30th Annual EBA Community Rummage Sale

by Carrie Peavy

We had a cooler, rainy start to this event, but the weather eventually cleared up and brought out many old and new friends to visit with as they shopped for hidden treasures. We plan to extend the brat/hot dog sale beyond the lunch hours if we do this in the future due to its popularity. Great opportunity to reach out to the community and share some of the many things we have to offer. Thank you to all who support our mission!

Garden Restoration Day

by Art Peavy

Sat., May 18 turned out to be a nice day to clean up and beautify our gardens. Like last year, most of the work was done by the Friends of the North Prairie Native Gardens and Roots Native Landscaping. Now, the amazing work that they have done for us last year has extended to the round garden next to the Veterans Memorial. Our hedges were trimmed by Jeff Nowicki. All gardens were weeded, the grass was mowed and edged, and all branches left by winter storms were picked up and filled a trailer. Scott Bovee and I power washed the walkway. A delicious lunch was prepared for all by Pat, Diana, and Ellie. Have you stopped by to see our pretty gardens yet? We are so thankful for this partnership. Info on native plants and actions of FNPNG can be seen at FNPNG.com or Facebook. Anyone interested in helping us maintain our grounds? Please contact our website or call. Thanks!

Celebrating Veterans

by Gina Neist

The theme of this year's Veterans' Recognition was Celebrating the Service of Non-Combat Soldiers. The Eagle Methodist Church welcomed visitors to their sanctuary for the program since it was a rainy afternoon. The Kettle Moraine Blues performed patriotic music before, during, and after the presentation. Our emcee, Phil Hall, proudly introduced his son, John Hall, Professor of U.S. Military History at UW-Madison, as our featured speaker. Also sharing memories were EHS President, Jeff Nowicki, who served in Germany and KMB trombonist, Todd Kienitz, an Army Signals Intelligence Analyst and a member of the Marine Corps Band. Delicious refreshments were served courtesy of EHS members Ellie and Diana Hall and Pat Hawes. Curator Elaine Ledrowski then invited visitors to walk over to our museum to view a traveling exhibit from the Wisconsin Veterans Museum entitled "Working Warriors."

The Order of the Eastern Star

by Janet Evans

Even though Eagle is a small community, it has a long history of fraternal organizations. The Order of the Eastern Star (OES) is one. Dr. Rob Morris and his wife, Charlotte, founded the OES in 1850 in Mississippi, as a way for women to participate in the Masonic mission. It is open to all female relatives of Masons including adopted children and half-siblings. OES membership is not limited to any specific religion; the only requirement is that a person believes in a supreme being. Its core principles are scriptural and focused on charity, truth, kindness, and the common good. Famous members of OES include: Rosa Parks, Dale Evans, Clara Barton, Maya Angelou, and Laura Ingalls Wilder.

After a rocky start, The OES in Eagle was commissioned in October 1932 when Donald Marty, along with twenty-five others, petitioned the Worthy Grand Patron of the State of Wisconsin to start a chapter in Eagle. Initially the Worthy Grand Patron did not think a new chapter was needed, but Donald persisted. He wrote a letter to Sister Maxine Stenerson, Worthy Grand Matron, asking her to intervene. Another meeting was called by the Grand Worthy Patron and a dispensation was granted. Ina J. Reed, Treasurer of the Grand Chapter, suggested naming it The Wm. W. Perry Chapter in honor of the first Master of the Masonic Blue Lodge in Eagle.

The Order of the Eastern Star played an important social role at that time. Often, rural women did not have frequent opportunities to go into town and see friends or visit neighbors. Eastern Star provided that chance. With its emphasis on fellowship and community the organization played a cohesive role in the lives of women. They paid hospital visits to the sick, volunteered for the Red Cross, and raised money to help families with unaffordable medical expenses. Nationwide, OES has donated thousands of dollars to charities.

The new chapter had twenty-five members and by 1942 had grown to fifty members. One of those members, Jean Marty Evans joined OES in 1943, after her father, Donald Marty, drafted a petition for her when she turned eighteen. As a child, she had watched her parents, Phyllis and Donald, and her grandmother, Lillian Marty, get ready to go to meetings in town. For special events, the ladies wore long evening dresses, and the gentlemen wore suits.

One of Jean's fondest memories is the friendships she made with women across the state and beyond. She served in several capacities during her OES tenure, among them as organist and pianist, and numerous offices. She attended the State Grand Chapter meeting several times where she made many friends.

