The children living are Walter who is in the army now stationed at Hawaii, Florence, Mrs. Herbert Janke of Milwaukee, Howard of Waukesha, (Id.) Mrs. Arnold Fiege, George, Lenore, and Ruth of Eagle, besides one brother, Steve Olds of Palmyra. Mrs. Grob was a kind and loving mother and her early passing is a keen loss to her family. The services were held at the Mealy Funeral Chapel Friday, 1:30 P. M. with Rev. Beers officiating. Burial was at Palmyra. Those who acted as pall bearers were Richard Williams, Harold Pardee, V. J. Sherman, Bert Orchard, Earl Smart and Sam Hooper.

Frank B. Thomas

Our little village was shocked Friday morning when the sad news was disclosed that during the night one of our most respected citizens, Frank B. Thomas, had passed away. Only the day before he had been about town greeting his friends in his usual pleasant way and news of his passing came with all the force of a surprise to everyone. Frank was the youngest son of Ebenezer and Elizabeth Thomas, early pioneer settlers of this community and was born April 15, 1859 on the Thomas farm, now owned by his son, Lee Thomas. Here he spent his entire childhood being the youngest of a family of 9 children attending the Palestine and Eagle School. On Oct. 8, 1880 he was united in marriage to Stella Sprague who has been his faithful companion for the past 62 years. On Oct. 8, 1930 this venerable couple had the privilege of celebrating their golden wedding. In 1910 they left their farm home and built a fine home in the village where they could spend their declining years. Mr. Thomas was a great lover of home and friends and was never more happy than to be surrounded by his children and their families. He was assessor of the village for 10 years and always took a keen interest in all public affairs. He leaves surviving him besides his widow, three children, Ernest of Oconomowoc, Lee of Eagle and (Ona) Mrs. Renemo of Fort Atkinson, besides 10 grandchildren and 4 great grandchildren. The funeral took place from the home Sunday afternoon, 1:30 P. M. Rev. Beers of North Prairie officiating. Burial was in the family lot in North Prairie cemetery. The pall bearers were Bruno Wingenter, Harry Burton, E. J. Burton, C. L. Shearer and Vinton Sherman.

Those from away who attended the funeral of Mr. Thomas were Frank Reeves of Pewaukee, Mrs. Gertrude Sprague and daughters, Mrs. Charles Bancroft, Mrs. Hathaway of Waukesha, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Sprague, Wm. Kingston, Mukwonago and Elmer Viel of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Peter Erickson

Last Sunday at her farm home southwest of the village occurred the death of Mrs. Peter Erickson after an illness of several months duration. Amanda Peterson Erickson was born in Sweden coming over to this country when she was 19 years old. In the year of 1898 she was married to Peter Erickson. The family moved to their present farm home which they purchased 26 years ago. A kind neighbor always willing to lend a helping hand and a loving mother Mrs. Erickson made many friends here who are saddened by her untimely death.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, three children (Hilda) Mrs. William Ogden of Madison, (Esther) Mrs. Wilbur Potterton of West Allis and Leo at home, 6 grandchildren, one sister and two brothers in Sweden. The funeral took place from the Mealy funeral Chapel Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 P. M. with Rev. Foulke of Hebron officiating. Burial was in Oak Ridge Cemetery. The pall bearers were W. C. Turner, Charles Drays, Roy Burton, Charles Pierce, Leon Peardon, Ralph Grant.

"SALVAGE FOR VICTORY PROGRAM"

The Waukesha County Council of Defense Salvage Committee has had several meetings to arrange an extensive program, all of which was brought to a final climax Friday night when a very large group of men and women who were anxious to do their part in getting materials for the boys at the front, met at the Court House to have explained the part they will take in the gathering of more scrap and salvage per capita in Waukesha County than any County in America.

There will be thousands of large, red, white and blue posters tacked up throughout the county and in every Town and Village in the county. There will be a patriotic appeal read to every school child in Waukesha County. It has been suggested to their teachers that they provide an honor roll for the children who accumulate the greatest amount of salvage. There will be some 6000 letters to go one to every farmer in the county. There have also been a great many newspaper displays provided. Central salvage gathering districts will be arranged where salvage can be brought on certain days where it will be received, weighed in and paid for.

