He made a positive impact on his co-workers and enjoyed the relationships he made at his company. Outside of work, Ian loved to be outdoors enjoying Wisconsin and all it had to offer. His happy place was up North at the family cabin. Ian enjoyed hunting, especially grouse hunting, fishing, hiking, kayaking the rivers up North and just enjoying God's beautiful creation. He made many good memories with his dad fishing up north on the river as well as taking many hunting trips with his cousins. He also loved music and played guitar. Some of his favorite bands were Metallica and Santana. One of his favorite vacations was when he and his dad went to see Santana perform in Concert in Las Vegas. He also was very proud of the work he did to rebuild a motorcycle given to him by his dad. He also loved gadgets and tinkering with them. Ian was a good man and had faith in God.
