ELIMINATE HENS THAT DON'T LAY

FARM

Don't Keep Poor Layers When Easy to Cull.

By H. H. ALP

(Poultry Extension Specialist, University Of Illinois College of Agriculture.)

Can the birds in the home poultry flock pass the "physical" test? If they can't, they shouldn't be "drafted" for another year of service in the "army" of egg layers, because chickens, like soldiers, are playing an important part in the present emergency. They have been "drafted" to furnish millions of healthful eggs under the nationwide food-for-defense program. If flock owners haven't kept accurate records of their layers' abilities, it is especially important that the birds' physical characteristics be studied carefully before they are put in their quarters for the winter. Fortunately, it is comparatively easy to distinguish layers from nonlayers by the culling method, after a little practice.

Bald-headed as they often are, good layers are usually tight-feathered over the rest of their bodies. The feathers generally are dry, frayed and "washed-out," and good layers are active, good feeders, and have good dispositions.

The head of a good layer is usually clean-cut, well-balanced, of medium length and depth, and the eyes are quite large and prominent. Be suspicious of the laying ability of the bird with a thick or coarse head or the bird with a crow-head.

And the back of a good layer should be wide over its entire length and free from hard fat. A narrow spring of ribs or a back that tapers decidedly or slopes sharply to the indicates small feeding capacity.

The body should be deep, but flock owners shouldn't be fooled into thinking that birds have body depth just because the feathers are long and loose. Depth of the body can be measured by placing the thumbs on the front end of the keel bone and the middle fingers on the rear of the keel bone. Depth of the front and rear can be measured by spanning the body from back to breast with the thumb and middle finger and sliding them along the keel and

If the bird is a good layer, her comb, wattles and earlobes will be large, plump, smooth and waxy. If the comb is limp, the bird may be laying, but when the comb is dried, especially at molting time, the bird is not laying.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY By Florence C. Weed

Říkkrakkrakkrakkrakkrakkrak (This is one of a series of articles showing how farm products are finding an important market in industry.)

Peaches for Fuel

Ingenious is the fuel business developed by a California man who makes a round of canning plants, collects discarded peach stones, dries them in the sun, then resells them for fireplace fuel. Scientists believe that some day important industrial products will be found in peach stones.

In colonial days, peaches were used for cider and brandy and were preserved by drying. Forsythe's famous fruit book of 1803 reports that peaches ripened from July to November and the great surplus was 'applied as food to hogs." When canning methods were perfected, the fruit grew in favor and now ranks next to the apple. From 30 to 50 million bushels are grown annually. In the Pacific states, 90 per cent of the 20-million-bushel crop is canned. Some commercial pectin is derived from the peach

California, Georgia, Arkansas, North Carolina and Virginia produce peaches by the million bushels. Important areas are along the eastern and southern shores of the Great Lakes in Michigan and Ohio and around the Finger Lakes in New York. There in the spring, the heat absorbed by the lakes retards blooming and lessens the danger of frost. In the winter, the heat released from the water moderates the temperature and prevents wood and bud injury from freezing.

Nowhere, except in America, are peaches grown commercially. In England and on the continent, the fruit is a delicacy, grown under glass or trained on trellises. The results are excellent, but costly and peaches there are a luxury only for the rich.

Water piped to the poultry range by a temporary system of old pipe or hose laid on the surface of the ground will save many hours in doing poultry chores.

Carelessness in handling eggs for market lost 5 per cent of the United States egg production in 1939. This loss represented 175,000,000 dozen eggs with a cash value of $30,000.000.

American Fashion Designers Stress Chic Simplicity Lines

YOU'LL find this a very exciting | season, the most exciting we've had for years. The new fall fashions are really "new" and the new look can be distilled into the one word, simplicity. Simplicity is indeed America's fashion for fall,

Our American designers, standing squarely on their own feet and independent of Paris, have produced an entirely new silhouette inspired by our lithe, slim-hipped American figures. Highspots in the new styl-ing are smoothly wide shoulders and deep armholes tapering down into an elongated midriff, softly rounded hips and slim skirt. The easyfit of the blouse above the waistline trends to almost a topheavy effect that is somewhat suggestive of an inverted triangle. Accent is often on hips, especially in tunic effects done in various ways. Deep neck-lines either "V," oval or square, are often used to bring the eye down to the diminishing midriff and feminine hips.

