With the Boys In the Service

We know you will enjoy the following letter from Albert Astin. Fort Knox, Ky August 1, 1942

I think that I owe you a letter by now. I have read the letters the other boys have written to you and find them very interesting. I want to thank you for the papers you have sent. It sure seems good to read about the home town.

So far, I have finished my basic training, and I am now going to school. I am supposed to be able to fix any part of a tank when I get through. It all sums up that I am a grease monkey. I mean I get more on myself than I do on the tank. find this work very interesting.

I have a different kind of a day here than I did in the replacement center. Here I don't have to fall out of bed until 7:00. We eat breakfast at 8:00. From then on we don't have anything until noon, except one day a week when we have dismounted drill. We have dinner at 11:45. At 1:00 we start school. School lasts until 8 at night. During this time we have "10 minute breaks" every hour. After school is over, supper is held. This is around 8:30. You can see this puts a stop to our nights. I mean of course going to the nearby towns. Lights do not go out in the barracks until 11:00. This is to give us time to do our home work, but none very seldom do. Mostly there is too much talking, fighting and jokes being played for anybody to study.

Many of the fellows whe I was with in the replacement center have been sent all over. Some went to Camp Cook, Cal., others to Camp Polk, La. Some stayed here and were transfered to the 8th Armored Division here in Fort Knox. Some went to school here with me.

It has been real hot here for the last week or so. I am really glad that I don't have to take any long hikes in this weather. That's one nice thing about being in the tank outfit, you ride, not walk.

Wish you could see some of these tanks. When they go roiling by, you really begin to wonder now you would stop one. Some we have here weigh around 30 ton. That's sure a lot of steel. Just about all you hear going by is tanks. We have some half tracks here also. They are built like a truck, only out of armor plate. They have cant. ront wheels, and in place of wheels in the rear, they have tracks, so they are called half tracks.

Our food here is swell. You got all 1942. you can eat. It is of good quality and is cooked right. Speaking of eating, I have had my share of KP also. It goes around every so often. I just got off yesterday. I was on for one Washington, D. C. Applications must day. I sure had some apples to take to the teacher that day. (I got most of them.)

All of our teachers are Master Sgts and Second Lieutenants. They are real nice fellows and will help you any time you ask them to. They really know their stuff in these tanks.

Our course here will last until some time in October, From here we will go to our regular outfit. I hope to be left here in Fort Knox with the 8th Armored Division.

Guess it comes time for me to close now, Ken, as the clock on the wall says just a few more minutes until Albert Skow of Racine and to this 11:00 and I can't write very good in union one daughter, Patricia, was the dark. I am also a little tired and born, who with the husband and aged want to curl up on my nice SOFT bunk. You know I had some trouble sleeping on these cots at first. Too small. Used to roll off most of the time, but now don't wake up until the bugle blows.

As they say down here in the Army and the Blue Grass of Kentucky, Fall Out. Albert Astin

State Fair

Production for Victory will keynote the hundreds of agricultural exhibits at the 1942 Wisconsin State Fair, Milwaukee, August 22-28.

Wisconsin's leadership in the Victory parade of states will be reflected in every display and demonstration. The thousands of visitors at this year's fair will be thrilled with the dramatic presentation of the farmer's important contribution to the war effort. Agricultural contests and competition will all stress the war angle.

Wisconsin farmers and dairy manufacturers have met the challenge of quality production for the greatest of all Victory foods-dairy products. The st ory of these achievements and how they can be continued will be carved in Wisconsin's famous butter and cheese by the nationally known sculptor, J. E. Wallace, as a feature attraction of the completely new and distinctly different dairy products show. Twenty-eight windows in the fant refrigerator cases will be devoted to displays depicting the role of America's Dairyland in the vital Food-for-Victory program.

