A Week of the War

War Production Chairman Nelson reported overall munitions production in September was seven percent over August, with airplanes up 10 percent, ordnance up seven percent, Navy and Army vessels up 22 percent, and the merchant ships up 10 percent.

The report stated that the WPB index of munitions production increased 24 points in September to 351—four times the production rate at the time of Pearl Harbor. The Treasury paid out $5,500,000 for war purposes, an increase of 300 million dollars over last month. This amounted to 40 percent of all payments made in the United States for goods and services during the month.

Mr. Nelson's report said four-engine bombers rolled off assembly lines very nearly on schedule. The output of heavy aircraft showed a marked increase over August, with the output of light, Trainer-type planes held below August. Some new plants which came into production recently made a much better than anticipated showing. Propeller production continued a major problem, although enough propellers have been made thus far to fly all planes.

While merchant ship production was 10 percent above August, actual tonnage delivered was 34 percent over August—1,009,000 deadweight tons compared with 753,000 in August. This was 12 percent above first of the month forecasts and approached close the total production of merchant ship yards last year. During the month, 12 major combat vessels were launched, the report stated. Deliveries of major vessels were greater than forecast, but deliveries of other types were behind expectations.

Now To Strike A Balance

From Boys in Service

The following is the new address received from Mrs. Chas. Cruver of her son, Private Myron E. Cruver, who has been stationed at Fort Lewis in Washington, but has now been transferred to No. 363 Infantry, Co. K, A.P.O. 91, Camp White, Oregon.

Mrs. Cruver has the proud distinction of having three sons in service as her son Warren left Tuesday a. m. for Fort Sheridan to be assigned to duty.

Sgt. Laurel Stubbs, Battery A, 51st Field Artillery, T. N. G. Bn 11th Reg. of Camp Roberts, Cal., is enjoying a furlough with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Stubbs. This is the first time Sgt. Stubbs has been home since he entered the service.

Friends here received a letter from Private R. G. Gibson, who is still at Fort Lewis, Washington.

Marine Anniversary

On November 10, 1775, a Corps of Marines was created by a resolution of Continental Congress. Since that date many thousands men have borne the name Marine. In memory of them it is fitting that we who are Marines should commemorate the birthday of our corps by calling to mind the glories of its long and illustrious history.

The record of our Corps is one which will bear comparison with that of the most famous military organizations in the world's history. During 91 of the 167 years of its existence, the Marine Corps has been in action against the nation's foes. From the battle of Trenton to the Solomon Islands, Marines have won foremost honors in war. And in the long era of tranquility at home, generation after generation of Marines have grown gray in war in both hemispheres and in every corner of the seven seas, that our country and its citizens might enjoy peace and security.

In every battle and skirmish since the birth of our Corps, Marines have acquitted themselves with the greatest distinction, winning new honors on each occasion until the term Marine has come to signify all that is highest in military efficiency and soldierly virtue.

This high name of distinction and soldierly repute we who are Marines today have received from those who preceded us in the Corps. With it we also have received from them the eternal spirit which has animated our Corps from generation to generation and has been the distinguishing mark of the Marines in every age. So long as that spirit continues to flourish, Marines will be found equal to every emergency in the future as they have been in the past, and the men of our Nation will regard us as worthy successors to the long line of illustrious men who have served as "Soldiers of the Sea" since the founding of the Corps.

THE WAR FRONT

Army Chief of Staff Marshal, in a letter to Commander in Chief King of the U. S. Fleet, said the "skillful seamanship" of the Navy had already escorted 800,000 soldiers safely "across the submarine infested waters of the Atlantic and Pacific."

The Navy reported November 1 that two enemy aircraft carriers, two battleships and three cruisers were damaged and 100 airplanes destroyed in a great sea and air battle 250 miles northeast of Guadalcanal. Navy Secretary Knox said the Japanese Fleet units have retired from the scene in the Solomons and the "first round" of the battle is over. In the battle the U. S. lost an unidentified aircraft carrier and the destroyer Porter. Following this battle U. S. Naval units shelled enemy positions on Guadalcanal. On the ground Marines and soldiers repulsed all Japanese attempts to dent their positions around Henderson Airfield. Gen. MacArthur headquarters in Australia reported November 2 that fresh bombing raids on Jap bases at Buin and Faisi were believed to have sunk or damaged seven more enemy surface ships.

