$21,163.05 CONTRIBUTED BY ROYAL NEIGHBORS OF AMERICA

Raised by contributions from camps and members throughout the United States, the All American fund of Royal Neighbors of America of $21,163.05 has been contributed to the blood plasma program of the Red Cross, according to a report from the supreme office of the fraternal benefit society received by Mrs. Charlotte Stead, recorder of Camp No. 5964 of Eagle, Wisconsin.

A check covering the patriotic fund was accepted in behalf of national headquarters of the Red Cross by Geo. A. Uhlmeyer, chairman of the Rock Island, Ill. Chapter. The presentation in the society's supreme office in Rock Island was witnessed by Mrs. Grace W. McCurdy, Bettendorf, Iowa, supreme oracle; Miss Erna M. Barthel, Rock Island, supreme recorder, and Dr. Hada M. Carlson, Moline, Ill., supreme physician.

In accepting the Royal Neighbor All American fund, Mr. Uhlmeyer thanked supreme officers of the society, camps and members for the parts they played in the success of the project and spoke of the appeal to raise the money as a "most commendable patriotic undertaking." He forwarded the money to the national treasury of the Red Cross.

F. A. Winfrey, manager of the mid-western area of the Red Cross at St. Louis, Mo., in a letter to the society stated: "It is with a great deal of pleasure that we acknowledge the very generous expression of your interest in the American Red Cross blood plasma program. The check has been allotted to this service and will extend its neighborliness and help to our wounded soldiers and sailors and aviators wherever the American flag flies today. This amount will provide life-saving plasma for some seven thousand transfusions somewhere on the far-flung battle fields of the world. This should be a real satisfaction in itself to all of the 6,000 camps of your organization. But to this I want to add for some 14 million Red Cross members, their sincere gratitude for your gift—and all that it represents."

Casting the Die

A. A. U. Warns Of War Rackets

There is increasing pressure to sell blackout headlights and other blackout accessories for vehicles with the salesmen trying to give the impression that they are official, Glenn W. Stephens, chairman of the advisory board of the Wisconsin Division of the American Automobile Association warned today. The real danger is that considerable numbers of citizens and perhaps organizations will buy new equipment thinking they are getting official blackout vehicle lighting equipment, only to find later on that they will have to junk this and purchase the real official vehicle lighting equipment if their vehicles are to move in blackouts.

Only emergency vehicles, Mr. Stephens explained, and only the cars of officially authorized persons working on highly important war work will be permitted to move in air raid blackouts. Even if motorists have the official equipment, they will not be allowed to move if their vehicles or their work do not come in the proper classifications.

As to the air raid blackout equipment, Mr. Stephens continued: It is vitally important that the public be warned against purchasing equipment alleged to be approved for blackouts but actually not so approved. People should be advised that they should not make purchases unless their vehicle comes within the relatively little number of classifications which will be permitted to move in an air raid blackout.

People and organizations should be informed to purchase only equipment which bears the marking reading "Blackout Headlamps (or headlights or tail light or whatever it is) War Dept. Standards." Only manufacturers which produce equipment meeting the laboratory tests of the War Department's requirements will be permitted to use those markings.

See Your Doctor

Madison, Wis., Sept. 3—"He who doctors himself has a fool for a patient." The State Medical Society reminds us in a health bulletin issued today that self-medication is one of the most dangerous and unwise practices that can be pursued.

Of all self-medication, excessive use of cathartics and sedatives is most common and probably the most harmful. Many healthy persons begin taking laxatives and never return to the natural habit. Laxatives and cathartics are responsible for more appendicitis deaths than all the other factors involved. Mental symptoms, at first taken to be insanity, have later been shown to be due to self-medication with sleeping tablets and sedatives containing one of the barbiturates. Also dangerous are the weight-reducing drugs, many of which contain damaging ingredients. One of them is dinitrophenol. It has a chemical relation to nitroglycerin, of which dynamite is made. Dinitrophenol will speed up the process of cell metabolism, often beyond control, and the result in several cases has been death to the hopeful but misguided sufferer.