Likewise the old type of farm crops show with competitive prizes has given way to the new, ultra-modern, streamlined exposition with the slogan "Wisconsin Crops Vital to Victory." The living, growing Victory Garden, 70 feet long and 30 feet wide, a colorful vegetable display, a practical actual size vegetable storage cellar-the kind you can have in your own home—will occupy a total of 5,000 square feet in the center of the building. A dozen fascinating exhibit booths will furnish ample evidence to support the exposition theme so strikingly illustrated by John Steuart Curfeet high, 36 feet long, painted especially for this year's State Fair.

In the main dairy cattle barn on the fairgrounds will be the sensational educational exhibit "Building for Victory Production" sponsored cooperatively by the State Fair, the Wisconsin Dairymen's Association and the Wisconsin College of Agriculture. Demonstrations will be given at regular intervals by members of the Wau- in Whitewater Thursday evening. kesha Future Farmers chapter on these subjects; Quality Production, Record Keeping, and Herd Testing. Registered Holsteins from the Milwaukee County Institution's herd will be on exhibit to show the four stages Daisy Mater was born at Jericho, in the development of efficient, profitable producing cows.

State champions in several Victory contests will be crowned during the week, These include: chicken picking, horse pulling, horse-shoe pitching, dairy queen, and sheep shearing.

Dairy Day, Friday, August 28, is the climax of the State Fair. One of the outstanding features will be the two-hour America's Dairyland Victory Parade in front of the grandstand at 10:30 a.m. The Youth Day mourn her loss. The funeral took Show, a patriotic pageant with several thousand junior participants will 29, at 2 p.m. with burial at Mound be the afternoon grandstand attraction. Advance Collections Herald Narrower Silhouette for Fall

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE big news as to fall style trends centers for the most part around the idea of slimness for the skirt silhouette. It's quite all right and definitely style-correct to continue to wear the ever-beloved allaround pleated skirts through the summer-to-fall midseason period, but the moment fashion's swan-song sounds the knell to summer and you know by the calendar that autumn is here in will come such an array of smart and figure-flattering narrow silhouetted skirts you'll yield to temptation at the very first glance. In fact, the new slim, black frocks are ever so goodlooking for immediate vear, and they'll be smart right on through into fall and winter.

These charming dresses, styled as they are with utmost simplicity, are ushering in a new era in costume design, one that patriotically makes fabric conservation its theme. Valiantly and victoriously have designers met the challenge to create beautiful fashions out of minimum yardage. Once you've donned one of these figure-flattering narrow silhouetted gowns, suits or coats, as picture interprets a stunning verthe case may be, you'll be all enthusiasm for the new order of things, for it is a fact that the narrowed silhouette is one of charm and chic.

A suit tailored of black bengaline or a dress fashioned of sleek jersey in either black or lush colors fashioned after the manner of the smart modes pictured in the above illustration (each is within the new fabric-saving rulings) gives the perfect answer as to what to wear now and on through the midseason days. In fact, these fashions are scheduled to function smartly far into the tailored of black bengaline, and it's bengaline that fashion-alert women are clamoring for this season for their best looking suit. You'll be starting your fall wardrobe going in the right direction. the right direction if you buy a bengaline suit. Suits of this kind take kindly to accents of lovely lacy lingerie neckwear and it's also smart to wear accessories which give the vivid touch. The front fullness of this skirt is typically "Autumn 1942" in its styling. The jacket is a newly inspired version which stresses up-to-dateness.

The dresses shown are New York creations which observe all the niceties demanded by discriminating taste. The gown centered in the above picture shows its new-school origin in its slenderness and classic simplicity. The fact that it is made of sleek rayon jersey in a lovely mint-julep green is significant, for much importance is attached to greens on the fall color card. A semi-surplice bodice with draped detail outlines a V-neckline, and subtle shirring is stitched into the front seam of the bias-cut skirt. The hat follows the trend to wide flattering brims.

The dress to the left in the above sion of the new pegtop silhouette. Perhaps no word in the skirt realm is being repeated oftener than "peg-top" these days, for most of the newer skirts definitely reflect its influence. Developed of the nowso-fashionable sleek rayon jersey, this dress may be accepted as among the smartest offerings fashion has to make. Its unusual, softly draped sleeves are caught on the shoulders with flattering selffabric ties. The general air of style assurance of this dress makes it outstanding. The becoming hat with its soft matching veil is of green baku.

