SHORT STORY

A Writer, Local Character—A Tale

By STANLEY CORDELL

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

WHEN it came time to run the pipe line from the spring to the kitchen of our new property on Sunset Lake, I sent for Pete Walker. Pete is considered something of a character. And something of a horse trader, too. His reputation intrigued me, because as a dickerer, I fancy myself as no slouch either.

Pete appeared the next morning, riding atop an express wagon which was loaded with implements and tools required by a man of diversified trades. One look into his sharp blue eyes and I knew the stories of Pete's shrewdness were well founded.

"Mornin'," he said, and climbed down. "Understand you got a job you want done?"

"Yes," I said briskly, "I have. Come along and I'll show you."

He followed me around the camp, and I pointed to the kitchen. "I'm going to pipe water from the spring up there down here," I said. "Can you give me a price on digging the ditch for pipes?"

Pete scratched his chin. "What's it with you?" he asked.

Well, I thought with secret delight, we're off. I appeared to meditate. "How would $2.00 be?" I said without batting an eye.

Pete considered a minute. "I'll do it at that price," he said, "if you'll buy your pipe from me and let me lay it."

Aha! I thought. So that was it? He'd get my promise by digging the ditch for practically nothing, then soak me for the pipe. "We'll talk about the pipe later," I told him crisply. "Let's get the ditch dug first."

Pete looked at me carefully. I had the uneasy feeling he was weighing my character, and was on the point of passing some significant remark

Pete said slowly, "I heard about a jigger who shot his sister because she was goin' to marry a guy he didn't like."

when he astounded me by nodding. "O.K. I'll dig her for $2.00. If you're satisfied, I guess you'll let me sell you the pipe."

I was puzzled, still. So far as I could see, there was no catch to the proposition. I picked up a spade and scooped out a shovelful of earth to show him how and where I wanted the ditch to run.

"You writer fellers," said Pete, "must sometimes have a time of it gettin' material for your stories." "That's right," I said, thinking of the rumors I'd heard about his fund of material. "Know any good stories?"

"Well," said Pete slowly, "I heard about a jigger the other day who shot his sister because she was goin' to marry a guy he didn't like."

"What?" I said. "Impossible! Don't try to make me believe anything like that!"

"Matter of record." He shrugged. "Reckon you can check up on the facts if you're so minded." He picked up a shovel and drove it into the ground.

"But good lord," I exclaimed, "that didn't actually happen?" "Think what yuh please. Thought mebbe you'd like to hear about it."

He had begun to dig off at a tangent and I called his attention to this fact, spading up the earth in a direct line with the spring.

"What was the man's name?" I asked.

"Newell Leighton. Seems he'd had a rival in school. Rival's name was Bates. Bates was bigger'n him and a kind of bully. Always taking credit for things Leighton done an' tormentin' him on the least provocation. Leighton he got so after a while he hated this Bates guy, an' you couldn't blame him. Swore that sometime he'd get his revenge."

"Well, the two of 'em graduated from school and went out into the world. Only before they went Bates give Leighton a good beatin' just on general principles. There was a girl on hand, name of Eva Hatch. Leighton, he was in love with Miss Hatch and he'd taken her to the commencement dance. Bates was drunk and he insulted the girl; and Leighton, he made objections, which was just what Bates wanted, cause it gave him an excuse. Everyone thought Leighton a coward because he didn't try to fight back. But t'want that. Early in the fight Leighton had broke his arm, an' he never let on. But pretty soon he fainted, an' even Eva Hatch laughed at his weakness."

Pete paused to light his pipe and I waited anxiously. Here was a story worth listening to.

"About seven years later," Pete continued, "Bates met Leighton's sister and fell in love with her, and she with him. Bates was a changed man, but this didn't make no difference to Leighton. Soon's he found out about it he went raging mad. He said she'd never marry that skunk. He'd kill her first."

"Well, Mabel, that was Leighton's sister's name, was a spirited little thing, an' she up and told him to go to blazes, as she loved Mr. Bates and no one else could make her happy. Leighton, he near went insane. He was older'n her, and because their maw and paw was both dead he felt he had a right to tell her what to do.

