Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hayes called on Mrs. Clarence Hayes in the George Enales home, Fort Atkinson, Friday p.m.

"Say, is your dog clever?" "Clever! I should say so. When I say, 'are you coming or aren't you?' He comes or he doesn't."

Where It Will Stop Nobody Knows

Link Family Reunion

On Sunday, August 3rd, five generations of the Link family met for their annual family reunion at the Ferd Gramling farm, Dousman. The purpose of the gathering was to celebrate the one hundred second anniversary of the arrival in America of Lawrence, David, and Boniface Link from their home in Bavaria. After a perilous seventy day voyage across the Atlantic by sail and a journey through the Great Lakes, these pioneers landed at the trading post which is now Milwaukee. Deciding that Milwaukee was too marshy for farming, the brothers made the trip inland to Dousman on foot. Here they cleared land, built cabins, and raised their families.

Members of the family were present from various sections of the state, and from Pennsylvania and North Dakota. A playlet written and directed by the chairman of the day, Lawrence Baldu, a great-grandson of Lawrence Link, was presented at the spot where the three original log cabins stood. Members of the cast were Dr. Robert Wittig, John Wittig, Edward Baldu, Helen Kuhn, and Ruth Gramling, all of Milwaukee, Earl Gramling of Dousman, and Ottilie Agathen of Eagle. The playlet depicted a scene in the lives of the early Links and the establishment of their homes in the wilderness, their only weapons being great courage and a deep faith in God.

A family newspaper has been founded, known as the Skoponong Gazette, and enjoys a good circulation among the one hundred fifty members who attend the reunion.

Lean Cousins Reunion

The 19th annual meeting of the Lean clan was held Sunday, August 3rd in Frame Park, Waukesha, with the Waukesha "Leans" as hosts. After the usual dinner hour the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Sidney Lean. The officers elected were: President: Geo. Lean, Elkhorn; Vice President: W. J. Lawton, LaGrange; Sec'y and Treas.: Mrs. Edw. Holberg, Jefferson.

Greetings from absent members were read. Two short impromptu talks were then given by Mr. Jasper of Milwaukee and Rev. Holt of Zanesville, Ohio. The business session over, the rest of the afternoon was spent in visiting. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Calkins of Winneconne were those in Wisconsin who came the greatest distance.

SILOAM

Rev. R. Dean Swift took charge of the services at Palmyra and Little Prairie Sunday.

A large crowd attended the Siloam Ice Cream Social Friday night. Miss Betty Owens, Fort Atkinson and friend Miss Miriam Schaefer, Oak Park, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. R. Dean Swift and family were Sunday dinner guests at the Handford-Fraley home.

The Junior Council had a Hobo party at Hebron on Saturday evening.

Circus Coming Monday

Famous Names Predominate in Ringling-Barnum List of Wonders

The Big Show—Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey—will exhibit in Milwaukee Monday, Aug. 11 and here's a synopsis of its 1941 features:

Mr. and Mrs. Gargantua the Great, the world's most publicized and fascinating gorilla couple; the new fairyland fantasy, "Old King Cole and Mother Goose", designed and costumed by Norman Bel Geddes has redesigned the circus from front to back. "Old King Cole and Mother Goose" cost $80,000, and is the grandest of all Big Show pageants; hence it is spotted on the program to follow Alfred Court's three great mixed groups of performing wild animals, so that late comers won't miss it.

The new Birdland aerial ballet, starring lovely Elly Ardeley, costumed by Max Weldy of Paris and staged by Albertina Rasch, famed Hollywood and Broadway musical show dance director; an invasion of acts from South America, headed by the three flying Diego-Fernandez troupes; the great Truzzi, juggler; Hubert Castle, tight-wire star; the Yacopis, Gauchos and Divas; springboard somersault troupes; Adrianna and Charly, trampoline stars; Mile. Louisa, flying trapeze marvel; the three Flying Concello troupes, with Antionette; the famous Riding Cristiani family—in short, 800 world renowned artists. There are 1,600 people, 50 elephants, 1,009 menagerie animals and hundreds of horses.

