

New St. Theresa School opens 1958

New St. Theresa School opens at the bottom of the hill

“In January 1958, a strange procession of school children loaded down with boxes and bags of books, erasers and chalk, crayons and paste made their way down the hill from their classrooms in the church to their new school. Their teachers, Sisters of the Sorrowful Mother, were delighted with their new building which, in addition to four classrooms, had a small library and an office.

St. Theresa school children attended Mass every morning before school. Other religious events enhanced their education. Each year at Christmas the children performed in a Christmas pageant. May Crowning of the Blessed Virgin Mary was a highlight at the end of the school year. The children carried bouquets of spring flowers and honored Mary with prayers and songs.