With medical centers developed to a high degree of efficiency, with trained research workers discovering new remedies and treatments by which disease may be conquered, with qualified physicians living only blocks from the sufferer, still credulous people throw away thousands of dollars every day on patent medicines, and some do not live to tell the tale.

NOSING THE NEWS BY RUSS DEVITT

And on the war front of the Australian theater the gallant marines have the situation in the Solomon Islands well in hand. And Japanese invasion troops in the Milne Bay area of New Guinea suffered a disastrous defeat at the hands of the master strategist, Douglas MacArthur. And in occupied Europe American and U. S. P. pilots blasted Nazi industrial strongholds and fortified positions. And on the African front Allied planes harass Rommels army and Rommels supplies. And on the Russian front the Nazi's are being momentarily thrust back in a gigantic counter-offensive by the Reds. And in China Japanese positions are bombed time and again by American pilots with little Jap resistance.

And on all of the war fronts the United Nations are beginning to crawl out of their defensive shell. And up to the present it has been necessary for us to wage a defensive war. And for a good while to come we will be on the defensive a great deal of the time. And yet the fortunes of war are gradually beginning to change. And the scales which have been tipped so heavily in favor of Axis are beginning to move in the opposite direction.

And yet on all of these war fronts men are dying. And on all of these blazing infernos, American youth, Allied youth and English youth, are paying with their lives the cost of freedom and a way of life worth living. And on the home front in these United States, two discharged war production board officials and three dealers in used machine tools were indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to defraud the United States and interfere with the prosecution of the war.

And this is fine news to send to our boys fighting on foreign shores. And it is a fine thing to tell them that because racketeers in this country put personal gain before the war effort that supplies and equipment which might have been instrumental in saving their lives and shortening the war were not forthcoming. And it is time that we once and for all weeded out all of these racketeers from the production field. And if the gentlemen indicted for these offenses are guilty, they deserve death as much as did the Nazi saboteurs who were captured.

Prepare for Week-Ends

Lazy days with first signs of fall in the air, wilted appetites and the whole family home for the week-end are a heavy drain on the homemaker. If she expects to spend any time with her family, Madame Housewife must scurry around and plan a preparedness campaign which will stock her refrigerator with foods that can be pulled—like the traditional bunny out of the hat—and still keep her reputation as the "best cook around here."

It's a mistaken notion that the main dish has to be an elaborate hot and heavy affair that sends the hostess to the head of her table sweltering after hours of preparation. A much better idea would be to have a cool, tempting Chicken-Ham Mousse such as I've planned for you today.

Wash the vegetables and store them in the cold compartment and they're ready to toss together in a few minutes, crisp, and chewy, coated with a flavorful dressing, in a salad supreme. If the family really has its heart set on "something hot" bring out some bran muffins, all moist and tasty with blueberries. These take but a short time to bake.

Your table should be bright and gay with oranges and yellows, reds, rich browns to add warm notes to the porch supper or lunch—indoors or out. Let your imagination run riot with the dry leaves, bright berries, sprays from the wayside or fall's bountiful fruits.

Remember, you can do more for your table by arranging Concord grapes tastefully with a few golden pears, blush red apples on rich brown leaves or in well polished pewter, copper or brass vessels than rare, expensive flowers that your family does not know how to appreciate. Then, of course, if you have a few yellow or deep red chrysanthemums in your fall garden, let them fall gracefully in and out among their own leaves in a burnished bowl, and you leave nothing to be desired.

Here's the mousse which you can have as a main dish. Make it the night before and it's already to serve just with unmolding:

*Chicken-Ham Mousse.
(Serves 6)
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups chicken broth
1½ cups ground, cooked chicken
1½ cups ground, cooked ham
¼ cup salad dressing
1 minced scallion
¼ cup whipped cream
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
Add salt to egg yolks, then broth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon.

