AT EAGLE OPERA HOUSE

Sunday, March 21, 1920, William Russell's Big Romance Will Be Presented

When, on Sunday night, the picture "When a Man Rides Alone" will be seen at the Eagle theatre, the public will witness the first "super-western" picture ever made. The subject, a production by William Russell's own company, in which he is the dominant character, is creating a sensation.

Never before has such tremendous romance been thrown on the silver sheet, never before has such powerful action been portrayed by the camera. Not only thrills of wild riding, mortal combats and the furious abandon of the western life, but deep heart-filling romance distinguishes this picture from all other efforts of that class.

And, fortunately it is New. It is new in its scope and atmosphere; and that is saying a lot for a western picture. It has generally been thought that cowboys, Indians, cactus, gambling dens and wild life, constituted western photoplays and usually a streak of love has held them together.

But William Russell holds more than that in this production. He has big, living and strong romance, tremendous and enthralling charm and the true spirit of a life where duty is all and death is nothing. And yet, where love is more than all.

This picture is the beginning of the renaissance of the western film drama, or at least the beginning of a rehabilitating period of a phase of film production which has lagged of late.

DEATHS.

Edward Messerschmidt
Jst as we were going to press we received word of the death of Ed. Messerschmidt of Little Prairie. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. Jos. Morrow and was 61 years of age. A more extended obituary will appear next week.

Mrs. E. J. Pynn

Hartland News:—The community was shocked on Wednesday morning, March 10, to learn of the death of Mrs. Eva L. Pynn, wife of Postmaster E. J. Pynn. Mrs. Pynn had been in her usual health and seemed in the height of good spirits at the supper hour Tuesday night. She was preparing to attend the Eastern Star meeting that evening. Shortly after supper she began to feel ill and soon lapsed into unconsciousness from which she did not arouse and passed away at an early hour Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Pynn was a daughter of the late James and Mary A. (Giles) Bloor, native of England who settled in this county in pioneer days. As a young woman she taught in the rural schools of this vicinity. On October 27, 1881, she was united in marriage to Edwin J. Pynn. They resided on a farm near Hartland for many years, later retiring to the village to make their home.

Last November Mr. and Mrs. Pynn suffered sorrow and bereavement in the death of their eldest son, Dr. Roy Pynn, and it is probable that this grief hastened her demise.

Mrs. Pynn was a member of Grace Episcopal church and Hartland chapter Eastern Star, in which she had served as matron.

Surviving are her husband and one daughter, Mrs. Herbert Marquardt, and a son, Giles Pynn, both residing in Milwaukee. She also leaves two sisters, Mrs. A. P. Davis of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Fred Hartwell of Dazey, North Dakota.

Funeral services were held at the Masonic temple under auspices of the Eastern Star chapter. The Rev. W. R. Lloyd preached the funeral sermon. The body was taken to Delevan for burial beside the remains of her son.

GREAT WESTERN STORY

Although Western pictures have been made since the first turn of the century, there has always been a saying among producers and exhibitors that "some day, somebody is going to make a great 'Western' production that will open the eyes of the trade and the public."

Out door life naturally suggests the infinite, and the wide wastes of the western prairies seem without limit. Yet the scope of the western drama has apparently met its limit and there has been a lack of enthusiasm when the rental salesmen mentioned a "western."

It was because of the crudeness of many of the western pictures, because of the mere riding, mere shooting, mere "wild west" stunts and lasso throwing, with a thin, almost imperceptible thread of a story, has heretofore been thought sufficient for the western picture.

In "When a Man Rides Alone," which will be shown at the Eagle theatre on Sunday, March 21, the western atmosphere is incidental and the fabric of which the picture is made is solid romance, concrete story material with a peculiar harking back to years of the past without showing a "flash back" or retrospect.

The chivalry of the great-out-doors, the queer and everlasting fact that love will win and will spring into existence despite circumstances which seem absolutely prohibitive to its cultivation, is the underlying theme of this picture. It is more than we merely see. The real story is what we feel.

The big, manly man, William Russell, carries this story in a majestic manner, although he is virtually absent in the first reel. And in the second reel and part of the third he does what few men can do—he carries the leading part dominantly, although he is in bed, wounded, half-conscious and suffering. This has never been done in pictures before. Just imagine what would happen to some of the male screen stars if they were charged with the difficult task of carrying a story through with a handicap of that sort!

This story is odd. It differs.