REMARKS THAT RUINED MY FIRST LEAVE

Do you really have to make up your own bed?
The army will make a man out of you.
I'd love to see YOU swinging a mop.
Pretty soft for you—living off the government.
Don't tell me YOU get up at a quarter to six.
You guys got it easy . . . Now back in '17.
You mean to say you ain't a lieutenant yet?
I thought the army would take weight off you.
You're certainly a funny looking soldier.
So you're what's defending ME.
How're you doing with the General?

Miss Wisconsin, 1941

Chestnut-haired and blue-eyed Betty Ann Miller, a student in State Teachers College in Milwaukee, was chosen, and will represent her State in the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City, September 1st to 7th. Miss Miller is 19, 5 feet, 4 1/2 inches high, weighs 112 and could very nearly pass as a double for the famed "Gone With The Wind" star, Vivian Leigh.

Nervous Restless-Girls!
Cranky? Restless? Can't sleep? Tired easily? Because of distress of monthly functional disturbances? Then try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Pinkham's Compound is famous for relieving pain of irregular periods and cranky nervousness due to such disturbances. One of the most effective medicines you can buy today for this purpose—made especially for women. WORTH TRYING!

We Are One
Of a truth, men are mystically united; a mystic bond of brotherhood makes all men one.—Carlyle.

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

GOLDEN-RIPE JUICY PEACHES FOR LUSCIOUS JELLY (See Recipes Below)

IT'S CANNING TIME

With food taking on a greater than ever importance under the national defense program, you'll want to make a thoughtful selection for stocking a shelf of extra good jams and jellies for later use.

When winter comes you'll glow with deep satisfaction over your canning efforts of the summer.

Since a record breaking peach crop, the third greatest in the history of the country, is expected, plan to put up many, many jars of this golden ripe fruit, not only as jam, jelly, or marmalade, but as conserve combined with other fruits.

*Ripe Peach Jelly.

(Makes 6 medium sized glasses)
2 1/2 cups juice
3 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
To prepare juice, pit and crush thoroughly (do not peel) about 2 1/2 pounds fully ripe peaches. Add 1 cup water, bring to a boil and simmer, covered 10 minutes. Add a few peach pits, crushed, to mixture while cooking. Place fruit in a jelly cloth bag and squeeze out juice.

Place the juice over a hot fire, and add fruit pectin. Mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Add the sugar, stirring constantly. Bring to a fully rolling boil, boil hard 1 minute, remove from fire, skim, pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once.

*Peach Marmalade.

(Makes 11 small glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 1/2 cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin
To prepare fruit, peel off the yellow rind of 1 medium orange and 1 medium lemon with sharp knife, leaving as much of the white part on the fruit itself. Put rinds through food chopper twice. Add 3/4 cup water and 1/4 teaspoon soda, bring to a boil and simmer covered 10 minutes.

Cut off the tight skin of the peeled fruit and slip the pulp out of each section. Add pulp and juice and the juice of an additional lemon to the rind, simmer, covered 20 minutes.

Peel 1 1/2 pounds of ripe peaches. Pit, grind or chop fine. Combine with fruits. Mix sugar and fruit, place in a large kettle. Bring to a boil, boil gently 5 minutes. Stir constantly while boiling. Remove from fire, stir in bottled pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly and paraffin at once.

Preserved pears make a good accompaniment either for the meat course or for muffins and rolls served at luncheon. You'll like:

*Pear Chips.

8 pounds pears
4 pounds sugar
1/2 pound ginger (preserved)
4 lemons
Wipe pears, remove stems, quarter and core. Cut into small pieces. Add sugar and ginger and let stand overnight. Add lemons cut in small pieces, rejecting seeds and cook slowly 3 hours. Put into glasses, seal, label and store in a cupboard. Apple butters have long been family favorites since they're so especially nice for children's lunches or snacks when they come in from playing or a hurry-up batch of filled cookies. Thick and delicately spicy, apple butter fills the bill and uses much less sugar than jams and jellies.

*Apple Butter.