Everyone taking part in the gathering of salvage will be able to take a lot of pride in the effort that they put forth. The Defense Council is providing a red, white and blue poster to be placed in the window, on the house or in front of the house in the yard. It is a conspicuous, attractive poster that shows that this home has done their part in providing the materials and waste that are so badly needed.

There is no record or information that indicates any county in America has had such an extensive program provided; it appears that no detail has been overlooked to make this the greatest salvage gathering county of any county in America.

This is a job for everybody. The boys and girls cannot help much in

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.
● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.
● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. STORY OF THE WEEK

How a "Poet" Proved a Point

By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

(Associated Newspapers—WNU Service.)

DELLA knew she was going to have difficulty in making Andy understand how she felt, and she did. It was hard putting the thing into words—telling a man that you didn't think he could make you happy because he was unromantic and unpoetic and placed too much value on material things.

"But you do understand what I mean, don't you, Andy?" she pleaded almost desperately.

"No," said Andy, "I don't."

Della rested a hand on his arm and smiled at him. "Andy, you're big and strong and dependable. You're security personified, and everyone will think me crazy for not marrying you. But it wouldn't be fair to myself."

Andy bit his lip and punched a hole in the soft earth of the terrace with his heel. "Maybe," he said, "you'll get a chance to meet this—poetic guy."

"Now, Andy, what's the use—?"

"I mean it," said Andy gloomily.

"There's a guy coming up tomorrow. A classmate of mine. He's a poet."

Andy said "poet" with the same inflection of tone with which he would have said "rattlesnake."

"Andy—not a real poet?"

"Yup," said Andy, striving to conceal his disgust at the ecstatic look in Della's eyes. "I—I was going to warn you against him. He was always queer. And now that he's started writing rhymes he's turned into what I'd call a nut!"

"Oh, Andy!"

Andy stood up. He hesitated a moment, looking down at the girl with an expression of misery. He sighed, and recalled how once durhad expected them to be. She was saying:

"But, Horace, we really ought to go back. It's past dinner time and I'm hungry and—"

"Dinner!" Horace's tones cut in with scorn. "How can you speak of dinner at a moment like this? Hunger? My dear, there is no hunger but the hunger of a soul for beauty; the hunger of a man like me for a mate such as you. My darling, look at the mountains. Does not their beauty, their grandeur—"

"Yes. Yes, they're beautiful, Horace, and your poetry is beautiful, only I had an early lunch and not much at that. I really think you'd better take me back."

"Take you back? Never!" There was a pause, and Andy, peering through the bushes, saw the outline of Horace's head as he leaned toward Della; saw Della shrink away from him. Horace's voice was hoarse, passionate, domineering.

"You are mine! Mine! Do you understand? You have been in my life always, and today I found you. Never shall I let you go! My soul and yours are interlocked by the bonds of a love deeper than the deepest river and shall never be severed. Come into my arms, my dearest."

At this point it occurred to Andy that since college days his ex-classmate had become a little screwy. And he decided to do something about it. Emerging from his place of concealment, he strolled toward the fish pond, assuming a casual attitude.

There was rustling near the bench where sat Della and her poet had sat. Andy heard a little suppressed cry of relief, and presently a pair of white arms were flung around his neck and a voice was sobbing close to his ear. "Oh, Andy, Andy! I was mistaken. I didn't mean it. He—I—"

Andy stepped back. "What!" he exclaimed in well-feigned astonishment, "you here! Well, well, fancy that!" which he thought was as poetical a speech as anyone could make.

At this point Poet Weatherby appeared out of the gloom and said in strident tones: "Unhand that woman, scum!"

Whereupon Andy loosened one of his arms and smote Mr. Weatherby a very telling blow on the button. Della clung to him and whimpered. Andy said something about a beef-steak, and she nodded in a fashion that gave Andy the impression she would nod thus to any old suggestion he cared to make. So he picked her up and carried her majestically from the scene of the battle.

Later that night Andy made an unobtrusive departure from the hotel and in a deserted section of the driveway came upon a man seated on a rock. The man was Poet Weatherby.

"Hello," said Andy. "Been waiting long?"

"About an hour, you big ape," said Horace. "Say, what's the idea of poking me one on the button? That wasn't in the bargain."

"It wasn't in the bargain either to try to kiss my girl. However, here's your money. Now scam before she sees you hanging around and gets suspicious."

"O.K.," Horace thumbed through a wad of bills and grinned. "Nice going, Andy. Say, you sure know how to handle women."

