AGRICULTURE INDUSTRY Sugar Cane

0 By FLORENCE WEED

(This is one of a series of articles show-ing how farm products are finding an im-portant market in industry.)

Some of the attractive colorful rooms in modern homes are made with wall board of pressed sugar cane. Time was when no one knew what to do with sugar cane bagasse after the sugar was extracted. Tons were either destroyed or burned as fuel in the sugar mills. Then industrial chemists found a way to press the cane refuse into long fibers, to felt and weave it into long board sheets.

Chemists have also found that a cheap molding compound can be made from bagasse. By grinding the cane to a powder, combining it with chemicals, the substance can be molded into flat panels or floor tiles.

Backers believe that this low cost molding compound will enable the plastics industry to branch out into broader fields such as the manufacture of furniture, building materials and parts for automobiles since it can be made for less than half the cost of the cheapest synthetic compound known.

Farm Notes

The U.S. department of agriculture has announced a program for diversion of up to 5,000,000 bushels of Irish potatoes into starch and dextrine.

Working All Day With Beautiful Girls His Task

Stunning Blondes, Brunettes Tumble in Profusion In Man's Office.

NEW YORK.-In the spring-or any other season—a young man's fancy is apt to turn toward a job like Harry Conover's. That is, a job where one is surrounded all day long by some of the most beautiful girls in the world.

Tall and stunning blondes and brunettes tumble about the Conover office in distracting profusion. As a visitor once remarked: "These are the kind of girls I like-you should see the kind I get."

Conover is the head of the model agency bearing his name. His stock in trade consists of 250 lassies, all of whom have two things in common: they are young and pretty. He also has some 20 phones and these ring almost constantly as photographers, artists and advertising agency executives seek the services of one or more of his models to help sell a refrigerator or stove or beautify the cover of a magazine.

He Was a Model.

In these surroundings it would seem all but impossible to concentrate but Conover can apply himself to desk work as though he were a hermit. It is quite obvious that he is accustomed to beauty. "I married a model," he said with a wistful undertone as though he would like, once in a while, to see a homely girl.

As a matter of fact he is not a bad looking chap himself, only 29, and once one of the most successful male models. "They used to call me "The Face," he admits. Friends tagged him thus because his pearly teeth and curly locks were plastered over billboards and in magazines as bait for toothpastes and hair tonics. A moment of meditation made Conover a model magnate. He realized abruptly one day that every picture he posed for meant that he was one step closer to the end of his modeling career. So he spent his spare time helping other models get work—and incidentally establishing good contacts for himself.

His method of getting his business under way was quite unorthodox. No matter who called him for a model got the answer that the Conover agency was all booked. This went on right to the verge of bankruptcy, but Conover rightly figured that the word would get around that he was doing great. It did and he did.

Likes 'Scrubbed' Look. Conover's models look a little different from most. When he got into the field they were standardized as tall, thin with china-white faces and a disdainful air. He looks for girls who have what he calls "scrubbed" look. Give him that such with the proper height, features and figure and she can make herself from $75 to $300 a week.

PREPAREDNESS

NEWEST of all the American Red Cross activities is the Wool Conservation program. Under it, volunteers from the more than 3,700 Red Cross chapters throughout the nation collect scraps of new, unused wool and place them in reprocessing channels.

The Wool Conservation program was developed jointly by the War Production board and the Red Cross when it became apparent that the nation faced a serious wool shortage. There were only two ways in which this shortage could be alleviated within the next year. The first was by cutting down wool consumption in every possible way by restyling and redesigning garments to save wool. The second was to have every scrap of new, unused wool reprocessed as rapidly as possible. The Red Cross was selected to do this job.

Under the agreement be-tween the Red Cross and the War Production board, the 3,700 Red Cross chapters arrange for the collection of trousers cuff clippings, wool samples and other wool clips from tailors, men's clothing stores, department stores, clothing manufacturers and cleaners. These are then placed in reprocessing channels by selling them to wool reclaiming firms.

When reprocessed into wool cloth, the clippings from 21 pairs of men's trousers will be enough to make a complete soldier's uniform or another civilian suit.

Proceeds from the sale of the wool clips collected under the Wool Conservation program are retained by the local Red Cross chapters to carry on their work of War Relief and Civilian Defense Preparedness training. Prepared Exclusively for WNU.

Two Kinds of Discontent

There are two kinds of discontent in this world: the discontent that works, and the discontent that wrings its hands. The first gets what it wants, and the second loses what it has. There's no cure for the first but success; and there's no cure at all for the second.-Gordon Graham.

