Quilting Bee

From Our Boys in the Service

Dear Friends:

Just a small letter to you and the folks at home. Thanking you for the Quill. I appreciate it very much. It reminds me of home. I like to hear what is going on up there.

The weather down here in Roswell is quite warm in the day time and cool at night, quite dry here, very little grass. I'm stationed here for my basic training, which is all through now. The medics are waiting for shipment to our base hospital.

I like the army quite well, although quite lonesome.

We have very good eats here. I've added 3 pounds to my weight in three weeks. The air base is one of the world's largest, just recently built. It covers about twenty-four square miles. The runways are five miles long, all modern equipment. Also very nice hospital. Our mess halls are 6 in number. They will accommodate eighteen hundred soldiers each and generally well filled.

We have lots of glider pilots here, this is also a training station for the pilots. The weather is excellent for flying.

Well, I think this letter is too long now. Give my address to my friends. I would like to hear from some folks at home.

Warren Breidenbach, U. S. Army, Air Corps Recruiting Det. (Med. Det.) Roswell Army Flying School, Roswell New Mexico.

Army Needs Radios

In a letter to Mrs. W. C. Turner of Eagle last week, Colonel O. L. Rogers, commanding officer of Army Air Force Technical Training Command at Madison, Wisconsin, he points out the great need for old radio sets that are no longer needed in the homes and asks Mrs. Turner to sponsor a campaign to collect them and have them assembled in a central location such as a school, or Boy Scout cabin. If ten or more sets are collected he will send a truck to pick them up.

These sets are used by soldier-students at their station undergoing instruction in radio communications. They are studying as hard as possible to become important members of our fighting forces. They are willing to make every sacrifice and are greatly inspired by people such as Mrs. Turner who has already started the drive to collect these radios.

If you have such a radio, please get in touch with Mrs. Turner or send it to the Enterprise office. We will be glad to take them and see that they reach the proper place.

Household Hints

For extra flavor in dark fruit cakes use cider or spiced fruit juices for the liquid.

When buttering sandwiches dip knife in hot water frequently and it will be much easier to spread the butter.

Sift spices with flour so they will be distributed properly throughout the batter or dough.

For a flavorful top coating for meat loaves, spread with a thin layer of chili sauce the last 20 minutes of the cooking period.

Often a crust forms on rising dough. To avoid that, spread a little fat over the dough and cover it with a cloth.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—his life—constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Serve a Salad . . . Win Your Vitamins (See Recipes Below.)

Vitamin Ways

Comes winter and fall when vegetables and fruits are more scarce than during summer and fall, and many a homemaker is apt to fall shy on serving her family these vital body regulating and protective foods.

Yet, this is the time when the body needs them most. These foods build up the body's resistance to disease—and keep you, to pick a common example, from having a cold as soon as warm weather and sun flee.

Minerals are busy building and repairing, replenishing body tissues that get torn down and used up, daily with every movement you make. Vitamins help you use the foods you eat.

Good-to-eat foods help the family take in all these vital minerals and vitamins. Drab, uninteresting dishes will send them off to eating other foods to take the edge off their hunger—wherever they can put their hands on something. I need not point out that in this way they may really be losing out on foods necessary to the body.

Cooking vegetables well, and doing pretty things to their appearance will help their consumption rating. A bit of sauce or extra seasoning will put an ordinary vegetable over and at the same time insure your family of what it needs most:

*Scalloped Peas and Onions. (Serves 5 to 6)

- 1 pound small white onions
- 1 No. 2 can peas
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons finely crushed bread crumbs

Parboil onions 25 minutes. Drain. Drain peas and reserve ½ cup pea liquor. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add pea liquor and milk and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour into casserole. Melt remaining butter, stir in bread crumbs, sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderately hot (375-degree) oven for about 25 minutes.