Practical Trio

For gardening, tennis, cycling or what-have-you in the way of hard work or sports, here is the ideal outfit. Overall shorts of blue cotton denim, with a calico print blouse and a wrap-around skirt, are ready to meet every demand. It's the type of clothes everybody's calling for now that there's work to be done, something dependably washable, chic and becoming, and attuned to all occasions, whether they be work or play. This outfit will hold good "for the duration."

Helps Give Variety To Work Costumes

In planning and designing practical clothes for the thousands of women now engaged in wartime factory work, every effort is being made to avoid regimentation or suggestion of monotonous uniforms. Thus, much importance is attached to color, as it offers variety and cheer.

Necessarily certain requirements must be observed in behalf of safety. For instance, most factories stipulate that women and girls wear slacks or coveralls or jumper slacks carefully styled so that nothing will catch in the machinery. Covering for the head is required to keep the hair protected. Dresses are out of the picture, with a ban on culottes or skirts. Banned also are toe-less or heel-less shoes and long fingernails. Blouses must be simple, so that no frilly details get caught in the machinery, but they may be, and are, very colorful.

Quilted Fashions

Enthusiasm for things quilted extends to every phase of fashion. Quilting as designers are employing it gives novelty to hats, will give warmth to coats this fall by bright colored quilted linings, is used for large flat pockets and offers clever novelty ensembles which include hat, bag and jacket sets.

For Trimming

There will be a generous use of embroidery this fall and also of applique design. And again designers are lavishing fringe on dressy frocks in unique and attractive ways.

Potato Breeders Make Test Plantings

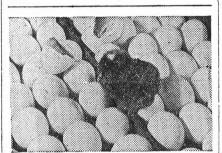

Disease-Free Potatoes Only Control of Ring Rot

How new knowledge of plant science can lift some of the load from the mind of a worried farmer is illustrated by results of test planttings reported by potato breeders of the U.S. department of agriculture.

Ring rot is a serious potato disease. It appeared in Canada in 1931, in Maine in 1932, and spread rapidly causing serious crop losses. The only effective control is to plant nothing but disease-free seed potatoes. Traces of the disease in seed stock are difficult to detect and may lead to serious losses. Ring rot has been reported from 37 states.

If scientific knowledge had not advanced in the last 100 years, says Dr. R. M. Salter, chief of the bureau of plant industry, the potato industry and the country generally might well worry over the possibility of a potato famine such as Ireland had in the Hungry Forties.

Potato specialists do not know of a gold commercial variety that will grow in spite of ring rot. But authors of the article report a trial of

"Come on out, guys and gals, see what's cookin'," says this newly hatched chick waiting for pals.

54 varieties artificially inoculated to insure a thorough test. Nearly all were severely diseased, but a precious few came through uninjured.

Various Spuds Tested.

These include two imported varieties "not commercially promising" and several seedlings. Half the hy-brids of the cross between "President"-imported from Englandand the valuable American variety, Katahdin, showed no infection. Several other seedlings showed signs of resistance.

These tests indicate that resistance to ring rot can be inherited by the potato. The "President" variety is not commercially valuable, but from a breeding standpoint it looks to be almost priceless. Based on these tests and their experience it should not be very difficult to produce varieties resistant to ring piano keys. Dry thoroughly with rot with good commercial qualities.

Alfalfa

Although alfalfa is a fairly recent arrival in the fields of the United States and Canada, it is one of the oldest crops known to man and flourished in Asia and Europe for centuries. For the last 20 years, our farmers have given it great preference and the acreage has nearly doubled.

Being especially rich in vitamins, it seems to offer good possibilities for industrial uses. A pilot plant is soon to be set up to extract pigments from dried alfalfa leaves. These will be used in coloring soaps and foods and in preparing medi-

Some experiments also have been made in extracting alfalfa juice for human consumption so it may sometime appear on our breakfast tables. At Michigan State college, scientists have been working on the problem on making plastics out of alfalfa in the same way that soybeans are utilized.

