The Circuit Judge in Milwaukee, in the criminal case in which two young ladies and two ex-soldiers figure as complainants, witnesses and defendants, ordered that all under twenty-one years of age be excluded from the courtroom that they might not be led astray by the sensational testimony.

The daily newspapers published photos of the parties and questions of attorneys and answers of witnesses. What good did the order do? Would that the great dailies would enjoy something besides sensational matters.

The Royal Neighbors will install officers on the third Tuesday in January that date being their regular meeting night.

Andrew Steel, of the Wisconsin Plumbing and Heating Supply company, of Milwaukee, was in Eagle Monday to look over the heating plant installed at the Lohb home. He was much pleased over the work of Joseph Massino and the satisfaction the plant is giving. Mr. Steel is the son of the late Dr. Steele of Genesee, and has pleasant memories of the Eagle of his boyhood days.

Lieut. Duffin was a guest at the Frank Baker home over the holiday. He served overseas and was one of the party selected to accompany General Pershing in his travels. He returned in September.

On December 30th Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baker entertained Richard Baker and family, Wm. B. Baker and family, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lyons, Mr. and Mrs. Levi W. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Baker, Ralph Baker. All had a pleasant day.

Emery, Alfred Minett, John Ebbott, Walter Reed, J. W. Baker, F. J. Southcott, Earle Southcott, Harry Bealben, and others, started out Wednesday morning through the wilds and swamps of Eagle and Ottawa and succeeded in killing one wolf in Pabst swamp. Yesterday another party started out to clear the country of wolves.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Logan are visiting relatives in Milwaukee. They spent New Year's with Mr. Logan's sister, Mrs. W. L. Henry.

J. V. Groshong sold his personal property at auction yesterday. Jack White served as auctioneer. The former will move to Milwaukee, where he has property interests.

Mrs. Frank Seefeld was called to Franklin, Wis., Tuesday on account of the serious illness of her father, Mr. Davitz. We all hope for his recovery.

Mrs. Ed. Bossingham is up and around again after a severe illness. A number of men from here were employed at Milton Junction repairing the railway track which was damaged by a recent railroad accident.

Mrs. Ed. Bossingham received word that her son, Edward, met with an accident in Indianapolis, while crossing a railroad in his auto.

Mrs. H. M. Youmans of Waukesha was appointed chairman of the woman's division of the Wisconsin republican state central committee by Chairman West of the Republican State Central committee. It is but meet and just that we say Mr. West made a good choice. Mrs. Youmans is active in the interests of women and will no doubt carry that activity in to the political field. In the Sunday Sentinel she gave her reason for joining the Republican party; namely, that she believed the greatest good could be attained through that party rather than through any other party. Men granted women the right to vote and therefore should not complain.

The annual meeting of the Mukwonago Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company was held at Eagle Monday. President Stockman officiated, and Secretary Goodman served in his official capacity. The report shows the company to be in a prosperous condition and as a compliment all the officers were re-elected. The attendance, as usual, was not large, all having implicit confidence in the management. We publish the annual report in another column.

STILL THERE IS ALWAYS THE CLIMATE

The Californian gets up to the alarm of a Connecticut clock; but his Chicago suspenders to Detroit overalls; washes his face with Cincinnati soap in a Pennsylvania basin; wipes on a Rhode Island towel; sits up to a Grand Rapids table; eats Kansas City meat and Minneapolis flour, Idaho potatoes cooked with Indiana lard on a St. Louis stove burning Wyoming coal; puts a New York bride on a Colorado bronco fed with Iowa corn; plows 5 acres of corn land (covered with an Ohio mortgage) with a Chattanooga plow.

When bed time comes he reads a chapter in a Boston printed Bible; says a prayer written in Jerusalem; crawls under a blanket made in New Jersey, only to be kept awake by fleas—the only exclusive product of his own state.

MADE LOVE TO NINE WIDOWS BUT LOST ELECTION

Clarion, Pa.—The law requires candidates for office to file a report of all expenditure. A patriot of Clarion county ran for office and turned in the following absolutely truthful report of what it cost him not to get elected:

"Lost 1,349 hours' sleep thinking about the election.

"Lost two front teeth and a lot of hair in a personal encounter with an opponent.

"Donated one beef, four shoats and five sheep to country barbecues. Gave away two pairs of suspenders, four calico dresses and $5 in cash.

