This is a letter recently received by Mr. Splechter from his son. Dear Dad:

Well I am really a long ways away Dad, being perfectly safe in far away Africa. We are in French Morocco—not far from —

It is much different than we expected, it is not a hot dry desert, but rather as nice a country as a person could wish for.

We were on the ship for almost — and on Nov. 8th we were loaded in landing boats. We were given a ninety-nine gun salute, but what a salute, the guns were aimed at us. In four days everything was settled, and we moved the better. We can tell quite a tale, but that must wait.

Don't worry about me Dad, we are all well taken care of. We live just as comfortably as ever. Money is almost useless as everything is rationed to us, including cigarettes, writing paper, toilet articles and all. We are camped in a beautiful cork forest and the roar of the ocean puts us to sleep. Mail is quite a problem, but I have received eight letters since I have been here, five from Dolores and two from Agnes and one from Margaret. The latest was postmarked Oct. 23 so if this letter takes that long to get to you, I'll wish you a merry Christmas and a happy new year now.

Take care of yourself and don't worry about me. I'm o.k. I only hope that a year from this Christmas we can all be together again for one grand celebration.

Love, Francis.

Free Farming on Mined-Out Land Answer to Coal Industry Problem

Stripped Acreage Being Turned Into Recreation Centers by Foresters.

Forest operators have been called on by coal mine operators to provide the answer to one of the most annoying problems which beset the coal industry—what to do with mined-out land.

Tree-farming is proving to be the answer. The forest operators knew what it should be, because to a lesser degree they had a somewhat related problem, which new crops of trees have helped solve.

Coal miners call the devastated areas of land surface left by strip mining, "spoils." No word could be more fitting than "spoil" in the way the coal miners use it. After the strippers have finished, the earth surface looks to the public eye as if it had been plowed by blasts from hell.

The appearance of the stripped acreage to the public eye does not happen to be agriculturally true. The fact is that the strip miners' steam shovels have turned up virgin soil which otherwise could never have been touched by a plow nor have nourished a seed; aerated it by the shovels' action; enriched the tumbled earth by mixing through it broken-up limestone; and provided new surface contours which hold runoff water and raise the water level for the entire surrounding area.

Trees can turn these "spoils" into sections of recreational paradise, but until the foresters have done their work, the public remains blissfully ignorant of this.

The "spoils" can support vegetation, but the only plants passers-by see growing before the tree-farmers go to work are jimson weed and an occasional volunteer brush. The shoveled-up earth is full of rocks that would defeat or break the strongest plow, and the ridges and depressions left by the shovels' turnover would exhaust livestock pastured there if acreage could be put to grass. Trees are an answer to this situation.

Strip Mining.

Strip mining is practiced in 21 states. Mine operators prefer to call it "open cut" mining. By whatever name, it is the oldest mining method. Aboriginal man doubtless first found "black stone" would burn when he happened to light a fire on an outcrop. Then with his rude tools he forced the surface earth back to Giant shovels set aside the overburden and expose the coal.

because the ceilings of slate over these veins are so thin and crumbly that no mine timbering could support them.

Submarginal Land.

Most of the ground which bears coal close enough to the surface to be strip mined is submarginal which government agricultural experts have been urging for years be taken from ordinary agriculture and put back into woodland. In Indiana its value before mining averaged only $20 an acre in the nine southern counties where there is "open cut" mining. The college of agriculture of the University of Illinois rates grazing land on a score of from 1 to 10. "One" is tops; 10 is impossible. Before the strippers went to work, the land they shoveled in that state was rated 5.63—barely par. When they got through it was rated 7.49—good enough to grow trees. The strippers' shovels damaged surface fertility, but did not destroy it.

Stripping shovels do destroy earth top humus. The deep fresh earth they bring up to replace it lacks nitrogen. If humus and nitrogen can be returned, the new soil, because it is virgin, will be better than it was before. It has not been worked out by improper farming or bleached of its minerals by uncontrolled water. It has been enriched by minerals mixed in from below. Formerly below average on the raters' scale, the land is now well above.

Trees are regenerating this land and making parks out of waste. In Illinois alone, only one of the 21 strip-mining states, 7,250 acres of strip-mined land in 12 counties have been planted with 7,000,000 trees since 1930, and the rate of forestation is increasing so that 2,000,000 trees uncover more of the hot and lasting fuel. The only difference between him and modern strip miners is that with steam shovels we can go deeper after the coal—60 feet down if necessary. Instead of bringing the coal to the surface, this method of mining carries the surface down to the coal.