Legion In Jalopy Drive

Nov. 2 to Nov. 17 the American Legion in this state will assist the Auto Graveyard Section of the Conservation Division of the War Production Board in staging a Jalopy Round-Up. It is a fact that junk cars being received by auto graveyards is inadequate. Legionnaires will contact these Jalopy owners and do all in their power to get these old cars converted into scrap. Because of the government ceilings on the price of scrap, the price range that the automobile wrecker can afford to pay will be from $5 to $15.00.

SAVE YOUR OLD STOCKINGS

The Navy and War Departments have announced that large stocks of silk and nylon hosiery be provided through salvage as both types are essential for the production of certain war materials.

Accordingly, all American women are asked to donate worn-out and discarded stockings. Women are requested to wash the stockings they no longer have use for before dropping them into containers at hosiery counters in retail stores.

The collection of discarded hosiery will start November 16. Women of Jefferson County are urged to gather up their worn out stockings now and have them ready to drop at collection stations when the drive is officially opened.

County War Board

To prepare for a permanent system of rationing farm machinery, all dealers, distributors and manufacturers of farm equipment and machinery are requested to file inventories as of October 31 with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, according to Clifford Merriman, chairman of the Jefferson County USDA War Board. He points out that the Secretary of Agriculture issued an order last week greatly increasing the number of items to be rationed by the local Farm Machinery Rationing Committee.

Deadline for filing the inventories is November 10, 1942. Dealers, distributors, and manufacturers are asked to file their inventories with the Jefferson County Farm Machinery Rationing Committee at the County USDA War Board Office at the Court House at Jefferson.

If they do business in six or more counties, their inventories should be sent to the State USDA Board, 14 E. Dayton Street, Madison, and if business is conducted in more than one State, the report should be sent to Fred S. Wallace, Special War Board Assistant to the Secretary, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Man Bests Elephant

At the beginning of the present century one of Barnum and Bailey's publicity experts saw a chance to get some free newspaper space. "The Greatest Show on Earth" would prove to representatives of the press assembled in Madison Square Garden, New York, on the afternoon of March 27, 1904, which were stronger—men or elephants.

Engineers made a special portable hydraulic weighing cylinder equipped with a gauge to register the pull in pounds. One hundred men exerted a pull of .8 pounds for each pound of their own weight, while the circus' mightiest elephant could pull only .73 pounds for each pound of its weight.

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's Pills stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

Rural Romeo

By BARBARA BENEDICT

IT WAS while she was on the boat coming back from Europe that Fanchon gave some serious thought to Craig. This was queer, because an ordinary girl who was engaged to marry a man and was returning to his arms after a half-year spent abroad, would likely have been all-a-twitter. Fanchon wasn't.

Fanchon rather dreaded the prospect that lay ahead. Craig she knew, would be a problem. She sighed. How could she ever make him understand that she had changed? That a year on the continent does things to one, gives one a new and more sophisticated slant on life.

She would, of course, have to tell Craig the whole thing, including the facts about Darrel Urban, who was following her to America on the next boat. Craig probably would be difficult to handle. That was what living in a small town all of one's life did to one. It made one difficult—stubborn and narrow.

Fanchon sighed a second time. How lucky she was to have escaped the influence of the small town where she and Craig had been reared. Six months on the continent had taught her many things about life. They had taught her among other things, she hoped, to be cruel, unfeeling and merciless. These were the measures she would have to adopt with Craig. It was the only way. It was the price one paid for escape from the sordid.

Craig was not at the station to meet her when she reached Hopeville. She was annoyed, but her annoyance was unreasonable, for she had given him no indication as to the date of her arrival. She expected he would call that afternoon or evening. When he didn't she decided she'd better get in touch with him and get the business over with.

She called his house. Craig answered. "Hel-lo," she said in her best affected continental accent.

"Hel-lo," said Craig. "Oh, is that you, honey? You're back, eh? Fine. Look, I have to run up to Chicago tonight on business. Catching the 11 o'clock plane. Suppose we get together tomorrow?"

