Miss Marion Fraser Dies From Injuries Received While Mixing Chemicals From East Troy News

A most tragic accident occured at by a friend from Pvt. BillyBetenz. about 4:15 p. m. on Wednesday of last week, which caused the death of Miss Marion Fraser, aged 23 years, employed at George Schwartz's drug store, East Troy, Wis.

Miss Fraser was using an iron mortar and pestle to remove the lumps in powdered chlorate of potash. chlorate of potash by itself is not explosive. The actual mixing of ingredients is done outside of a mortar. The explosion, especially the violence of the same, cannot be explained.

Explosion Terrific

AT HOME TO SUMMER

In a recent poll, 37 per cent of the thousands of homemakers receiving questionnaires expressed a desire to be experts at salad making . . . 43 per cent wanted to know how to make food look glamorous. This report gave me an idea

Salads, besides being healthful and givers of vim, vigor and vital-ity, offer a splen-opportunity did for variety . they can be used as the appetizer or ''starter' course, the main dish, a dessert, or they may accompany the dinner course

So, besides giving you timely tips on the art of salad making, I'm going to explain literally dozens of ways in which you creators of daily menus can give "oomph" to your tasty dishes.

The characteristics of a good salad are simple and fairly easy to accomplish; namely, it should be well chilled before serving; have an attractive arrangement, and a pleasing color combination.

Salads in summer are as important as swimming or tennis or golf. They give an opportunity to add color and gaiety to the table.

Your choice of ingredients will depend upon what you have planned for your main course and dessert, provided your salad is to be a side dish or an appetizer.

There are many varieties of fruit salads. They are excellent by themselves or as an accompaniment to a main course of sea food or meat and a pastry or cake dessert.

Good to eat, wonderful to look at and substantial is this salad of orange slices and prunes, stuffed with sieved. Yield: 4 servings. cottage cheese. (See picture at top of column.)

FARM TOPICS HOT HAY MOW

IS FIRE HAZARD

Spontaneous Ignition Cause Of Large Losses.

By W. C. KRUEGER (Extension Agricultural Engineer, New Jersey College of Agriculture. Rutgers University.)

United States farms suffer a loss of more than $15,000,000 annually from the spontaneous ignition of hay in barns. Foresighted farmers can take several steps to guard against this menace, and one of the most important is to inspect their mows frequently during the two to sixweek period immediately following storage-the most critical period for fires.

Legume hay, such as alfalfa, the clovers, and soybeans, is particularly susceptible, although the firing of other hay materials stored chopped or unchopped is not uncommon.

The wetting of hay due to leaky roofs or through open doors or windows and the slower heating of especially dense and green material may result in dangerous heating months after crop placement.

The temperature in hay mows may be determined quickly and easily by means of a homemade thermometer probe. This consists of a small diameter pole, preferably round, having a thermometer fitted in a groove just above the sharpened end. Since probe holes left in the hay may conduct air to hot spots and encourage combustion, as few holes as possible should be made and these should be plugged with a similar sized stick between readings. The plugs serve as markers for subsequent readings in the same location.

Temperatures under 150 degrees Fahrenheit may be considered safe but above this point the hay should be inspected frequently, since dangerous situations may develop. Temperatures above 175 degrees are definitely critical. Fire Department standby service should be arranged, and when temperatures approach 190 degrees it is time to consider removing the hay from the barn. It is well first to remove all tools, implements, and livestock, however, since the action of removing hay and admitting oxygen to hot spots may result in ignition and flash fires.

*Orange Prune Cheese Salad.

On a bed of lettuce circle 10 to 12 orange slices. At the side arrange 3 cooked prunes which have been stuffed with cottage cheese. With a sharp knife peel oranges, removing all outer skin and inner membrane down to juicy meat. Cut in thin, even slices. California oranges, which are firm-meated and practically seedless, are excellent to use.

Serve with a sweet french dressing, made with lemon juice. With a hot bread and beverage, this salad makes a well-balanced home or party luncheon.

Sweet French Dressing.

1/2 cup lemon juice 1/2 cup salad oil 1/2 cup red jelly or honey 1 teaspoon salt

1 teaspoon paprika

Shake or blend well before serving. Makes 1½ cups. Lemon juice gives this dressing just the flavor needed to make the orange, prune and cheese combination the perfect salad.

Keeping cool during summer months is a problem, solved most successfully by eating properly.

Don't be timid about putting your own personality into your salads. Here are some suggestions which may help you become famous for your salads . . Trv:

Fluting bananas by running the prongs of a fork lengthwise down a peeled banana, then slicing it crosswise.

Adding chopped, broken or whole walnut kernels to fruit, vegetable and meat salads

Using fruit juices to thin mayonnaise and to mix with french dressing.