*All-Bran Blueberry Muffins.
(Makes 12 small muffins)
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup fresh blueberries
Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in all-bran and milk and let soak until all moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients and add blueberries. Add to first mixture and stir just until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins until two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.
Greens tossed together with mellow french dressing are attention-getters:

*Julienne Salad Bowl.
(Serves 6)
1 cup cabbage
1 cup carrots
½ cup green pepper
¼ cup red radishes
Garlic
Curly endive or shredded lettuce
Shred all the vegetables fine. Arrange mounds of them in a bowl, and toss french dressing over them. Rub the bowl in which they are served with garlic.
A main dish that will go well with the Julienne Salad is this Baked Bean dish:

Baked Bean Rarebit.
1 can baked beans
¾ pound American cheese, grated
¾ slices bacon, fried crisp
¾ green pepper sliced
Mix beans, green pepper and crumbled bacon with grated cheese and pour into a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven 35-40 minutes.
A cake that's a tasty sugar saver is this one:
*Whipped Cream Sugarless Cake.
2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2¼ teaspoons double acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup cream, whipped
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift dry ingredients together three times. Cream shortening, add orange rind, and then syrup beating well after each addition. Add ¼ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds alternately with orange juice, beating after each addition for best results. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in a moderate (375-degree) oven 30 minutes. Cool. Spread whipped cream between and on top of layers.

Lynn Says:
Easier Way to Live: One good way by which to simplify homemaking is to get rid of trouble-makers in your household furnishings as fast as you can.
If you have an expensively upholstered sofa or chair which requires special cleaning often, make a slip-cover for it out of one of the practical cottons or other washable fabrics which are so numerous in the stores these days. A quick trip through the household washer now and then will keep it spic-and-span. Whisk it off and let the regular covering show when special guests are coming, or use the slip-covers day in and day out, for they are so attractive in themselves.
When your draperies wear out, or when you decide to do over a room, look at the beautiful wash fabrics which you can buy for your windows. Make them up with washable linings, these pre-shrunk, too, of course, and save yourself troublesome cleaning from then on. In time, you can "re-plan" many of your furnishings for practical washing machine handling.

Pour over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Cool. Fold in remaining ingredients. Place strips of green pepper, sliced olives, sliced hard-cooked eggs on bottom of oiled mold. Pour in mousse. Let chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce and garnish with romaine, endive and tomato wedges.
Dispositions will all be the merrier when you serve these bran-blueberry muffins because the B-vitamins, often called morale builders, in the bran and the magnesium in the blueberries, which is reputed to create kindlier feelings toward your fellow men, really get together and do their best for the system:

*All-Bran Blueberry Muffins.
(Makes 12 small muffins)
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup fresh blueberries
Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in all-bran and milk and let soak until all moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients and add blueberries. Add to first mixture and stir just until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins until two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.
Greens tossed together with mellow french dressing are attention-getters:

*Julienne Salad Bowl.
(Serves 6)
1 cup cabbage
1 cup carrots
½ cup green pepper
¼ cup red radishes
Garlic
Curly endive or shredded lettuce
Shred all the vegetables fine. Arrange mounds of them in a bowl, and toss french dressing over them. Rub the bowl in which they are served with garlic.
A main dish that will go well with the Julienne Salad is this Baked Bean dish:

Baked Bean Rarebit.
1 can baked beans
¾ pound American cheese, grated
¾ slices bacon, fried crisp
¾ green pepper sliced
Mix beans, green pepper and crumbled bacon with grated cheese and pour into a casserole. Bake in a moderate oven 35-40 minutes.
A cake that's a tasty sugar saver is this one:
*Whipped Cream Sugarless Cake.
2¼ cups sifted cake flour
2¼ teaspoons double acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup cream, whipped
Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift dry ingredients together three times. Cream shortening, add orange rind, and then syrup beating well after each addition. Add ¼ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds alternately with orange juice, beating after each addition for best results. Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in a moderate (375-degree) oven 30 minutes. Cool. Spread whipped cream between and on top of layers.

Wilting Method for Silage Is Suggested

Experiment, Extreme Care Needed to Make It Work

By C. W. BENDER
(Professor Dairy Husbandry, Rutgers University.)

In view of the high price of molasses and the scarcity of phosphoric acid for preserving silage, the wilting method of ensiling legumes, grasses and cereals—a method requiring practically no preservatives—sounds good.