"Tomorrow," said Fanchon icily, "I'm going to be busy."

"O.K. Make it the next day then. Be better for me, anyhow. I'm rushed to death."

Fanchon was furious. The impudence of him! In the next minute, however, she was glad. This would give her an opening, an excuse to be cruel. However, first she'd teach him a lesson. She wouldn't see him when he returned from Chicago the day after tomorrow.

She didn't either. She didn't get the chance. For Craig didn't return from Chicago for a week. Or at least that's what she thought. When he told her he'd been back three days, but had been too busy to contact her, she practically choked with rage.

"Craig Wilbur, you don't seem at all glad to have me back!"

"Why, honey, sure I am. We're going to be married, aren't we? Just as soon as I can get a week off from business."

If Fanchon had had a gun she probably would have pulled the trigger nine times. Never had she felt so humiliated. No telling what would have happened if Darrel Urban hadn't popped in. Now, she thought triumphantly, I'll give Mr. Craig Wilbur something to think about!

But Craig, apparently, didn't have the capacity for thought. He was dumb. Any man who didn't get annoyed when his girl friend went out repeatedly with a greasball from Europe was dumb. Craig was even worse than that. The next time he saw Fanchon he laughed heartily.

"Met that little greasball you became acquainted with in Europe. Nice chap, but silly. Lucky thing he came over. He can take you around while I'm getting my affairs in shape for the wedding."

"Oh, you wretch!" howled Fanchon. "You unspeakable wretch!"

It was two hours later that Darrell proposed.

Fanchon hadn't cooled off from her last meeting with Craig, and she almost accepted, just for spite. If Darrell hadn't eaten garlic for dinner she would have.

Two days later Darrell left for Europe, a heart-broken and much-chagrined greasball. An hour after his departure, Fanchon packed a bag and hopped on a Chicago-bound train.

barked in Chicago her eyes were swollen and red.)

"Hel-lo," said a voice. Her hearer stopped beating.

"Craig Wilbur, w-w-what are you doing here?"

"Why, honey, have you forgotten? This is our wedding day . . ."

"Oh, you beast! I hate you!"

"Now, honey, listen. It was all a gag. I knew that when you got back from Europe you'd be different and have a lot of screwy ideas and maybe be interested in a European greasball and perhaps think I was a sort of back number. So I decided to be different, too. A sort of defense. I did the best I could under the circumstances, but every minute I was nearly wild for fear that it might not work. Darling, forgive and marry me today."

Victory!

By R. H. WILKINSON

THEY had quarreled since they were children. Not because they hated each other, but because they were fond of each other.

They continued to quarrel after they were grown, but now things were different. They were in love.

After Paul graduated from college he gave the matter some thought. At first it had been annoying to find that Laura was so much in his mind. He had missed her while away at school. Some settlement would have to be made if he were to have any peace. And because he was a man, and society therefore demanded that he take the initiative,

So Paul proposed in quite a gentlemanly and sincere fashion. And Laura accepted.

"We'll live the first couple of years in town, so I can be near my work."

"We'll do no such thing!" Laura said, lifting her head from his shoulder.

Paul had the advantage of being prepared. "Darling," he said gently, "please let's not argue. After all, I am the male, and unless the male asserts himself by at least one victory before marriage, there's bound to be unhappiness afterward."

"Of all the silly theories ever invented by man! Now, let me tell you something, Paul Osbourne—"

And so began another quarrel.

A week passed. Paul rigidly adhered to his decision not to make the first gesture of peace.

The middle of the next week he learned through friends that she had been going out with one Jacob Monroe.

The news stunned him. Monroe was a young politician, smooth, dashing, known to be a party to more than one shady deal. Paul thought it over. He decided it was his duty to warn the little idiot. Without giving himself a chance to change his mind he called her home.

"She went out this afternoon with that awful Jacob Monroe. She promised to be home at five. They were going to the White Swan—"

Paul glanced at his watch. It was 8:30. A sort of panic seized him.

The White Swan was beginning to fill with its usual nightly crowd of flamboyants when Paul arrived. Adopting an attitude, he asked a bartender if Jacob Monroe had been in. The bartender darted a quick look toward the rear of the room.