(Makes 6 pints)
4 quarts cooked and sieved apples
2 cups sugar
1 teaspoon cloves
1 teaspoon allspice
1 1/2 teaspoons cinnamon
6 cups sugar
2 cups cider vinegar
Combine apples, 2 cups sugar, and spices; cook until thick. Add remaining sugar and vinegar. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal immediately. This may also be cooked in a pressure cooker or in the oven to prevent sticking.

Since some fruits do not convert into jelly easily, a commercial pectin is usually employed to make the fruit jelly properly. Often fruits which jelly easily, that is, those which have sufficient pectin in themselves are used in combination with fruits which do not. Crabapples, unripe grapes, currants, gooseberries, cranberries, quinces, huckleberries, and blackberries jelly well. If enough of them are not used in the combination, better use the pectin and play safe.

Here's a bright and quivery jelly which you'll like to have on hand for fair weather or foul. It's a grand accompaniment for chicken or hot breads:

*Gooseberry and Raspberry Jelly.

(Makes 11 medium glasses)
1 quart ripe gooseberries
1/2 cup water
1 quart red raspberries
6 1/2 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin
Crush and grind thoroughly the gooseberries, add water, bring to a boil. Simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Crush thoroughly the raspberries and combine with gooseberries. Place in jelly bag and squeeze out juice. This should make about 4 1/2 cups juice. If there is a slight shortage of juice add small amount of water to the pulp and squeeze again. Put juice into a 5 to 6-quart saucepan. Place over a hot fire, add fruit pectin, mix well and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in the sugar. Let boil hard for a half a minute. Remove from fire, skim, and pour into jelly glasses. Add hot paraffin immediately.

Conserves ought to have a place of honor on the canning shelf for there's nothing quite so yummy as these sweet, jamlike mixtures of several fruits delightfully enhanced by nuts, meats and raisins. Serve them forth on relish trays or as garnish on meat platters and they'll make a delicacy of the most humble meal.

*Harlequin Conserve.

(Makes 15 6-ounce glasses)
25 ripe peaches
10 red plums
1 fresh pineapple
1 pound white grapes
1 orange
Sugar
1/4 pound walnuts or pecans
Wash fruits thoroughly. Prepare peaches, plums, and pineapple; cut in small pieces. Halve grapes and remove seeds. Slice whole orange very thin. Cook fruits slowly over low heat until soft. Measure, add 3/4 cup sugar for each cup of fruit. Cook over slow heat for 20 minutes, then add nuts. Cook slowly, stirring occasionally until thick and clear, about 1 1/2 hours. Seal in hot sterilized glasses.

To test when jelly is done, dip in a clean spoon and hold it high. When the last drop sheets or flakes off the side of the spoon, remove from the fire. Another way which I like too, is to see if two drops drip off the side of the spoon simultaneously. If they do, the jelly will jell.

Fresh fruit which is ripe should be used for jams, jellies, conserves, marmalades, and preserves. Remove any spots or bruises as they may cause your whole batch to spoil. Cook them as short a time as possible so they will retain their lovely colors and look as though they were brought from garden to glass jars.

Pick a rainy day or a day before you start canning to look over your equipment and get it clean for use. Dirty jars should be boiled in soda water and washed in soap suds. Boil old lids 20 minutes in soda water using 1 teaspoon soda to 1 quart of water.

CARE ESSENTIAL IN FILLING SILO

Dry, Unpacked Materials Spoil Readily.

By PROF. R. C. MILLER

(Agricultural Engineering Department, Ohio State University.)

Most effective results in avoiding spoiled silage are obtained by taking proper precautions in silo construction and by harvesting the silage crop at the right period.

In general, silage spoils because it comes in contact with air after it is placed in the silo. Defects in silo construction, use of material which is too dry to pack well in the silo, and too much speed in filling or too little tramping of the material are the chief agencies that permit air to ruin the silage.

Every type of silo whether it be a permanent upright type, a temporary fence structure, or a trench below ground surface can be built to preserve silage effectively if the material placed in the silo is moist enough to pack well or if water enough is added to permit thorough packing of drier material.