Sign of Wisdom The most manifest sign of wisdom is a continual cheerfulness.

CARL WILLIAMS is a telephone company 'trouble shooter''. That's a job that's tough and plenty dangerous. Mr.; Williams says: "I've got to be alert and on my toes every minute I'm working. He gets most of his applicants for jobs on Monday and this puzzled him until he discovered that ambitious suitors would spend Sunday telling the girls: "You ought to be a model." This apparently replaces ought to be in pictures." "You

Her example impressed a friend, Mrs. Frances Karkeek, civil service commission stenographer.

"My husband is going to the army soon," she said. "He won't be able to say anything if I want to have his civilian pants cut down."

Judge Splits a 'Fee' For Traffic Violation

PORTLAND, ORE. - Cupid got Mrs. Elizabeth Andrus into trouble, and then helped her out of it. She told Judge A. E. Wheelock she was hurrying to get a young couple to the marriage license bureau, so her husband, a minister, could marry them, when she was halted for traffic violation.

"How much did your husband get for marrying the couple?" asked the judge. When told that the fee was $5, the judge decided to "split" an original fine of $5 to $2.50.

Judge Fines Speeding Father, Then Remits It

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO. - "You probably couldn't have been much use at the hospital," City Judge C. A. Bailey told Elmer A. Ihler, who offered the alibi to a speeding charge that he was hastening to attend the birth of his first son.

The judge imposed a fine of $5. As an afterthought, he remitted the fine and told Ihler to save the ticket to show his son some day "just how much trouble he got you into."

The particular unit in question had taken on a large number of new recruits and some of them were a little raw. During the first rifle inspection, the officer approached one of the men, had a look at his rifle, and then called to the N.C.O. in charge.

"Look at this man's rifle!" he announced.

The sergeant looked down the barrel, swung the rifle around to the recruit, and barked: "Take a look at that rifle, you!"

The recruit peered carefully down the barrel, then muttered in a surprised tone: "Well, what do you know. Got

Wartime Problem Solved

Necessity has forced the American people to do many new things. While in the past many bird lovers have raised canaries at home for the pleasure and satisfaction they derived, now the breeding of canaries at home has become a new, worthwhile hobby-a moneymaking hobby that is spreading all over this country.

With the major supplies of canaries from abroad abruptly stopped . . . with a strict wartime ban placed on the importation of hundreds of thousands of canaries formerly shipped yearly from Central Europe and Asia, the ingenuity and foresight of the American people have met the situation with smiles of satisfaction—as they turned this canary shortage into a wartime opportunity.

But a small out-lay was required to start this worthwhile hobbyturning a most pleasurable undertaking into a profitable, moneymaking business at home.

Memory Geniuses

Some Mohammedan priests have remarkable memories. Starting when they first learn to read, they read no other book besides the Koran, and by the time they enter the priesthood are able to repeat the 2,400,000 words of that book from metnory. Several of the priests with more retentive memories have memorized the complete work in as little as 2½ years.

And a year has etapsed since Addiph Hitler launched his campaign against Soviet Russia. And flushed by vio tories over France, Buland, Belgium, and Holland , Hitler threw down the war gauntlet to Josef Stalin. And at that time the future indeed looked lark for the cause of the Axis cuemies. And the Germans were ready to run rough shod over the broad expanse of the Bussian Blains with their motorized army.

And yet, while the Nazi's did strike hard, while they did push closer and closer to Moscow, something hapyen ed. A spark kindhed in the Russian people south the spark became mighty wall of finne that stoud firm against the best or slaughts that Hitfer could muster. And Adoton Hitler began cautiously to speak about the insibility of not taking Moscow until later.

And then General Winter and Beneral Mud took charge and the Ger mans began dropping back, mile alter mile, pursued by cold, by sticky mud, and by the sucrilla lighting of the Russian people And once again Spring has come. And suce again the little fellow with the mustashe prates of marching into Muscow. And yet hu has talked before and it was as the wind blowing through the trees. And now, the armed might of the United States is against him. And Britam has now licked her wounds and is ready for bloody revenge.

And Hitler is in much less a favorable position than he was a year ago And Hitler knows that he will soon he tasting the suid steel as wielded by the mighty men of the U.S. And while a year ago the United States was as yet out of war, and while Britain was toeling from tremendous bombings of her cities and people, and the Russian fighting force was untried, they indeed did Hitler's chances look good And yet now, despite Allied losses in Libya, despite the loss of shipping despite the seeming success of the yellow men of Nippon, Hitler is in by fall he had best cash in his chips.