Paul started for the door at the rear. A pock-faced individual followed him. At the door, the pock-faced man placed a hand on his arm. Paul turned, decided that speech would be silly, and picked up a chair.

Paul put his shoulder to the door. Then the lock snapped and he was inside. A girl screamed, and he recognized Laura's voice. Then he saw her, flattened against an opposite wall, with Jacob Monroe standing in front of her.

Paul's fist caught Jacob under the chin and lifted his heels off the floor. Laura shrieked and fled into his arms. He grabbed her wrist, dragged her toward a window. The window opened onto a fire escape. He lifted her through it . . .

Five miles from the White Swan, Paul stopped his coupe.

"You little idiot!"

"Oh, darling, I'm so sorry. I—I—oh, Paul, we'll live in a city apartment. I—I—"

"We will not! We'll live in the country where you'll be satisfied. I'm not going to take any chances of you doing this again!"

"And I'm not taking any chances of having you act the way you have been acting for more than a month. We'll live in the city!"

"We'll live in the country!"

"Paul Osbourne, we'll live in the city or—"

"Shut up!"

She did.

Thieves Deliver Wood

On Court's Decision

BEND, ORE. — Allen Grant thought it would be quite a chore to get the 17 cords of firewood he'd cut to his home 18 miles away.

Someone stole it, though. And when the thieves were caught, the court decided they must deliver the wood to Grant's house.

Courts Kept Busy By Ma's Pay Check

Such Tales Are Now Told by Men Seeking Divorce.

KANSAS CITY. — "Well, mama makes good money but she blows it all on beauty shops, clothes and saloons . . ."

That's 1942 style divorce court testimony.

For it's the man who brings such tales to court nowadays as often as it is the woman, says Edward Seiter, commissioner of social service for the city welfare department.

Husband as well as wife often alleges nonsupport. And the little woman, too, is not so willing to listen to back talk from her husband when she's getting her own pay envelope, Seiter indicates.

It all adds up to more divorces, he sighs.

Court records agree with him. Thus far this year 1,496 divorce suits have been filed, 158 more than in the same period a year ago. And 1,268 have been granted, 247 more than the 1941 total to this date.

It's the war, many lawyers agree. "The little woman's paycheck sometimes is a very disturbing influence indeed," comments Michael D. Konomos, Greek immigrant, whose boyhood shoe-shining career paved the way to his law school education.

The glamor of a uniform is another big reason for the increase in divorce suits, he explains. Wives compare civilian husbands with members of the armed forces—all to the marked disadvantage of the husbands.

Another attorney, Grover Childers, says wartime prosperity is affecting men just as much as women. "Some of the men like liquor and company of other women better than they do their homes."

"Maybe in the past they sat at home because they couldn't afford to step out."

Ice Sculptress Handles Pieces Up to 300 Pounds

BOSTON. — There's one woman who is cool even on the hottest summer days. She's Miss Madaline Stone, Boston's only ice sculptress, who fashions such diverse items as punch bowls, vases, tanks, battle-ships, aircraft carriers and guns from chunks of ice weighing up to 300 pounds.

Miss Stone works in a "studio" with the thermometer registering 27 degrees. She spends hours laboring over a huge cake of ice, chiseling away bits of ice to form the intricate parts of her creations, which are used as table decorations, and which last only about eight hours.

She works for a Boston ice firm and learned the art of ice sculpture from John Bellin-fante. When Bellin-fante joined the army, Miss Stone took over his job.

Despite the chilly atmosphere of her workshop, Miss Stone said she takes her vacation at a Maine beach to "cool off."

Snoring Reveals Hideout

Of Man Chased by Police

RAVENNA, OHIO. — Stanley Borys, 29, probably will be in the market for a "snore cure" if he ever gets out of trouble with the law. Borys, wanted on burglary charges, was leading police a merry chase until one Sunday morning when sleep overtook him in a hideout.

Special Deputy William Dexter of Brady Lake had been tipped off that Borys would spend the night at the home of friends, so the officer took up vigil there. After waiting some time, Dexter stepped out on the porch of the house, where he heard a sawing sound. Further investigation revealed Borys under the porch, sleeping soundly and snoring loudly.