"When a Man Rides Alone"

William Russell in a tale of gallantry and of bravery and of men whose guns rest loosely in their holsters, but whose hearts are steadfast and unflinching—the Texas rangers. "When a Man Rides Alone" is a super-western drama in five acts, the gripping story of a rough diamond of the desert who was slow to love but quick on the trigger—unconquerable by the wild Mexican bandits, the great Ranger Chief crumples before the deep, dark eyes of a plucky girl. A real Western drama which teems of life amid purple sage and cactus. Which appeals most—a woman's pluck or a woman's beauty?

Boosts Norris Camp School, This County

The current copy of the Educational News Bulletin, published at Madison, contains the following "story" of a Waukesha county philanthropic institution; from the pen of Geo. H. Drewry:

Fifteen boys, formerly classed as juvenile delinquents, with an average of 97 in department for the first month of this school year!

That is the record of a two department state graded school in Waukesha county. Miss Anne Warren is the principal and Miss Catherine Flynn is her assistant.

These boys, formerly from Milwaukee, live at the Norris Farm and Camp which was founded in the fall of 1917 by D. W. Norris, a prominent Milwaukee man who for years has been a friend of all boys. The Farm and Camp, which is about three miles from Mukwonago, covers 500 acres. Its purpose is to provide a normal environment for these boys who did not have a chance in the city.

Some of the youngsters, ranging in age from 9 to 14, had surprising records. One 10-year old had hoboed away from home a month. His largest prize was a watch which he stole near Waukesha Beach. Another had burned three schools; another had a long theft record. Most of them were very proficient in playing "hooky."

One little fellow had smoked a package of cigarettes a day for a whole year. The small rural school could not accommodate all these boys and so Mr. Norris built a school, equipped it with all modern working tools for the teachers and pupils, and then turned it over to the district.

From the first the teachers cooperated wholeheartedly with the Norris Camp. Each day a record of every pupil's behavior is sent to the Camp; to have any grade less than 100 is most uncomfortable, the boys say, for then the name and grade will be read before the whole camp after supper.

More Than a Mere School
The school is a community center; every Friday evening is movie night. Often the boys add attractive numbers to the program. Sometimes Joe and Billy, the Italian twins, who are the cook's efficient assistants, and who count time by Hallowe'ens since they have been at the Norris Camp, sing a duet in Italian; other times the boys call for a song from Tony who has taken vocal lessons in Milwaukee and who can sing wonderfully well.

The boys have a Boy Scout organization and a public speaking class. Although Miss Warren had but one girl in her room this year she undertook to teach sewing; the boys have learned to do patchwork and it is said someone overheard them talking about hemstitching.

"Huh, its easy to be good in such a place," one boy said upon being asked to account for their high average in department.

"Don't you see that when a guy has things to make in manual training he likes it?" He was very much in earnest. "And when he has interesting library books that he uses right along with his regular geography books, and when he has a part in the Boy Scout play, and when we are planning for a surprise program for Miss Warren for Friday afternoon, he hasn't got time to fool?" This boy had once played "hooky" every chance he got. School now meant more to him than it had ever meant before.

THE SCHOOLS IN PERIL

The situation in which the public schools of Wisconsin have been placed as a result of the extraordinary increase in the cost of living is one that demands the immediate and most serious consideration of all thoughtful citizens.

From time immemorial the teacher has been poorly paid. There is no dispute about this. The condition has been denounced as a national disgrace. The war burdened the teacher with an increase in the cost of living of more than 82 per cent, six times as much as the increase in salary since that time.

The inevitable has happened. Disappointed in receiving sufficient pay, thousands of teachers have been forced to leave the schools and obtain employment which gives them money enough to meet the high prices. There is a great shortage of teachers, which is steadily increasing. This, in face of the fact that the school population of Wisconsin is increasing every year, creates a menace to the welfare of all the children of the state.

From the best minds of the country come the emphatic statements that the only cure is to make teaching so attractive that it will keep the teacher in his school. Dr. Claxton, the United States commissioner of education, says:

"Teachers are now paid less for their work than any other class of workers, and the increase in their pay the last few years has in no wise been in keeping with the increase of pay of other workers or with the increases in the cost of living.

"While the cost of living has increased approximately 80 per cent, salaries of teachers have increased only about 12 per cent. Many of the better teachers are leaving the schools, and their places are taken by men and women of less native ability, less education and culture, and less training and experience. Many of these places are not filled at all.

"As an inevitable result, the character of the schools is being lowered just at a time when it ought to be raised to a much higher standard. The only remedy is larger pay for teachers."

Foods for School Children

There are seven classes of foods for children and named in order of their importance they are:

1. Milk.
2. Bread, cereals and other grain products
3. Eggs, fish, fowl or meat
4. Vegetables
5. Fruit
6. Sweets
7. Fats

The first three classes we have already discussed and we come to the subject of vegetables.