At present, the chief industrial product is alfalfa meal which is merely hay ground into coarse particles which can be fed to animals without loss, and can be shipped more cheaply than baled hay. It can be used in mixed feeds for such small animals as rabbits and poultry. Some of the meal in refined form has been used in breakfast foods for humans and experiments have been made to add carotene extraction to tonics and candy.

"Research Professor of Economy"

SHE'S not a Ph.D. or an LL.D. She hasn't a diploma or a cap and gown. Her research is not done in the laboratory or the library. As a matter of fact, her findings are made, usually, in the street car, in the subway, in the suburban commuter's train.

She reads the advertisements in this paper with care and consideration. They form her research data. By means of them she makes her purchases so that she well deserves the title of "Research Professor of Economy." She discovers item after item, as the years roll on, combining high quality with low.

It is clear to you at once that you... and all who make and keep a home... have the same opportunity. With the help of newspaper advertising you, too, can graduate from the school of indiscriminate buying into the faculty of fastidious purchases!

Telling time in the Navy is on the 24-hour system. Morning hours are from one to twelve, but afternoon hours are from 1300 to 2400 (midnight). So if you ask a sailor the time and he says "seventeen," subtract 12 and you get five o'clock in the afternoon. It's simpler if you ask him what cigarette he smokes. Chances are he'll say: "Camel," for Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as well as among men in the Army, Marines, Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) Local dealers are featuring Camel cartons as gifts for men in the service from the folks back home.—Adv.

Summertime Means Picnic Time! (See Recipes Below.)

Sandwiches Plus

Your fling with summer isn't quite complete without one or a dozen picnics with those sandwiches that taste so good, bubbling hot coffee and fresh, juicy fruit to top off that, outdoor meal. You'll have fun with these simple things, even if you don't make a long trip in the family car to some far-away, favorite picnic grounds. Try the back yard, the parks, the beach or even that shady spot down the road a mile or so for this year's picnic.

Scrub your favorite picnic hamper clean and sun-dry it to assure your food freshness and cleanliness. Fill it to the brim with exciting sandwich combinations that your family will get such a surprise when they begin digging into the pleasant recesses of the big basket. Remember the salt for the tomatoes, paper napkins, paper plates, plenty of glasses or paper cups and, yes. gay checked cloth to add atmosphere to the affair.

Are you in a quandary as to what sandwiches to make? Well, glance over the following combinations for some really tasty ideas in fillings:

Chopped bacon (broiled until crisp) and hard-cooked egg, moistened with mayonnaise or softened butter.

Sliced ham and American cheese. lettuce, sandwich spread.

Cream cheese, finely minced onlon, chopped stuffed olives.

Chipped beef, ground fine, mixed with crumbled Roquefort cheese, seasoned with Worcestershire sauce. Liver sausage, mashed, seasoned with chili sauce.

Summer sausage, ground with sweet or bread and butter pickles, moistened with mayonnaise.

Cucumber, chopped fine, excess moisture drained off, mixed with cream cheese, salt and pepper. Peanut butter mixed with honcy.

Tuna or salmon, flaked, mixed with lemon juice, finely chopped celery and mayonnaise to moisten.

Fillings combined generously with butter are often known as spreads. This facilitates the handling of sandwiches. Just spread the "butter" thickly between slices of bread and your sandwich is made, ready to be wrapped in waxed paper for picnicking.

Cheese Spread.

Blend cream cheese with lemon juice and add 2 tablespoons butter to each package (1-ounce) of cream cheese. To this add one or more of the following: chopped watercress, green pepper or celery; pimiento, green olives, or nuts.

Sardine Spread.

Cream 2 tablespoons lemon juice with ½ pound sweet butter. Spread this on toast or plain whole wheat bread. On top of this place tiny sardines, sprinkle with lemon juice and top with slice of toast or plain whole wheat bread.