In coats and suits this new simplicity is seen in smooth shoulders and longer midriffs. Exaggerated padding is passe. You have a wide choice of raglans, shoulder yokes cut in one with the sleeves, deep dolmans and akin types. Most of us, however, will find the smoothly padded set-in shoulder easiest to wear. Suits, more important than ever this fall, are marked by longer jackets with easyfitting or inset belts to bring out this year's smaller waist. Coat and suit sleeves are kept very simple and the straight generously large sleeve looks fresh. Dresses express the smooth shoulder in a still wider variety. Dolman sleeves cut in one, with the dress, cap sleeves, wide smooth shoulder yokes, shirred shoulders leading

If one has to keep within an economy budget a sensible "buy" is a

Displayed in the foreground of the illustrated group is a dress that expresses unmistakably the simplicity that is America's fashion for fall. Taupe wool lends itself admirably to this princess coat dress. Here you see a dolman sleeve shirred for batwing fullness, with smooth shoulder panel cut in one and emphasizing the top of the tapering figure. Dramatically "new"—this frock!

Skirt fullness is used a great dear this year, but a slim look is invariably the rule. The silhouette is always kept fluid as shown in the dress to the right. The long-torso smooth-fitting top is notably new and smart. This dress is especially good style made of brown (a featured color for fall) crepe, the deep armhole seaming accented with bands of crochet done in contrast colors, gold, white and green. With black crepe the banding would be effective in bright cerise, blue and

It's going to be a season of tunics. Note the dress to the left with a tunic Russian blouse. Note the subtle fullness introduced via an action pleat at the front of the skirt. The sleeves achieve the deep armhole and smooth-shoulder effect with fullness introduced at the wrist.

The row of thumb sketches below indicate new trends in coats, dresses and suits that will stand out in the new autumn fashion picture. Variously interpreted in plaids, jerseys, velvets, corduroys, woolknit fabrics, gabardines and an endless variety of rayon weaves. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Millinery Stresses

Feathers and Veils Feathers galore are adorning the new fall hats. The restrictions that have been lifted this season on the use of wild bird plumage is reacting in a tremendous revival of the use of feathers. It will not only be a case of a "feather in your cap" but entire hats made of feathers is fashion's latest decree. The use of veils and veiling is assured for fall. Back-view interest in hats leads to a new emphasis being placed on snoods, wimples, and curtain effects that conceal long bobs and hair-dos at the back. Very fanciful treatments are being given to these wimples and snoods, and also to bringing back the brims-down style, so as to fit snugly and securely.

Corduroy Is Topmost

Fabric for Fall Wear A big revival is on for corduroy. It is being styled to perfection in sports clothes, in campus outfits, in mother and daughter fashions. In fact, recent showings displayed the entire family, mother, father, little sister and junior smartly outfitted in corduroy. You'll love the new corduroy suits, the slack costumes and the onepiece dresses of corduroy that are the last word for office and school wear.

Velvet Trim

One of the smartest fashion trends for fall is the use of velvet as trimming on contrasting materials. Afternoon gowns of black faille are given new distinction in way of wide borderings of black velvet that finish off peplums and tunics and hemlines in general. This tendency to trim with velvet is well worth watching for the movement gives promise of developing into an important vogue.

Fiddler Fiddles Way Out of Jail; Wins $100 in Gold

Georgia's Governor Is Fond Of Mountain Minstrel's Mournful Music.

ATLANTA.—The kings of old had their minstrels and palace poets. Eugene Talmadge, governor of Georgia, has one, too—Fiddler John Carson, last of the ballad makers.

Born in the Georgia mountains 75 years ago, Fiddlin' John began to sing and play when he was 10, and is still at it. He fiddled his way through every state, and fiddled so strong at so many fiddlers' conventions that he played himself out of the amateur's class on to nearly 900 phonograph records.

Once he fiddled himself out of jail. During last summer's campaign Carson fiddled his way into Governor Talmadge's affections and a job operating an elevator in the state capitol. Now, says John, whenever the cares of state are pressing he soothes the governor with "When the Saints Come Marching In" and "She'll Be Coming 'Round the Mountain," prime Talmadge favor-

From North Georgia.

Carson comes of the sturdy stock that ekes a bare living from rocky north Georgia soil and is willing to do a little moonshining for pin money. Moonshining, Carson says, opened the door to fame.

