War Fund Campaign

Jefferson County will be asked to raise $523,000 as its share of the fund which Wisconsin counties collectively will be asked to raise during campaigns this fall which will be co-ordinated by the Wisconsin War Fund.

The suggested quotas were arrived at by the quota committee of the Fund at a meeting in Milwaukee. The job of the committee was to set up each county's quota in relation to the $3,000,000 state goal.

These quotas are based on various factors, chief among which are the percentage relation between the amount state income tax paid in each county and the total amount of state income tax, the percentage relation between the population of each county and the total population of the state, and the percentage relation between the assessed valuation of all the real estate in each county and the assessed valuation of all the real estate in the entire state.

The largest amount—$1,230,000—will be asked of Milwaukee county. Jefferson county ranks second with $523,000. Third is requested amount.

The meeting was attended by B. J. E. chairman, William Swanton, Swanton, Reisingers, members of Green Bay, Crosse, Roy, and others.

NEW YORK.—Hitler himself must doubt the persuasions of Nordic kultur on noting that Poznan provides the new Polish premier to replace the dead Sikorski. Poznan is the most western province of Poland. Germany half embraces it, and from it for a hundred years Germans have tried to squeeze all Polish flavor. Once the squeeze got so tight that even the Poznan school children went out on strike.

Stanislaw Mikolajczyk was five then, and might have led a kindergarten sit-down, but he was all the way across Germany in Westphalia. His father, a farm laborer, was trying his luck there. Luck was poor and when Stanislaw was ten and the first World War only three years away the family trekked back to their old home.

When Stanislaw was 16 he stood in the thick of the waxing revolution against Poznan's weakening Prussian rulers. The Polish Republic followed and he rose to leadership of the Peasant party and to a seat in parliament. He is himself a true peasant, off a 50-acre farm, stocky and thick-necked. His hair is of bristling moustache is only a minor concession to urban influence.

When the Nazis struck he enlisted as a private, the rank he held in the war against the Reds 19 years earlier. After Warsaw he was interned in Hungary but made his escape.

In the years since, first under Paderewski, then Sikorski, his main assignment has been to run the Polish underground, and his name has become a household word to patriots inside his oppressed country. His blacklist of Nazi criminals is the longest in Europe. This, also, must be of depressing interest to Hitler.

CRACKED BOILERS

IT IS not uncommon for a home owner to be startled by the cracking of a boiler during the idle season. With the boiler out of commission, there seems no reason or excuse for such a calamity. Yet there is a very good reason for it, although the origin may date back to the time when the boiler was installed. A boiler is made up of sections, which during installation are held together by what are called tie-rods; that is, rods passing through to draw the sections tightly together by the setting up of nuts at the ends. The tightening of these tie-rods is necessary during installation, but when once the sections are brought together, the tie-rod is no longer needed. The nuts at the ends can then be loosened, or, as a matter of fact, the rods can be withdrawn entirely. If the nuts are left tight, rust will form under them, and in time may produce so much pressure that the sections will give way under it. Unfortunately, there is no way in which the home owner can check up on this condition. He can only hope that the boiler was installed by someone who understood the situation and guarded against it by the loosening of the tie-rod nuts.

Shellac for Floors

Question: Shellac is recommended for hardwood floors, with scatter rugs. But from my experience with shellac, I conclude that good spar varnish would be better. What do you think?

Answer: When correctly applied, shellac is an excellent finish, and will withstand heavy wear. However, it should be applied only to bare wood. If there is any old finish left on your floors, it should all be taken off with a heavy floor machine. The shellac used should not be more than six months old, and of top quality; the dealer can assure you on both these points. Shellac should not be used as it comes, but be thinned with two to three parts of good denatured alcohol to every two parts of shellac. Under these conditions you can get excellent service.

Soured Rug

Question: In taking a kerosene lamp an old Persian rug it was too hot. What should be done?

Answer: If the rug is scoured, it should be washed with cold water and then dried in the sun.

Less Sugar will be needed

Question: If fruit is added to four fruits during the cooking period, how much sugar should be added?

Answer: The amount of sugar should be adjusted to the taste of the fruit.