"Kissed 126 babies. Put up four stoves. Kindled fourteen fires. Walked 4,076 miles. Spook hands with 9,508 people. Told 10,101 lies, and talked enough to make in print 1,000 columns. Attended sixteen revivals and contributed $50 to foreign missions. Made love to nine widows—five grass, four sod. Hugged forty-nine old maids. Got dog bit thirty-nine times—and was not elected by 353 votes."

SCHOOL NOTES

The pupils have again resumed their work at school, after a vacation of two weeks.

County Superintendent G. B. Rhoads and State School Inspector G. Drewry visited school Monday.

Vida Colton and Louise Litzler are absent from school this week on account of illness.

John Plesnik has been enrolled in the 2nd grade.

Frances Von Ruedon was absent from school a couple of days on account of illness.

Nita Whettam has been quite ill this week.

Thirty counties in the state are having farmers' institutes this year.

Bees, buckwheat, and berries with clover and cows on the side are the three bets for the farmer on light sandy soils, says the bee man. Strawberries, blackberries, raspberries, blueberries, clover blossoms and buckwheat for the bees; clover hay for the cows; clover seed and buckwheat for the market.

ASK DECENNIAL QUESTIONS

CENSUS FOLK BUSY ALL DAY FOR UNCLE SAM

POOR ANN CAN'T ESCAPE NOW

Queries of as Wide Range as an Operatic Voice. You'll Know Heaps About Yourself

Yes, it's hard on Ann—but Uncle Sam says she must.

Ann may be keeping the truth about her years from everyone but her fond parents and those few family friends who always remember at inconvenient times just how long ago Ann appeared upon life's scene. But just the same, when the census man or the census lady comes around, he or she is going to ask the question, "How old is Ann? He or she has Uncle Sam's authority to receive a correct answer. But Uncle Sam is always considerate of the ladies and he has sworn the enumerators to secrecy on all information they derive. So Ann may as well tell the truth and tell it quickly and then rest in knowledge that no one else will be told about it anyway, so there! And if she was born in early January she can shave a whole year off the real truth anyway, because it's her age at the 1919 birthday that will be wanted.

Then there's the question of color or race. Uncle Sam provides for these: White, black, mulatto, Indian, Chinese, Japanese, Filipino, Hindu and Korean. If you are of some race beside these you will be marked "Other" on the records. "Black" means a negro of full blood. If there is any white mixed with it, he will be classed as a mulatto.

"Were you single, married, widowed or divorced, on the date of Jan. 1, 1920?"

"Where were you born?" "Where were your father and your mother born?" If in the United States, give the enumerator the name of the state in which born, Kentucky, Maryland, Wisconsin, or whatever it is. If in a foreign country, give both province and country.

"Occupation, please?" Now don't say "I'm a clerk at Potts & Pann's store." You will save time by saying: "Salesman, hardware store."

If you are a salesman on the road, call yourself commercial traveler.

Then comes the matter of education. "Can you read? Write? Do you speak English?" "If you are of foreign birth, when did you come to America? Are you a naturalized citizen? Since when?" "What language did you speak in your mother country?" These answers should be of great value in this day when Americanization is so important a problem.

"Do you own your own home and is it all paid for or is there an encumbrance or mortgage on it?" Waukesha should show a big percentage of home owners—75%, perhaps, or more.

Be thinking over all these matters and have them at your tongue's tip when the enumerator calls.

And in the Country

It's in the country, particularly, where everyone interrogated will win he had kept figures on his income and outgo and general activities during the year past. For the enumerator will ask everything from a complete outline of your experience as a farmer, to the number of currants you sold last year and what you received for them. And he will pay his respects, in detail, to the cows and the sheep and even the goats and guinea hens that inhabit your premises. He even has a place in his records for the number of watermelons you grew.

Not Impertinent—Just Necessary Please, please be as prompt and accurate in giving all this necessary information as you can. The census workers are not asking out of curiosity. They're asking because the government of these United States finds this information necessary and valuable and you may do your "bit" very patriotically by helping in every way possible.