The wilting method will work, but it also takes experimental control and extreme care to make it work.

Moisture Content Excess.

Farmers experienced at making grass silage know that mold accumulations, caused by air pockets or air leakage in the silo, often occur

1621-B Slip, Pantie, Bra

even when the silo is filled with material having a moisture content of 72 to 78 per cent.
Yet materials with this amount of moisture pack more readily and develop more pressure than grasses with lower moisture content, and the wilting method calls for wilting down the green material to a moisture content of only 65 to 68 per cent. Thus there is a greater danger of mold when the wilting method is used.

Secondly, some type of apparatus is necessary to determine the exact moisture content of the green material.

How long it takes to wilt the material down to the proper moisture content cannot be determined in advance. One thing is certain: There will be many delays in filling the silo, thus increasing the danger of mold and high temperatures, both of which tend to destroy nutrients.

Fill Silo Three-Fourths.

The silo must be filled more than three-fourths full with wilted green material within two days. The material must be evenly distributed and well tramped. Filling should be continued on the third day, using high moisture grasses or legumes to which a preservative has been added so that sufficient pressure is generated to exclude the air from the partially wilted mass. Delays in filling beyond this period may ruin the silage, a fact which has been learned by many farmers.

Furthermore, the wilting of a green crop destroys carotene. The longer the period of wilt the more carotene is lost, an important consideration in producing milk of excellent quality.

Trap That Hornfly

Dairy cows will not produce at maximum when infested with hornflies.

The flies cause loss in milk production because they suck cows' blood, and their annoyance often causes cattle to refuse to graze. Hence, they do not get their fill of grass which is the best milk producer, and it takes a part of the feed which otherwise would go to production of milk to replace the blood.
Some investigators claim that during seasons of abundance hornflies are responsible for losses of one-quarter to one-half of the normal milk production. Moreover, annoyance by the flies during milking might lead to contamination of the milk with consequent lowering of its quality.
Sprays, which many dairymen use, will keep flies off cattle during milking and for an hour or more afterward. But this does not prevent loss in milk production. However, a cattle fly trap used as a gateway to and from water, feed, or other frequented places, has been found effective for the control of hornflies on many dairies, farms and ranches.

Farm Notes

Hens that have started to lay have a large, moist vent and a soft pliable abdomen.

New York ranks fourth to Texas, Wisconsin, and Missouri in the egg-drying industry, with 18 million pounds produced in five plants.

Goats respond well to good pasturage if the land is reasonably dry. They also do well on rough ground if enough feed is present.

Wool-Like Rayon Jersey Is The College Girls' Favorite

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

NEVER has the challenge to do the right thing in buying clothes for classroom and campus wear been so keenly felt as now when war conditions call for wise and careful judgment in acquiring a wardrobe with an eye to the future as well as the present.

While the new fashions are making simplicity and practicality their plea, and while they conform patriotically to every priority ruling, there are at the same time turning out to be about the most flattering, the most charming and much-to-be-admired and desired apparel that ever graced a fall style program. Especially in the college and school-girl realm, the incoming styles are so definitely and refreshingly new looking and "different," so fascinatingly colorful and so everything girls want their clothes to be, shopping this season resolves itself into a grand and glorious adventure rather than an arduous task.

The new wide-wale corduroys and the handsomely colorful velveteens are taking the young fashion element by storm but no more so than are the smart and delightfully wearable rayon jersey weaves. They look wool-like because of the refined dull finish but they are so delightfully lightweight they are the kind "you love to wear." All types of jersey this season are a joy to wear, so much so that if there is one fabric that stands out more than another as a favorite for the making of the simple casual daytime frock, jersey is its name. There is, in fact, a bit of rivalry going on between the rayon-backed jersey with its wool-like surface and the new wool-and-rabbit hair type which is recognized as a sportswear leader.

The big "fad" that is spreading out through every campus and in the sports world at large is that of the simple daytime classic done in natural beige colored jersey, styled after the manner of the charming dress centered in the above illustration. Slit pockets and front fullness in the skirt are new autumn style notes that it carries out to a nicety. It is a "victory" style and carries out the war production board's general orders perfectly both in the letter of the law and in the loyal patriotic spirit. In fact, each of the three dresses shown is in accord with L-85 regulations.