Planting young pine trees on stripped acreage.

Surface earth is piled up in steep-banked hills with intervening valleys. The valley at the end usually becomes, in the course of nature, a lake storing run-off water.

Public Does Not Understand.

The public fails to grasp the possibilities of such land. It sees a big mud-bordered pond surrounded by devastation. John Q. does not recall, if he ever heard, the statement of the U. S. Bureau of Mines that "strip mining is a means of preventing waste of natural resources that can never be replaced." John Q. is no geologist, no engineer. He does not know that most of the strip-mined coal veins are less than three feet thick, so there would not be room for men to burrow through them if they could go underground; and that they can't go underground have already been planted this year. Favorite species for the "spoils" reforesters are black locusts and the evergreen conifers. Black locust for three reasons:

- (a) It is a legume, a tree bean.
- (b) It is a fairly fast-growing hardwood tree, even in poor soil, and sheds each autumn a large fall of big leaves.
- (c) From the time that it has reached a diameter of four inches it has commercial value; first as fence posts; later as mine timbers and ties.

The first of these reasons is most important to the "spoil" reforester because the peculiar function of the legumes, in the book of the soil chemists, is that bean-growing plants put nitrogen into the soil—the critical chemical lack of "spoiled" earth.

Humus.

Humus is plant food—decayed vegetation. Its chief source is fallen leaves. The broad leaves of hardwood trees are its most prolific provider. The "spoil" reforester is faced with the problem of getting as much humus on the surface of the tumbled-up earth as possible, as quickly as possible.

If it were not for the need of layering humus on the soil the reforester might plant, except for black locust, no hardwood trees at all. He would concentrate on the evergreens. For the conifers, members of the great pine family, will grow on land too poor to support any other kind of trees. Out of the first 5,000,000 trees planted by the "Open Cut Mining Industry of Illinois," 1,761,900 were black locusts, and 1,462,000 conifers. The needle-like leaves of these evergreens drop only every three or four years, but it is a continuous process. Their "duff" does not make as much humus as broad hardwood leaves, but it is good humus.

Favorite conifers for strip "spoil" planting are those which are native to poor soils—such hard-scrabble evergreens as the Scotch pine, Norway spruce, and the red pine which struggles a gallant living out of the thin earth which veils the rocks of northeast Canada and the bleached hillsides of abandoned-farm New England and coal-country Pennsylvania.

Such species are grateful for the mineral food the strip miners' shovels have brought up from underground. They grow much more luxuriantly and rapidly on the "spoils" than they do on the untumbled land nearby, and far better than they ever did at home. A large proportion of the conifers included in the 6,000,000 trees planted on Indiana "spoils" during the 1930s are now 10 or 12 feet high, covering the steep-pitched banks of the lakes created by the shoveled-up contours. At least one observer is reminded by this reforested land of the Irish Hills of Michigan and the forest-bordered lakes of the Adirondacks.

Forests Replaceable.

The forest products industries are able to give the open-cut mine operators constructive aid and advice because they formerly faced a problem which, while not so grave, was similar. Early loggers looked on forests as if they were mines. Both timber and coal are natural resources; the prime difference is that once coal has been mined it is gone, while forests are replaceable. Long ago loggers were faced by a triple economic problem:

First, land had to be cleared before it could be farmed. Woodcutters were the first pioneers, proud of their accomplishment when their axes "let light into the swamp" the life-giving sunlight without which corn could not grow.

Second, the country was in urgent need of harvested wood for construction lumber, for fencing, and for fuel. In 300 years it took seven trillion two hundred billion board feet of lumber to build this country.

And third, the pioneers were faced with seemingly endless mature forests. Only swift harvesting of some of them could save them from the deterioration of old age. As a matter of silvicultural fact, this is still true of thousands of thousands of square miles of forestland in America. Harvesting virgin ponderosa pine has in some sections resolved itself into a race against the beetle, plague of these aged trees. Harvesting some stands of virgin Douglas fir is a race against internal tree decay. If we are to continue to have forests in those sections many old trees need to be removed so that a new young tree crop can grow.