That old dresser allowed to escape from the gingerbread work it has long had to bear, may be a surprisingly good piece of furniture. With the mirror hung separately it may look even better. If the wood is good, as that of much old furniture is, why cover it with paint? Take off the finish with steel wool varnish remover, and sandpaper, and give it the kind of coat you want.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP FOR WOMEN

(Theodora W. Youmans, editor)

This department has changed its name. It still remains a woman suffrage department but it takes on new characteristics. It will aim to help the women of this county to prepare for the duties which have been laid upon them by the legislature in giving them the right to vote for Presidential electors, and for the still broader duties which will come to them when the partial suffrage they now have gives place to full suffrage, the same as that enjoyed by men.

A PERSONAL WORD

I have joined the Republican party because I believe I shall be able to promote the cause in which I am vitally interested, the cause of first-class American citizenship, more effectively through the Republican party than through any other party or by remaining independent of all parties.

The government of this country is carried on by political parties. I do not see how government by the people can be conducted in any way except by the people forming themselves into groups or parties, each group bound together by a common belief in some fundamental principles of government.

The first president of the republic, George Washington, advised against the formation of parties but in spite of his great influence parties began even in his day. The bitterness of their hostility to each other and the frankness of expression of that hostility are startling to us now even in our most acrimonious discussions.

Parties have changed in name and principle to meet changing conditions in the past and other chances will no doubt come in the future. Many people who censure political parties so bitterly are really only desirous of a new political party based on their own political ideas.

Every one who votes at the next general election will have to vote for the candidates and policies of some party, unless they cast votes which at best may be regarded only as a protest.

Women who remain non-partisan will have to accept policies and candidates as presented to them by the parties. Women who join parties have a chance to influence the policy and the selection of candidates by those parties. This possibility of inside influence seems to me very valuable.

Party membership as I understand it does not imply the abdication of mind and conscience. One may agree with a party on general principles and disagree sharply on some special principle or candidate.

I hope women members will retain sufficient independence to think for themselves and to choose what under all circumstances appears right and best.

The war has shown us what we lack as a nation. It has shown us too the fine, exalted, self-sacrificing, citizenship of which our men and women are capable. Women voters, with their sturdy belief in the ballot, their visions and ideals, are now for the first time a national force in politics.

It is the psychological moment for the nation to advance to a higher type of Americanism, for new standards and new methods. I believe the Republican party will prove responsive to this impulse. We women are deeply interested in education, in industrial and moral conditions, in the health and welfare of individuals, and of course, in the general prosperity of the nation.

The record of the Republican party on these general questions in the past I find better than the record of any other party. Therefore it seems reasonable to expect further advance along these lines from the Republican party than from any other.

The Peace Treaty and the League of Nations seems to me a national and not a party question. I greatly deprecate the partnership apparent in the discussion.

The Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association, which I have served as president for seven years, is a strictly non-partisan organization. It includes in its membership women of many shades of political opinion and it has appealed for support to men and women of equal differences. Non-partisanship is the only right and proper stand for such an organization.

However, the work of the Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association is almost done. The organization will go out of existence in a few weeks and will be succeeded by the Wisconsin League of Women Voters whose object is to educate women to use intelligently and patriotically their hard-ly won ballots.

The league is also necessarily non-partisan and appeals to all women. I am not a candidate for the presidency of this organization but I am ardently in sympathy with it and shall do everything possible to help it along. The Wisconsin Woman's Suffrage Association has already undertaken a comprehensive plan for teaching citizenship to Wisconsin women and we hope this plan will be adopted and the work carried on by the League of Women Voters.

Every woman should be interested in good citizenship and should realize her personal responsibility for community welfare. Every woman must decide for herself through what medium she may hope to use her influence most effectively.

TOO CUT AND DRIED

Hartland News:—On the threshold of 1920, the women of the country have a new opportunity awaiting their interest—the participation in the national political question. They will be called upon to assist in the election of a president of the United States. All government is accomplished through political parties, and it will be necessary for women to ally themselves with the great political organizations that control these matters. This is not going to be an easy thing for women to do. Women are by nature, life and thought thoroughly unpartisan. It is going to be difficult for them to ally themselves with a party, all of whose tenets they perhaps do not approve, but if they are going to count in the political work they will have to choose the party which to their mind embodies the principles of greatest importance and overlook the minor things which are not vital. Women will hardly become so thoroughly partisan in their views as men. In other words, women will change their minds frequently—and we believe it will be a good thing to carry this out in politics, which are all too much cut and dried now.

CHAIRMAN HAYS' VIEWS

Following are selections from a speech by Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican National Committee:

"There are two natural inquires from women new in politics. (1) What does the Republican party offer the women? (2) What does the Republican party stand for?"