Lynn Says:

Vital Statistics: There are about seven inches in the Nutrition Yardstick which bear checking every day in every way so as to keep you and your family in the running:

The first inch includes milk: 1 pint per day for every adult and 1 quart for every child. Of course you don't have to drink all this milk. Use part of it in cooking.

Second honors go to meat, fish or poultry, and this is not hard to use up. For lunch or dinner, whichever fits best for your family, one serving per person should be counted.

At least one egg a day or at least four to five per week marks the third inch. Have it for breakfast or toss it in the hot bread for dinner, or custard for lunch.

Cereal's important, too. Serve it in the breakfast, or a pudding or even cookies. Bread and rolls come under this category, also.

Fifth inch includes the vegetables: two besides potatoes, one should be a leafy vegetable—spinach, lettuce, broccoli, romaine, etc.—and the other raw. Cabbage is perfect.

Now, the fruits. Two a day isn't hard to manage. Of course you start off with breakfast, and then include one for lunch or dinner dessert.

The last and seventh inch includes butter or some fat rich in vitamin A. This is for fuel and energy.

This Week's Menu

- Browned Oysters
- *Scalloped Peas and Onions
- *Cranberry-Pineapple Salad
- Hot Biscuits
- *Apple Juice Mince Pie
- *Recipes Given

Vegetable Bouillon. (Serves 2)

- ½ cup water
 - ¾ to 1 cup juice strained from canned string or wax beans
 - 1 bouillon cube
 - 2 small sprigs parsley
- Add water to bean juice and heat to boiling. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling liquid. Serve hot garnished with parsley.

A one-dish meal that's good for fall is this one with many vegetable favorites:

Ham Hock With Vegetables. (Serves 5)

- 2½ pounds ham hock
 - 5 medium-sized potatoes
 - 1 bunch carrots
 - 5 medium-sized onions
 - 1 medium-sized head of cabbage
- Wipe ham hock. Cover with boiling water, cover and simmer two hours or until tender. Clean vegetables, add to meat, cook, uncovered 20 to 30 minutes or until vegetables are tender.

Fried Squash Cakes. (Serves 6)

- 3 small squashes
- 1 cup drained canned tomatoes
- 1 cup shredded, processed cheddar cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- Salt, pepper
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Parsley
- Broiled bacon

Wash the squashes and cut them in half, lengthwise and cook in boiling salted water until almost tender. Scoop out the centers, leaving a ¼-inch shell. Cut the pulp into small pieces and drain thoroughly. Combine with tomatoes, cheese, onion, 1 cup bread crumbs and seasonings to taste. Pile this into the squash shells and sprinkle with remaining crumbs mixed with the melted butter. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven until the crumbs are brown. Arrange in a round platter and serve with parsley and crisp, broiled bacon.

A few green leaves of lettuce, romaine, watercress or other salad greens guarantee much of the important, but hard-to-get vitamin D. Perhaps, you like the greens plain, or perhaps with a bit of color such as:

*Cranberry-Pineapple Salad.

Cut slices of canned cranberry sauce and top with slices of pineapple. Arrange in lettuce nests. Soften cream cheese with milk and add a few chopped nuts. Shape into balls and place among lettuce leaves. Serve with mayonnaise.

*Apple Juice Mince Pie. (Makes 1 9-inch pie)

- 1 package orange flavored gelatin
- 2 cups apple juice
- ¼ teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 cup mincemeat
- Cream cheese

Dissolve the gelatin in apple juice that has been heated to the boiling point. Add lemon juice and mincemeat. Cook until thick and creamy, then pour into a baked pie shell. Chill until firm, then decorate top with cream cheese put through a pastry tube.

EDWARD HALEY went to college for a definite purpose—to play football.

The first thing he learned after entering Colton college was that he couldn't play unless his marks were good. Second, he wouldn't even be considered for the varsity until his second year. Third, he had a lot of competition—there were some 300 huskies out to make the team, and only about sixty to be chosen. Fourth, he had to possess unusual strength, skill and ability in order to receive the plaudits of the crowds. It wasn't like being back in Wellsville. There he had been a star. There were only fifteen players. And during a game, the stands cheered him every time he picked up a ball. The cheers were music to his ears.