Dog Wakes His Mistress,

Saves Her From Flood

WEST SUMMERLAND, B. C. — Residents of Crescent Beach on Okanagan lake were forced to flee their homes when a landslide on the opposite shore created a wave that swept across the 3½ miles and washed out a wharf, three boat-houses and sections of the municipal road.

A dog owned by Mrs. J. Woods jumped and barked frantically at the window of her home and alarmed her in time to warn occupants of the threatened area. The wave took about 15 minutes to cross the lake.

Bolt of Lightning Turns

On the Heat in Tavern

ALBANY, N. Y. — After a thunderstorm, patrons of a tavern remarked that the atmosphere seemed just as warm—in fact the place got hotter and hotter. The proprietor investigated, found a lightning bolt had switched on an oil heater.

THE illustration shows what became of a mirror and piano stool. To the mirror and stool were added two wooden boxes from the grocery. These were placed on end about 18 inches apart and a shelf of half-inch plywood was screwed to the top. A frame was then screwed to the back of the boxes as shown. A curtain rod was placed across the top and the mirror hung lengthwise under it. An arm was then hinged to the front of each box. Paint was next. White, because white furniture is smart and because it matched the woodwork. The flowered chintz in tones of rose and blue-green with narrow frills of the plain blue-green tone matched the window curtains.

The dressing table skirt was made with a one-inch heading at the top and tacked along the ends of the table and the hinged arms with thumbtacks through a double strip of the plain material.

Velvet Is a Fabric Favorite For Lovely 'Dress Up' Things

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

VELVET has ever been a magic word in the fabric realm and this season its flattery is being played up more glamorously than ever. It is in lavish mood that designers are stressing velvet throughout fall and winter collections, bringing out most exciting "date dresses" and evening modes styled for "date" wear, for afternoon and after twilight formals, in charming off-duty contrast to sturdy uniforms and functional workaday outfits.

There are many outstanding slants to the velvet vogue that make for big news just now. One is that of the simply tailored afternoon velvet suit that is conceded to be one of the smartest items on fashion's program this season. It adds to its lure that it is so dramatically adaptable to the accompaniment of show-piece furs, lovely, lacy blouses, glittering jeweled buttons and, what is most important, high color touches in gloves, bags and beguiling hats.

Then, too, stunning separate coats made of ink-black velvet luxuriously collared in ink-black fur carry a message of ace-high chic for winter. Which all goes to show that no matter how formal or casual your social moments are, there will be lovely, appropriate costumes for the occasion done in regal velvet which will make you as feminine and elegant as your best beau's heart could desire.

Suitable for any "date," from afternoon to midnight, is the charming priority-correct furlough frock shown to the right in the above illustration.

It is fashioned of handsome, wine-colored, crush-resistant transparent rayon velvet. The grand thing about crush-resistant rayon velvet is that it is all that its name indicates—crush-resistant! You can wear it with confidence, knowing that it will keep its freshness. Note especially that gleaming metallic embroidery defines the simulated two-piece effect. Many of the new velvet fashions are gleaming with bead and sequin touches. The slimly fitted bodice has a deep V-neck. Worn over a properly fitted foundation garment (the new slenderizing fashions call for just that) the youthful, slim-waisted lines of this lovely dress are unusually graceful.

The vogue for contrast has inspired the charming "after five" bolero costume to the left, which is done in rich crush-resistant rayon velvet in deep midnight blue. The long slim lines of the colorful rayon-and-metal bodice are accented by the patriotic fabric-conserving brevity of the bolero jacket, making a well-corseted figure a necessity for effective wearing.

The flattery of handsome velvet in deep, rich black is combined with the enchantment of exquisite lace in the charming dinner dress illustrated in the center above, which is designed especially for the woman whose program includes club activities. The graceful, long lines of this dress are accented by effective, velvet-banded puffed sleeves of thin-to-transparency black lace. A cluster of flowers adds coloring to the softly draped neckline.

