hearing after pleading not guilty. The men were captured at a spot where Charles Downer, Monroe, had left a dummy package after receiving a threatening letter.

Madison-Authorities are investigating claims of Howard Hahn, 14-yearold son of a Dane county farmer, that three attempts have recently been made to kidnap him. The latest attempt came while young Hahn was engaged in plowing on his father's farm near Morrisonville, when he says he was confronted by two masked men. Young Hahn was armed with a shotgun and opened fire, wounding one of the men, he believes.

Waupaca-Eva Rasmussen, waitress in a local restaurant, has been rewarded with $10,000 for a kindness administered 25 years ago. When she was 14 and living with her brother at Rainbow Lake, a stranger was injured in an automobile accident. Miss Rasmussen tore up her petticoat and bandaged his wrists. The man was B. W. Stickner of Cleveland. A lawyer recently notified the waitress that Stickner had died and bequeathed her $10,000.

Madison - Licensed fur trappers in Wisconsin, mostly farm boys, did a business of nearly $500,000 despite low prices received for pelts during the year ended June 1, 1932. The figures were based on reports received by the conservation commission from about half of the 17,350 trappers. These reports showed 298,122 pelts of 11 species of fur bearing animals, with a sales value of $217,897.87. Muskrat was the most common animal trapped, with 233,500 pelts shown in the report

Madison — The state of Wisconsin, facing an embargo on certain vegetables and flowers shipped into Illinois, has placed a quarantine on all products which may contain the European corn borer shipped here from New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, New Jersey, Michigan, Indiana, West Virginia and New England. Under its quarantine, Wisconsin officials require inspection of all corn, sorghum, sudan grass, celery, beans in the pod, beets with tops, rhubarb, oat or rye straw, cut flowers or entire plants of chrysanthemums, aster, cosmos, zinnie, hollyhock, gladiolus and dahlia.

Milwaukee - A slight business upturn in some Wisconsin communities was noted during July by Roy Empey, state director for the United States department of labor. Increased activity was observed in the leather industry and a few paper mills, a seasonal demand for farm labor and absorption of hundreds in public work.

Waukesha-Raymond Harms, 35, a farmhand, who killed a horse with a hammer when the animal moved too slowly, received a sentence of six | The Holstein-Friesian Association. months in the county jail.

QUALITY OF DAIRY STOCK IS ADVANCED

Breeders of Cattle Realize Its Importance.

The progress of the dairy breeds is Indicated by the increased amount of testing for production that has taken place during the past year. For instance, a report issued by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America shows that there was a 14 per cent increase in long-time record testing during 1931 as compared with the previous year. A total of 3,860 records in the ten months and yearly divisions of the Advanced Registry were reported, which is the largest number in any one year with the exception of 1924, when the high mark of 4,184 was reached. This is considered all the more remarkable in view of the fact that there were serious drought conditions in many of the leading dairy states and business conditions were none too

The purpose of officially testing cows is to measure their producing capacity and select breeding stock from the best. All Holstein cows and heifers tested in the ten months division during 1931 averaged to produce 15,865 pounds of milk containing 470.5 pounds fat. In the yearly division for the same period, the average yield of all tested cows and heifers was 17.-023.6 pounds milk and 577.3 pounds fat. Since the time official testing was started and up to December 31, 1931, there have been 30,374 yearly tests made averaging 16,767.7 pounds milk and 569.6 pounds of fat. In addition there have been reported 10,334 ten month's tests averaging 14,044.9 pounds milk and 474.6 pounds fat. These average production figures for either milk or fat are claimed to be much higher than for any other breed.

How Dairy Profits May Be Kept at High Point

Three-Time Milking

"How much, on the average, does milking three times a day increase production over twice a day milking? Does three times a day milking usual-

Where this is done for a short time only the increase is likely to be in the neighborhood of 10 per cent and where it is carried on for the full lactation period the increase is likely to be about 20 per cent.

The question as to whether or not it will pay depends on many things. Some feel that it pays where milk is sold at retail or at fluid milk prices but not where it is sold to be manufactured into butter or cheees. Milking three times a day increases the length of the working day or at least makes it difficult for the man caring for the dairy to get away for very long at a time. Some dairymen who have tried it believe that it pays.—American Agriculturist.

"Yessing" the Cow If anything will make a cow crazy, it is a bite of lush green grass in spring. It will make her forget the choicest alfalfa hay, the finest mixture of grain and balancing feed.

Crazy as the cow is for this first grass, it is anything but a complete ration. The dairyman who says "Yes" to the cow's craving for early grass. and quits feeding grain, will get "No" for an answer when he asks the cow for a profit.