"That," said Andy, "is because I take beefsteak with my rhymes."

Before Buying Used Car Get Okeh From Mechanic

Best insurance of all when buying a used car is to pay a mechanic you trust to look it over. Here are some of the things he will do:

Before taking it out, he will stare at the driver's seat, the floor boards, foot pedals, running boards, door catches and snubbers. These things are among the least important on the car, but they give him an idea of the car's real mileage, rather than the speedometer which can be adjusted to any lie. Under the fenders he peers and if one of them is new, it suggests an accident and makes him alert for other clues.

If the rear seats show unusual wear, he gives the body a hard look for spots where signs and lights may once have been and pecks off a bit of the new paint. Should he find the kind of paint usually used on taxis, he walks out. It is all he needs to know. Should the car stand a preliminary once-over, he takes it for a good long demonstration. It runs sweetly without any knocks. But why does he stop and smell the gas tank? It might contain ether, which prevents knocks but burns the cylinders out. While the car is stopped, he rubs off a smear of grease because this is an old trick for hiding the seam where a cracked engine has been welded.

Speeding the car up to 45 miles an hour, he takes his foot from the accelerator, then jams it down again, and looks backward. What's the idea? Well, if the piston rings are worn, there will be a cloud of blue smoke. Also he examines the oil. If this is extra heavy, it is another indication of the same weakness.

CATTLE RAISERS FACE PROBLEM

Danger Ahead if Beef Cattle Increase Continues.

By R. J. McKENNA
(Chairman, Montana USDA Defense Board.)

Dangers that face the livestock industry if cattle numbers continue to increase past a balance with normal feed supplies were pointed out by Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard in a recent letter.

There is danger ahead for beef cattle producers if herds continue to increase, Wickard stated. This, together with the fact that abundant supplies of food are needed for national defense, indicates that increased marketings of beef cattle and calves in 1942 will benefit not only cattlemen but the National Defense program as well.

Secretary Wickard's statement pointed out to stockmen several things they could do to make their position more secure. He advised increased marketing of cows and heifers which, because of the good demand and price, would mean more money to pay off indebtedness and get set for what may come in the future. This present demand also offers stockmen an opportunity to improve their breeding herds by culling out and selling undesirable animals at a good price.

Keep livestock numbers in balance with normal feed supplies, he urged. Range conditions and feed supplies in the West have been unusually good this year. Drouth can cause a lot of loss if there is no feed reserve available.

In 1934, just before the disastrous drouth, there were 74,000,000 head of cattle in the United States and in another year, if the present rate of increase continues, there will be at least that many again.

Vitamins Important In Animal Breeding

The success with which farmers raise their pig, lamb, and calf crops to meet expanding national food needs may depend in a large part on the kind of rations they supply their breeding stock, says Earl H. Hostetler, professor of animal husbandry at North Carolina State college.

Rations well fortified with vitamins and minerals are required for normal reproduction, and vitamins A, E and C have received most attention in relation to reproduction.

Carotene, which is present in well-cured green hay, fresh green pasture, grass, well-made corn, grass and legume silage, and yellow varieties of carrots, squash, and sweet potatoes, is the principal source of vitamin A, highly essential in the reproduction of all farm animals.

However, Hostetler pointed out, carotene is rapidly destroyed in feeds, especially under conditions of poor storage, so precautions must be taken to provide adequate amounts particularly to pregnant animals.

As early as in 1922, the vitamin E factor was demonstrated to be necessary for reproduction of laboratory animals such as the rat, but the need for it in the diet of farm animals other than poultry is still questionable. Most good rations contain adequate amounts of this vitamin, and only in unusual cases is it likely that animals may be sterile because E is lacking.

Such feeds as wheat bran, shorts, linseed meal, hominy feed, white and yellow corn, cottonseed meal, and kafir are good sources of vitamin E, as are most of the common hay and pasture crops.

Rayon Fabrics Make Lounging Apparel to Fit Modest Budget

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WE'RE all so busy these days, we appreciate more than ever the few precious hours when we can relax. Smart, flattering clothes for stay-at-home moments add immeasurably to the enjoyment of playing at being a lady of leisure. Thanks to the many fine rayon fabrics now available, there is luxurious lounging wear this season within the reach of every woman's clothes budget.