Enthusiasm for velvet is also finding a new outlet this season in that most important vogue which calls for accessory accents, especially velvet gloves matched to hats, the ensemble carried out in daring colors, notably fuchsia shades, kelly green, turquoise, and flaming red. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Shawl to Match

As Scotch as heather is this plaid outfit made of spun rayon yarn fabric dyed for true color combinations. The material has a warm, woolly finish. The navy sweater is piped in the plaid of the skirt. The outfit includes slacks, a mannish lined vest, a calot and, most important of all, a three-cornered fringed shawl made of the identical plaid used for the dress. The idea of a cunning shawl "to match" is taking the young campus crowd by storm. These are often embroidered in peasant style and colorfully finished off with hand-tied yarn fringe or with a self-fabric, frayed-fringe edge.

Small or Large—Hats Are Feathered

Gorgeously colorful feather hats are out in full force. They range from the pheasant-pad calots (so tiny you have to look twice before you can identify them as hats) to pillboxes and dashing types that flaunt towering crowns with imposing feather motif trims.

A charming feather fantasy that does the "pretty-pretty" gesture is the halo of pastel feather flowers that pose back of your forehead curl.

The single ostrich plume swirls from the front over the top of the hat to the back where it falls low to the nape of the neck.

Ruffles Galore Are Seen On Coats, Skirts, Suits

Be on the lookout for ruffles galore, for many of the newest fashions are being smartly styled with ruffles.

Even cloth coats are taking on ruffle effects, such as cascades of self fabric running down side closings from neckline to hemline. Tailored suits, too, are softened with jabots of self fabric on the jacket fronts. Afternoon dresses have cascades of ruffles on both skirts and bodice tops. Tiny flutings and ruche effects finish off the hemlines of narrow skirts.

Cozy 'Nighties'

The flannelette nightgowns that we'll be wearing this winter will be old-fashioned, long sleeved ones. Women who never wore these quaint types will be wearing them this year. Some of them are really very pretty, made as they are of flower prints in delectable colors.

Best Food Storage in Outdoor Cellar or Cave

Storeroom Style Depends On Contour of the Land

The most nearly ideal food storage space on the farm is the outdoor, underground cellar or cave.

It is set all or part way into the ground, banked over with earth, floored and lined with masonry, and fitted with one or more ventilators for air movement. This type of storage provides the best natural conditions for canned fruit, pails or other tightly covered containers, as well as for whole fruits and vegetables. It also serves as a storm cellar for the farm family.

In some areas the bank cellar may be the best solution to the storage problem this fall. The bank cellar belongs on rolling ground. The lower part is masonry construction and is set back into the sloping ground. The upper part may be made of lumber, insulated in the upper walls and roof with sawdust or commercial insulation.

Another useful storeroom—and usually the simplest and best for the home with finished basement—is the special storeroom in the basement.

A small room space, five or six feet wide and as long as may be needed, is separated from the rest of the basement by a tight wall. A door is fitted into one of the partition walls. At least one outside window is needed so air circulation can be maintained and the temperature controlled to some extent. It is important that the basement room be insulated overhead and in the partition walls to cut off all possible heat transfer from the basement or from the room above.

Hundreds of grain elevators similar to this one at Grafton, Ohio, are holding grain from thousands of farms across the nation.

Agriculture in Industry By FLORENCE C. WEED

Wormseed

In one corner of Carroll county in the state of Maryland, farmers have been growing Wormseed for more than 100 years. Western farmers would likely not even recognize the plant if they saw it growing, although in its uncultivated state, it can be found in weedy areas over the entire country.

From Wormseed is distilled "Baltimore oil" or wormseed oil which is used in the manufacture of disinfectants and sprays, in paints and lubricating oils, in the treatment of hookworm, and as a vermifuge for cattle.

The plant is an annual which is sown in seedbeds in the early spring. In June, when the plants are six to eight inches high, they are set out in the fields, either by hand or with a mechanical planter which digs a small trench, drops the plant and waters it, then covers it with soil, all in one operation. The usual rate of planting is 3 feet by 14 inches, making about 2,400 plants to the acre.

Frequent cultivation keeps the weeds down until the plants ripen and the seeds turn brown and black. The plants must be harvested at just the right time, when not too green to have a high content of ascaridole, and not ripe enough to shatter. After curing several days, the plants are hauled to the still and made into oil.