Grass will keep the milk coming for a little while, because it is a tonic. But when the effect of the tonic is gone, it will take no end of good feeding to build up the milk flow again .-Farm Journal.

Splendid Holstein Record

Lyons Ormsby Ava, a pure-bred Holstein cow owned by Femco Farms, Minnesota, is the one hundred and sixty-third black and white cow to produce in excess of 1,000 pounds butterfat in a year. In 365 days she pro duced 26,942 pounds milk containing 1,001.9 pounds butterfat or enough to supply all of the dairy needs of 270 persons for one year. She began her year weighing 1,755 pounds and closed It with a weight of 1,720 pounds.—

Time Now to Plan for Fall Garden

Soil and Seed Beds Need Proper and Timely Preparation.

By E. B. MORROW, Extension Horticul-turist, North Carolina State College.— WNU Service.

Carefully preparing the soil and using partally shaded seed beds will permit the gardener to have a supply of vegetables for the late fall garden. In starting plants which need to be transplanted, it is better to seed them in partally shaded seed beds rather than attempt to plant in the open field. A lattice work of small slats makes an excellent covering for such a bed, but if slats are not available, pine brush or other material may be used. However, this covering should be placed high enough above the ground to permit free circulation of the air and to give room for watering and weeding. If the soil is dry when the seeding is made, water it thoroughly and then cover with old sacks to retain the moisture. Remove the sacks as soon as the seedlings begin to push through the

In planting garden seeds directly in rows, get the seed down in the moist earth. Few instances, beans and corn need to be planted in rather deep furrows. Cover more deeply then when spring planting is done, especially with the large seeded crops. Small seeded crops will require considerable attention when planted in the open field. This means a carefully pulverized seed bed and possibly boards or old sacks laid over the row. When boards are used, raise them as soon as the seedlings push through and place each end on a rock or brick. Harden to the sun gradually by removing the boards in the early morning and late afternoon for the first few days.

Disagree Over Merits

of Yellow Star Thistle What's to be done with the yellow star thistle? The farmers say it's a weed pest that crowds out their grain. The bee men say it provides their charges with nectar that makes the finest of honey.

The state department of agriculture has been called upon to solve this difficult question and so far it hasn't been able to figure any way out. It has been suggested that there are lands where this thistle will thrive, but where no other plant of economic value can be grown. However, cultivating it solely for its nectar is hardly possible and thistles have a habit of refusing to "stay put."

If no way can be found to keen this weed from damaging our cereal crops the rule of the greatest good to the greatest number will probably govern and the thistle will be subjected to organized assault-maybe eradicated. The grain growers argue that there are other less noxious sources of nectar and that star thistle honey is made at too high a price.-Los Angeles Times.

Poison the Gophers

Pocket gophers may be controlled by poisoning with either vegetable or grain baits. Strychnine is the poison commonly employed.

In using the poison the main runway of the rodent should be located and the bait dropped into the run. The entrance to the runway should then be closed with a ball of damp earth or wad of grass. Baits need to be placed only at two points in each separate system of ten to thirty mounds, which is usually the home of a single gopher. As new mounds are thrown up, they can be easily seen, and these live runs poisoned again .-Wallace's Farmer.

Protect the Navel Cord

One of the first steps after the calf is dropped is to disinfect the navel cord with tincture of iodine, using a small brush or a piece of cheesecloth. In case iodine is not available, use a 5 per cent solution of a coal-tar disinfectant. Hold a cupful of this solution up under the calf so that the raw, exposed part of the navel cord is submerged. Repeat the treatment daily until the cord becomes dry. Proper disinfection of the navel prevents disease germs from entering the body of the calf at that point.—Exchange.

Season Posts Before Setting In a test in Iowa, catalpa posts lasted 18 years without any chemical treatment. Those treated with creosote lasted 28 years.

These posts were not put in until they had a year to dry after being cut. It always pays to let the post season if possible. Cut them, if you can, in the fall so they will dry out enough to prevent the wood borers from attacking them while they are

Leaves Filter Water

In Oklahoma an experiment was made to find how much water the leafy covering in wooded land holds. Measurements showed the amount held on the land was much more than the leaves could hold. The investigators found that the leaves filter the water, keep it clear and let it soak into the soil through cracks and holes. Where there is no leafy covering to filter the water, silt fills these pores and more water then runs off the and, carrying eroded soil.

Increase Value of Timber by Pruning

Foresters Advise Treating Forest Trees.

Fruit growers have pruned their trees for years to get more good fruit with its blush developed to the rosiest hue, but forest trees have just grown in a finish-fight for the survival of the fittest. Now Cornell foresters advise farmers who have pine plantations that they can increase the value of the lumber about $400 to the acre by pruning.