"The Republican party offers the women everything we offer the men. The only just rule for a political party is that the rights of participation in the management of the party's affairs must be and remain equally sacred and sacredly equal. The Republican women in the country constitute one-half of the party's membership. In many states this has long been so. In the Presidential campaign of 1920 it is my very earnest hope and well-founded judgment that it shall be so everywhere.

The Republican women come into the party activity not as women but as voters, entitled to participate and participating, just as other voters. Their activity is not supplementary, ancillary or secondary at all. They are units in the party membership, and where the suffrage for them is new they come in just as men have come in when they have reached the voting age. They are not to be separated or segregated, but assimilated and amalgamated, with just that full consideration due every working member of the party in the rights of their full citizenship. There is to be no separate women's organization created within the party, except and only in those cases where such an arrangement may be needed temporarily as an efficient aid in the complete amalgamation which is our objective.

"To women and to men alike the party offers the right of a political self-determination, and that is the answer to the second query, 'What does the party stand for?' Within the Republican party there is and must be full political self-determination. It is entirely up to the party membership to say what the party's purpose shall be, what its policies shall become. This fundamentally is what we offer the women—the chance to express themselves. We have no hard and fast set of rules, no unalterable list of dogmas which we present to women and say, 'There it is. Take it or leave it.' Instead, we offer the open forms in the party organization which is always open to conversion from within. With this complete participation, it is your problem as much as it is the problem of the men to determine what the party stands for, and thus you work out the answer to your own inquiry."

THE BIGGEST CHRISTMAS GIFT

F. W. Bowron of Summit claims that he received the most valuable Christmas present this year of any one in this vicinity. Although he received it some time ago he still considers it a Christmas present. The gift was from his sister-in-law, Mrs. Niles Bowron, who deeded him her right and title to her half of the southeast quarter of section 23, and other lands in the town of Summit. Considering the present price of land, it was certainly some gift.—Oconomowoc Enterprise.

CANDIDATES MUST ANSWER

ARE ANY FAVORING ENTANGLING ALLIANCES?
WILL PROBABLY BE ISSUE

The People Will Demand to Know Where They Are Headed For

As one of the leading candidates for the Republican nomination for president, Gov. Lowden of Illinois is asked to declare his stand on the league of nations and the question of foreign entanglements generally. The proposition is put up to him in a letter addressed to him by Senator Borah of Idaho.

The senator asks the governor to state:

Whether as president he would maintain, abandon, or modify the traditional policy of the nation to enter no entangling alliances or would participate in partnerships and understandings with European nations.

Whether he favors any "alliance, league, or partnership" under the terms of which the lives of Americans might be sacrificed in military participation in foreign quarrels, as the lives of American soldiers have been sacrificed in Russia at the behest of the European allies, but "in violation of the constitution of the United States."

Others to Get Letters
Senator Borah believes that these questions will be issues in the forthcoming presidential election, and he intends to address a similar letter to Gen. Leonard Wood and other Republican aspirants.

Before and after the election, he says, powerful influences at home and abroad will continue to be exerted, either openly or secretly, to bind the United States to a league requiring American participation in the "racial and dynastic battles of the old world," and he dwells on the employment of American troops in an unauthorized operation of the league of nations.

Policy Century and Half Old
Senator Borah's letter, after saying that he is sure Gov. Lowden will agree with him "that party platforms are not quite so important as the views and convictions of the successful candidate, continues:

"For nearly a hundred and fifty years we have in this country regardless of parties adhered to a distinct foreign policy—no entangling alliances or partnerships with foreign powers in American affairs. Under this policy we have grown to our present commanding position in the world of affairs. If you should be nominated and elected president and sit in the place of Washington and Jefferson, of Jackson and Lincoln, all of whom earnestly and consistently sustained this policy, would you exert your influence and the influence of your administration to maintain this foreign policy or would you consent in any way to its abandonment or its substantial modification? Do you believe, in other words, that the time has come when we should abandon the policy of no entangling alliances, no partnerships with European powers, and enter into alliances or understandings with European powers?"

Trying to Involve U. S.

Senator Borah says it might be possible to avoid this issue in a campaign, "although the outlook for that is not promising," but it will not be possible to avoid it during the next administration.