"Make-vour-own" sandwiches are loads of fun for picnics. Just pack your lunch box with meat loaf or ham loaf already baked at home. Provide the crowd with bread and butter, and let them slice the meat for their own sandwiches:

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Your best bargains during the present can be found in eggs and cheese, so plan to fortify your meals generously with both of these foods.

The campaign to save fats is really getting under way, and it's good policy on your part to turn all excess fats to your butcher.

Economy's yours if you use a variety of meat cuts in planning your menus. Best bargains can be found in the less used cuts such as liver, sweetbreads, heart, kidneys, rump roasts, etc.

Primary or unlimited production in canned fruits is decreed for the following items: peaches and pears (not whole), pectin, fruit cocktail, fruit for salad, and concentrates of grapefruit, lemon, lime and orange.

*Ham Picnic Loaf. (Serves 10) ½ cup quick-cooking tapioca teaspoon pepper

1/4 teaspoon paprika teaspoon Worcestershire sauce 1 tablespoon minced onion pound lean ham, ground 1 pound lean pork, ground 2 cups milk

Combine tapioca with remaining ingredients in order given. Bake in a loaf pan in a hot (450-degree) oven 15 minutes, then decrease heat to moderate (350 degrees) and bake 45 minutes longer or until done. Serve hot or cold.

Munching on golden, crisply fried, cold chicken is many a picnicker's dream of the perfect outing. This is easily managed if you fry the chicken the night before, let it stand in the refrigerator, then wrap in waxed paper to take to the picnic the next day:

*Country-Fried Chicken. (Serves 6 to 8) 2 3-pound chickens 34 cup flour 1½ tablespoons salt

1 teaspoon pepper

Lard or shortening for frying 1/4 cup butter Clean chickens and cut in pieces suitable for serving. Mix flour with salt and pepper and place in paper bag. Place several pieces of chicken in the bag, and shake to coat evenly with flour. Take out and fry chicken until brown, slowly, in the lard which has been placed in a heavy skillet. When all the chicken has been browned, dot with butter, cover closely and let cook for about an hour over low heat. Or, if you prefer, after chicken is fried, let cook in a moderate (350-degree) oven until done. Uncover during last 15 minutes of cooking time to brown and crisp chicken.

Potato salad made the old-fashioned way with home-cooked dressing is guaranteed to go over big with the family:

Potato Salad (Serves 8) 6 potatoes, cooked in jackets 1/4 cup french dressing 1 onion, chopped fine 1 cup celery, chopped fine 1½ teaspoons salt 1 recipe cooked dressing

Peel potatoes, and cube. Marinate in french dressing for ½ hour. Combine with other ingredients, and chill thoroughly before serving. Garnish with paprika.

Cooked Dressing. 1/4 teaspoon salt 1/2 tablespoon sugar 2 tablespoons flour 11/2 tablespoons butter 1 teaspoon dry mustard 2 egg yolks

34 cup vinegar Combine dry ingredients. Add egg yolks, blending carefully, then mix in butter, milk and vinegar slowly. Cook until thick in double boiler.

34 cup milk

Let cool before adding to salad. Have you a particular household or cooking problem on which you would like expert advice? OLKS who attended the wedding of Perry Rowe and Nita Goodwin predicted for the young couple a lifetime of happiness and serenity. The wedding guests, or most of them, had been acquainted with the youthful couple for years. No two people, said they, were ever more fittingly matched or better equipped for complete matrimonial harmony.

For a time-almost a year-it seemed that the prophecies of the wedding guests were correct. Perry and Nita succeeded gloriously in being happy and serene. The prophets were satisfied and smugly flattered because of what they regarded as their uncanny foresight.

And right at this point the wedding guests cease to become important characters in our tale, for as far as they are concerned the Perry Rowes continued in a perfectly harmonious fashion, until their dying days.