The rule of thumb method for determining the correct moisture content for plants going into a silo is that it should be possible to press or wring water from the chopped material. If that cannot be done, water should be added. Plants with 60 to 75 per cent moisture are at the right stage for silage. Materials placed in the silo while too green may result in considerable losses of juice and produce silage which is unpalatable to livestock.

The spoilage of silage at the top of an above-ground silo or at the end of a trench silo cannot be avoided entirely without prohibitive cost. Repacking at intervals of a few days after the silo is filled or putting chopped, wet straw or other material on top of the silage will reduce the loss.

Considerable silage is lost while the silo is being emptied because too great an area of surface is exposed in feeding. This loss can be reduced by feeding from half the area of a surface silo at a time or by taking a slice only a few inches thick from the end of a trench silo.

Egg Production Reflects

Kind, Quantity of Feed

Efficient egg production is influenced by the amount of feed it is possible to induce each laying hen to eat daily, according to George P. McCarthy, extension poultry husbandman at Texas A. & M. Normally one hen will eat about 80 pounds of feed a year, approximately half of which should be mash and one half grain for best results.

Egg mash, or laying mash, is the important portion of the feed for hens that are expected to lay. Laying mash is a combination of feeds which are high in protein and other ingredients essential for keeping the hens in good health, as well as for producing a maximum number of eggs.

Laying mash must constitute one-half, or 40 pounds, of the yearly ration. The usual mixtures for laying rations comprise 100 pounds protein supplement and 200 pounds of ground home-grown grains to make a suitable mash mixture. The grains may be corn, maize or hegari in combination with oats.

One hundred laying hens will consume about 3 1/2 tons of home grown grains a year, McCarthy adds. If the net income from the flock is figured on the basis of increased return from home produced grain, the producer will find that he sold his grain at about double the market price. In some cases even greater return can be made.

Farm Notes

The 25 per cent of the people in the United States living on the land are furnishing 50 per cent of the increase in the country's population, according to the bureau of agricultural economics.

A dairy bull, after he is two years old, should be kept a little on the thin side rather than fat. He will be more fit for breeding, and this slight limitation of feed need not injure his growth.

The U. S. department of commerce has ceased publication of statistical information on exports of American farm produce and will keep such information secret because of the war.

An effective farm windbreak should have several kinds of trees, including evergreens.

Contrary to many beliefs, the tractor can work more efficiently on curves in farming on the contour than in working up and down the hill.

Good poultrymen will see that their birds are well fed on growing mash, whole corn, whole oats and green feed during the late summer and fall.

Jackets! They Play Important Role in the Fashion Picture

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ACCORDING to fashion's say-so, you must be smartly jacketed everywhere you go. Your play suits, your daytime ensembles, evening dresses and afternoon frocks are all supposed to have complementary jackets, with a few "extras" to be held in readiness to report for duty at the beck and call of time and occasion. So no matter how many jackets you have they will be none too many to include in a fashionable wardrobe.

In a program of interchangeable jackets the secret's out, as to how to go victoriously through the mid-season stretch between summer and actual fall with "flying colors" so far as keeping a well-dressed appearance is concerned. Every woman wants to maintain a refreshing up-to-the-moment look in summer hanger apparel until autumn shades are set. This is quite a "trick" in the art of dressing. Interchangeable jackets that flaunt "the latest" in styling details is an answer.

With the thought in mind that the attractiveness of the jacket fashions pictured might inspire you in a sewing spree venture, we are especially calling your attention to the several pen and ink sketches, selected because the numbers are really very easy to make. You can buy up such pretty remnants at this time of year, so reasonable and with the investment of a little time and effort you will find yourself the happy possessor of jackets that, ingeniously interchanged, will set new tempo for your frocks in keeping with every move of fashion.

Referring to the pen-and-ink sketches, the ones at top to right and left, are of the casual type for town and travel wear. For these remnants of tweed will work up to good advantage and if you want to give them a "last word" touch, embroider a big scroll monogram somewhere about them—on pocket or sleeve or some other strategic point.

Outstanding on the season's program is the sleeveless long-torso jacket, known as the jerkin. It is the schoolgirl's idol and adored by sportswomen. The jerkin sketched at lower right, is easy to make, easy to wear! Use bright corduroy or suede cloth. Jerkin patterns are available anywhere they sell patterns.