Farm Lease Essentials

In farm leases, essential points are the date when the lease is drawn, the beginning and ending of the farm lease term, method of renewal or extension, accurate description of the real estate and other property affected by the lease, reservations such as right of landlord to enter to inspect the property and make improvements, and, finally, a definite and agreed price of rental and the time and manner of payment.

FBI Men Proved They Weren't Knit-Wits, Anyway

Can You Win Freedom From Constipation?

Too many folks go on suffering from constipation when there's no need in the world for them to do so! Why? Simply because one of the commonest causes of constipation is lack of "bulk food" in the diet. In such cases, cathartics and purges can give only temporary relief!

If this is your trouble, you can expect lasting relief from constipation—simply by eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN daily. This crisp, delicious cereal supplies the "bulk" you may need—gets at the cause of your trouble and corrects it. Start eating KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN today and drink plenty of water. See what a wonderful difference it makes when you correct the cause instead of trying to "remedy" the result! ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

The Home Front

Devastation of Europe by the Nazi hordes, like a destructive flood, begins to lay the foundations of the "New Order" that Hitler has tried in vain to erect.

Typhus, scourge of World War I, is on the increase in Nazi-held territory and in the Balkans. The German army is unvaccinated because of a reported mistake German scientists tried to produce vaccines of superior quality, but failed to achieve mass production.

There are reports, too, of decreased war output by the Nazi's enslaved workers. Those in occupied lands— weakened by privations and sullenly resisting "co-operation"—also deliver far less products of all kinds, including foods.

Except for potatoes, this year's European harvest is below even last year's subnormal crops, but the effects of acute scarcities are less apparent to the Germans, who have added to their larders the foods stolen from their victims. By this means the Nazis are able to provide an average meat ration of 12 1/2 ounces per week of the types of meats restricted in the U. S.

But in Norway, although the official meat ration is 7.1 ounces, actual consumption is far less on the average. In the Netherlands the Nation is fixed at 10.6 ounces, but a Hollander is lucky to get one-third of that amount, and for the Belgians the allowance is only 4.9 ounces.

Greece has no regular meat distribution, the Poles are starving, Italians get from 3 1/2 to 5 ounces of meat, 1 1/2 ounces of sausage.

The average adult Briton's ration of 31 ounces a week includes meat of all kinds, he gets 70 per cent less fish and a third less poultry than before the war, and only one egg a month.

Compared to meat allowances throughout Europe, our voluntary share-meat program of 2 1/2 pounds of "red meat" per person, with no restriction on liver, kidneys and other "variety" meats, is a continuing feast.

Ride-sharing is a most important part of the five-tire program for saving tire rubber. No extra gasoline rations will be issued to those who claim the need for additional gasoline to drive to work or for necessary business trips, unless they belong to a car-sharing group, or can prove that this is not possible and no other means of transportation is available.

All members of group ride clubs among war workers, however, can get tires recapped, if recapping is needed and if their tires are beyond recapping, they may buy new tires of reclaimed rubber. The number of those who may secure "preferred" or extra-mileage rations has been reduced, but among those who still have mileage privileges are farmers carrying products to market, farm workers, commercial fishermen and marine workers going to and from their work doctors, veterinarians, nurses and ministers engaged in essential services away from their homes.

Everyone, however, will have to give up for the duration all thought of driving from one vacation spot to another. The war is trimming off all of these luxuries.

Coffee drinkers, who haven't already done so will have to ration the consumption of their favorite beverage. With shipping space from South America getting more limited, imports of coffee have dropped. The one pound each five weeks to which every person in the country over 15 years will be entitled to after Nov. 28, however, is only slightly less than our previous average consumption. But we'll all be able to count on getting our share. Hoarders meantime are learning their excess purchases only spoil anyway.

HOMEMAKERS IMPROVE BREAD

Homemade bread in Jefferson County may be expected to take on a new importance this winter as homemakers settle down to the business of learning the simplest and easiest way of making it.