Enough farm land was finally cleared. In some sections of the country, too much. Some harvested forestland proved unfit to farm. Trees were the natural and only useful crop these acres would grow.

New England and southern loggers found themselves harvesting second and even third-growth trees. The evidence was inescapable. These trees were volunteer crops.

Trees can be grown over and over on the same land.

Where seed trees had been left in cut-over areas, natural replanting with fire protection provided adequate new crops. But in some areas fire, erosion, or other causes have destroyed natural seed sources, young growth and the surface fertility of the soil. This was particularly true of abandoned stumpland. Fires had swept through the waste litter and dead snags left behind when the merchantable timber was taken out. This had destroyed the humus.

Among the peoples who practice polygamy, especially the Mohammedans, women sometimes ask their husbands to marry a second wife when they are overburdened with housework and childbearing, says Collier's. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Between 28 and 33 per cent of the road service calls answered by AAA clubs are in response to tire trouble—flats. Battery problems cause the second largest number of road calls for help.

American synthetic rubber will fill 90 per cent of the country's rubber needs, within two years of Pearl Harbor, according to a rubber chemist. This will be a speedy transition from natural rubber. Germany which started synthetic rubber development prior to 1914 can now only take care of 75 per cent of its rubber needs with synthetic.

Rubber tired trucks have been hauling about 18 per cent as many ton-miles as the railroads, ODT officials say.

Until gasoline rationing was applied as a brake, the car owners of the country were wearing off 750,000 pounds of tread rubber from their tires every day, a government statistician asserts.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Give Cupid a Break . . . Bake Him a Cake (See Recipes Below)

Valentine Notes

Along about this time, even though it isn't spring, there's a note of precious sentiment that gets into the atmosphere. Perhaps it's those bits of bright red and lacy paper the children have been pasting into heart shapes, the rhymes they've been making. Yes! Valentines!

Cupid has a way of darting into this season and winning us over—even if only with a cardboard arrow springing out of a froth of red and white paper cutouts of hearts. Why not plan to give yourself up to a party with a Valentine theme?

Let's make it simple but festive for even simple gayety will do loads for your morale. Except for the cake in today's column which is a wee bit party-ish, the rest of ingredients in the party are streamlined to save your time.

Our color scheme for the holiday runs into red-and-white, so our main dish is going to be a variation of the old favorite chicken and cranberries.

*Jellied Chicken and Cranberry Loaf. (Serves 6)

- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 cups well seasoned chicken broth
- 6 small thin slices chicken
- 2 cups minced chicken
- Cranberry mixture

Soften gelatin in a little broth, add remaining broth and heat until gelatin is dissolved. Pour a little into the bottom of an oiled 1-quart loaf pan. Divide remaining gelatin between 1 cup dark and 1 cup light meat of chicken. Add alternating layers of chicken and cranberry, chilling each layer thoroughly until set before adding the next.

Cranberry Mixture. (For Chicken Loaf)

- 1 pint cranberry juice
- 1½ tablespoons gelatin
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of cayenne
- Juice of ½ lemon
- 1 cup minced celery

Soften gelatin in a little cranberry sauce; dissolve over hot water. Add remaining juice and seasonings. Cool and add celery.

Since the main dish is a combination salad and main dish—if served with a lettuce or watercress garnish and mayonnaise if you want it, balance the menu with some attractive assorted sandwiches. Sandwiches should be light snacks for this type of party, so we'll fall back on the old standby, cream cheese.

Cream Cheese Rolls.

Mix 1 package of softened cream cheese with 1 tablespoon of mayonnaise and a dash of worcestershire sauce. Blend thoroughly. Take thinly

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: It looks very much as though you will cook what you can find with more foods announced as to become rationed. Canned and frozen foods along with meats will be less easily available.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are to be unrationed so keep your budgetwise and marketwise eyes cocked for bargains. Turnips, carrots, beets, citrus fruits and apples will appeal to wise menu makers.

Canned soups which you obtain and pay more for now are usually more concentrated and you can get more food value from them. You'll like using dehydrated soups, too, the chicken-noodle combinations being winners.

Plan to pack whole wheat flours and dehydrated pancake mixes into your shopping bags. The former will help you get vitamin B in the diet, while the latter is a fine time-saver.

Valentine Party.