Unless you have explored the possibilities of dramatic at-home costumes, you will have no idea what they can do for your looks and your morale. Whether you're a busy wife and mother, or a tailored career woman, or a defense worker who has worn a uniform or practical, functional clothes, a graceful lounging costume will transform you into a clinging vine in the twinkling of an eye. For informal entertaining, for instance, such formal fabrics as crush-resistant rayon velvet, soft rayon satin, and svelte rayon jersey are draped and molded into gracious hostess gowns and strikingly trousered. Bejeweled or unadorned, dramatic or appealing, these lovely styles reflect the trend towards luxurious effects.

For a quiet evening at home, or a quiet morning or afternoon, there are enchanting styles in house coats, lounging robes, and negligees that are not only comfortable but look as well in the dining room as they do in the boudoir. Rayon jersey and velvet reappear in these fashions, as do rustling rayon taffetas, smooth rayon crepes and smart spun rayons in novelty weaves. Wrap-around coat types are popular for the girl who likes her housecoat to do double duty as a dressing gown. The shirt-waist or round-necked styles look like frocks but have long concealed or zippered closings and may be slipped into with the greatest of ease.

Any college girl who happens to be the possessor of a cozy quilted lounging coat of crisp rayon taffeta in a gay plaid like that pictured to the right in the above illustration will be the envy of her classmates as she flits about in the dormitory or cuddles up in a big "comfy" chair in her room. The tailored collar may be worn snugly closed on cool mornings and the wide skirt flares nicely from a slim sashed waistline.

For extra warmth there are adaptable breakfast coats and lounging robes in luscious rayon taffeta, moire or satin, cosily quilted and cut on flattering fitted and flared lines with nice tailored details. For luxurious lounging the quilted housecoat centered in the picture above uses soft rayon satin in a colorful floral print. A snug set-in waistband with double-breasted buttoning accents the full, flared skirt. In a more intimate mood, matching gown and negligee sets in pastels and white are exquisite in fine rayon crepe or satin with lavish lace trim.

With luxurious rayon fabrics providing exciting grandeur, glamour is the keynote for at-home fashions such as the handsome hostess gown shown to the left in the picture above. This distinctive and gracious gown combines two high-fashion notes in its dramatic use of suave rayon jersey for fluid molded styling, plus a glorification of the sweater jacket for informal evening wear. In striking Chinese red, the soft rayon jersey is swathed snugly about the bodice and draped in sleek folds for the full, full skirt. Long sweeping lines are complemented by full bishop sleeves caught tight at the wrist. Brilliant red stones set in gold gleam from every square of the matching knit wool bolero with its shoulder-accenting cap sleeves. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

For Leisure

Of course you'll be wanting a "brunch" coat. It is a short-skirted version of the ever-popular housecoat. The versatile little brunch coat as shown above is designed to turn the most demure housewife into a beguiling glamour girl. In crisp, brightly plaided rayon taffeta the skirt is cut on dirndl lines, zips up the back, ties at the waist and is ready to make you look beautiful.

The Stocking Future?

It Couldn't Be Brighter
 Just because there is a lull in the silk supply and a possible shortage of nylon because of "priorities," there's no reason to worry about hosiery futures. The inflow of stocking fashions that make use of cotton, lisle and spun rayon meshes is most heartening. You will be wanting a pair of the new tweed rayons to wear with your spring suit. Lises and cottons come in ribbed effects and in small checks. We will probably be wearing dainty white cotton hose this summer, too. The thinnest of thin navy sheers are smart with navy suits. And nylons in a lace weave are also scheduled for summer.

Bolero

Here's good news for bolero lovers. It looks as though the bolero is going to win out as a special favorite this spring. One of its newer uses is with all 'round pleated skirts. When it is worn with long-torso and slim princess dresses the bolero is very, very short.

Spring Tid-Bits

Pottery, shells and wooden blocks decorate the jewelry counters already laden with accessories for spring. There are pale beige shell necklaces and bracelets, shell brooches, wooden beads the color of sunlit sand, and some giddy wooden cylinders wrapped with cellophane.

Sequins

Colorful sequins add glamour to evening prints. A few dressy afternoon prints also reflect the sparkle of sequins. You'll love the new prints with huge realistic roses on black or navy grounds.