Mrs. Helen Feind, home agent, and Mrs. Charlotte Clark Buslaff, nutrition specialist of the University of Wisconsin, will meet November 3 with county project leaders for training in breadmaking. These leaders will, in turn, have similar sessions with their local clubs. This will be the first of a series of meetings on bread making.

Project leaders representing home demonstration groups around Jefferson will meet at the home of Mrs. Margaret Mundt, Fort Atkinson, R. 1. The breadmaking programs will include the making of hot rolls, and leaders who are either especially skilled in shaping fancy rolls, or those who wish to learn to make them will bring to the meetings aprons and take part in the demonstrations. The rolls made at the demonstration will be served hot for dessert at noon luncheons with honey or sorghum. Many homemakers who have been in the habit of making bread at home are interested in improving the quality of the bread baked.

Conservation Notes

Madison, Wis.—Animals at the State Experimental Game and Fur Farm at Poyette have put on unusually heavy coats this fall, the time-honored indication of a severe winter ahead. The prognostication is not particularly comforting, especially for those who depend on oil for heat.

DEER A motorist caused considerable excitement at the Poyette game farm by announcing that the State deer had escaped. Investigation showed that the farm animals were still within their enclosures and the deer by the motorist were wild ones that had congregated along the game farm fence.

COMMITTEE NAME

A citizen's committee to study the deer situation has been named by the chairman, V. L. Dickinsen of the conservation commission. The committee is made up of Prof. Aldo Leopold, university game expert, chairman; Dr. O. Worland, Hayward; Miss Joyce Larkin, Eagle River newspaper editor; Howard Quirt, Marshfield editor; Henry C. Kuehn, Milwaukee, president of the Wisconsin Cold Storage Company; Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Sheboygan, conservation chairman of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs; and J. R. Jacobson, Superior high school science teacher. W. S. Feeney, conservation department game biologist in charge of a special deer study, and George Ruzger of Madison, also of the department, will serve as ex-officio members of the committee. Mr. Dickinsen is ex-officio chairman of the committee. The committee will work with members of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission. Congress in a study of winter browse conditions in the deer country.

FEEDING PROBLEMS

Wisconsin's extensive winter campaign of bird feeding that has been carried on for years will face difficulties during the coming season. It will be more difficult to get the usual tonnage of grain and in the face of gas rationing, sportsmen will have difficulty in getting the grain to the feeders. Servicing the feeders has meant a considerable mileage each winter. The necessity for winter feeding depends much on winter conditions—sleet and snow prevalence. The Wisconsin program of winter feeding has been a big factor in the maintenance of populations of game and other birds.

GAME REPORTS

It is still some time before the close of the hunting seasons but the conservation department is asking all hunters to bear in mind the necessity of filing game census cards when they put aside their guns for the season. Men leaving for service are asked to file their cards before their departure in the interest of better hunting when they return. The collective information carried on the cards is a vital factor in setting future game regulations. War conditions are making it more difficult to gather a necessary volume of reports from hunters.

RATIONING

Agriculture Secretary Wickard ordered 144 types of new farm machinery and farm equipment, excluding repair parts, frozen as of November 1 in the hands of dealers, distributors and manufacturers pending formal rationing. The Agriculture Department and its State War Boards will establish state and county quotas. The WPB delegated to the Office of Price Administration the authority to ration milk cans and farm fencing. The OPA will redelegate this authority to the Agriculture Department. Sugar rations for Army and Navy personnel or furlough will be one-half pound per week, instead of on the basis of the value of the current sugar ration coupon. The first coffee ration will be obtained beginning November 28 by surrendering the last coupon, No. 28, in the sugar ration book, and subsequent rations will be given on coupons taken in sequence toward the center of the book.

Deer hunters are requested to save fats from deer and bear they hope to shoot during the season near at hand. The fat should be taken to a meat dealer who is collecting waste fats for explosives.

There has been some talk of removing bumpers from automobiles to obtain scrap metal. This is inadvisable, however, for conservation of automobiles is imperative from a transportation view point and bumpers are a safety factor. In almost any collision the presence of bumpers prevents or minimizes damage to radiators, tires, wheels and fuel tanks, the replacement of which can only be made with highly critical material. In the long run use of needed material for repair would more than offset the scrap realized from bumpers.