There was a ripple, however, in the serenity of the Rowe's married life. Let it be known at the start that Perry's and Nita's personalities were not completely suited to perfect harmony. Nita, for example, was not the world's best housekeeper, nor was she particularly fond of the details which her new duties entailed. On the other hand Perry had been reared in an atmosphere of order and routine, and order and routine had become an accepted part of his exist-

However, the young Rowes were intelligent and because they were very much in love, each was willing to overlook traits in the other that, under different circumstances, woud have proved annoying. For example, Perry had been used to having his dinner served at 6:30, and he saw no reason why it shouldn't always be served at 6:30. Which fact appeared not to disturb Nita in the least, for she was apt to serve her husband's dinner at 5:30, 5:45, 6:15, 6:45, 7:00 as she was at 6:30.

And then suddenly she was in his arms, and they were laughing together.

And then, serving dinner at irregular hours was only a small part of the dizzy things that took place in the Rowe household. Wash day came sometimes on Monday, sometimes on Thursday or Friday or Wednesday. And sometimes Nita skipped a week for good measure. There was no baking day, and cleaning took place whenever the housewife decided the dust was getting too thick on the living-room table. The variety of food served at all meals was astounding. Nita had a flair for making new things, experimenting on her husband; and even though she proved a good cook, Perry sometimes was alarmed at sight of a squash pie simmering in the oven just prior to breakfast.

These things were, in reality, only a small part of the distorted routine under which the Rowes existed. And for a time Perry, because this was all new to him, uttered no word or suggestion. But habit and order make a deep impression on the human character. And even though Perry so desired, it would have been quite impossible for him to shake off all traces of his pre-married life.

Occasionally upon arriving home after a hard day at the office he would say: "Good lord! Dinner not ready yet? In heaven's name, Nita, can't you serve at least one meal a day at a designated time," Or, "Did it ever occur to you to flick a dust cloth around this room? The Allens are coming over tonight, you

And then Nita would bounce into the kitchen and begin rattling pots and pans, or rush off in search of a dust cloth. Her face would be grave and her eyes filled with an over-abundance of remorse, and, watching her flitting about the room Perry would burst forth in a roar of laughter. Thus would family quarrels be averted before they got underway. There would be a good deal of billing and cooing and fun making, and things would be harmonious and serene once more.

That's the way things were for slow down!

quite awhile-almost a year. Then abruptly Perry's business took a tumble. Things looked bad for a time, and it was only natural that the condition of affairs began to affect his disposition. He spoke more often and more irritably about the lack of routine in his household, about Nita's disorderly manner of doing things.

And so Nita changed. Abruptly, It wasn't what Perry said or the manner in which he said it that bothered her. She wasn't the kind to be disturbed because someoneeven her husband-disapproved of her methods. It was simply because she analyzed the situation and decided routine-regular meals and such-would contribute to Perry's peace of mind. And with business the way it was his peace of mind was an important factor.

And so the household of Rowe became orderly. Monday became washing day; Tuesday, cleaning day; Wednesday, ironing day; etc. Meals were served at 8 a. m. and 6:30 p. m., and the food was ordinary and nourishing.

At first Perry didn't seem to notice. He was too preoccupied with business affairs to notice anything. But after a while it occurred to him that there was no longer reason to complain.

Sometimes he would come home all set to explode because his dinner wasn't ready, only to discover that his dinner was ready, and that it was composed of dishes which he

And so, because there was nothing to complain about, and because Perry had never believed women possessed intellects capable of discussing business problems, the house of Rowe fell silent. It was a brooding silence-Perry brooding over his business, and Nita brooding over Perry.

His condition worried her. And after a while she began to wonder whether there was not some way she could help him

It was fully a month after routine had begun to play an important part in the lives of the young Rowes that Perry came home one evening to find Nita lying on the studio couch reading a novel. Dinner wasn't ready and there was dust on the living-room table. Newspapers were scattered over the floor and a picture hung askew on the wall.

Perry flung off his hat and coat, stood in the center of the floor and roared. He wanted his dinner; what was the idea of leaving the newspapers strewn all about? And just look at that table! Nita looked at him comically, screwed up her nose and scampered into the kitchen. Perry heard the rattle of pots and pans. But he wasn't through complaining, so he strode to the kitchen door and looked in. Nita was standing near the sink, a pan in one hand, a knife in the other. She was rattling the two together, producing a very homey sound and one sugges. tive of a forthcoming meal, but otherwise quite useless.