Boy Not Fast Enough To Escape Operation

TAMPA, FLA.—The automobile drew up to a hospital entrance. Out of the car bolted a 12-year-old boy. His parents caught him as he dashed across a bridge. Back at the hospital an appendectomy was performed. "Aw, it wasn't so bad," the lad admitted.

Navajo Boy, 9, Is Skilful Artist

Critics Amazed Over Work Of Indian Youth.

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.—Bea Tien Yazz sounds like a college football yell, but actually it is the name of a nine-year-old Navajo Indian boy, whose paintings at a recent exhibition at the La Jolla (Calif.) Art Center amazed the critics. The exhibit of the Indian lad's work was arranged by Mrs. William J. Lippincott, whose husband is in charge of the trading post at Kin-tedel, near Wide Ruin, Ariz. About two years ago Mrs. Lippincott gave "Little No Shirt," as his Navajo name is translated, a 10-cent box of colors and a table on which to work in a room by himself. Immediately he began to show traces of a natural talent.

Since that time he has sold enough sketches to buy his own paints, a horse and some chickens—all the wealth in the world, as he sees it. Although observers were amazed by the sense of balance and perspective displayed in the boy's paintings, it was pointed out that the artist would be more amazed than his public if he could be made to understand the meaning of his exhibit. As it is, he knows nothing of his work's being exhibited.

He has never taken any art lessons, working entirely without instruction, and is so shy, according to Mrs. Lippincott, that the sight of a stranger often will send him scurrying into hiding for several days.

Pay Dirt Found Beneath Floor of Assay Office

NEVADA CITY, CALIF.—Hal Davis, Nevada city assayer, had a gold strike of his own—and right beneath his office.

Davis was moving his office from one of the town's oldest buildings, constructed about 1852, when he discovered gold in dirt on and beneath the floor. Panning yielded about four ounces and Davis constructed a sluice box which he hoped would produce as much more.

An assay shop has been housed in the building for many years and it was believed the gold leaked from a melting pot while being made into bricks. The incident recalled the gold rush days practice of selling the sawdust covering the floor of saloons. Drinks were paid for with gold dust weighed over the bar and often dust escaped to make the sawdust as valuable as high grade ore.

Locked Door Puts Baby In a Jam—Strawberry

BOSTON. — Two-year-old Sheila Bychman, Roxbury, was undisturbed when the door of her mother's pantry closed accidentally and she was locked in. Although her mother, Mrs. Theresa Bychman, discovered that Sheila was in the pantry, her attempts to tell the baby how to open the door were unsuccessful, as the young lady answered: "Can't open the door without a key. There's no key here, mamma. So it's all right if I have a key?" Occasionally Sheila reported to her mother on conditions in the darkened pantry—"the jam and mother's chocolates were nice."

Policemen, summoned by Mrs. Bychman, forced the door to release a jam-covered Sheila.

Enlistment Papers Save Thief From Reprisal

LITTLE FERRY, N. J.—Barber Frank Circkirillo paused as he shaved a customer and, the razor resting on the man's throat, remarked:

"I know you. You're the man who stole my boat five years ago." The thief who had robbed the barber and his brother of a boat five years ago and then fought them off with a knife, had a bad moment. What did the barber do? "Oh, I let him go when he showed me an enlistment for the navy," Circkirillo said. "Now he'll have a real ship and I hope he proves himself worthy."

Temperament of Cow Will Cost U.S. $2,703

TACOMA, WASH. — A farmer's contention that moving his dairy herd would make his cows more profitable cost the government an extra $2,703 for an addition to Fort Lewis.

The government had offered $13,797 for the 276 acres that Edward Castle leased from J. L. Wolf for dairy operations. The farmer and landlord asked double the amount.

Farmer Castle pleaded that his cows would fall off in their milk production if moved to other surroundings. A jury awarded $16,500.

Three Persons Escape with Lives as Car Rams Parked Train in Fog

All Three Escape Serious Injury When Car Burns

It might have been tragic, far too tragic. Three Palmyra persons, Warren Reich, Evelyn Wappler, and Harold Buenger, escaped miraculously from their lives early Sunday morning when their car, driven by Warren Reich, crashed into a parked freight train, obscured by the fog, at the St. Paul crossing in front of Reich's Hotel (Warren's home) and burst into flames.

The trio had been to a dance at Little Prairie, and after having taken another passenger, Rachel Baker, to her home in Eagle, were on their way back when the accident occurred.