"Powerful influences in this country," he continues, "cooperating with equally powerful and persistent forces in Europe, are determined to draw the United States into association and partnership with European powers, to embroil us in all European turmoils and conflicts, to utilize our young men in policing the territories and fighting the racial and dynastic battles of the old world and placing upon our taxpayers the burden of the financial and economic life of both Europe and Asia, and these forces will continue their effort to bring about these things after election. If they cannot do it in one way they will do it in another. If they cannot succeed by open agreement they will endeavor to succeed by secret or tacit agreements.

"We, many of us, feel therefore that we would like to know what your views are upon this problem and what it will be your purpose to do should you be honored by an election as president."

GIFTS TO THE HISTORICAL ROOM

The following gifts to the Historical society have lately been added to the collection at the Court House: one Carroll college catalog, 1855-6, letters to Wm. ### DIED IN SIBERIA

Mrs. Charles Sizer received a message a few days ago telling of the death of Glenn Root, formerly of this city. His death occurred on Dec. 10 in Siberia, where he was serving with the American troops. He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Root, former residents of Oconomowoc, during which time Mr. Root was employed as linotype operator at the Enterprise office for several years.—Oconomowoc Enterprise.

"Old Faithful" HEMLOCK HOME MADE SILO

Some people build this Silo because it costs less. Some build it because they can get the stock at once right from regular lumber yard stock; some because it is one of the very best Silos in existence (many say the very best).

Anyhow, all these reasons together make it certainly worth investigating and we want to present you with a fine book on the subject, and later if you decide to build it, we will supply free the plans and full instructions for building and rot proofing. Let us hear from you.

HEALTH HINTS GLEANED IN THE COUNTY'S SCHOOLS.
By Aurel Baker, R. N., County Nurse.

The amount of work accomplished in December has been much less than the preceding months due to difficulty in train travel and the holiday recess. However, a fair showing has been made and these are the figures:

Number of schools visited, 6; time spent in schools, 11 days; number of treatments in school, 8; talks made to school children, 7; inspection of buildings and premises, 6; number of pupils inspected, 319. Of the pupils inspected the following defects were found: Having defective teeth, 183; having defective tonsils, 37; having defective eyesight, 28; having defective hearing, 8; having granulated eyelids, 3; having enlarged thyroid glands, 5; having adenoids, 10. 110 children were found to be under weight and 212 notices of defects were sent to parents. Besides the work indicated by the above tabulation, I revisited the school in the town of New Butler where I was very much gratified to learn of the number of corrections of physical defects which had been made as a result of my first visit in that place. I also made a home call in this town where suggestions were made relative to the feeding of two infants.

Four days of December I spent in Chicago attending the convention of Public Health Nurses for Central Division. There was a great deal of interest and inspiration derived from this meeting. Although the number of nurses present from Wisconsin did not compare with those from Michigan and Illinois, still a great amount of praise was given to Wisconsin for her progressiveness in Public Health work. And it is with a feeling of pleasure and pride that I return to begin the work of the new year in Waukesha county asking for the co-operation of its citizens.

BOYS AND GIRLS CLUBS MAKE GREAT RECORD
Wisconsin Has Reason for Pride in its Farmer Lads and Lassies

The boys' and girls' clubs of Wisconsin did nearly a half million dollars worth of business in 1919, according to T. L. Bewick, state club leader, who recently compiled a list of the club activities and the profits. The net profit from all the club projects was $269,840.73, the total value of the products was $486,214.67.

The potato clubs did by far the biggest business—$175,707.65, and their net profit was $113,493.53. The club enrollment was third largest, poultry clubs and garden clubs passing them in enrollment. The garden clubs and the litter pigs clubs were the next highest in total profits, but dairy calf clubs were also high.

The individual club member who chose to raise a litter of pigs as his piece of club work had the most profitable business of all, the average amount returned to each club member being $107.86. Of the total enrollment of 442 members 343 reported and their net profit was $36,990.50. Potato growers stood next highest in individual returns, with $92.72 for each of the 1,224 members reporting. The 58 baby beef club members averaged $83.23 each.

Total enrollment in the 1,252 clubs of the state was 17,831. Of this number 8853 members reported to Mr. Bewick the results of their year's work, and from their reports the figures were summed up.