The importance of natural beige tones cannot be overemphasized for fall. It is not only in jersey that they flourish, but the new velveteens and corduroys in beige are simply stunning for coats and suits as well as dresses.

A smart two-piece daytime frock done in the prescribed L-85 manner, shown to the right in the above picture, gives a jacket-suit impression which is very fashionable. This two-piece dress is a veritable standby for campus, go-to-town or travel wear.

The dress at the left with the flash of rafia embroidery is charming for "date" duty, and it is in the very foreground of fashion, for there is a wealth of intriguing embroidery being lavished on dresses this fall. The unique thing about the embroidery that enhances this kelly green jersey frock is that it is done in multi-color rafia instead of the usual peasant yarn work.

Milliners are making exotic draped turbans of rayon jersey, some with embroidery and others with long scarf end intended to be draped about the throat.

Corduroy Coat

Here is a coat that is "as smart as they make 'em" this fall. It is a glowing example of the smartness of cottons for fall. You are helping the war effort when you are clad in a coat like this, and you'll be the envy of your fellow students at school if you make your appearance on the campus in a coat as outstanding as this model. Yes, indeed, this coat of beige hollow-cut velvet is so goodlooking you certainly won't feel you're making a sacrifice in giving up needed materials to the army and navy. The coat is cut with a soft bloused top and ample pockets in the skirt. Unpressed pleats run right through them. Note that the tie-belt is the only fastening.

'Jewelry' Dress Is an Innovation

Destined to "go places" this fall and winter is the new "jewelry dress" as interpreted in endless ways. Instead of being worn as accessory to the costume, the jewels are actually embroidered on as an intrinsic part of the gown or coat (evening coats especially).

You'll love the new "necklace" dresses. The most conservative are of black crepe with a necklace effect of pearls worked in as realistically as if it were a separate piece of costume jewelry. Other frocks are given a dash of exotic color with glittering multi-color stones worked in simulating a real necklace. Lapel and shoulder ornaments are jewel-embroidered after the same manner.

There is what is referred to as the "bracelet dress," for example, which flaunts a gorgeous bracelet of colored stones worked right onto the long sleeves about the wrist.

Dance Frocks Decorated With Embroidery Accents

Some call them "date" dresses, others refer to the dressier types and a new expression coined this year as "off-duty" dresses. At any rate, the dress-up dress is as important as the uniform and the casual frock, more so this season in that the vast program of entertainment now under way for army men on furlough demands that one dress to the occasion.

Lace, being a non-priority medium, is going to play a big role in the party frock realm. Rich, too, with embroidery and with glittering accent are the newer dance frocks. There is something devastating in the simple dress of dainty lingerie type, and nets, piques, dimities will hold good way up until "the frost is on the vine."

Nightly Walk

By R. H. WILKINSON
Associated Newspapers—WNU Features.

ON OCCASION of my frequent walks through the woods about Monson and along the shores of Taggart Lake, I had met Thornton Miles once or twice, always alone, always striding along with head bent and hands clasped behind him as though in meditation.

The folks in the town had told me of him. They didn't think he was exactly crazy, but they felt he was queer. Folks let him alone; they felt uncomfortable in his presence.

At first they had tried to make sport with him, tried to amuse themselves at his expense. Small boys had flung taunts after his stooped and bent figure. But long since, young and old alike had given up; they might have saved their breaths.

For some inexplicable reason I pitied him, though twice we had passed within a scant ten feet of each other and he had neither spoken nor looked in my direction. I resolved to cultivate the man's acquaintance.

During the week that followed my decision it rained, so it was not until the following Monday that I again encountered Thornton Miles. I had spent the past six days indoors, laboring over a partly completed novel, and it felt good to be out once more. I was in the best of spirits.

Thornton Miles came along the path that skirts the northern edge of Taggart Lake, and at sight of him I remembered my resolve. I slowed my pace, waiting for him to come up, and when he was several feet away I said pleasantly, "Good evening, sir."