Often, members would attend meetings at different chapters. Members from the Milwaukee Chapter would visit Eagle or Mukwonago and vice versa. One memory Jean has was the time she and her mother-in-law, Sara Evans, drove from their homes in Genesee to Eagle on a winter night for a meeting. During the meeting, the weather turned bad. The trip home was exciting to say the least. Jean did not want to drive, so Sara took the wheel. The road was so icy that Sara had to drive on the shoulder all the way home.

Jean has been a member of seven different chapters due to living in different areas of the State and to OES chapter consolidations. Today, at age 97 she is still a member of the Ellsworth and Sparta Chapters. This November, she will celebrate 80 years as an Eastern Star member.

Unfortunately, demographic and cultural changes have had an impact on membership in fraternal organizations. As a result, OES chapters have merged with other chapters or closed their doors when their memberships dwindled. Today, only about thirty chapters exist in Wisconsin, down from about 150 in its heyday. In 1972, the Wm. Perry Chapter merged with the LaBelle Chapter in Mukwonago. Some members of the Eagle Group joined the Mukwonago Chapter and some, the Palmyra Chapter. With the loss of the OES Chapter and the Masonic Lodge, a piece of Eagle's fraternal tradition disappeared. As written on the last page of the Wm. W. Perry Chapter of the Eagle OES booklet, "You will always find our welcome mat waiting at the door."

Eagle Quill, July 4, 1941

W HAT started out a season or so ago and appeared destined to become a mere passing fad has developed into a highly important established fashion this summer. It is now recognized by leading fashion authorities throughout the country. The movement to which we refer is that of creating clothes alike for mother and daughter, also "sister" fashions, and brother and sister outfits, even Mr. and Mrs. costumes are included in the scheme of things.

A dress-alike foursome was shown in a recent style revue where an attractive young mother and her two pretty little daughters wore square-necked dresses of delft blue linen printed in navy and white, each with an apron in turkey red, the three outfits made exactly alike. In this mother-and-child fashion group along comes tiny Junior clad in red overalls with a sailor shirt in the same print as the frocks.

It is especially in the playclothes realm that costumes apparently emanating from the same family tree play up imagination to the nth degree of cunning design. What with the wealth of smart cottons and myriads of other intriguing washable weaves at command it is small wonder that designers are finding endless inspiration in devising family group fashions.

It is just such delightsome ventures in creative costume design as the "like - mother - like - daughter" dress pictured in the foreground of our illustration that are causing a series of ohs and ahs. To visualize the full charm of this lovable twosome one must think in terms of poinsettia red crinkled crepe outlined with rickrack, for the frocks are fashioned of just that. With such adorable styles as these easily available this summer in smart specialty shops, shopping for play clothes becomes a pleasurable pastime.

A bit dressier with more of a garden party effect are the cuming sister outfits illustrated. In this instance little and big sister team in slub broadcloth (a most likable cotton fabric) of which both bonnets and dresses are made. The older little girl's frock is pale pink with printed dimity blouse. Little sister's is pale blue with blue printed blouse. Notice how cleverly the sleeveless dress waist of the dress is made detachable, via tab extensions that button on over the underblouse. This is a practical idea that mothers may want to copy when making little daughter's dresses, seeing that it is such a help in laundering to have skirt, blouse and overblouse separate.

For this fashion of mother-and-daughter together with sister play-suits that is so steadily growing in popularity, we would suggest using such smart and likable cottons as tiny or big plaids in seersucker, yarn-dyed striped pique in multicolors, chambrays in stripes or plain, denims, glazed chintz, waffle weave piques, dimities and plisse sheers in tropical flower prints, also quilted calico makes up effectively in little matching jackets to wear over summery frocks.

One of the most talked-of fashions of the present season is twin slack suits with bright blazer-stripe jackets. Mother and wee daughter in these twosomes attract pleasant attention wherever they go. Be sure to add sister bathing suits to little daughters' wardrobe of vacation clothes, made of crinkled printed cottons or wool jersey. As to Mr. and Mrs. they are choosing sportwear tweeds in matching checks for motoring and outing excursions.

Article at left brought back fond memories of my childhood when my mom often dressed my sisters and me alike, usually at Easter & Christmas.

Shorthand Trivia Answer: 1958 and 1959, it was held in the Village Park and called Legion Days. In 1960 and 1961, it was held in back of Harvey Wambold's house because that was how far the electricity ran. In 1962, Mike Sasso and Herman Thiele came up with the name Kettle Moraine Days. "Shorty" beers sold for 7/$1.00 and hamburgers for 35 cents. Some attractions over time include: a milking contest, greyhound dog racing, a live WTMJ broadcast, skydivers, and helicopter rides. The first bucket brigade was held in Eagle—a contest between fire departments to see which can fill a barrel fastest by relaying canvas buckets of water up a ladder. (Canvas leaks!)