NEW ARMY SHOES TO BE ON MARKET SOON

The War department authorizes publication of the following statement from the office of the Director of Sales:

The Director of Sales announces that the War department has declared surplus and is preparing to offer for sale at fixed prices to the American public, through the Army Quartermaster retail stores, approximately 1,900,000 pairs of new army shoes made in the Munson last. This is the first offer made by the War Department to sell new army inspected shoes.

The Quartermaster General of the Army has issued instructions for the distribution of approximately 1,000,000 pairs of these shoes to the 25 retail stores now being operated under his supervision, and they will be available to the public as soon as delivery to the stores can be effected. The superintendent of each store will make local announcement of the date on which the shoe will be placed on sale in his store. The remainder of the surplus will be distributed to the army retail stores in accordance with the demand developed for them.

The surplus stock includes three classes, namely, the chocolate-colored marching shoe, which will be sold in the retail stores, both over the counter and delivered on mail orders, at $8.25 per pair; a heavy-weight metallic fastened shoe that was manufacturer for field use, which will retail at $7.50 per pair; and a welt shoe, which will also sell at $7.50 per pair. The shoes to be placed in the army retail stores will range in size from 5's to 15's and in widths from A to EE. Sizes smaller than 7½, however, will be limited in number.

At the prevailing price of shoes in the commercial market, these army shoes are of exceptional value. They were manufactured from the highest grade of leather obtainable, every piece of leather, after being cut for manufacture of a shoe was inspected before being assembled, and each shoe was subjected in the course of assembling to a series of detailed inspections. The leather which went into their manufacture was tanned in accordance with army specifications, and the process of tanning pursued was designed to make them as water resisting as possible. They are the nearest approach to a water proof shoe now on the market. The uppers are practically indestructible. Shoes of similar type issued to the American soldiers in France were resoled and reissued in instances as many as three and four times.

The surplus of the chocolate-colored marching shoe, which will retail at $8.25, is approximately 265,000 pairs. The upper of this shoe is made with the grain of the leather outside. The sole is metallic fastened. This shoe will take a polish, and is sufficiently dressy in appearance to suit the purpose of the business man whose vocation keeps him out of doors and entails considerable walking. About half of the remaining surplus is comprised of welt shoes, which are of a weight adapted for general work and walking. The other half of the stock consists of heavy metallic field shoes, and heavy welt shoes. These shoes are particularly suited for use by miners, employees of rolling mills, and others engaged in heavy labor. Both the welt and heavy metallic fastened field shoes are described to the trade as finished "flesh out." The light weight welt has two soles. The heavy weight welt has two full soles. The greater number of the heavy weight, metallic fastened shoes have three full soles.

The declaration of surplus of this stock of shoes was made following the adoption by the General Staff of the Army, a few weeks ago, of a universal shoe for field, marching and dress purposes. Previously the army has issued three distinct types of shoes: suitable, namely, for field, marching, and dress uses. The new shoe, or universal type, is made on the Munson last, but the specifications are a modification of those under which the shoes declared surplus were manufactured.

The Munson last on which these surplus shoes were made has proven through years of experience to be better adapted for the natural development of the foot than any other shoe last used either in commercial trade in the United States, or by the supply services of foreign armies.

Many of the shoes now to be placed on sale in the Army Quartermaster stores have been hob-nailed. These nails, should their presence prove unsatisfactory, can be readily removed without resort to the services of a cobbler. The holes left by the nails should be billeted with wooden pegs. Billeting the soles with wooden pegs, as suggested, adds to the life of the sole. British manufacturers of heavy weight shoes are accustomed to billeting the soles of the shoes which they manufacture with wooden pegs to prolong the life of the sole.

SOME FACTS REGARDING NATIONAL GUARD SUBJECT

(By Byron Beveridge)
Madison, Wisconsin.—Admitting that some kind of national defense must be maintained, here are figures for the tax payer to digest. The army staff provides for $900,000,000 for the support of the army and $85,000,000 for the national guard, each to be $500,000. Prior to the war it cost $1,000 a year for each soldier in the regular army and $85 a year for each national guardsman, the latter including both federal and state appropriation. Notwithstanding the difference in cost four of the first six divisions to go to France were National Guard, including Wisconsin troops. The national guard company also brings to its community from $10,000 to $15,000, a year in allowances and pay for drill, bringing much of the cost of maintenance back to the community. For the $10,000 to $15,000 does not include the camp pay that comes back to the company's station to be spent by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Catarrrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured
