LIVE STOCK SHEEP, BARN AND RACK.

A Convenient Structure—Is Large Enough to Accommodate from 50 to 75 Animals.

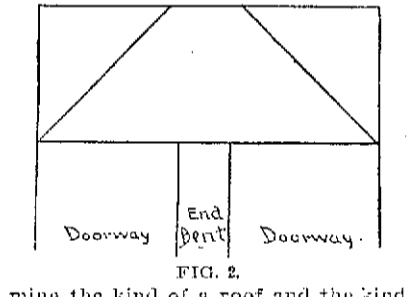

I should build not less than 20 by 30 feet and 10 feet high. This height is perhaps greater than would be needed to store coarse feed for the number of sheep named, but an extra two or three feet in height costs very little and I know that the vast majority of barns are too small. I have never known one that was too large.

The labor required to frame a barn of this size will be no greater than for a smaller one. No pulley plates will be needed and but one interior bent. Use plank instead of square timber for the frame and the cost for this will be reduced nearly one-half. For the posts use two 2 by 8-inch sticks, using timbers of the same dimensions for the joist bearers. Slip the ends of the joist bearers between the two pieces making the post, thus you have a mor-tise and tenon made without auger or chisel. Use two 2 by 8 sticks for plates spiked together, as in making a V-shaped trough.

Instead of the short braces, such as are commonly used in heavy timber frames, make the plate braces extend from the foot of the posts and spike to each nailing girt. This strengthens greatly the entire structure. Use three pieces 2 by 8 at each bent for joist bearers. Bolt and spike one to either side of the posts. The nailing girts for the siding, supposing it to be put on up and down, are spiked to the outside of the posts; 2 by 4-inch are strong enough for these. I append a list of the timber needed for the frame. Local conditions may determine the kind of a roof and the kind of siding used.

Have two 8-foot doorways at either end for convenience in hauling out manure. Have three double windows on either side. Place the sash beside each other instead of one above the other. Fasten them with spring bolts so that they can be revolved to admit of ventilation without admitting rain or snow.

Place a double rack through the middle lengthwise, thus dividing the barn into two stables. If additional feeding room is needed place racks along the wall. Take hay in at one end by hand. Just in front of the door at which hay is taken in have a trap door in the floor through which hay may be thrown to the rack below. I append a drawing of the rack I use, a rack that is almost ideal. In the double racks, we walk in them when distributing grain. This is done with the racks closed, so that all the sheep are let at their grain at once. Grain, ensilage, roots, cut fodder and hay may all be fed in this rack without waste or danger of getting any of the feed in the wool.

The cut above shows an end view of the rack with all the crossboards left off as it is open for the sheep to feed. The dotted lines show the way the wings revolve and the position they take when the rack is closed. Use boards a foot wide for the bottoms of the troughs, also for the one joining the troughs and for the wings. Use 6-inch ones for the sides, making the troughs 5 inches deep. Make bottom of trough 11 inches above foot of posts. Make racks just long enough to fill the spaces designed for them, in this case about 14 feet. For this length of rack I use middle posts. Two-inch square stuff is large enough for posts, and even lighter will do for the arms of the wings. Fasten the wings on with bolts. A wall rack I make just two-thirds as wide, leaving off one trough and wing. Framing lumber for barn: 15 2 by 8-inch 16 feet long, 34 2 by 8-inch 15 feet long, 12 2 by 4-inch, 17 feet long, 10 2 by 8-inch, 20 feet, 12 2 by 4-inch, 15 feet, 49 2 by 4-inch, 14 feet. This includes joists, supposing that a tight floor is to be put under hay mow. Use strap hinges for the doors and cut at least one of each pair of doors in two.—H. P. Miller, in Farm and Home.

HOME FROM THE WAR. Will Gleason of this city who enlisted nearly three years ago in the navy is home on a furlough and will remain a portion of next week. He was a machinist on the Bancroft with the European fleet in the Mediterranean when the news of the destruction of the Maine was received. He returned to this country just before war was declared and was transferred several times to the different ships. At the time of the naval battle at Santiago he was on board the Lebanon at Guantanamo Bay, and remained with that ship until its arrival at New York when he was granted a furlough. This is his first visit home since he enlisted.