Perry began to laugh. She turned on him smiling. And then suddenly she was in his arms, and they were laughing longer confused or troubled with business problems. He felt suddenly relieved and calm and contented.

In that moment the thing that Nita had done flashed across his mind in startling vividness. He titled up her chin, looked down into her eyes and grinned. "Darling," he said, 'if it's all the same to you I'd rather have my meals less regular and see dust on the living-room table-and be allowed the chance to complain, if it's all the same to you."

Nita nodded and said it was all the same with her. She understood.

Protect Your Life and Others'—Drive Slowly

Suppose you have a car that will do a mile a minute, but one or more tires on it have become well worn, perhaps the treads even destroyed by wear.

Don't drive that mile-a-minute clip, under any circumstances, advise tire engineers.

Take it slow and easy, and protect your life, as well as others, in addition to the tires, they warn.

The reason: Those tires were engineered to be safe for the high speeds developed by the modern automobile unless something unpredictable like a puncture occurred.

But as the rolling miles wore them down beyond a certain point, the factor of safety at higher speeds declined. With the car driven slowly they might still give the owners many miles of travel. Driven at high speeds they become a hazard, might go flat any minute, and thus put the car out of service.

Engineers, to illustrate the point, tell of one of the company's drivers rolling along on a test mission when a car containing two men sped past. Hardly had the passing car straightened out when there was the loud report of a blowout, the car turned over three times, the two men were taken to a hospital critically injured. The test driver examined the blown-out tire. It had been worn through the breaker strip and two fabric layers, was hardly thicker than half a dozen pages of paper. The driver had been racing at a

So if your tires are badly worn,

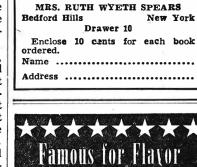

F IT ever seemed to you that the walls and ceiling of an attic room were coming down on your head you know how the owner of this room felt before she began to experiment a bit with wallpaper and furnishings.

Large samples of wallpaper were thumbtacked in place to test them. Stripes only accented the slant of the walls. Plain papers brought out angles with sharp shadows. Large designs made the room seem smaller. Wide borders made the ceiling appear to be even lower. But when a paper with tiny evenly spaced pattern and narrow border was tried all these defects seemed to melt away. The long curtains with ruffles on three sides also helped to make the ceiling seem higher. Pink and white striped material to repeat the wallpaper color was used for the chair cover and dressing table skirt. The chair is a remodeled rocker and the orange crate dressing table has hinged arms. Directions for them may be found on pages 4 and 19 of SEWING,

Nosing The News BY RUSS DEVITT

And the news in Russia is still admittedly bad. And while the Russians Louise Steinkraus, Deceased. under the able leadership of Marshal Simeon Timoshenko have stemmed the irst German onslaught which promised to be a rout of Russian defenders of the Russian campaign. And they anead before the swift coming of the Russian winter.

And so, despite German claims of ast advances which we know are not true, despite Russian claims of effectively stopping the Hitler advance at vital points which we hope are true, the Russians, as far as the Caucasus fight is concerned, are in a bad way. And it goes without saying that ine Russians will fight to the last man and last woman if need be. And it goes without saying that even if Hitler does capture the oil fields he will be a long way from smashing Russia And as Russia battles on she hopes desperately for the opening of a second front. And a second front with a spearhead of American troops may not be long in coming.

And even in the face of bad news, the war has its bright side. And we learn that the Rome radio has been feeding occupied Europe a lot of drivel about Coney Island in New York being practically deserted, about waves washing in vast oil stains from sunken tankers and ships along with nodies of those who went down with the ships. And America can laugh loud and long at these fantastic stories when on Sunday, August 2, the only oil on Coney Island was sun tan oil and it was so deserted that only 900,000 humans thronged its beaches to swim among the floating bodies.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $600. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the U. S. Treasury Department