"But Mabel wouldn't even listen. An' pretty soon she ups an' leaves him, gets out of the house, says she's going to Mr. Bates. Well, Leighton follows her, sneaks up under a window an' sees her in Bates' arms. An' he shoots her. Folks said he was crazy, an' I guess maybe he was, because when Bates came tearin' out of the house he finds Leighton a-sittin' on the grass laughin' his fool head off. Which don't stop Bates a-tall in what he intends to do, because he chokes Leighton to death then an' there."

Pete Walker knocked out his pipe, picked up his spade and headed for the express wagon. "Well, now you think over about that pipe," he said to me from the high box seat. "An' if you're the kind of chap I think you are, I'll get the job."

I nodded, thinking deeply of the story he'd told. And so I paid Pete Walker his $2 and he drove on home. That night after supper I strolled out to look at the ditch, and it suddenly occurred to me as I stood there that it was I who had done most of the digging. Pete Walker had talked and I had dug. I chuckled. That was shrewd all right. Well, let him think he'd put one over. I was satisfied with the bargain.

And so I returned indoors and began jotting down notes on the story Pete had recited. After awhile, thinking to rest my mind and tackle the thing again later with a fresh viewpoint, I settled before the fireplace and picked up the current issue of a popular magazine. I slit the wrapping, rolling it backwards and opened to the first story. Something about the title and the illustrations arrested my attention. I read, and as I read a slow anger gripped me. For the yarn was the very story Pete Walker had repeated that afternoon.

So that was it? That's what he called being shrewd. I began to laugh. And presently I stood up and went to the phone. After a moment I heard Pete's voice. "Pete," I said, "I've decided to buy that pipe from you, and let you lay it."

He chuckled. "Knew you would," he said. "I figured you were that kind of a guy. You're shrewd."

"Thanks," I said dryly, and hung up.

Pushing 'Little Woman'

Around Custom in India
 There are some places in the world where pushing the Little Woman around is a permissible pastime. One such place is that remote region in northwest India marked down on the maps as Waziristan.

It is an old Waziristanian custom for husbands who dislike their wives, for one reason or another, to have the women's noses cut off by the local barber. Sometimes, in the heat of anger, the amputation is done at home by the husband himself and with whatever instrument comes to hand.

If the legends of Waziristan are true, it is ordinarily the wayward wife who gets too friendly with another man who pays for her folly, with her proboscis. But, it is said, lesser offenses—such as nagging too long and too loudly—also have been paid for with severed snouts.

The old-line Waziristans defend their ancient custom by pointing out that there are other places in the world where law and order was maintained among the womenfolk of the community by methods that may seem a little drastic to outsiders. In Siberia, for example, there is a tribe called the Hanghis. The Hanghi men are absolute masters of their wives and it is their habit, when they want to chastise the girls, to take off all their clothes and lock them out in the Arctic weather for awhile to think things over.

During this cooling-off process the women are denied anything to eat—and if they run away they are beaten, not by their husbands but by the old women of the tribe who seem to find a grim delight in inflicting a punishment which most of them have suffered at one time or another.

Maybe the Waziristans know about an unpleasant social custom on the Pacific island known in the al-lases as Busy. In this little insular empire the menfolks are the bosses and when they get miffed with their wives they toss them into the muck of a pig sty and force them to take their meals with the hogs until they decide to behave

The potato ricer can be used to wring out hot cloths and save many burned fingers.

In planning meals, bacon should be considered as fat rather than meat, because it contains very little protein.

Stainless steel utensils have to be heated slowly over a low flame or the foods being cooked in them will scorch.

A pinch of salt added to very sour fruits while cooking will greatly reduce the quantity of sugar needed to sweeten them.

When steaming pudding always have the water boiling. It should come up to at least two inches from the top of the mold. Replenish with boiling water to prevent the pudding from falling.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions.

These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet weak, nervous, all played out.

Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Suits of Every Imaginable Type Set the Fashion Pace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NOW that the challenge of "our country at war" has been brought home to designers, manufacturers, merchandisers and the American woman, there's a heap of constructive thinking and planning going on about the matter of creating apparel that will serve well during the stress of the times.

To this end two lines of thought are in progress. The one recognizes that whether their service be volunteer or paid, thousands of women will be engaged in activities that will require dress tuned to the particular type of defense work assigned them. This means that functional, utilitarian clothes are absolutely imperative. On the other hand, it is no less important that women maintain a high morale.

To this problem all who are carrying on in the fashion field agree that the suit, or the jacket dress that looks like a suit, is the perfect answer. There is no doubt that a tremendous suit season is at hand for spring and the coming summer. As an antidote for low spirits, style creators believe in color. Suits may be ever so simply styled, but they'll be colorful!