But because Edward had his heart set on becoming a big football man, he aimed to overcome the obstacles that stood in his way. And he succeeded remarkably. His scholastic standing was low, but it made him eligible for the team. He spent a long, weary year waiting for his sophomore term to roll around, and then went out to make the team. The energy and eagerness he displayed, coupled with a fundamental knowledge of the game, won him a place on the subs.

Edward was proud and reasonably happy, but by no means content. The first year he wasn't allowed to play in a single game. There were others much better, much more skilled.

It wasn't like being back in Wellsville. There he had been a star.

The second year Coach Shore gave him a chance early in the season. He was sent out to substitute for a regular in one of the minor games. Colton was well in the lead when Edward joined the lineup, and he knew that Coach Shore was giving the substitutes a chance to get into a real game, with not much to lose if they blundered. But Edward didn't care. He saw the great crowds, felt the old thrill and determined to make the best of his opportunity.

The quarterback gave Edward the ball on the very first play. He sprinted with it around left end and made a three-yard gain before being tossed. Well satisfied with himself Edward stood up, unconsciously listening for the cheers of the crowd. But the crowd was silent. This, to them, wasn't anything to get excited about. Indeed some of them were already leaving the stands.

Edward felt sick. He wasn't used to this. He was used to hearing hundreds of spectators bellow his name after such a play. Here thousands were silent. It unnerved him. The next play went to him and he fumbled. The opposition recovered, and for the first time in his life Edward heard himself being razzed by an ungracious crowd.

Two more plays and the game ended. Edward walked from the field sick at heart, utterly dejected. During the winter that followed and the next summer Edward Haley struggled to overcome the thing that had lost him his great opportunity. Without a thought of giving up, more determined than ever to attain the goal he had aimed at when first coming to college, Edward reported for early training and when the squad trotted out on the field for the first game of the season—his last season—Edward was with them. He tried not to listen for the acclaim of the crowds. He tried to sit through the game without having a desire to rush up to Coach Shore and plead for a chance to show what he could do.

The season progressed with Colton piling up victory after victory. It began to look as though they were going to wind up the season without a defeat. And it began to look as though Edward Haley was going to wind up his college football without being given another opportunity to play.

Edward tried to grin and bear it. And yet he knew that if the season ended without a chance being offered him, he'd never finish the college term. He'd quit and go to dig ditches somewhere.

Colton had reached the end of its schedule and was playing its final game, the Big Game, with Swain, its greatest rival. Edward was still on the substitute list. He was morose as he sat there with the other subs, watching the varsity go into action. And yet, secretly, he wanted Colton to win. He couldn't help wanting her to win.

But from the start it appeared that Swain would smash Colton's record. The players managed to roll up six points in the first quarter and another six in the second. Both attempts to kick the goal failed. The third period netted neither team a tally, but the Colton outfit was looking rather sick. Man after man either had limped or been carried from the field. Swain apparently was out for vengeance.

It was about the middle of the last quarter when Coach Shore called Edward. At first Edward could scarcely believe his ears.

"Listen, Haley," the coach said. "Taylor, who's now playing left half, is about shot. I've got to take him out and there's 40 one else to put in but you. It's your chance. Go to it!"

"Okay, Coach," Edward was a little dazed, but he donned his helmet and went out to relieve Taylor.

Up in the stands the crowd idly noticed the substitution. As far as they were concerned the game was over. And Colton was on the tail end. There wasn't a chance. Many had already begun to crowd toward the exit tunnels. Yet several thousand remained, more interested in watching the score board behind the goal posts, which flashed at regular intervals the scores of other contests being held throughout the nation.