- *Chicken Cranberry Loaf
- *Assorted Sandwiches or *Graham Gems
- *Cupid's Cake
- Tea Hot Chocolate
- *Recipe Given

sliced white bread, trim off crusts, and spread with cream cheese mixture. Roll, cut in half and brush with melted butter. Toast in broiler until evenly browned.

Other good cream cheese combinations, using heart or diamond-shaped bread slices, include cream cheese and apple butter or cream cheese and currant jelly or raspberry jam.

Hot muffins that pull no nutritional punches would be good foil for the cool, smooth jellied chicken and cranberry loaf. Try these:

*Graham Gems.

- ½ cup flour
- 1 cup graham flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 egg, well beaten
- ¾ cup milk

Sift the flour. Sift again with salt and baking powder. Add egg and milk and beat only until mixed with dry ingredients. Bake in small, buttered muffin tins in a hot (400-degree) oven for 20 minutes.

A delicious mouth-watering cake to top off the party is just the thing you need to make it a success:

*Cupid's Cake.

- 1½ cups egg whites (about 10)
- 1¼ cups sifted sugar
- ¾ cup sifted cake flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Measure egg whites and place in a bowl. Sift and measure sugar and add flour. Add half of sugar and ¼ teaspoon salt to flour. Sift 5 or 6 times. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar, beat until egg whites are slightly stiff but still glossy. Fold in sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time. Fold in sifted flour a little at a time. Fold in vanilla and pour into a hot pan that has been set in a hot oven, 425 degrees, while cake is being mixed. Bake in a hot oven 20 to 23 minutes or until cake springs back when touched. Invert pan to cool cake.

Frozen Strawberry Filling.

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 package fresh-frozen strawberries
- 1 cup whipping cream

Add boiling water to gelatin, stir until dissolved. Break strawberries into separate pieces, add to gelatin and stir carefully. The cold strawberries will cool the gelatin and at the same time thaw the syrup around the berries. If strawberries are thawed, cool gelatin before adding strawberry mixture. Whip cream and fold in ½ cup of whipped cream into strawberry mixture.

With a sharp knife cut out center of cake with a sawing motion, leaving a 1-inch shell around top of cake. Lift out center of cake and tear off pieces of center to fill hole at bottom of cake left by tube. Use this extra cake and put into filling or frost small pieces and roll in coconut. Pour strawberry filling into cake. Frost outside of cake with remaining cream. Part of this frosting may be used through a cake decorator tube to add valentines to sides and swirls to top of cake as shown in picture above. Put cake in refrigerator for ½ hour or long enough to set filling. Serves 10.

ON THE HOME FRONT

THIS colorful afghan was made by clever fingers from the best parts of old woolen garments put together with odds and ends of bright yarn. Even trousers and fitted jackets yielded strips of the size required.

By holding the goods up to the light it is easy to find the unworn parts. These are cut out roughly; washed with mild soap in lukewarm water; rinsed with a little soap in warm water; and pressed while damp. The pieces are then cut accurately according to the measurements given here. Single crochet stitch is used around all pieces, and the sketch shows how the pieces are sewn together.

No Stoppage of Business With Change of Hands

A gangster walked into a bank and made a clean sweep. While he was busy stuffing the money into a bag the cashier set off the burglar alarm.

The gangster hurried off in his car and soon the police arrived.

"Which way did he go?" panted an officer.

The cashier pointed down the avenue, and the police pursued.

At that moment a customer entered the bank.

"Good morning," he said to the cashier. "I'd like to draw $500 from my account."

The cashier pointed out the door. "Yes, sir," he advised. "Just follow those cops!"

LAUNDRY TUB LEAKS ARE USUALLY IN SEAMS

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have . . . as well as you possibly can. This column by the homeowner's friend tells you how.

THERE are frequent complaints of the leaking of laundry tubs made of slabs of concrete, soapstone, or something similar. These leaks are usually in the joints. To close them, the joints should be opened by scraping them with the handle end of a file, to make a groove into which a patch can be forced. A patch that lies only over the surface of a joint will not be permanent. A joint in a tub made of concrete slabs can be closed by packing with a mixture of one part portland cement and three parts clean building sand, with only enough water for the mixture to be plastic. Before applying, the concrete of the tub should be thoroughly soaked with water, and the patch put in by hammering with the flat end of a tool like a large screw-driver. As soon as the patch hardens, the tub should be filled with water until the patch is covered and left filled for two or three days, to give the cement time to attain full density. A leaking joint of a soapstone tub should be cleaned out in the same way, and then packed with white lead paste. This should be allowed to dry for several days until the paste has hardened.