Trees which grow close together and have a diameter of four inches or more have about seven to ten feet of stem with dead branches. These branches provide no food for the tree and if they are removed the tree grows clear wood without knots, they say. Only the dominant trees, or about two hundred of the best trees in an acre, need to be pruned. The first pruning should be done when dead branches can be cut off as high as the pruner can reach from the ground. Two later prunings will be necessary to clear all of the first 16-foot log. They estimate that 70 per cent of the volume of a 15-inch tree is in the first log, which, if pruned, will be clear by Vitamin D in Rations Calves eating reasonable amounts of good legume hay are likely to get enough vitamin D in their ration.

Dairy Calves Benefited

On the other hand, small calves, eating little hay and getting little butterfat in their milk, may benefit from the addition of 1 per cent of cod liver oil to their grain rations. This is particularly true if such calves are raised indoors where they have no access to direct sunlight. The need of vitamin D for dairy calves was emphasized by the prompt recovery of two calves showing symptoms of rickets at 40 weeks of age that were fed (oxidized) cod liver oil in which the vitamin D was normal but the vitamin A had been destroyed. Their improvement in appetite and general thrift of condition was marked and they grew rapidly during the next six months while the vitamin D supplement was added to their feed.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Gardening Hints

Azaleas and rhododendrons need an acid soil. This can be supplied by piling oak leaves around the base of the plant, and letting them rot there, or to some degree, by working granulated peatmoss into the soil and using it for a mulch. It must be remembered, however, that these plants are very surface-rooted, and the utmost care is required, while performing the above task to keep from breaking or disturbing these roots. When planting rhododendrons, masses of oak leaves should be put at the bottom of the hole, and a thin skin of earth placed over this. These leaves rot, and over a long period of time supply the plants with the desirable acidity.

Palatability of Pastures

A group of steers "voted" legumessuch as clovers, alfalfa, and lespedeza -the most_popular pasture plants at an experiment conducted in Maryland.

They registered the "vote" in a series of pasture trials. Twenty-five different grasses and legumes were sown in one field and government pasture specialists observed which was grazed most.

The legumes led. Next came bromegrass. Following were Italian and perennial ryegrass, and meadow fescue. A mixture of the standard pasture grasses ranked next to those in palatability.—Dakota Farmer.

Rodent Control

Seed treatments with repellent substance to prevent injury by rodents and birds is not generally recommended, as the seed may be severely damaged in the process, according to G. C. Oderkirk of the United States biological survey. Instead of treating the seed with the possibility of severe damage, or delayed germination, it will be better to depend upon poisoned bait to reduce the number of destructive rodents that destroy the seed. Mechanical devices can be used quite effectively to scare off birds during the shorter period when they may cause

DOG KILLS SNAKE TO SAVE MASTER

Hurls Her Body Between Child and Rattler.

Dayton, Ohio.-Myra V. Stolzenvoss, descendant of a long line of prize winning Doberman Pinschers, is the toast of the town-a heroine who battled a rattlesnake to save the life of little Gene Brennan, her playmate.

Gene is the three-year-old son of her owner, Louis Brennan. His pet now is in a dog hospital, where she is receiving the best of medical attention and she is showered with little bits calculated to cheer the heart of a dog. Some townsfolk have sent flowers to her.

The dog and Gene were romping around a rock pile. A wild rose among the rocks attracted the child's attention. He clambered on to the pile and reached for the rose.

Radio Takes High Place in American Industries

Total Investment Is Now Almost Two Billions

New York.—The radio industry, barely fifteen years old, has now a total investment of $1,800,000,000 and contributes more than $500,000,000 annually to the national wealth, according to an analysis of the industry in Dun's Review. It pays out $350,000,-000 each year for operating expenses, spends $50,000,000 for entertainers, and provides entertainment and instruction for nearly 17,000,000 homes scattered from Maine to California.

Of the invested capital, $150,000,000 represents the investment of radio manufacturers; $25,000,000 the investment in radio broadcasting; $1,000,-000,000 in listeners' sets; and $25,-000,000 the investment in commercial radio stations. It is the universal acceptance of the radio that is its best guarantee of continued popularity. To millionaire and laborer alike, it brings the vocal and instrumental genius of the world's foremost artists. reports of sporting events, political occurrences and the news of the world. Retains Popularity.

The retail sales of radio products have fallen from the record peak in the last two years, yet this is not an indication of waning popularity for the instrument, but rather a sign of intense preparation for a period of great achievement. In fact, the drop in sales in 1931 to $309,270,000, and a decrease of 63 per cent from the $842,548,000 in 1929, which was the record year for the industry, is regarded as the natural sequence of the tumbling prices caused by the hectic activity during 1928 and 1929 when volume and volume alone was the aim of the industry.