The huge massive bulk of the freight train as it loomed up suddenly out of the dense, treacherous fog and its grim outline became visible, must have looked like the end of the world to the driver. There was no time to apply the brakes, and although the car was moving at a comparatively slow rate of speed, it smashed into the train, the front end of the car going completely under the railroad car as far as the battery and immediately caught on fire. Two of the occupants, Warren Reich and Evelyn Wappler, clambered out but Buenger remained in the car unconscious. Realizing Buenger's predicament, Reich dove back in and though handicapped by a half-paralyzed arm, dragged him out to safety. Warren swears Buenger's heart stopped beating as he was pulling him out. Evelyn, on seeing Buenger stretched out on the ground, became hysterical, and kept crying, "He's dead! He's dead!"

Warren Revives Buenger

Warren knelt over Buenger and applied artificial respiration until his breathing resumed. With the unconscious man temporarily cared for, Warren climbed over the train to go to the hotel to call for help when he suddenly remembered he forgot his keys. He crawled back again and then made for the hotel where he phoned for the fire department. Up to this time it is alleged that no train crewmen were as yet in sight. Crawling back again over the train, Reich half-rived Buenger with snow. Evelyn had pulled him further away from the car as she was afraid the gas tank might explode. In the meantime it developed that a brakeman had run up to the local telephone office and summoned help.

The fire department soon put out the fire and freed the car from the train.

Not Seriously Injured

A crowd, augmented by Snow Valley guests who were staying at the hotel, soon gathered. When Mr. and Mrs. Reich arrived the three had already been taken to Dr. Bertolaet, and it was found that Warren had escaped with minor bruises. Harold Buenger, head of the local Farm Bureau, suffered a slight concussion as did Miss Wappler, bookkeeper for the same concern. Both are now at their homes but will be as good as new in a few days.

The car, belonging to Warren Reich, was a total loss, except for the tires, with its front end completely smashed and the interior gutted by fire. The crossing at which the accident occurred has no wigwag.

NOSING THE NEWS BY RUSS DEVITT

And Singapore dies as the island is over-run by the Japanese. And the valiant defenders inscribe their names upon history's imperishable record along with Douglas MacArthur and his out-numbered American and Filipino defenders of Bataan.

And in the fall of Singapore there is heard the same piteous cry that was heard in the Philippines, at Wake, at Midway, and at a half-dozen other points which the Japanese have struck. "Give us planes and pilots, half as many as the enemy have, and we'll run them ragged." And in the whole of the eastern theatre of the war, as in the early stages of the western theatre on the bloody fields of France and Belgium, the unquestioned need of air superiority to win in modern warfare is being shown.

And the answer of America to that challenge is our vast expansion program for the construction of planes, for the training of pilots. And when that program gets thoroughly underway we will begin getting good news from the various fronts. And until we begin getting this good news America must be prepared to "take it."

And despite Japan's present advantage in the far east, despite Hitler's apparently inexhaustible resources, the final result of the war is not in doubt. And that of course is the destruction of the dictators and aggressors, but it will not come until our production is in full sway. And as America realizes she is in a war to the death, then will full production be put forth, and the result of World War Two a matter of "how soon will it come."

Elsie's Beau (to her young brother) "Is Elsie your oldest sister?" Young brother: "Yep."

Elsie's Beau: "And who comes after her?" Young Brother: "You and two other guys."

EAGLE HELPS THE BOMBER FUND

The local Fish and Game Club has undertaken the sponsoring of the contributions of both the village and town as our bit in helping purchase the Badger Bomber.

The response has been unusually satisfying, $132 being collected so far. While members have devoted much time to this collection, it may be we have unintentionally overlooked some who want to be a part of this small patriotic endeavor.

We want to send in our report, with the individual names and contributions, to the Milwaukee Sentinel by Monday, Feb. 23th. Any one else desirous of contributing, please leave your name and money at the post office before that date.

DON'T BE A PALE FACE

Have Summer Sunshine All Winter Long With a Modern SUNLAMP....

Sport that "just back from Florida" complexion! Snap a switch. In a few minutes this lamp gives you as much sun-tan ultra-violet as 20 minutes of July sun. Soothing, deeply warming infra-red rays, too. Let the children — the whole family — have their sunshine electrically. An automatic timer regulates "sunbath" periods. The lamp tilts to all useful angles and plugs into any convenient outlet.