Repainting Old Linoleum

Question: What is the best way to repaint an old kitchen linoleum, and what is the best type of paint to use. The linoleum is good, but the paint is worn off on the traffic lanes. The present color is a combination of green, black and cream. Now I want to repaint it in a combination of red and white.

Answer: Use a solvent type of varnish and paint remover. Apply with a brush, taking two or three yards at a time. When the old paint has softened, remove with fine steel wool. Wash the area immediately with lukewarm water and a neutral soap. Rinse well and allow to dry. Finish the whole floor in this way, giving it ample time to dry. If you use one of the inflammable types of remover, be sure to extinguish the pilot light of your range; the flame of a gas refrigerator also should be put out. Have plenty of ventilation in the room. Before applying paint wipe the surface with turpentine.

Any good floor paint or floor enamel can be used in two coats. A solid color shows footprints. This can be offset by stippling; that is, the spotting of the floor color with paint of another tone. For a kitchen floor, a practical combination is medium brown for the ground color and tan for the stippling.

Stippling is one with a sponge having a flat surface, which can be cut with a sharp knife. When the ground color is dry, the stippling color is painted on a piece of board; the sponge is pressed on the wet paint and then on the floor. The pattern of the sponge thus is transferred. The process is learned easily and is quick in application.

Cleaning Tapestry Chair

Question: How can I clean a tapestry-covered chair?

Answer: Use soap jelly in the form of a stiff lather, which you can raise by beating a quantity of soap jelly in a bowl with an egg beater. Apply the lather with a soft brush to a rather small area, brushing continuously and adding more lather until the area is clean. (The lather should not be too wet.) Then wipe off the lather with a cloth wrung out of clean water. Wipe dry, in the direction of the nap. Continue in this way, being careful not to leave uncleaned streaks. Before using this method, apply the lather to some obscure part of the fabric to find out whether or not the colors are fast; if the colors come off, you should use a dry-cleaning method. Grease spots should be taken out with a cleaning fluid.

Books on Construction

Question: Could you recommend a book that would be a source of information to an amateur builder?

Answer: The Manual Arts Press, Peoria, Ill., and Theodore Audel and Company, 49 West 23rd Street, New York city, publish such books. I suggest that you write to these houses for their catalogues.

Paint in Cold Weather

Question: Does mild freezing (20 degrees at the lowest) injure paint?

Answer: I suppose you refer to paint in cans. It will not, but do not attempt to use paint at temperatures below 50 degrees; it becomes very heavy when chilled and does not spread well.

HOME HYGIENE CLASS
The first meeting of the Home Hygiene class which is sponsored by the local Red Cross and supervised by Mrs. Stannard will meet on Thursday afternoon, Feb. 11th at 3:00 in the kindergarten of the Palmyra school.

Any young women of this locality are cordially invited to attend. Details in regard to the length of this course and the issuance of certificates upon completion will be discussed at this first meeting.

BLOOD DONORS NEEDED
Blood plasma is needed. Our soldiers on distant battle fields will die for the lack of it. Their lives can be saved when it is available, quickly,—for transfusions. And the simple, painless, safe donation of a pint of blood could give this life-saving blood to a boy in the Service.

It should be a pleasure to give a pint of blood to this cause because it may be your own boy or girl or sweetheart whose life will be saved by it. Modern science has done wonders toward saving the lives of men wounded on the battle field, but science cannot do it all—we all must help and all can help in this work. The Red Cross needs a great deal more blood this time than before.

Calls come in from all parts of the world for blood plasma. Let's do our bit and sign up today—EVERYBODY.

More Walking
Wearing pins with the slogan, Hike Bike, Share-Ride, 4,791 students from three Madison public schools have pledged themselves to walk or "bike" when possible in all kinds of weather, to avoid riding city buses during the peak-load hours, and to "share-ride" whenever auto use is necessary.

These students form about 85 per cent of the enrollment in their school, it is reported by the state motor vehicle department.

Student leaders, through auditorium programs and school publications urge classmates to save bus space for older people, a large majority of whom are engaged in vital war work. It is hoped that the campaign will continue through the entire school year and extend even through the vacation months.