It was a sentence for "shinin" that gave him his first trip to the city ("Mighty Atlanta" he calls it in one of his ballads). He was a young man then and full of high spirits. So he fiddled all day and fiddled all night and put the sheriff in a high good humor.

"Boy," he remembers the sheriff telling him. "There's gonna be a fiddlers' convention at the Atlanta theater, and I'm gonna let you go there. And if you win it I'll set you

"I fiddled till I nearly pulled the hairs out of the bow, and won $100 in gold, cash money," Carson re-"And the sheriff set me

No More Moonshining.

From then on moonshining was out. Fiddlin' John found folks would pay to hear him play. He played other people's songs all around the country, and then he began to write his own. He figures he must have written around 800. Some memorialize the political exploits of his two heroes, Tom Watson and 'Gene Talmadge. But most of them deal with death, disaster, and the bereaved mourning the vacant chair at the dinner table. Tragedy stirs his muse like nothing else, not even a 'Gene Talmadge stump speech.

Carson can't read a note of music and is proud of it. He says he figures out the words in his head, then he tucks his fiddle under his chin and saws out a tune to fit the words. Sales of some of his recordings have been large. But Fiddlin' John believes in living well and doesn't have much to show for collected roy-

Convicted Forger Irked. Says He Can't Write

MONTICELLO, N. Y.—It was incomprehensible to Joseph Loverdi, an inmate of Woodbourne State pris-

The judge dismissed his habeas corpus writ for transfer to a federal penitentiary. Loverdi insisted that it was all a mistake that he was in a state prison.

Loverdi explained that he had pleaded guilty of forgery on a promise of leniency. A veteran of 14 prior convictions, the prisoner admitted there was no mistake when he was arrested for passing a counterfeit $10 bill.

But he maintained that he had not committed forgery, a state offense. He was counterfeiting and should be a federal prisoner. Smiling patiently Loverdi queried plain-

"How could I commit forgery if I can't even write my own name?'

Constables Mistake Own Deputy Chief as Prowler

TRURO, N. S.-The desk sergeant answered the telephone the other night.

"I just saw a man with a flashlight prowling around in a building down the street," said an excited resident. "Go get him, boys," said the sergeant. Two constables burned leather to the scene of the crime. They slipped quietly into the building and stalked the prowler through the darkness. Then they pounced. The prowler was their own deputy chief who had stepped in to investigate an unlocked door.

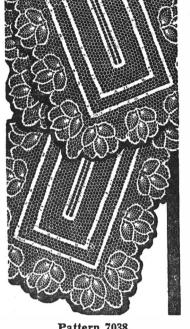

Coney Island Catches Up With War Plane Designs

NEW YORK.—Sign of the times: The airplane ride that served Luna park, Coney Island, for many years, was remodeled this year.

The old planes were ripped out and models of Spitfires and Hurricanes built.

These new planes were equipped with cannon and machine guns. And riders can sight their weapons at a model of a German Messerschmitt as they whirl about.

Christ of the Andes

The year 1902 was a great peace year for the two great "A" and "C" South American republics, Argentina and Chile. Great Britain had successfully mediated a boundary dispute between the two nations which had almost turned the neighbor republics into two armed camps.

To cement the boundary agreement, Chilean and Argentine delegates agreed to a reduction of armaments May 28, 1902. The women of Buenos Aires commemorated these peace pacts by supplying the necessary funds to erect the huge bronze statue of Christ on the Andes frontier between the two republics.

FAMOUS ALL-BRAN MUFFINS. EASY TO

They really are the most delicious muffins that ever meited a pat of butter!
Made with crisp, toasted shreds of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, they have a texture and flavor that have made them

amous all over America. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS
2 tablespoons % cup milk
shortening 1 cup flour

4 cup sugar 4, teaspoon salt 1 egg 2½ teaspoons
1 cup All-Bran baking powder
Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and mik; let soak until most of moisture and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400°F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 6 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 2½ inches in diameter.

Try these delictous muffins for dinner tonight or for tomorrow morning's breakfast. They're not only good to eat; they're mighty good for you as well. For several of these muffins will add materially to your daily supply of what physicians call "bulk" in the diet, and thus help combat the common kind of constipation that is due to lack of this dietary essential. Eat ALL-BRAN every day (either as a cereal or in muffins), drink plenty of water, and see if you don't forget all about constipation due to lack of "bulk."