IN MEMORIAM. Headquarters Wm. B. Cushing G. A. R., Dept. of Wis., Oct. 28, 1898: Whereas Our well esteemed comrade Dr. R. M. Wigginton has been called by the Great Commander and no more will answer roll call, when the assembly sounds for the survivors of that band of men that suffered that nation might live.

Resolved, That Wm. B. Cushing Post, G. A. R. Dept. of Wis. tender the family of our comrade our heartfelt sympathy in their great bereavement.

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the records of this Post and a copy transmitted to the family.

Resolved, That the Post room be draped in mourning. By COMMITTEE.

A PIONEER DEAD. Mrs. A. R. Hinkley, the first pioneer woman of the town of Eagle, is dead at the age of 83 years. Her maiden name was Mary Daniels and she was born in Plainfield, N. H. She married Mr. Hinkley at Plainfield in 1838 and her wedded life was thus over sixty years in duration. She left a waif on her husband's 12x12 log cabin on Eagle Prairie, this cabin being the first building in Eagle and being still standing at the present time. Mr. Hinkley was the first settler of the town of Eagle, taking up a claim in Eagle in 1836. Mr. Hinkley survives his wife and there are seven living children—Leonard D., Frank, Mrs. Mathew Pitman, Mrs. Mary Kline, Mrs. A. J. Pardee, Mrs. R. H. Pardee, Mrs. John E. Payne. The funeral will take place Sunday from the M. E. church of which she was a life-long member.

CARROLL WINS AT FOOTBALL.

Two football games at the Fair Grounds this afternoon drew quite a crowd of enthusiasts there. The first game called was between the Spencerian Business College and Carroll College, with the following line-up:

Table with 2 columns: CARROLL COL. and SPENCERIAN COL. listing player names and positions.

The game opened at 2:45 and neither side scored in the first half. Carroll kicked off and the Spencerians fumbled the ball. Carroll captured it and advanced it to 1 yard line when it was lost on downs. Spencerians worked it back to center when time was called.

Spencerians kicked off at the beginning of the second half and Carroll got the ball and by a series of end plays carried it down the field and pushed Britton over for a goal.

Walters was pushed along in a like manner after the second kick off and scored in 8 minutes. In the 2 minutes remaining no score was made. Braden missed goal on both kicks owing to high wind.

The foot ball game between the Y. M. C. A. and Milwaukee Medics team played late Saturday afternoon resulted in a victory for the Y. M. C. A. by a score of 5 to 0. The Medics kicked off and the Y. M. C. A. soon lost the ball on downs. They got it back on a fumble but were unable to keep it. Just before time was called Lowry tried to kick goal from the field but failed. In the second half the local team braced up and Britton made a long run which was followed by Jackson's being pushed across the line for a touch down. After this neither side scored. The line up was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Y.M.C.A. and MEDICS listing player names and positions.

Twenty minutes halvs. Score, Y. M. C. A. 5 Medics 0. Touch downs, Jackson.

A Sure Sign of Croup.

Honorement in a child that is subject to croup is a sure indication of the approach of the disease. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has appeared, it will prevent the attack. Many mothers who have croupy children always keep this remedy at hand and find that it saves them much trouble and worry. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant to take. For sale by Chas. E. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure

Cures a Prominent Attorney.

Mr. R. C. PHELPS, the leading pension attorney of Belfast, N. Y., writes: "I was discharged from the army on account of ill health, and suffered from heart trouble ever since. I frequently had fainting and smothering spells. My form was bent as a man of 80. I constantly wore an overcoat, even in summer, for fear of taking cold. I could not attend to my business. My rest was broken by severe pains about the heart and left shoulder. Three years ago I commenced using Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, notwithstanding I had used so much patent medicine and taken drugs from doctors for years without being helped. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure restored me to health. It is truly a wonderful medicine and it affords me much pleasure to recommend this remedy to everyone."