Hooks, Eyes, and Snaps are most satisfactory when sewed in with machine stitch.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

Colorful Set The prettiest little girl for miles around will be the one who wears this ensemble—darling bolero, jumper and panties. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1781-B designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 jacket with trimming for dress and pants takes 1 1/2 yards 38-inch material, dress and panties 2 1/2 yards. Teen Ager's Pet THERE'S such flattery in the princess frock that it goes on and on as a favorite fashion of teen agers. Today's princess pattern presents a new wrinkle, too—lacing—emphasizing the smooth figure following seams at the waistline! Try this model at once if you are looking for a sweet pretty frock. Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1732-B is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, 19. Corresponding bust measurements 29, 31, 33, 35, 37. Size 13 (31) dress, short sleeves, requires 3 1/4 yards 38-inch material.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

String beans will be more tender if you cut them twice lengthwise before putting them on to cook. To protect the ends of hemp rope and to prevent them from fraying, wrap well with light but strong twine and then dip the bound ends in shellac. A leaky water bucket can be stopped up by putting melted paraffin inside. If you keep any poisons in the medicine cabinet, push two pins crosswise through the cork. Even in the dark they'll warn a person to beware. Most amateur gardeners water their gardens too often and too deeply though. A good soaking when the ground has become practically dry is the rule for best results. Less sugar will be needed when fruit is added to four fruits during the cooking period. Hooks, eyes, and snaps are most satisfactory when sewed in with machine stitch.

Here's Timely Hint For the War Bride

IF YOU are furnishing a combination living and dining room with odds and ends from the family attic why not use paint and inexpensive fabrics to harmonize unrelated pieces?

Here a combination chest and dish cupboard has been made from an old dresser. The cupboard at the lower right sits on top of the dresser and a quarter round molding nailed to the dresser top holds plates in place. Both dresser and chairs are painted cream color and quaint Dutch designs in gay colors are stenciled on them. The chair seat covers repeat the colors in these designs. Pieces of the cracked mirror of the old dresser are cut to fit painted picture frames and typical Dutch tulip designs are stenciled on the glass.

NOTE: The painted and stenciled designs used by Early Dutch settlers in America are full of sentiment for us today. The Dove of Peace and Hearts and Flowers were favorites. Why Bother About Cat When Meat Is at Hand?

Mrs. Bronson was perturbed to find that the three pounds of meat she had bought had disappeared. Her husband, helping in the search, noticed what he took to be a guilty look on the family cat's face, and pointed to her and said, "There's your meat."

"Why, no," objected Mrs. Bronson, "that little thing couldn't get away with all that meat."

"Well, let's weigh her and see," suggested the husband.

They did so. The scales registered exactly three pounds.

"Yes," admitted Mrs. Bronson, "there's the meat all right, but where's the cat?"

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

FDR, Churchill Seek Italy's Surrender As Allies Smash at Sicily Resistance; MacArthur Forces Gain in New Guinea; Farmers Get First Call on Gas Stocks

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Seabees are shown about to board a transport somewhere in Australia for duty in a combat zone. A naval band gives the men a lively sendoff. Although performing construction work, Seabees are also trained to protect themselves against attack.

SICILY:

'The Hour Has Come'
Axis resistance on Sicily stiffened as Gen. Bernard Montgomery's British 8th army moved on the big port of Catania, which is 55 miles from the terminus of Messina, where but two miles of water separate the island from the Italian mainland.

As the battle of Sicily raged, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill told the Italian people the hour had come to honorably capitulate.

While British troops clattered toward the great plains which roll around Catania, Gen. George S. Patton's 7th American army fought its way into the area of Vizzini, from which the British flank can be covered or an assault sprung toward the Axis rear.

Hundreds of Allied paratroopers continued to be dropped behind the enemy's lines near Catania. To the front, the 8th army recovered from a heavy Axis blow with which they had driven into Montgomery's base at Augusta before being repelled.

FUEL:

Gas for Farmers

Predicting a tightening of the supply of crude oil in the West, the Petroleum Administration for War took steps to provide sufficient gasoline for farmers throughout the country by giving them first call on available stocks.

According to WAP, farmers are using about 100,000 barrels of motor fuel daily, 90 per cent of which is being consumed outside of the East. About 70,000 barrels are required in the Middlewest.

As the WAP made its announcement, the big-inch pipe line running from Norris, Ill., to the East was opened. Eventually the line will pump 300,000 barrels of crude daily, thus draining the West of supplies that had previously abounded because of a lack of transportation facilities.

Meanwhile, the oil industry continued alarmed by the drop in oil reserves, partly caused, spokesmen said, because of a virtual cessation of exploratory drilling as a result of prices for crude. Between 5 and 10 billion barrels of new oil are expected to be discovered within the next few years, it is said, to major extent.

PACIFIC:

New Guinea Victory

With the fall of Mubo, the big Japanese base of Salamaua in New Guinea lay in peril of capture by Australian and American forces operating from all sides.

Mubo fell about two weeks after the start of General MacArthur's Pacific offensive. American troops had landed on Nassau bay to the east of the town, and then marched into the interior to cut off Japanese forces from the rear and effect a junction with the Australians. At the same time, Allied soldiers attacked the enemy's main lines, and thus, completely enveloped on all sides, Mubo was overrun.