The very fact that suits are being so simply styled is resulting in an increasing enthusiasm among women to "make their own." Whether your taste runs to spun rayons, gabardines, jersey or tweedish cottons that look like wool, many of the most desirable materials are so inexpensively priced that they act as another incentive to do your own sewing. If you take advantage of the magic of modern sewing machine attachments, you'll find you can actually be a fashion standout in the costume you make. Nowadays experienced seamstresses as well as beginners are surprised to find how easy ruffling, pleating, shirring and other distinctly "couturier" finishes are if you use modern machine attachments.

The three suits pictured in the illustration above are of the simple type the average woman can make at home. For your first spring costume, why not break into a gay colored print? A neat printed rayon weave is used for the jacket-dress ensemble shown to the left in the group illustrated above. In this instance, a rib-hugging long three-button jacket tops a simple short-sleeved frock. Patterns for simple suits are available at all well-equipped pattern departments.

The suit dress centered in the picture above is easy to make. Choose a bright rayon plaid for the dress. The skirt is cut on the bias. The jacket of monotone spun rayon picks up the leading color in the plaid. Shoulder insets of the plaid unify the jacket and dress.

Spring elegance and tailored simplicity are combined in the sleek figure-flattering gabardine suit to the right in the above illustration. All roads lead to gabardine this spring. It is used for suits, for slacks costumes and for uniforms as well. The new gabardines come in all the smartest colors.

The importance of common-sense shoes built for comfort is particularly stressed this season. Highlighted for walking (we will be doing considerably more of it this year) are shoes of the type pictured in the inset above. This swank and sturdy low-heeled pump has an elasticized front trimmed in bright nailheads. Low-heeled types often come in giddy colors such as red or Kelly green. Navy is also shown.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Rustic Style

If you are on the committee to entertain soldiers on furlough, you will very likely be tripping the light fantastic. The newest party frocks have a simple and rustic manner, perfect for "barn-dances" and other informal settings. The dress pictured above uses a quaint cotton print with a bright yellow background for the full peasant skirt, which is caught up at the front hemline with a red bow to reveal a red taffeta petticoat. The bodice is of colorful jersey. And a necklace and hair ornament add color.

Spring Hats to Be Casual and Pretty

Women will be wearing casual hats with their functional tweeds and gabardines. Big, soft, nonchalant brims are featured. Color is emphasized. And there are dashing quill trims.

However, there is no indication in the new showings that women are going to get down to regulation types. On the contrary, there is a demand for pretty, feminine, flattering hats made lovely to the eye with charming flower trims. Cunning little sailors, worn straight on the head, will be garnished with flowers, as will the new calots and the smartly veiled pillbox types.

A vogue for profuse use of violets is predicted. Little violet sailors will be worn with matching corsages of violets. Wide brims will be faced with violet petals, and even bracelets will be made of violets to match hat and corsage.

Designers Use Patriotic Red, White and Blue

A noted designer is turning out slim dinner dresses in navy with red and white panels at the front. From another style creator come daytime dresses in white with an applique of red and blue disks. A smart evening dress with a long, narrow skirt of navy has a long-torso blouse top done in horizontal bands of red, white and blue.

Knitting Bag

A cleverly designed knitting bag is on the market. It can be worn with long strap over the shoulder. It ties about the waist if so desired, and for greater convenience it can be unfolded into an apron that has three roomy pockets.

FARM TOPICS

GRAIN SOYBEANS DEplete THE SOIL

But if Plowed Under They Increase Soil Nitrogen.

By PROF. GEORGE D. SCARSETT
(Soil Chemist, Agricultural Experiment Station, Purdue University.)

Many farmers do not realize the soybeans harvested for grain are soil-exhausting rather than a soil building crop. If soybeans are plowed under or cut for hay, and the manure therefrom is returned to the soil, they do increase the soil nitrogen and thus increase the corn and wheat yields that follow in the rotation. But harvested for commercial purposes such as oils, plastics, etc., they represent a drain on the soil.

A crop of 20 bushels of soybean harvested for commercial purpose removes 15 pounds of phosphorus (equivalent to 75 pounds of 20 percent super-phosphate) and 20 pounds of potash per acre.