He did not stop or look in my direction, but continued walking with his head lowered. And so I repeated my greeting, this time louder.

"Good evening. This is certainly fine weather we're having."

He was almost up to me and unless I had stepped to one side we would have collided. Something must have attracted his attention—possibly my shadow fell across his path. He stopped abruptly and lifted his head.

"She's dead," he replied mildly. "Or they think she is."

"Eh?—Oh, I beg your pardon." He would have passed me by, and I was sure he had not heard my voice. Acting wholly on impulse I fell into step beside him. "It seems good to see the sun once more after so long a rain," I said. Unconsciously I spoke loudly, and he glanced at me as if startled, then looked down again.

"It makes no difference to me," he said, "whether the sun shines or not."

His answer not only surprised me, but left me wondering, recalling what the townspeople had said about his queerness. Yet I was more than ever intrigued.

"Do you mean," I asked him, "that you walk along here every evening whether it rains or not?"

"Of course," he said, with faint resentment in his tones.

"But—but I should think you'd be afraid of catching cold."

"Cold?" He looked at me in astonishment. "Why, stranger, don't you know you'll never catch cold if you don't think about it?"

"I suppose you're right," I said, wondering what to say next. We strode along in silence for a few minutes.

"Do you always walk—alone?" I asked, fearing that too prolonged a silence might make him melancholy once more.

But apparently he had been listening. "Sometimes alone," he said, "and sometimes not."

So that was it. Somewhere along the lake here he was in the habit of meeting someone. The thought was not without its humorous aspects. First, Thornton Miles was old and decrepit, hardly a fit subject to participate in heavy romance. And secondly, he had so completely fooled the townsfolk that it was ludicrous.

I was about to excuse myself and leave him alone, not wishing to intrude upon his rendezvous, when he said unexpectedly: "Margaret usually walks with me. Tonight she did not come."

I sensed that he wished to talk. "Margaret?" I asked.

"My wife."

"Oh," I chewed over this awhile. Why would a man walk out into the woods on a stormy night to hold a tryst with his own wife? "She isn't living at home?" I inquired.

"She's dead," he replied mildly. "Or they think she is."

I swallowed and looked around. The sun was dropping behind Pine Mountain. The stillness of evening had settled over the land. Somewhere on the lake I heard a loon call. It was a lonesome sound and I felt a slight chill.

Thornton Miles stopped abruptly and looked at me. It was the first time I'd seen his eyes and sight of them gave me a queer sensation.

"They think she's dead," he repeated. "And they think I'm queer. Look here, stranger, why do you walk in the woods alone? I've seen you a dozen times."

The question startled me. So he had seen me, after all! I looked around again. "Why," I said, "I just like to get out in the open. I'm somewhat of a naturalist, I guess. I—I like to be alone with nature."

"And no one thinks you're queer?"

"Why, no," I laughed. "That is, I hope they don't. You don't call a man queer, simply because he walks alone in the woods."

"Exactly," he said. "Yet they think I'm queer."

"But—but—" I stammered "You said—you weren't alone."

"Nobody knows about Margaret. I've told no one but you. I thought you might understand, because you walk alone, too."

I lighted a cigarette. The taste of the smoke was good. It was something I knew and could explain. "Tell me about—Margaret," I said. I wanted to understand.

"There's nothing to tell. She died a year ago. We used to walk along the shore here of evenings together. We walk together now. Margaret and I." He paused and looked past me toward the lake. I had an uncomfortable feeling there was someone there. "She always leaves me there—at the point."

I did not turn. I would not admit but what the world was the same, or yield to the impulse of fear.

"But why haven't you tried to explain this to—your neighbors?" I asked.

He gestured helplessly. "They'd laugh. Some of them would pity me. They'd call me crazy. They'd put me away. Even you think I'm lonesome. And yet you walk alone, and you're not lonesome; you do not even feel alone."

This was an argument for which I could find no answer. Yet I knew we were different. His solitude and mine were not the same. He was living in a world beyond my comprehension; I existed among things that were real, a world that you could see and feel and touch; something easily understood and explainable. I tried to grasp his point of view, and only partly succeeded.