The Allied success at Mubo came as American troops pressed closer to the Japanese air base of Munda on New Georgia island. Approaching the stronghold from the north and east, doughboys worked cautiously through jungle foliage to gain ground. Squeezed, the enemy launched one counterattack, but withdrew fire after being stopped.

CANNED GOODS:

Cut Civilians' Share

Already rationed, canned fruits, vegetables and soup supplies civilians will be cut another 15 per cent in the next 12 months, the Food Administration announced. The prospective pack of vegetables and soups, domestic consumption get 70 per cent, and of canned and juices, they will receive 60 per cent.

The total supply of canned fruits and soups in the country is expected to total 1.5 billion cans. Of this amount, 1 billion are allotted approximately to the War Service, and 500 million to civilians.

About 1 billion cans of fruits and vegetables are allowed to civilians. The total supply of canned goods is expected to total 1.5 billion cans. Of this amount, 1 billion are allotted approximately to the War Service, and 500 million to civilians.

CABINET:

FDR Restores Order

Hereafter, if any administrative heads in Washington are in conflict over fact or policy, they must resolve their differences quietly or else turn in their resignations. That, in short, was the ultimatum President Roosevelt laid down after Henry Wallace had charged Jesse Jones with interfering with the operations of the Board of Economic Warfare, which Wallace headed.

The President solved the Wallace-Jones fracas by abolishing the BEW and establishing the Office of Economic Warfare and then appointing as its director Leo T. Crowley, alien property custodian and chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

The action relieved both Wallace and Jones of direction in the government's purchase of foreign materials. Previously, the two agencies had shared in the program, with the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which Jones heads, supplying the funds for the buying.

OPA:

Raps 'Bright Boys'

Declaring the best thing that could happen to the Office of Price Administration would be a reduction of 50 per cent in its staff of 2,700 attorneys, Lou R. Maxon, deputy administrator of OPA, turned in his resignation.

Maxon's withdrawal came at a time when he was being prominently mentioned as a general manager for the OPA, a job later given to Chester Bowles, a New York advertising executive. He complained of the government's failure to establish a definite food program, charging that instead of working out a set policy, the administration was meeting each crisis with a makeshift compromise, thus creating the basis of another crisis.

CATTLE:

Marketing Increases

Marketing of cattle increased in the face of talk in Washington that the OPA was considering establishing ceilings on livestock to break the speculative angle of growers and spur liquidation of herds. Plans also called for modifying the government's support price of $13.75 for hogs, to discourage feeding for heavy porkers.

Although cattle marketings increased recently, they were still low.

Coffee Most Adulterated Of Foods Generation Ago

Up to a generation ago, coffee was subjected to more adulteration than almost any other article of food, says Collier's. Among the spurious substances used were the roasted and ground roots of the dandelion, carrot, parsnip and beet; grains of wheat and rice; seeds of lupine, the broom, fenugreek and iris; and chicory, acorns and soybeans.

There was even a molding machine that made coffee from a mixture of molasses.

Bananas Launch Ship

Greasing the ways of shipyards to permit thousands of tons of steel to slide smoothly into the water at launchings of battleships requires about 45 tons of a special grease. Once, when a surplus of overripe bananas was a disposal problem in one port, they were used to grease the ways for launching.

MEAT GOES FAR WITH ALL-BRAN "BRANBURGERS"

Here's a new way to serve that old favorite, the hamburger. Make it with KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN to stretch the meat supply, to give the popular hamburger new interest, and to get ALL-BRAN'S nutritional benefits—valuable proteins, carbohydrates, vitamins and minerals.

Kellogg's All-Bran Branburgers
1 egg 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 teaspoons salt 1 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon pepper 1/2 cup catsup
2 tablespoons minced onion 1 cup Kellogg's All-Bran
1 pound ground beef
Beat egg slightly, add salt, pepper, onion, parsley, milk, catsup and All-Bran. Let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Add beef and mix thoroughly. Shape into 12 patties. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) about 30 minutes or broil about 20 minutes. Yield: 6 servings (12 2 1/2 inch branburgers.)

MOTHER GRAY'S SWEET POWDERS

Thousands of parents have found Mother Gray's Sweet Powders a pleasing laxative for children. And equally useful for themselves—to relieve the occasional constipation, indigestion, or flatulence. Package of 12 packets, 35c. Sold by all drug stores.

Ordnance Flashes

Ordnance combat mechanics kept American arms and motorized equipment in such good condition that the 9th Division ended the Battle of Bizerte with practically the same number of guns and vehicles it had at the outset.