Soybeans are certain to play an increasingly important part in the present war effort. At present very little information has been obtained on how to provide a profitable means of directly fertilizing soybeans at the time of seeding, but experiments now in progress at Purdue university involving plowing under phosphate and potash indicate that effective means are being found.

With a favorable price outlook greater acreage will be planted soybeans this year. Farmers will find it advantageous to fertilize the crop, unless their soils have been adequately treated previously in rotation. Based on experience at university, the following suggestions may be of value:

If the soil is acid, lime it adequately this winter. This is important for otherwise the fertilizer will be lost. In many cases about 10 tons per acre will be effective. Just before plowing the ground soybeans, broadcast about 100 pounds of 0-20-20 or 500 pounds of 0-12-12 and plow under. Do not use any fertilizer when planting soybeans. The benefits from the lime will last at least 10 years, although it has been found profitable to lime in about six years.

Indicative of the importance of plowing down fertilizer for soybeans, was a test at the Purdue experiment station last year. On unfertilized plot, the soybean was 15.7 bushels of grain or 10 pounds of hay an acre. When equivalent of 1,000 pounds of 4-8-8 had been broadcast and disked the topsoil immediately before plowing, the yield increased only 10 bushels. But when this amount was broadcast and plowed under, the yield per acre was 23.4 bushels of grain or 4,653 pounds of hay. When lime at the rate of three tons per acre was used the fertilizer and plowed under the yield was 28.2 bushels of grain or 5,377 pounds of hay per acre.

Feeding Laying Hens

Successful poultry farmers pay nearly as much attention to the way they feed their pullets as they do to the kind of feeds they provide. For one thing, abrupt changing in the diet causes the birds to go "off feed" and results in lower egg production and slower growth as well as use of stale feed. If a change in diet must be made it should be made gradually and extend over a period of a week or ten days.

One practice followed by many of the better poultrymen is to provide only a little more feed each day than the birds can clean up. The left-overs, if clean and dry, can be mixed thoroughly with the fresh feed in the hoppers.

In this way there will be no accumulation of stale feed at the bottom of the hoppers, reducing likelihood of mold.

Some Mighty Trees

The tree with the largest circumference is the sequoia, 101 feet, 6 inches, in California, and the tree given the widest spread (168 feet) is a liveoak at Hahnville, La. The wide-spreading liveoak on the Liendo plantation in Waller county seems to be unrecorded on the banks of the Potomac. A California redwood with an altitude of 364 feet is given the palm for the greatest height. The world's record for girth is given to a cypress in Mexico.

Probably the largest, oldest, slowest and fastest growing tree now in Texas, is the cypress. Its wood also has had more home and industrial use than any tree.

Less Spuds, More Eggs

People eat about the same total quantity of food now as they did 30 years ago, but the composition of the dietary has changed. Consumption of wheat and other cereals, potatoes and apples, beef, veal, and tea has declined. But consumption of vegetables (other than potatoes), citrus fruits, sugar, poultry, eggs, milk, manufactured dairy products (especially ice cream), edible fats and oils (other than lard and butter) and cocoa increased.

NOSING THE NEWS BY RUSS DEVITT

And as the war enters its third month of United States participation, we are slowly realizing that we are fighting two enemies. And we have been giving "The Beast" all the credit for the war in the Pacific. And surely Hitler is our enemy to the death because he stands for a way of life that we want nothing of.

And yet we are also waging war against Japan, not as a stooge of Hitler. And we are beginning now to realize that by the scope of Japanese preparations and Japanese attacks in the deep Pacific that this war has been in the oriental minds for a long time. And we see that if Hitler had not provoked a war with Japan and the United States, that eventually we would have had to fight the yellow man. For it is apparent that Japan, over a score of years, has been planning to wage just such a war as she is waging now. And Japan, as well as Hitler hopes to dominate the world.

And so, we have two enemies. The first, Nazi Germany who hopes for world domination of our existing scheme of things. And the second is Japan who is pointing now for a war to dominate the world, whereby Japan and the yellow race will be supreme and the white race relegated to the rank of serfs. And if by a stretch of the imagination we should lose the war in the Pacific, lose vital islands, production lands, and bases to Japan permanently, the Nipponese would have accomplished their first step in conquering the world. And if by a further stretch of the imagination Hitler should win in the west, Japanese guns would be turned, as traitors and treacherously against the Germans as they were against the rest of the civilized world.