Coolie coats, the popular choice for evening wear, are ever so easy to make for they require little or no fitting. The "coolie" sketched at lower left, is a "perfect little treasure." The material used in this instance is prettily embroidered in quaint little posies. Handsome brocade or metal cloth yields beautifully to the coolie treatment. Women of discriminating taste love coolie wraps made of fine wool or silk crepe in subtle pastel greens, violet shades, or Chinese reds. The newest thing is to embellish them with a restricted amount of sequin or bead embroidery. Note the model in the lower oval inset. In this instance the sheer crepe is in a soft stone blue, the embroidery done in silver threads and beadwork.

Sun-Hat and Bag

Here is a practical sun-hat and bag that should interest beach strollers who want to protect their complexion from burning sun rays. The large sun hat worn so appealingly by the young lady as she poses in the picture at the top acts as a perfect "freckle fender."

In the pose below you see how this huge brim folds to pancake size so as to fit into the outer pocket of a made-to-match rubber-lined beach bag. This hat has a navy blue brim with red and white striped crown and the color combination is repeated in the bag.

Accent Is on Luxury Blouse Type for Fall

The blouse program as mapped out for fall and winter will use much luxurious fabric. Pastel metal cloth made up in classic simplicity is one of the happy outlooks. Matching the pastel of the metal weave with crepe in identical tone presents endless possibilities for achieving charming effect. In some instances a bit of the crepe used for the skirt is repeated in stylizing accents on the metal blouse.

Wide use will be made of deep-toned satins and they will be made up similar to the manner suggested above for metal weaves. Silk jersey is also a favored medium. Used in vivid reds, greens or blues to wear with black suits, the new jersey blouses are stunning.

Drastic Changes Seen in New Fall Silhouette

Here are changes you will find as the new silhouettes make their debut this fall. There will be very few if any set-in sleeves. The trend is to deep armhole effects in dolman sleeves, cut all in one with the bodice or blouse top. Bulk above the waistline and slimming of skirts is noted.

Everything is being done to accent lower waistlines, especially with inset belts. Beltless dresses are very new in style stressing sophisticated simplicity.

There will be hosts of pleated fashions that emerge from long-torso lines with pleats manipulated to retain slenderized lines.

Chiffon House Coats

Torrid days call for cool apparel, a need which is filled in very lovely house coats made of pastel chiffons. You can bring the summer to a very happy conclusion wearing one of the very lovely chiffon creations.

STORY OF THE WEEK

Fair Exchange

By STANLEY CORDELL

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

MRS. CLARK BUCKNER likes to talk about her husband. She is forever fretting about him, worrying, it seems, for fear that he will get himself into some sort of mess that will result in disaster or shame for his well-ordered family—a family which, besides Mr. and Mrs. Buckner, consists of two fine boys and a girl.

This continual fretting on the part of Mrs. Buckner is, on the one hand, excusable. Clark, though capable to the nth degree, gives the impression of being helpless.

Yet more than once I have strongly suspected that this simple look on the face of Clark Buckner is a mask behind which he hides. For Clark is indeed shrewd. Smooth-talking strangers, who have selected him as attractive game, have discovered themselves fairly fleeced when their negotiations with Clark are completed. And Clark, as much as they, will act mildly surprised and bewildered at the outcome.

And on the other hand Mrs. Buckner, who has lived with Clark these past 17 years, should, it would seem, be familiar with her husband's traits and cease her worrying about him, which is not the case.

"I'm sure," Mrs. Buckner said to me this particular afternoon as we sat together on the porch of Clark's home, "that sooner or later some one of these business deals Clark is forever entering into will leave us penniless." She stroked the head of her youngest child, Madeline, aged seven, as she talked.

"Of all the folks who know Clark," I suggested, "you, Mrs.

Sari. Sari was their come-on. Her job was to make Clark fall in love with her so that when her friends, the vultures, appeared with the fake stocks, Clark would not dare entertain a doubt or suspicion.

She was all that was necessary to fill in the gap between a good time during his stay in New York and a bad one. He took Sari everywhere. He bought her jewelry. He lavished compliments on her.