Soon I left him, followed the shore of the lake back toward the village where there were buildings and lights and people, things with which I was familiar; things I accepted and did not need explaining. And yet, sitting on the porch of my boarding house that night and looking across the slope where several hundred people were jammed in a compact little hall, swaying and swinging to the strains of an orchestra, I could not bring myself to admit that Thornton Miles was queer.

Soldiers in Battle Carry Anti-Infection Crystals

To guard against infection, every American soldier going into a theater of operations will be provided with a package of crystalline sulfanilamide to sprinkle on wounds, the war department revealed. This is an addition to sulfanilamide tablets for internal use.

Five grams of sulfanilamide, the most effective chemical agent to prevent infection known to modern medical science, is contained in a newly developed envelope package with a shaker top to be carried in each soldier's first aid packet.

The envelope is marked "for external use only" and carries instructions to sprinkle the sulfanilamide evenly over a wound before applying a first aid dressing.

Medical officers explained that the soluble sulfanilamide provides a strong local concentrate of the chemical agent which is highly bactericidal, killing the germs which cause infection.

The crystalline form of sulfanilamide was selected for this use after tests had revealed that when the chemical is finely powdered it tends to cake in the container and so may not be sprinkled evenly.

In addition to this envelope of sulfanilamide, each first aid packet also contains a special spill-proof metal box containing 12 sulfanilamide tablets for internal use.

Personnel of each unit to which the drug is issued receive instructions as to its proper use from the attached medical officer, and careful checks are made periodically to verify its possession by each soldier.

Walworth County Fair

Entertainment features at the Walworth County Fair this year will follow the pattern of past expositions, which have pleased thousands of visitors. A well-balanced program, including sports, bands, dancing revue, comedy acts, thrill rides and shows, will be offered September 4-7, at Elkhorn, according to Charles A. Jahr, Secretary.

A special feature this year will be the war bond show on Victory Day, Saturday, September 5. The day will be devoted to special programs for the promotion of bond & stamp sales to be directed by the Walworth county war savings staff cooperating with the state organization. Lawrence Holloway, Delavan, county chairman, will direct the war show.

The sports program includes four days of baseball with teams from Beloit, Watertown, Jefferson, Palmyra, and Elkhorn participating. The afternoon horse race program includes 12 races with the top mid-western horses entered in the four day exposition.

Band music will be offered by high school bands from East Troy, Friday; Delavan, Saturday; Whitewater, Sunday; Elkhorn and Palmyra, Monday, Labor Day.

The night revue of dancing girls and comedians to be presented in front of the grandstand, is one of the best available, according to officials of the Barnes-Carruthers, Chicago and New York producers of shows for county and state fairs.

The revue, "Americana," is offered before a large background piece resembling a garden wall set with glittering chromium flowers of various colors. Towering columns, which rise seemingly from nowhere, open flower-like and then sink again and a battery of colored lights give brilliance to the giant outdoor stage.

The opening number is called, "Rolling Along," in which the Garo Neilsen dancers appear rolling hoops in three color shades across the stage. In the same scene is Frank Blake, who has played leading parts in many Broadway musicals and who acts as master of ceremonies for "Americana."

Others in the revue are the eight Fraday dancers, who are noted for their precision, perfect execution and versatility in tap, ballet, ballroom and acrobatic dancing.

The Garo Neilsen dancers present a comedy scene depicting Spain and the land of the bull-fighters in their routine of "In the Days of Ferdinand."

ATTENTION FARMERS

We expect about 1200 ton of superphosphate and 1200 tons of 0-14-14 mixed fertilizer to be shipped into this county before the end of this year for use in the 1943 AAA program.

We urge farmers to get the 1943 fertilizer this fall. It will relieve the shipping space next spring and the farmer will be sure to have it.

It may be applied as soon as obtained on new seeding or on old seeding.

If on old seeding, proof must be shown that old seeding, winter killed if plowed up next spring.

This fertilizer may be used to earn units for the 1942 program if applied before October 1, 1942.
