Sunday School students donate to Heifer International

The Sunday School students from St. Matthew Lutheran Church in Palmyra took on a project to help others less fortunate than themselves.

During church services on the last day of Sunday School for the year, Sunday School Superintendent Kelly Dunn informed the students that they had reached their goal of $400, which was used to purchase animals from Heifer International.

This project began two years ago when the students, along with teachers and staff, decided to raise funds for Heifer International, an organization that works to end world hunger and save the earth through the gift of farm animals and training.