Adding a fruit gelatin, sliced or cut into glistening cubes, to a fruit salad.

Brightening the edges of lettuce leaves by dipping them in paprika, or adding chopped parsley to the edges of pineapple slices.

Adding a little lemon juice or vinegar to sweet cream for salad dressing-makes a quick substitute for sour cream.

toes becomes very sensitive. The infected foot should be washed with a tincture of iodine and bandaged to keep it clean. It is sometimes necessary to soak the foot twice a day in a disinfectant solution and to trim away the diseased or infected tissue. The calf should be kept in a clean, dry place until all signs of the disease have disappeared.

To prevent the occurrence of this infection, keep yards and lots clean and well drained. If a low, wide box of lime is placed so the calves will have to walk through it in going to and from the barn, it will aid in preventing this trouble.

Japanese Beetle Traps Chiefly for 'Scouting'

Traps for Japanese beetles, now widely utilized by federal entomologists, are not intended primarily as beetle destroyers. These traps are for "scouting." They are baited with a mixture of chemicals that attract beetles from a distance, and are set to give information as to the presence or absence of beetles in the neighborhood.

The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine does not recommend beetle trapping as desirable for individuals. The bait is likely to attract beetles from a considerable area, but many of these beetles may not enter the trap, with the result that the lawn or garden near the trap may have more beetles than it would without a trap-although neighbors at a distance may have fewer. To be effective, trapping should be systematic and on a community basis, covering a square mile or more-and the larger the area the better.

Stomach Worms

treat sheep for stomach worms, the North Carolina State College Extension service recommends drenching them with the following solution: Dissolve four ounces of coppper sulphate (blue stone) in one pint of boiling water, then add enough water to stone) make a total of three gallons. Next add three ounces of a 40 per cent solution of nicotine sulphate (Black Leaf 40). The three gallons makes enough to dose 100 mature sheep.

Woolknit Swim Suit Should Be Included in Vacation Plans

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

T IS very evident that women are becoming increasingly impressed with the value of swimming for health and beauty. Not only do crowded beaches at seaside and lake resorts testify to the enthusiasm felt for water sports, but many inland towns have created attractive and pretentious modern swimming pools that offer infinite enjoyment to their communities. Then too, most private estates have picturesque swimming pools where guests may indulge in water sports.

Which all goes to show why smart bathing suits together with a goodly supply of beach togs and accessories have become a positive "must" in the plans for the summer vacation. As to this season's swim-suit fashions, they surpass all that gone before in way of smart, versatile fabric, clever styling, eye-appeal in color and all the dramatic accents that add to the picture of Miss America as she takes off for a merry swim on a summer day.

Outstanding news in regard to current swim-suit trends is the strong revival of woolknits and woolcunningly dressmaker styled. New quard woolknit suit such as is shown to the left in the illustration. Note the sleek front-paneled skirt in shadow plaid of brown and green on vellow. The back is cut very low for sun-tanning. Bright red and white diagonal striped woolknit fabric makes the smart slenderizing princess (a favorite styling this season) bathing suit pictured to the right. The V-neckline is banded in the solid red knit, continued into cross straps at the back. Panties are separate so there is nothing to break the flattering smooth line of the suit. Machine woolknits that look like handknits are also staging a big comeback in simple sculptured type such as adept swimmers love to wear. You will find handknit technique of heavy cable stitch in stunning colors, the stripe effects such as white with red or with navy being especially intriguing.

There is also a strong revival of wool jersey. These stress dressmaker styling which now is so pronounced throughout the entire swim suit program. Most of the jersey suits have practical zipper fastenings.

Designers are turning out perfectly charming suits dressmaker-fashioned after the manner of the Ballerina type of waffle pique centered in the group. Note the coin dot banding. Dot trimmings are very smart this season.

Floral prints and various cotton weaves make front page fabric news for swim suits and beach togs. The loyal wife." more audacious the coloring, the more daring the patterning, the smarter! This is especially true of the gay and fascinating Hawaiian knit fabric for both sculptured form- prints now so fashionable. The safitting types and that which is ultra rong drape skirt in exotic prints chic this season-the suit that is with bra top showing bare midriff is a leading style. Novelty types are to the scene this summer is the jac- often styled with "grass skirts" inspired by Hawailan native design. A lei necklace of flowers added, is wake up!" the final glamour accent. Bathing suits of elasticised fabric are to be had by the score. The newest thing in these types is twocolor effects done in white with bright colored godets or inset vertical bands. Allover shirred lastique insures a sculptural figure fit. Bright applique of gorgeous flowers on white jersey is especially effective with a long matching beach cape. There are endless cunning dressmaker-styled gingham shantung and crinkled seersucker suits. In knits and lastiques girls love the suit that zips up the back from the waistline to give a perfect fit. C ILL TRAINOR," Lee Shepard announced, "is going south with Calvin Wendell.Mr.Wendellhiredhim as secretary and companion." Lee paused and wagged his head. "I tell you, you can't keep a smart man like Bill down. Mr. Wendell is not only the richest man in this town, but he's famous all over the state as a political leader."