Suddenly a roar broke from the crowd. The score board had flashed the news that Yale had scored a touchdown.

Down in the field Edward Haley had just taken the ball from the quarterback and was sprinting around left end. He heard the roar of that crowd and thrilled. At last! He was attracting some attention! They had recognized his genius. They were spurring him on to victory.

Edward's heart pounded joyfully. Grimly he set his teeth. He lowered his head and plunged. Five, ten, fifteen, twenty yards. A Swain man was veering close. Edward's free arm shot out. He heard the dull thud as his opened palm connected. Then he looked up and his pulse leaped. The field was clear! He was away!

Up the field he plunged, madly, frantically. Swain men were at his heels, but they'd never catch him now. Over he went. A touchdown! The roar of the crowd was deafening. They were still roaring when Captain Phelps kicked the goal and brought the tally up to 12 to 7, in favor of Swain.

Edward trotted back down the field. He looked at the crowd and smiled. He was happy. He knew that they expected him to push over that winning touchdown. He wanted them to.

They were lined up again. The quarterback was barking the signals. The ball was going to Edward. He set his teeth. He heard the crowd roar. And he knew even before the ball reached his hands, he was going to make it. Nothing would stop him now. Nothing!

And nothing did. Edward was handed the ball in the next three plays, and each time he plunged nearer and nearer the goal line. The screech of the referee's whistle sounded in his ear just as he passed over the chalk, bringing Colton to victory. And this time, as Edward turned and trotted back down the field, he heard them shout his name: "Haley! Haley! Haley! Yeah, Haley!"

Many Cities Cut Budgets As Incomes Drop Off

Cities cutting corners in their budgets to counterbalance war-brought expenses and reduced revenues are making the saving chiefly by eliminating public works construction, reducing street maintenance and building inspection, and doubling up jobs left vacant by employees called into the armed forces.

This is the finding of a survey made by the International City Managers' association, which secured reports on wartime economy measures of cities.

Eight of the cities reported they are effecting their main reductions by reducing outlays for street and public works maintenance, and at least one other—West Palm Beach, Fla.—expects to save on street lighting through air raid precaution dimouts. Mason City, Iowa, and Asheville, N. C., said they were reducing building inspection personnel because of the drop in construction.

Altogether, nine of the cities have cut down personnel by curtailing services or by assigning employees still on the job to take over the work of those on military leave. Such reductions have taken place in Yonkers, Mason City, West Palm Beach, Asheville, Knoxville, Pasadena, Watertown, N. Y., Winnetka, Ill., and Rumford, Maine. Yonkers' 1942 payroll has 600 fewer employees than it had in 1939.

Other services curtailed by the cities surveyed include garbage collection, police auto patrols, municipal advertising, recreation, weed-cutting, relief and welfare. Two of the cities—Sterling, Kan. and Winnetka, Ill.—reported they are saving money by refunding callable bonds.

Typical of the cities which have tightened their belts are Asheville and Pasadena.

Offers Scholarships

Young men from 32 meat-producing counties in southern and western Wisconsin are eligible for four farm Short Course scholarships at the University of Wisconsin recently offered by a Madison packing company and accepted by the board of regents.

Better farm production will be the first order of business at the short course this year. Meat production will get much attention, according to John R. Barton, director. "The Short Course has a two-point program - better farming and a fuller farm life," he explains.

The contest is not limited to meat-production farms. Youths from any type of farm in the 32 counties can enter, Barton says. Each scholarship covers $75 of the $119 total short course cost for fees, board and room, and medical care.

Counties listed are: Adams, Columbia, Dane, Fond du Lac, Green, Iowa, Juneau, La Crosse, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Ozaukee, Richland, Sauk, Vernon, Washington, Waushara, Calumet, Crawford, Dodge, Grant, Green Lake, Jefferson, Kenosha, Lafayette, Marquette, Monroe, Racine, Rock, Sheboygan, Walworth, Waukesha and Winnebago.