Maj. Gen. Stafford LeRoy Irwin, Artillery Commander of the 9th Division, paid this high tribute to the bravery and efficiency of Ordnance repair and salvage specialists in North Africa on his return to Army Ground Forces Headquarters in Washington.

General Irwin recently received the Silver Star award for gallantry in action. He headed the artillery support of the Tunisian line. The citation said he "established his command post and observation post in front of all support, and refused to quit his post even after 12 hours of terrific artillery shelling of his observation post."

Ordnance fitter-technicians provided a fine example of maintenance. General Irwin said. Day and night and under fire, they patched up our guns and tanks and sent them back into combat. They are good scrappers—equally handy with a Garand or a grease gun.

Ordnance was always on the job, he declared, behind the lines and in the front lines, from Casablanca to Von Arnim's surrender. They kept our tanks and motorized columns rolling over the thousand-mile wilderness of burning rock and sand. They followed us into the hills. They fought beside us at El Gajar.

Ordnance troops, General Irwin said fixed our weapons, whenever possible on the spot—while the battle was still raging. They were sniped at, machine gunned, strafed and bombarded. They did emergency repair work in complete blackouts. After El Gajar, when our columns surged forward again, Ordnance scrappers kept close on our heels.

After the Battle of Bizerte, General Irwin continued, I sent a special letter of commendation to the Ordnance Officer of the Division. Ordnance has every reason to be proud of its battle record in North Africa.

FEATURE OF BUSINESS

There is a great deal of uncertainty and fear for the post-war competition of new materials and methods. We know that there will be new light metals and new plastics and we know that there will be new methods and new products.

Old methods and old products fighting new products and new methods are frequently a part of the foreign scarcity doctrine. Our traditional American doctrine has always been to welcome greater production for new products at lower prices. Our economy is adaptable to change and growth.

There are real threats to industry but they are not found in the new horizons of post-war improvements in techniques and products. One real threat to industry is found in the policy which prevents the establishment of adequate reserves for conversion in the post-war period.

Without reserves for conversion industry can flounder in a post-war financial chaos. Another real threat to industry is the existence of government-financed plants. Since June, 1940, the government has financed plants to the tune of about 15 billion 150 million dollars.

In other words, about 75% of our new facilities are owned by the federal government. What will happen to these plants in the post-war period?

There is no definite assurance that some of these plants will not be government operated in the post-war period. There is no definite assurance that these plants will be offered to private industry at a fair price.

This presents a two-fold problem to Congress—first to incorporate in our revenue measures some provision for the establishment of adequate business conversion reserves and secondly, to write legislation (possibly in appropriation measures) establishing as the intent of Congress, the policy of making war-time plant facilities of government available to private industry at a reasonable price in the post-war period.

Entirely aside from the long-range implications of "government in business" we already have far too many government "corporations" of another sort. These corporations are almost free from financial controls and have almost unlimited authority. The entire field of federal corporation activity must be reviewed by Congress to determine how vast this no-man's land has grown.

N. Y. A. EQUIPMENT

A good many inquiries have come to this office regarding disposition of N.Y.A. equipment now that the N.Y.A. has been discontinued.

The Treasury Department has four plans for the dispersal of these properties. The Army and Navy will get first call on anything they can use. Next in line are other government agencies.

for the operation of a farm." The dealer may sell the supplies to the farmer without a certificate, but must get a certificate at the time he sells if he wants to use it to obtain a priority for replacing supplies in his inventory.

If a farmer wants to use a certificate to buy more than $25 worth at one time of any item on the list, he must first get his certificate approved in writing by the County Farm Rating Committee.

A PAT ON THE BACK

The thing has come to pass as I prophesied on the floor of the Senate last winter that it would be necessary for the home folks to save the crops. Large groups of boys and girls and even the mothers and lads of these boys and girls have rallied to the need of saving the crop for the canners. In a number of communities, it is like the old-fashioned barn-raising bee when all the folks got together to rebuild the barn that was blown over or destroyed. So folks have stepped out of their easy chairs at home and in the offices, and youngsters have given up their vacations and have gone out to save the food that is necessary for our boys in the armed forces, and for the starving people of Europe and for ourselves.

The work must continue as the various crops of vegetables and berries ripen. This is one of the valuable lessons we are learning from the war. We do not live unto ourselves alone. We are all inter-dependent. Each is dependent upon the other and what is more, we are getting acquainted with our neighbors and their problems. We are seeing ourselves as one large family whose life is being threatened and we are rallying to the defense of the family. After all, when we are doing this very thing, we are squaring our deeds with the magnificent deeds of our boys on the fighting fronts of the world.