The major networks have increased revenues over those of last year, they are expanding facilities by acquiring stations in strategic locations. Two of the principal broadcasting companies, both with a basic network of twentyone stations, charge around $5,000 an hour for night service and $2,500 an hour for day service. Both organizations have hook-ups with fifty or more outside stations which are available at an additional charge.

Television, by being carried out experimentally, will, when developed, probably expand the field of radio. 35,000,000 Receivers.

Of the 35,000,000 receiving sets installed in homes throughout the world, almost half, or 17,000,000, are operated under licenses. Subscription licenses, part or all of which are allocated to the support of broadcasting, are paid by 13,500,000 owners. The total population of radio-licensing countries is 370,000,000, approximately three times that of the United States. These nations have one-half as many stations as the United States, and onethird of these are operated under extra-monopoly arrangement.

There are 73 countries now broadcasting in various parts of the world. Broadcasting is supported in whole or in part from licenses in 31 of these.

During the past year there was an increase of nearly 25 per cent in the number of receivers in use. The increase was world-wide: There are now 1,423 radio broadcasting stations in the world, an increase of 33 since July, 1931. Of this number, 806 are foreign stations, operating in 70 countries, and 617 in the United States and its possessions. Of the 607 located in continental United States, New York takes first place with 52 broadcasting stations, and California second place with 43.

State Troopers Catch Quarry Leaving Jail

Watkins Glen, N. Y .- Two state troopers who spent a day and night prying into every possible corner of Schuyler county, where Charles Burke, thirty-four, of New York city, might be hiding, returned wearily to the county jail in the morning-and met Burke emerging cheerily from it.

Burke was wanted on a charge of disturbing the peace as the result of an argument with a local citizen. After the alleged argument he asked and obtained lodging in the jail for the night.

The troopers, Sergt. Jack Barry and Trooper John P. Norton, took him before a justice of the peace, who imposed a 30-day suspended sentence, and ordered him outside Schuyler county within two hours.

Captain Bowdoin, however, is not the first to be lured by the treasure of the ship which sank after being rammed by the United States Fruit company steamer Admiral Farragut on May 12, 1911. For the last twenty years romance as well as desire for material reward has beckoned the adventurous to the wreck.

All passengers of the Merida were saved, but the cargo and valuables deposited with the purser went down with the ship. There is reason to believe, therefore, that the hulk still holds twenty-two tons of half-refined gold and silver ore; bullion in bars worth at least $1,000,000; 4,000 tons of copper ore and eighty kegs of American $20 gold pieces.

Another item of the cargo which some might consider worthy of salvage was 2,000 kegs of fine Jamaica

Modern Contract Bridge By Lelia Hattersley

No. 16. Responding to No Trump Bids

To THE next opponent passes after your partner has opened with one or two no trump, and you have from 11/2 to 21/2 honor-tricks, look first for a regulation take-out in a biddable five-card suit. Failing a suit bid, you may raise a one no trump bid once on two honor-tricks plus. Your yardstick measurement tells you that a partnership holding of five honortricks is sufficient for a contract of two no trump. Being assured that your partnership has at least 41/2 plus, it is good policy, even at a slight risk, to keep the bidding open, rather than to chance a pass which might leave your partner high and dry with a holding far stronger than the minimum.

As a matter of fact, few original no trump bids actually occur on the absolute minimum of 21/2 honor-tricks, but are almost always reinforced with extra tricks or plus values.

To raise a partner's original two no trump bid to game requires only about one honor-trick plus.

Holding three honor-tricks with no biddable suit, jump your partner's one no trump bid to game. If you have a biddable five-card suit, major or minor, make a forcing take-out of three in the suit. This jump take-out forces your partner to rebid either four in the trump declared or three no trumps if weak in your suit. Even though he has opened on a minimum count he must keep the flag flying after you have signalled him so emphatically that your partnership is in the game zone.

When you find yourself the happy possessor of 51/2 honor-tricks, which by the yardstick measurement tell you that there are no more than three defensive tricks outstanding, you are practically assured of game if you can be certain of playing at the best possible contract for your partnership hands.

In other words, to make the most of your valuable hand, you must do three things first, notify your partner that there is a game in sight; second, force him to co-operate in arriving at the best final contract; third, keep the bidding low until you are sure that the most advantageous choice has been made.

To serve all of these purposes an unconditional forcing bid is required, and a forcing bid of two in your best suit is ideal. A two-bid is high enough to serve definite notice on your partner that thereafter he is forced to keep the bidding open until a game contract (or its penalty equivalent) is reached, while it is low enough to leave ample room for as full an exchange of informative bids as may be necessary.