Brenda, Lee's wife, bit her lip and regarded her husband defiantly. "Bill Trainor," she said, "isn't one bit smarter than you are, Lee. I do wish you'd stop thinking of that man as some sort of saint."

Lee looked up reproachfully. "Oh, come now, Brenda, I'm not in it with Bill. Why, imagine Mr. Wendell hiring me as his secretary and companion! I tell you, Bill's smart to get a job like that." "You," said Brenda shortly, "don't have to go to Mr. Wendell for a job. You already have one. And you're able to keep it, and get a promotion every year, and a raise in salary. Bill Trainor's had five jobs in as many years."

"And always improving himself," Lee chuckled. "Oh, there's no use trying to be kind, Brenda. Little Lee will never be as smart as Bill Trainor, no matter how hard he tries. Why, Bill never had a job that paid him such a small salary as I'm getting now."

"To hear him tell it he hasn't," Brenda's eyes blazed. "Lee, sometimes I think you're positively stupid. I mean about other people. The inferiority complex you have. Especially where Bill Trainor is concerned. You've let him talk you into believing he's smarter than you and brighter and more popular and will do bigger things. And despite the fact that he was at the foot of your class in school, that he's been unemployed more than he's been employed, that he isn't married and doesn't own more than the shirt on his back-you still think of him as some sort of superior being. Honestly, it does seem as though you'd

"And clothes! Good heavens, can't the youth dress himself?"

"Naturally," said Lee coldly, when Mr. Wendell and his secretary appear in the smart hotels and clubs at Miami, he'll want Bill to look the part of a gentleman. He probably realizes that a man can't dress extravagantly on fifty dollars a week. I think it's pretty decent of him."

And so Brenda, for the time being, at least, gave up trying to convince her husband of Bill Trainor's falsity. She dropped the matter entirely, apparently conceding victory. And yet, during the days that followed, something Lee had said lingered in her mind. And at length Brenda yielded to a desire to put into execution a half-formed plan—simply to rid her mind of this annoying thought.

It was three weeks after Brenda had had her argument with Lee that she wrote a letter. And it was two weeks after that that she received a reply. Accompanying the reply was a newspaper clipping.

Brenda looked at the clipping and her heart bounded . .

That night when Lee came home to dinner he found a newspaper clipping at his place and curiously picked it up. There was a photograph of two men, standing before an automobile. One of the men was Calvin Wendell, wearing a Panama hat, flannels and a dark jacket. The other was Bill Trainor. Bill had just opened the car door and was standing one side to permit the appearance of Mr. Wendell. Bill wore a uniform.

Beneath the clipping was the fol-lowing caption: "Mr. Calvin Wen-dell of Frankton, Maine, who has just arrived in Miami with chauffeur . .

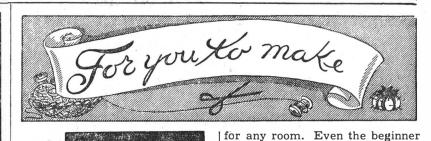

Lee went suddenly white. He glanced across at his wife, who was eyeing him fearfully. But at the expression which appeared in his eyes she knew her fears were no longer necessary.

Smiling, she leaned across the table. ble. "And clothes, darling," she said. "And clothes."

Doctor Treats 200,000

Patients-All With Wings Few medical men have treated half that number of human beings but Mrs. Idella G. Manisera of Los Angeles has case histories in her files to prove that, in the past 30 years, she has prescribed for at least 200,000 patients—all birds.

"I've treated every variety from humming birds to pea fowls," says Mrs. Manisera, who also happens to be a grandmother. "My father was a bird fancier who had the largest private collection in California. His birds came from all over the world and often were ailing on arrival. I doctored them so cessfully that my father put me in charge of the 'infirmary.' He bought me the best books on the subject but I discarded all of them and worked out my problems with some small knowledge of medicine plus a generous helping of common sense.' Recently, Mrs. Manisera per-formed her first bone tumor operation on an African gray parrot, belonging to a Hollywood film director. The entire operation, without anesthetic, took 12 minutes, the patient lost less than half a teaspoonful of blood, and was able to return home in three days.

The Questions

1. What is a chuck-will's-widow? 2. When it's 11 a. m. in Omaha, what time is it in Galveston, Texas? 3. Where are the Plains of Abraham?