The vultures rubbed their hands together. Things couldn't be progressing any more smoothly.

After about three weeks of this, Clark's savings gave out and he decided to go home. He hated to leave, too, he'd been having such a good time. And he hated to leave Sari. Moreover, he'd been enjoying the role of prosperous mining man. He'd enjoyed letting the vultures and Sari believe he was a millionaire.

It was about then that the vultures decided the time was ripe. They printed up a lot of fake stocks, and set off for Clark's room on the last evening of his stay in the big city.

In the meantime Clark, who at heart was as honest as the day is long, and who had come to love Sari sincerely, had decided that he couldn't go off leaving this little slip of a girl in a disillusioned state. That very afternoon he called at her apartment and told everything.

At first she wouldn't believe him, but as he talked and she saw the utter innocence and simplicity of the man, she came to know the truth. It was this impression of innocence and simplicity that Clark radiated that made Sari do the thing she did. Instead of flying into a rage, upbraiding him, scolding his attentions, she put her arms around his neck and told him what a dumb, stupid idiot he was. She told him about the vultures, and gave a brief outline of her own mission in life. She told him that he was the only man who had ever warmed the cockles of her heart or treated her like a lady. She told him he'd better get out of town within the next hour or the vultures would descend and perhaps do him serious bodily harm. Then she put his hat on his head, kissed him tenderly and told him to go home and mind the chickens.

Mrs. Buckner paused in the telling of her tale, and I asked, deeply amused, "And so it was the impression Clark gives folks that got him out of that mess—by the skin of his teeth?"

"No," said Mrs. Buckner, "it wasn't. When Clark realized what might happen to Sari if he left her there alone—what the vultures might do, he decided to stay. Which he did. The vultures arrived with their bogus stock and Clark bought a lot of it. In payment he deeded them a mine, a whole mine, and they went away happy." Mrs. Buckner paused and laughed at the memory. "I've often wondered," she said, "how those vultures felt when they tried to dispose of the property which didn't even exist."

"But what about Sari?" I asked, a little impatiently. "What happened to her?"

Mrs. Buckner looked up at me and there was faint surprise in her eyes. "Why," she said, "couldn't you guess? Clark married Sari, of course." And she smiled even more brightly, and looked down happily into Madeline's upturned face.

Immunize Dogs Against Rabies, Doctors Advice

Most of us like animals. It is natural for children to like dogs, cats, birds and rabbits. In cities, especially, the child who has a pet gets, in a small way, the contact with animal life which the country child enjoys as part of his life. So if children are to have pets, parents must know just how to prevent these pets from possibly communicating any diseases or parasites to the members of the family.

To be safe, every dog and cat should be immunized against rabies. Rabies—or hydrophobia, as it is more commonly known—is caused by a germ which is transmitted from one animal to another, or to a human, by a bite of the infected animal. Your pet can be immunized so that the bite of a "mad" dog will not communicate the disease to him. This, then, is a protection for your child and his pet. Each year have a veterinarian inject the animal with immunizing vaccine against rabies.

Fleas, lice, mites, ticks are tiny parasites which attack pets and may attack their owners. Such infestations are nuisances rather than dangers, although one of the most fearful diseases of mankind is the bubonic plague, carried by fleas which naturally live on rats and other animals, and thus spread the disease. Various preparations are available to help keep the family pet free of fleas and lice. If a pet is to be part of a household, it should be someone's responsibility to keep the animal free from parasites.

There are several types of human skin diseases called "ringworm." These skin troubles are caused by a form of mold, a tiny vegetable growth which gets into the skin and grows there.

She put his hat on his head, kissed him tenderly and told him to go home and mind the chickens.

Buckner, should be more certain than any that no city slicker can get the best of him; that his family will never be in want."

Her head came up as I spoke and a smile came to rest in her eyes, as if my words had enlivened a dim memory.

"Yes," she said, staring vacantly out over the lawn, "yes, I suppose I should." And then after a moment, "it reminds me of the time Clark went to New York." She looked at me, smiling. "Has Clark ever told you about the time he went to New York?"