Vegetables form a very necessary part of the diet. There is little danger of eating too much of the right kind of vegetables in a well balanced diet. They are very important in helping to guard against constipation. Often times hunger is due to the absence of vegetables in the meals, and children who crave more food, find their appetite satisfied where vegetables are given regularly. They give volume or bulk to the meal. Potatoes baked, boiled or mashed should be given every day. They are economical even at 5 cents a pound. Other valuable vegetables are dried and fresh peas and beans, spinach, onions, string beans, squash, cauliflower, asparagus, stewed celery and in summer all kinds of "pot-greens" such as bectops, turnip tops, dandelions, chard and cooked lettuce; in winter carrots, stewed celery and for older children parsnips, oyster plant and turnips. Dried and canned vegetables if of good quality, may also be given in winter. Almost all vegetables if of good quality, may be given freely after the fifth year with the exception of cabbage, cucumbers and corn. In soups and stews more vegetables and less meat should be used than is common practice. Use meat more for flavoring.

Much valuable food material dissolves in the water in which vegetables are cooked. So far as possible, this water should be used in the making of meat gravies and soups. Vegetables should be cooked only long enough to become tender.

Official Proof of What the Tractors Pull in the Field

The Hart-Parr 30 Record at the Big Ohio Tests Shows the Results of Many Years of "Knowing How"

The farm tractor built by "The Founders of the Tractor Industry" developed 26½ drawbar horsepower, 96 per cent more than the average of all other three-plow tractors in the tests. In making this record, the Hart-Parr 30 plowed 10½ inches deep in old timothy sod at 3.08 miles an hour.

The Hart-Parr 30 is built entirely in our own big factory—a large output at a low manufacturing cost. If tractors were sold by horsepower developed, the Hart-Parr 30 would be worth from one-third to three times more than any other three-plow tractor in the Ohio tests.

The New Karo Maple

Delicious But Not Expensive

MANY housewives first try Karo Maple Flavor because it is economical. They continue to use it because it is so delicious—made so by the delicate flavoring of pure maple sugar, added to the rich body of the famous, original Karo.

Karo's Maple Flavor is the most delightful spread for pancakes and waffles. Both children and grownups prefer it to any other table syrup.

Be sure to ask your grocer for Karo Maple in the Green Can. It is guaranteed to please you or your grocer returns your money.

"You Can't Get Away from It" says the Good Judge

A little of the Real Tobacco Chew gives more genuine satisfaction than the big chew of the old kind.

Saves money, too—because this class of tobacco lasts much longer. The rich tobacco taste stays right with it.

Any man who uses the Real Tobacco Chew will tell you that.

Progressives of Wisconsin

You know how, during the war, the PROFITEERS lied about LaFollette; how their paid newspapers tried to disgrace him and drive him out of public life. And you know WHY—because he has been the ONE MAN that has fought for the welfare of the COMMON PEOPLE and FOUGHT HARD, and ALL THE TIME. Naturally he made enemies of the plunder-bund, and when the time came for the profiteers to reap their harvest from the misfortunes of the world, they did not want Bob LaFollette in the way. You know what they did to Bob LaFollette and how they scared many Progressives of the track. And you know what they did to the PEOPLE—what they are doing now!

WELL, WAKE UP FOR A GOOD FIGHT!

Bob LaFollette was here in Madison resting up to go under the surgeon's knife at Rochester, but contrary to the advice of his physicians he has gone back to Washington to be in at the finish of the League of Nations fight.

But Bob's heart is back in Old Wisconsin. He wants to know whether the PEOPLE ARE GOING TO BACK UP HIS WORK IN WASHINGTON. If they do, it will put the FEAR OF GOD into those who are preparing for another great crime—to put all of the cost of the war on the backs of the common people.

GET IN THE GAME

Get out and TELL YOUR NEIGHBOR about that fight—SPEAK RIGHT UP—TELL THE TRUTH! Keep within the law, but don't let anyone SCARE you into silence.

ANOTHER THING

Bob is poor, and his friends are poor men, but they are MANY. It takes money to advertise. Let us all chip in who can afford to, and help to make a campaign of education. We want to elect delegates to the National Republican Convention for YOU.

Won't you kick in with a dollar or two to put this thing over? It is getting late—you will have to HURRY! The other fellows have unlimited cash and have an ORGANIZATION OF BIG PROFITEERS with headquarters at Milwaukee. They have been on the job a long time. They have the KEPT PRESS.

Send your contributions to SOL LEVITAN, Banker, Madison, Wisconsin, and he will receipt for them.

EDW. P. DITHMAR, Chairman.

L. E. GETTLE, Secretary of Volunteer Committee of Two Hundred.