4. What does a mace symbolize in legislative houses?

5. How does the world's record for running and ice skating 100 yards compare?

6. Who did Sir Walter Raleigh plot to place on the British throne in place of James I?

The Answers

1. A bird. (So called from its note.)

2. 11 a.m. 3. Canada (Quebec). 4. Authority. A mace is a staff or mallet. 5. The record in both cases is 9.4-Identical to the split second.

6. Arabella Stuart.

Chic Plus Glamour

In a blaze of glory, lovely neckwear comes into its own this season. Women of fashion are enthusiastically playing up the vogue with appreciation of what magic frothy, snowy lingerie touches perform in way of accentuating feminine charm. Fine lace insertion, tiny tucks, dainty lace edging and eyelet embroidery combine for sheer femininity in this dainty collar and cuff set designed for the new V-neckline. In fine permanent finish Swiss organdy famous for its washability, this set provides a practical way to add glamour to a simple frock.

Cool Summer Outfits Of All Black Are New

You can dress in all black from head to foot and still look cool and summery. This is the miracle style creators have wrought. Briefly outlined the plan is sheerest of sheer black frock, hat of black sheer, gloves of the lacy sort and black stockings so cobwebby sheer they are almost transparent.

The newest black sheer dresses are finished off with edgings of fine black lace. This use of black lace trims is being played up to the point of being recognized as a most important vogue. Not only are dress-up black sheer frocks feminized to a most fascinating degree with lace frilled at throat and sleeves, on pockets and here, there, and everywhere to add glamour but the movement has been taken up by milliners who either make the entire hat of lace or trim with it. Big brims edged with lace frills are one of the new and entrancing lace expressions.

Enormous Brims Versus

The 'Pretty' Little Hat

The problem is up to milady whether she will go hatted this summer in the flattering little frivolous flower concoctions she loves to wear or whether she will top her costume with a hat of enormous brim and look chic and sophisticated. Each type is attractive and the fashion-right way is to include both in this summer's wardrobe of hats.

Lee saw the vehemence in his wife's eyes, and it amused him. He stood up and came across the room, leaning over to pat her shoulder.

"Honey, you're a sweet kid and a loyal wife. But you're wrong about Bill. Back in school he devoted a little too much time to athletics, I'll admit. But each job he's had since graduating has been better than the one before. He's quit them because he wants a lot of experience before settling down. And you can't blame a man for not investing his money in real estate nowadays. Goodness knows, I wish we'd rented instead of bought.'

"Well, at least we have something that's tangible, something that we can look at and call our own, something that we came by honestly."

Lee drew his brows together in a "Bill's honest, Brenda, You frown. mustn't insinuate he isn't honest."

"Then why doesn't he pay you back the money he borrowed? When a man doesn't pay his debts, he isn't honest!'

Lee's frown vanished. "Oh, that! Don't worry about that, honey. Bill will pay us back. That boy is going a long ways." Brenda laughed bitterly. She couldn't help it. Lee's attitude toward Bill Trainor seemed such a blind, hopeless thing. Lee was, after all, such a simple person, so wholly believing and faithful to his friends. The situation, as far as worthless Bill Trainor was concerned, was pathetic. ''Calvin Wendell,'' Lee was saying, "wouldn't hire Bill for his secretary and companion unless the boy had something that was pretty outstanding.

Brenda was silent at that, because it was true. Being secretary and companion to Calvin Wendell was a pretty important position. She couldn't imagine how Bill had ever secured the position. She couldn't imagine it because she couldn't picture Calvin Wendell entrusting such matters as his correspondence to a person like Bill Trainor.

"How much," she asked, looking up at Lee, "is Mr. Wendell paying the boy wonder?"

Lee beamed. "Fifty a week, his keep and clothes. Which, if you ask me, is a pretty good job these times.'

Providing canaries with new topknots, after they have been scalped by butcher birds, has become an old story to Mrs. Manisera.

"When the scalped area is too large," she explains, "I keep the skull moistened and the skin edges clipped. In three weeks, this treatment will grow a new scalp, the feathers of which match the missing topknot. If the area is not too large, I graft a bit of tissue, taken from the bird's wing stretches, onto the skull. A new topknot grows in almost two weeks.³

Most of her canary patients suffer from digestive disorders, with calcium tumors and bone fractures runners-up. Sinus trouble, too, is a common canary ailment, caused by chaff residue in seed dishes.

Fifty miles from Los Angeles Mrs. Manisera runs her "Old Ladies" Home." Under the kindly eye of an elderly caretaker, more than 150 birds inhabit the five acres of the sanctuary.

The inmates include birds whose owners can no longer care for them, others uncalled for at the hospital and a few "unwanted." To shutins, blind persons, and elderly incuraables, Mrs. Manisera gives these birds and supplies the food necessary to maintain a balanced diet.