I shook my head. At the moment I was waiting for Clark to keep a fishing appointment with me. He was late, as usual, and so I lit my pipe and settled back to hear Mrs. Buckner's story.

It was a long time ago (began Mrs. Buckner). Clark had made some money on his little farm here and decided he ought to go to New York to celebrate. He was always, as you know, a fine-looking man, and when he dressed up in a new suit of clothes and bought himself a Panama hat he certainly looked handsome.

But they spotted him—those vultures who are forever on duty before the gates of incoming trains at the Grand Central station—for just what he was: a yokel from the sticks with some money to spend.

They followed him to his hotel and that evening managed to strike up an acquaintance. Clark seemed pleased at their friendliness and invited them up to his room. Clark, sensing that his two guests suspected him of being a prosperous merchant or some such thing, decided not to be disappointing. He painted a picture that made the vultures mouths water. He told them he was a mining man from the Middle West, hinting that he'd recently sold one of his properties for a sum that made the vultures' eyes light with greed.

Shortly after that the vultures departed and Clark chuckled at his little joke.

But, Clark, of course, couldn't guess what was in store for him. He didn't know that the vultures had taken in every word of that story, had decided that he was bigger game than they anticipated. If Clark had merely had a thick roll of bills they would have robbed him and called it a day. Owning mines was different. It would take time and ingenuity to get him to sign over the ownership of a mine.

The first step was to win Clark's confidence. And no man can accomplish this task of winning another's confidence like a woman. So the two vultures introduced Clark to

Business Was Going On As Usual Despite Repairs

He was an Englishman and a high-speed salesman who had joined the army, gone into action, and had been seriously wounded. For several days he lay delirious at the base hospital, but eventually he turned the corner, and slowly started the climb back to health.

On the first day of his recovery he was surprised to see all the nurses standing around his bed, offering him money.

"Why, what is this for?" he asked. "I do not understand."

"This is for the radios, refrigerators and vacuum sweepers you sold us while you were unconscious," they chorused.

State Bridge Tournament to be Held at Algoma

How has your bridge game been during this latest siege of hot sultry weather? We'll bet it hasn't been as hot as the weather. 100 degree temperatures and 100% humidity are natural enemies. You probably squirmed and fidgeted, wiped the perspiration off your brow, shifted your carcass about in your chair a few times, and made the best of a bad evening. Maybe you even gave up the game for the summer.

If you like to play and haven't enjoyed yourself these past weeks, just picture the following scene. You are sitting by a card table in a beautiful building. As you reach for your cards you gaze contentedly out the window at the east expanse of Lake Michigan. You relax in the cool soft summer breeze wafting in over the waves. You look at your cards—four aces and four kings! A passing thought of the tasty chicken dinner you are going to eat two hours hence fills you with contentment. Smiling benignly at your opponents, you bid three no-trump. Life is beautiful and serene!

We can absolutely guarantee you all the above items (excepting the four aces and kings) if you enter the Wisconsin-Michigan Lake Shore Fair Championship Bridge Tournament which will be held in the American Legion Dugout on the shores of Lake Michigan at Algoma Saturday and Sunday, August 16-17. Algoma is the coolest spot in Wisconsin (not according to "Two Rivers") and the temperature is expected to hover 68 degrees over the week end. Hanson Shestock, who boasts Algoma for a hometown, can confirm this.

If you like to play bridge and want a nice weekend vacation, this is a splendid opportunity. Contrary to public opinion, you don't have to be good to enter, you have to be good to win. You play with your own partner throughout, so you can play as good or as bad as you want.

On Saturday evening, a dinner will be served at Hruska's Alaska Resort, which enjoys a reputation of serving the best chicken dinner in Wisconsin. In addition to cards, there will be music, dancing, refreshments, mechanical bandits, entertainment, stunts, harmonizing and hilarity to your hearts content. The entry fee is only $2.50 to $3.50 including the dinner.

So if you want a weekend away from the torrid heat, just drop in the Enterprise and we will give you any information you desire.

NOSING THE NEWS BY RUSS DEVITT

And one wonders whether on the stage of the Orient the scenery is being moved for a war between the United States and Japan. And if Hitler can bring enough pressure to bear upon the Nipponese, war will be the result. And even though Japanese newspapers openly state that Japan must needs prepare for the eventuality of war with the United States, war is as yet a long way removed.

And if Russia continues to hold off the Nazi invaders for another month or six weeks it is a pretty safe bet that there will not be war. For Japan who has struggled for half a century to gain her place in the sun is not going to relinquish that place as the dominant power in the far east by hitching her wagon to a comet which has already begun its descent. And that will be the situation of Hitler's Nazi Germany if the madman's war machine is stalemated on the broad plains of Russia.

And the most startling result of the Japanese situation in this country has been the drastic curtailing and shutting off of silk by the government. And the government needs the silk for parachutes. And yet the ladies need the silk for their stockings. And so women all over the country have been storming the department stores to lay in a supply of the now suddenly precious silk hose. And "milady" faces the drear prospect of having to wear cotton, lisle, rayon, and nylon stockings.

And when Miss America and Mrs. America go to the movies and see fliers and paratroops fluttering to earth dangling from silk parachutes they can whisper patriotically to their boy friend or husband, "there goes my silk stockings." And even though the female is quite perturbed about the impending catastrophe to their shapely limbs the male is not. And to the average man the average woman will be no less attractive because her legs are covered with cotton where once they were clad in sheer silk. So cheer up girls.

A Little Bit of DRIFTWOOD

IN REVERIE
 In the west, the weary Day
 Folds its amber wings and dies;
 Night, the long delaying Night
 Walks abroad in starry guise.

Rest more precious than a sleep,
 Silence sweeter than a dream,—
 These enfold me as I float,
 Idle waif on idle stream.

In the rippling trees I hear
 Flowing waves and dipping oars;
 And beloved voices near
 Seem to steal from fading shores.

Fainter, fainter, fainter still,
 By no breath of passion crossed,
 With the tide I drift and glide
 Out to sea—and all is lost.

 Hobo: "No, lady, not all. Many's the time I wished I had a car."

CAN'T BE TOO CAREFUL

Three men visited a bar. "I'll have a root beer," said the first. The bartender turned to the second one. "I'll have an orangeade," was the order. The bartender turned to the third—who said: "And I'll just have a glass of water. You see, I'm driving."

ONE IN A MILLION

A traveler in a Pullman was in doubt about the tip he should give the negro porter, so he said to him: "What is the average tip you get?"
 "Two dollars, sah."

The traveler gave him $2, whereupon the negro clapped his hands delightedly.
 "What's the idea?" asked the traveler.
 "Well, sah," said the negro, "you is de first man dat ever came up to de average."

Wisconsin Fair Offers Super-Speed

When it comes to speed events the Wisconsin State Fair, Milwaukee, Aug. 16-24, will be absolute "tops." The Wisconsin Fair is the only one in the nation this year offering the three recognized major speed attractions: Grand Circuit harness racing, Aug. 16-20; AAA automobile races, Aug. 21 and 22 with the 100-mile national dirt track championship, Sunday, Aug. 24. A fourth feature will be the Fair's first night thrill show, Sunday, Aug. 24, with 25 daring and spine-tormenting exploits. The pictures show the fast mile dirt track at the Fair grounds.

It isn't news when guests absent-mindedly take home nearly full packages of their host's cigarettes, but it's news when any guest absent-mindedly leaves a half-empty package behind him.

 Patient: "Doctor, I must tell you that this is my first operation, and that I'm nearly scared to death."
 Youthful Surgeon: "Yes, I know exactly how you feel. It's also my first one."

 Boarder: "I found a nickel in my hash!"
 Landlady: "Yes, it put it there. You have been complaining about the lack of change in your meals."

 Sarge: "How come you didn't turn out? Didn't you hear the bugler blow reveille?"
 Buck: "Honest, Sarge, I'm afraid I'm going to be a flop as a soldier. I don't know one tune from another."

 A news item says that statisticians find that nine out of ten women are knock-kneed. And for years we've been thinking that statisticians never had any fun!