Palmyra Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Oehrke and Mrs. Jennie Reynolds will spend the day Friday at Madison, guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Owens.

Yachtman Sue spent the week end with his folks in Milwaukee.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlin Turner and little Thomas were guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Turner Sunday.

Mrs. L. E. Husten and family, Troy Lakes, spent Sunday with her brother, B. J. Breidenbach and family.

Miss Marion Turner of Beloit and Francis Turner of Milwaukee were at home Sunday.

There will be a bake sale at Smith's Furniture store on next Saturday, February 14. The sale will begin at 10:00 o'clock in the morning. This sale is sponsored by the Palmyra Community Chorus. Any members of the Chorus who have not been approached concerning this, are invited to bring their baked goods to the store that morning.

Mrs. Jos. Bahl and family have moved to West Allis. The filling station on Spring Lake is now owned by Mr. C. H. Stettler, who moved here from Richland Center. Mrs. Stettler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vivian Janney.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thayer were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sprague, Mukwonago.

Mr. and Mrs. James Omdoll and family were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Omdoll in Milwaukee.

Culinary Expert to Present New Recipes and Menus

Many Valuable Prizes to be Given Away. No Admission Charge

Preparations are well under way for the Homemaker's school to be held by the Enterprise and Palmyra merchants at the Gym next Friday and Saturday, Feb. 20 and 21. Mrs. Ethel Morrison Marsden, demonstrator in charge of the school, writes that she is bringing an exciting array of new recipes. She will turn out delicious light cakes; tender, flakey pastry; and a variety of appetizing foods to delight her listeners. And best of all she will show how to get these results in your own home.

Mrs. Marsden will perform in the setting of a modern kitchen installed by equipment dealers of Palmyra.

Attorney Russell Devitt will be at the first session to introduce Mrs. Marsden and rumors have been going round that she will also dish out some valuable tips to the women.

Many Prizes to be Given During and after each session many free prizes will be awarded, with dozens of door prizes and numerous others to be given by the demonstrator. The Enterprise understands that Mrs. Marsden often interrupts her program to give prizes for most unusual reasons, so that the unluckiest of our women are apt to win for walking exactly 6 1/2 blocks to the school, driving more than 20 miles, being born on Easter Sunday, or recently married, having the letters XYZ in her name, or whatever comes to Mrs. Marsden's mind. Prizes include many grocery products—syrup, shortening, baking powder, flour, salt, fats, bread, soaps, etc.; many of the appetizing dishes made at the school, door books; jewelry and other things.

After the demonstrations have ended Mrs. Marsden will invite everyone in her audience to the stage so the ladies may see for themselves how the appliances are operated, ask questions concerning certain recipes or methods, and settle any problems in home-making which may be bothering them.

An open invitation to the entire community to attend both sessions is extended by the Enterprise and the merchants of Palmyra. The sessions will start promptly at 2 o'clock and will be over at 4 to leave time for shopping. Plan to come early and look over the many interesting exhibits on display.

This Old World by SCOOP CORY

THE SAYING IS THAT HEAVEN WILL PROTECT THE WORKING GIRL, BUT WHO WILL PROTECT THE GUY SHE IS WORKING FOR?

"Do you work?" asked the judge. "Oh, now and then," replied the hobo.

"What do you do?" "Oh, this and that."

"Where?" "Oh, here and there."

"Throw him in the cooler," said the judge.

"Hey," yelled the hobo, "When will I get out?"

"Oh, sooner or later," answered the judge.

Old Lady (to little boy smoking a cigarette): "You'd better stop that otherwise you will never become President."

Little Boy: "Oh, that's all right, I'm a Republican anyway."

A man was sitting beside the deathbed of his partner. The partner knew he was doomed and said with a sigh of repentance:

"I've a confession to make, partner. I robbed the firm of $50,000, and sold the blueprints of the secret formula for $250,000. I stole the letters from your desk that got your wife a divorce and—"

Partner: "Oh, don't worry, old chap I poisoned you."

CONTEMPLATION—What do you use to keep your hair in place? I like a mixture of Vitalis and mineral oil...

Oehrke's favorite. Q—Why do bees buzz? A. You would buzz to if some one took out your honey and nectar...

Sign in a Milwaukee restaurant: "Use less sugar in your coffee and stir like hell. We don't mind the noise."

I thought that one was pretty good until I was told that it was also used during the last war...
